PIPPIN, another Broadway musical, will be presented next week by the Ecumenical Youth Ministry at St. Peter's Catholic Church parish hall in Oakland. The entire cast, consisting of young people from numerous area churches, is pictured above during one of this week's rehearsals. Leads are being performed by Jamie Bosley, Bryan Pase, Gina Powell, Adam Sincell, Sheila Nolan, Meghan Broderick, and Courtney Strubin. Tickets are reportedly selling "like hotcakes," according to Debbie Strubin, secretary of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, for performances that are slated for Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 11-13, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 14, at 2 p.m. Persons may purchase tickets for $5 each at St. Matthew's from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Monday through Friday. The EYM and Pippin is directed by Lynn Broderick. This is the sixth musical presented by the EYM since its founding in 1995.

never have become a teacher had it not been for the scholarship that enabled him to get an education.

As the governor toured the new building that will house offices and classrooms of the college's three "outdoor" programs, he saw Kevin Dodge, director of the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology program, holding a northern saw-whet owl and heard him explain the banding project he and his students have undertaken. He then heard from Mike Logsdon, director of the Adventure Sports program, saw displays of adventure sports activities, and heard assistant professor Steve Storck explain the canoes, kayaks, rafts, mountain bikes, and other equipment available to students in the program.

Throughout the morning, speakers noted cooperation between the governor's office, the Department of Natural Resources, the Department of the Environment, and the college that brought the ATC project to fruition. Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards both thanked the governor for his help in funding Garrett County projects.

Dr. Herman thanked John Furr, assistant director of campus facilities, and his maintenance staff for their work in constructing the building. "Land is the heart and soul of this community," he said. "The purpose of the Parris Glendening Advanced Technology Center is to make us wise custodians of this land."

Student Government Association officers led by president Jeremy Whitaker conducted tours of the complex before and after the ceremony. Among the guests attending the dedication were Kay Bienen, executive director of the Maryland Association of Community Colleges, and Tom Bratton, newly appointed Secretary of Veterans' Affairs. At a reception following the ceremony guests were treated to hors d'oeuvres of goat, rabbit, and tilapia.

Snow Contributes To Two Accidents

Snowy weather conditions contributed to two motor vehicle accidents on Garrett County roads yesterday.

Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack reported that William L. Welch, 49, Oakland, was operating a 1989 Chevrolet truck southbound on Route 42 at Elder Hill at 8:35 a.m., when he lost control of his vehicle on the snow-covered road and slid across the centerline. Welch's truck was subsequently struck by a 1996 Chevrolet Tracker, operated by Kimberly A. Glisan, 33, Friendsville, who was northbound on Route 42 at the time.

Glisan was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Police charged Welch.

Martin R. Smith, 38, Kitzmiller, was hospitalized with injuries following a single-vehicle accident Wednesday afternoon. Police said Smith was operating a Ford Taurus westbound on Maryland Highway at Pysell Cross Cut Road at 5:16 when he lost control of the car which skidded off the road and struck several trees.

Southern Rescue Squad and Deer Park VFD responded to the scene. Smith was charged in the incident.

Library Staff

system's funding comes chiefly from the county, Ashby said, in addition to state money. McDaniel reported that the library staff has consistently asked, in writing, for comparable pay and equal benefits since Dec. 1994.

"Nothing much was done until 1999, when Martha Makosky, then director, received a state grant to fund a salary survey to be done by a professional consulting firm," McDaniel reported. "This study showed that all library employees were being underpaid in comparison to other county employees. Some library employees were being underpaid by as much as 57%."

McDaniel said that through Makosky's efforts, a new pay scale was adopted and initiated on July 1 of this year, which did "correct major inequities." However, the staff members were all brought onto the pay scale at base pay, or "starting" salaries, regardless of their years of service.

After McDaniel made the presentation to the library board, Ashby made inquiries to the county commissioners' office, and received the word this week that the county officials do not consider the library staff to be county-employed.

"It really makes for an awkward situation," Ashby said. "We are given basically a 'pot' of money from the county, but then we have to decide how it is spent, and that includes determining the salaries of the staff. I wish things were different, but they apparently are not."

Get Real...

Here we are, still one full year away from the next presidential election, meaning that we have 12 more months, day in and day out, to hear and read about every statement, every move, of several candidates, potential candidates, and wanna-be candidates for that high office. Already the coverage has become tiresome, almost to the point that one would rather just stop listening to and/or reading the news. And we still have 12 months to go.

It is bad enough that the media coverage of the four or five real candidates is so detailed and trivial. (A segment on a morning news program today was all about how an Arizona newspaper editor accused Senator John McCain of having a bad temper.) But what is considerably worse is the coverage that is given to at least two people (ego maniacs) who are no more competent to be president than most of us — Warren Beatty and Donald Trump. Who in his or her right mind would vote for either one of these people for president of the United States? What polister would give either one of them a shot at garnering more than a couple percent of the vote?

But the gullible public, for some reason, is extremely interested when "celebrities" hint that they might decide to run for president, so the mass media, whose prime interest is ratings rather than quality, jumps right on it and follows them around like love-sick puppies. Beatty and Trump, who may or may not be seriously considering running for president, absolutely relish the attention, and understand exactly what motivates the public and the media.

Wouldn't the media, particularly television media, go absolutely crazy if about 20 more celebs announced next week that they, too, were going to run for president?

Yes, it is important for each of us voters to learn as much as we can about the candidates so that when election day finally, finally arrives, we can make informed choices. But it would be most helpful if the media would stick to the real issues, and to the real candidates.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Just a reminder to the folks on the mountain top, the holidays are just around the corner and the area businesses are full of ideas and merchandise. The businesses give a great deal to the community, including giving door prizes, monetary donations, and support to the various organizations and charities in Garrett County and surrounding communities. So, patronize the Garrett County businesses and think about what they do for your community.

Why hasn't the bridge in Oakland that is located between Subway and Grand Central Station ever been replaced with a two-lane bridge?

I've gotten a few local opinions and most responses are that the town of Oakland and CSX Railroad cannot agree on which party should pay for the construction.

I think this is a shame, because the condition of the bridge is deteriorating and it is a safety hazard. Could you please contribute any information on this matter?

Thank you,

Here at the Garrett County jail the sanitary conditions of the cooks and the trustees are non-existing. They do not wear gloves or hairnets while handling the food. They do sometimes while serving, but mostly not.

This is not sanitary for the inmates, or fair. There is not even a sink in the only accessible restroom for them to use, so therefore there is no way they can even wash their hands after relieving themselves.

We would like to have this printed in your next edition, for until we see the problem is solved we will not eat any of the food prepared here at the jail.

The health department is also receiving a copy of this.

To the Editor:

As many Garrett County residents know, teenage drinking is becoming more and more of a problem as the years go on. Being a teenager and a student at Southern High School, I see the problem increasing as each year passes. The phrases, "I'm bored," or "There's nothing to do around here" are constantly coming out of teenagers' mouths.

Many adults and parents like to deny the fact that there really isn't much around the Southern/Northern areas for teenagers to do, but it is true! There are no facilities where teenagers can go to just simply hang out with their friends, so they look at their alternatives, which could be drinking! This is a huge problem that needs to be addressed and can be handled if dealt with the right way. I believe that if a group of students and their parents got together to raise money and search for possible facilities for teenagers, our problems could be solved.

Being vice-president of the Student Council at Southern High School, I have a very close relationship with the students, and they know they can come to me with problems. I hear many students saying that they wish there was a dance club or similar facilities around here to go to on the weekends. If something is not done about this now, then soon negative teen behaviors may become established. I really do not want to look down in the casket of one of my classmates, knowing that something could have easily been done about the situation before it went this far. Thankfully, nothing like that has happened yet, but I know a lot of teenagers are destroying themselves. Some type of facility for teenagers to spend their free time could hopefully begin to prevent this from happening.

We need to join as a community and design a facility for teens to safely socialize. Keep in mind, the young adults of today are the future of our country. Is this really how we want the future to be for the next decade and century to come?

To the Editor:

As we approach the day that shall live in the minds of all veterans, and civilians of this great nation of ours D-Day, the allied invasion of Normandy, that occurred a long time ago, as it seems to me now. The movie that has been out some time ago, is about as near the day — "D" — Day took place as any I have seen so far.

The bloodshed and horror of that day are simply beyond the group of those of us who were not there, yet just attempting to imagine what it must have been like is enough to give one nightmares. This I know, I was there, the physical anguish and loss of life on the beach that day as our troops were being mowed down by German fire power is incomprehensible.

However, we also wonder about the mental and emotional anguish of each and every soldier during the days and hours and especially the last few minutes before the troop carriers reached the beach.

They had been told by our superiors that the casualty rate could be as high as 85%. Our minds were reeling with almost unbearable anxiety, mixed with fervent prayer and vivid images of loved ones.

We all should be intensely proud of our young men who were somehow able to respond with unmatched bravery, despite our absolute terror. Through a hail of gun fire, against enormous odds and with our buddies falling all around us, we who managed to survive did not turn back. There were no deserters. Our nation has an incredible record of bravery in the heat of battle, for which we are exceedingly proud.

We must never forget this event and what these our young people did, for which everyone should be exceedingly proud!!

All of us must never forget this event, what these young people did not only for our country, but the world!, and future generations of Americans should make sure that their children know about and understand the invasion of Normandy. This marked the turning point in this war, the beginning of the end of Hitler's mission. Had it failed the world would most likely be much different today. Certainly many more lives would have been taken by rampaging Nazi armies in nations that were ultimately spared being invaded. There is no doubt in my mind that an eventual invasion and conquering of the United States was somewhere in Hitler's plan.

Thanks,
Charles C. McIntyre

To the Editor:

Congratulations to the people of Garrett County! They should be very proud of themselves. Garrett County has just received a grant of $600,000 — just think of it! Six hundred thousand dollars from the U.S. federal government! All because the children of Garrett County have the poorest teeth in the state of Maryland. They have 60 percent more decayed, filled, and missing teeth (DFM) than the children in some of the other counties where fluoride is added to the public water system.

The people of Mountain Lake Park should be especially proud. In February of 1995, their representatives, the mayor and town council, voted to refuse the addition of fluoride in its new public water system, in spite of the dental community's serious efforts to stress the acute need and many benefits for the people of Mountain Lake Park. The addition of the fluoride at that time would have been very inexpensive and would have provided these benefits for less than 20¢ a year per household. Even at this late date it would still be relatively inexpensive.

The $600,000 will now go directly into the pockets of the local dentists — the same dentists who so strongly recommended the addition of fluoride to our water system in 1995. But I can tell you from personal experience, this is not the type of income they want. If you could witness the tears, the pain, the suffering of the children (especially those under 6 years of age), not to mention the anguish of their parents, and to see the harm done to the permanent dentition by the premature loss of baby teeth — a major cause for the need of orthodontics in later years.

We hope that with the new mayor and town council, and with our community's support, the addition of fluoride to our public water system would finally become a reality in Mountain Lake Park. I would urge the residents of Mountain Lake Park to contact the mayor and members of the town council via letter, telephone, or in person asking them to consider having fluoride added to our water. Our children deserve to begin a new century with the best preventative dental care available and to lose the dubious honor of being denied same. We should not have to ask the U.S. federal government to step in again.

Sincerely,
J.H. Wooddell, D.D.S.

To the Editor:

I would like to commend members of the Southern High Marching Band for their civic pride and responsibility. With the Autumn Glory Festival being the same weekend as the State Band Competition, the Southern Band members chose to honor their obligation to the community and forego a possible state championship.

The Southern Band, even though small in number, is having an excellent performance year. I have always admired the dedication the musicians and color guard have shown through the years. These young men and women spend hours a week at practice after school. They also spend their Saturdays usually on the road performing, sometimes arriving back home early Sunday morning.

Let us not forget the Southern High Band Boosters either. Without their tireless and unselfish giving of time and commitment, these band shows would not be possible.

The total band concept consists of band members, parents and boosters, and the band director. Richard Clever, I am sure, is very proud and happy with all the effort that is given.

Good luck at Chapters this week...I know you will do well.

To the Editor:

I live and work in the Baltimore area. Many times I have enjoyed coming to Garrett County, invited by friends who welcome those of us who live in a fast-paced, congested area I always look forward to several days — or even one day — that will allow me the luxury of leaving the busy world behind and restoring my soul in the quiet beauty of western Maryland.

Baltimore's waterways and Maryland history help us appreciate the guidance, direction, and relief that sailors and shipsmen and seafarers must have experienced when they spotted the lights from the lighthouses. But a lighthouse on a hill in Garrett County, in Grantsville?

What I and my friends like about Garrett County is the natural beauty, the lack of congestion, and the simple lifestyle that all speak to a wholesome way of life that your community so freely shares. Watching the sun set, watching the moon rise over the hill, and seeing the stars appear until the heavens nearly burst with beauty have been highlights for me and my friends. We have so loved weekend trips to western Maryland, and can only imagine what a lighthouse beam would do to the evenings and nights in Garrett County.

Please, let Garrett County residents and her tourists continue to enjoy and be spellbound by the starry nights so unique to your area.

Sincerely,
Darlene Saladini

To the Editor:

Recently, the Congress passed and the President signed the Department of Agriculture Appropriations bill, which provides funds for agriculture and related program operations through fiscal year 2000. I strongly believed that the bill overlooked the pressing problems which our family farmers in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic are facing.

Included in this bill was funding totaling $1.2 billion to provide disaster assistance to farmers nationwide who were impacted by this summer's serious drought conditions. Yet, the Secretary of Agriculture estimated that in the Northeast/Mid-Atlantic region, we needed $1.5 to $2 billion just for those States alone. In voting against this package, I believed that this funding should have been comprehensive enough to meet the needs in the agricultural sector all across the country. I appreciate that other parts of the country have been hit with droughts and floods and that we must address these needs as well. Indeed, I have in the past voted for emergency assistance for other parts of our country adversely impacted by disaster situations. But the amount provided in this bill was, in the end, clearly inadequate to enable our farmers to confront the financial problems bleakly staring them in the face.

The president of the Maryland Farm Bureau, Steven Weber, said, "This is not just another crisis. This is the worst string of dry summers and the worst run of crop years since the 1930s. Our farmers have been absolutely devastated by the weather we have experienced, not only over this past farming season, but in previous ones leading up to it as well." Indeed, during the height of the drought conditions this summer, I visited farms to witness first-hand the devastation and talked with farmers who told of their dire situations, who talked of being on the brink of financial disaster and who asked for direct federal assistance without delay. These farmers not only suffered from the drought conditions, but faced the double-whammy of low commodity prices along with the low crop yields.

During consideration of the Agriculture Appropriations bill, I joined in a bipartisan effort with eastern state senators to address the plight of our family farmers by providing disaster assistance directly to the farmers, rather than in the form of low interest loans (many of these farmers are already saddled with substantial loans). We took this effort to put direct financial assistance into the hands of eligible family

View From My Window

by Jeffrey Wilson

ERIE, PENNSYLVANIA

Before my trip to Erie two weeks ago I had visited there only once before about a decade ago. In the late '80s I thought Erie was a good place to be from. The downtown looked gutted, almost as if war or plague had ravaged the place.

After two days of reading ordination exams — the reason I was in Erie — one of my colleagues said, "I like to see the place I've been, too." Our leaders gave our group the evening off (not the best time for sightseeing). Some went to the movies, a few to the yacht club (at the invitation of an elder who helped lead us). Jim and I got in the car and headed for the inner city.

Today, though vestiges of hard times are still present, Erie looks like a place that is doing its best to make something of itself. Like so many other cities with a waterfront, Erie has begun much of its revitalization there.

Downtown on State Street, an elegant observation tower stands sentinel by the harbor. There is some development right on the water. In the blocks behind the waterfront are spruced-up older buildings, including a hospital, which boasts that it is one of the nation's 100 best, standing opposite some brand-spanking new corporate development.

The Warner theatre looked like one of those grand entertainment palaces from the turn of the century that many cities have lost to blight. In Erie trouble had been taken to restore the Warner as a cultural center. There were bills announcing an orchestra concert and the musical Annie.

Having taken in the main drag, we began driving up and down streets, looking at neighborhoods of tree-lined residences, churches, including the splendidly illuminated Catholic Cathedral, counting the number of fast food restaurants (a plethora), and wandering into old-time ethnic neighborhoods with taprooms and hardware stores side by side.

Churches indicate a great deal about any place. By such a measure Erie is a very Catholic place. There is one Presbyterian church, but we did not find it. We did see two Russian Orthodox churches and a Greek Catholic church. Erie has a strong east European flavor.

There is only so much cruising that one can do, in Erie anyway, so we decided to return to State Street where we had seen Jr.'s Last Laugh Comedy Club which, with its bright, newly painted exterior, looked like a happening sort of place. It was.

The entertainment that evening consisted of "Dueling Pianos," two young men who played well, and improvised vulgar lyrics to standard tunes. The system was to send up a tip with a message suggesting how the pianists could embarrass someone in the group of the tipper.

After a few bawdy numbers the pianists would lead the crowd in singing "You picked a fine time to leave me, Lucille" which they concluded each time by shouting — whether the victim was male or female — three feminine epithets that are sufficiently crude that I will not reproduce them (and if I did I trust that my editors would not print them).

After that incursion into popular culture we looked for some grub. I wanted to stop at "George's Real Mashed Potatoes" proclaimed in neon where they serve "Redi-made Food," but George had already closed for the evening. So we stopped at Alfee's which boasted "the best wings in town." My colleague had the wings while I worked my way through a cheese meatball sub. Both were more digestible than the comedy at Jr.'s.

That was Erie for us. We had one more day of reading exams, and then a quick exit for home. I can't really recommend Erie as a prospective vacation spot, but 10 years later it looks like a pretty good place to be and not just to be from.

farmers sooner versus later.

This legislation should have done better by these hard-working men and women, these small farm families. Additional funds are critical to help these farmers recover from the severe economic losses they have suffered during the drought of this year. I, along with several of my Senate colleagues, have prevailed upon the administration to provide supplemental appropriation to accomplish this end and I will continue my efforts to aid our family farmers in their time of need.

Sincerely,
Paul S. Sarbanes
United States Senator

To the Editor:

I have had the worst telephone service in Friendsville that I have ever received in my lifetime, anywhere I have ever resided, in or out of the USA!

I have tried every way conceivable to get it to be different unsuccessfully and the trying goes back to Wayne Hamilton's time.

I received a reply in five days from the PSC for phone numbers and additional information they needed or wanted. I replied at once. Last week for the first time in years, as far as I know, they finally woke up (Bell Atlantic), and sent a man here to check outside my home and Mo Harvey's trailer here, and he called and talked to us briefly just before he came.

Mo's (electric) telephone box hook up which had been there just over a year since (Mo had moved from our lake property to my property here for health reasons.). When the man touched it for testing, it sent sparks every which way! That, of course, couldn't have been connected up right or something was defective. My electric telephone box has not had to have been touched for so many years I can't remember when, if ever! It's always in transformers or underground wires or in their office mechanism someway.

But it is never really fixed for carefree operation for any length of time. After 20 years and a bill, which something new is added to constantly by someone, somewhere, for some vague reason, one gets sick of the whole mess; when all you want or need is regular, simple phone service, which is an absolute necessity for the elderly and we do pay for that!

The enclosure will show what someone who cares has done about Bell Atlantic and its mode of operation! I don't know if "Maryland" is one of the seven states that has done something about the Bell Atlantic mess or how I'd find out?! This is something journalists and the news media or someone who really cares about the ripped-off consumers should be involved in, instead of much of the senseless, useless information that we obtain or are subjected to endlessly, uselessly!

I have read the lovely writings recently about Bell Atlantic and their gifts of generosity to the Chamber of Commerce locally! Wouldn't it be nice if we people who pay for all this instead got real service we pay for and deserve instead of the way it is?

Lobbyists aren't only in "D.C." The moral degeneration in the USA is a disgrace.

The people who sacrificed their normal lives to protect our country are wondering for what?

When will our country wake up and quit blaming the young people and neglecting the elderly?

This is my opinion and how I and many people feel today.

To the Editor:

Have you ever thought about becoming a Big Brother, Big Sister, or Big Couple? Or have you ever wanted to help out Big Brothers Big Sisters and just didn't know how? You may want to consider being a "Big for a Day." A "Big for a Day" is an adult who is matched just for a day or an event with one of the Little Brothers or Sisters on the waiting list. They have not been matched with an adult mentor yet. In fact, unless we have more Bigs, as we call them, they may never be matched. Currently, we have 31 children on our waiting list, mostly boys. A "Big for a Day" may be the closest they'll ever come to being matched. This also gives anyone who thinks they may be interested in becoming a Big the opportunity to meet some of our Little Brothers and Sisters, to see what kind of kids with which they might be matched.

On Friday, November 19, at 6:00 p.m., we're having an International Mystery Dinner at St. Paul's United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, Oak St., Oakland. We need Bigs to be dinner companions for a few Waiting Littles, to converse with them, play games with them, just be their buddies for the evening. We will also need help with serving the meal, clean-up, and could use covered dishes, as well. Here's how the meal works: Each pair will be given a menu. The items on the menu will be printed in foreign languages. You order an item from the menu, presumably not knowing what you have ordered. You may get your dessert first or you may get peas and not have a fork, yet! We'll also be playing games, including our own version of "The Match Game," to see how well our matches know each other, and we'll have door prizes. I need to know if you want to be a "Big for a Day" by no later than Friday, Nov. 12, so that Waiting Littles can be invited and if you would like to help in any other capacity for this dinner by Tuesday, Nov. 16.

Other activities that we have planned could also use a "Big for a Day." On Thursday, Dec. 9, we'll be having a swimming party at Blakeslee Pool and could also use swimming buddies for our Waiting Littles. Then, on Sunday, Jan. 9, 2000 (tentatively), we'll be enjoying a time of skiing at the Wisp. Every kid on the slopes needs to have a Big with them this day.

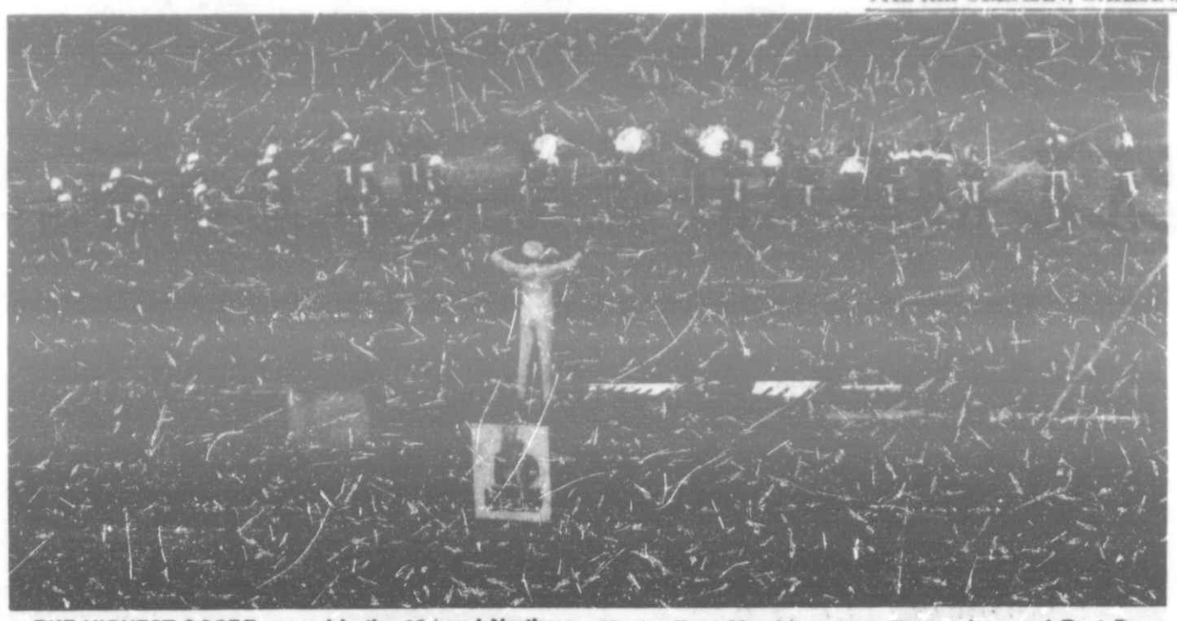
If you are interested in being a "Big for a Day," a Big Brother, Big Sister, Big Couple, or would like to help in any way, please call me at the Big Brothers Big Sisters office (301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735). Please, leave a message if no one is in.

Sincerely,
JoAnn Fletcher
County Coordinator

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to Jeremy Brenneman, who wrote an interesting response to Amber Close's letter. I am indeed sorry that you feel that Amber bashed "everyone" in Garrett County, and I do not believe that she called it a "politically incorrect haven for hicks and rednecks." I was not offended in the least bit, and obviously neither was Eileen Schlosnagle, who also wrote a response to Amber. I did not sense any negativity from her letter, only a truth and dignity. I am proud to be Asian American and did not realize how proud I was until I relocated here to Garrett County. My mother grew up here, but my father is from the Philippines. I am very proud of the rich culture that I come from and have never been called "Oriental" in my life until moving here. It is amusing actually, since I am considered white by my Filipino relatives.

There is intolerance here, Jeremy — it does exist. I have seen it — my father has seen it — my sister visiting from Florida has seen it. We are not a family that dwells on negativity, as there are too many other important issues to focus upon than other people's ignorance. We are a proud family just as any other family around here. I do not believe that Amber was making a sweeping generalization — she was definitely taking the words right from my mouth. In other words, I do not believe that she was accusing everyone in Garrett County of being a racist.



It seems to me that Amber took a lot of time and consideration before writing her letter — racism is not a word to just throw around like it is trivial. True, racism does exist everywhere else in the world and that is a shame. For all that Martin Luther King Jr. fought and died for, it makes me sick to witness any act of racism today.

Garrett County is not a county without its shortcomings — just like any other area in the United States. I believe that there is a lack of multi-cultural education in general — not just in schools. There is a lack of tolerance by some people — and I can give you specific examples, but what good would that do but just generate more hate and distrust? That is not the intended point of my letter.

I have lived all over the country — Washington, D.C., St. Louis, Alexandria, Va., Satellite Beach, Fla., Bedford, Mass., and New Haven, Conn., to just name a few, and have never felt this way until now.

Thank you, Amber, for saying what I have been too afraid to say.

THE HIGHEST SCORE earned in the 12-band Northern Carroll High School Tournament of Bands in Hampstead on Saturday was that of an 88.50 by the Southern Garrett Marching Band. Among Southern's "victims" that evening was highly touted Severna Park, a Group IV band. Southern is a Group I band. Southern also captured the Best Music, Best Marching, Best Percussion, and Best Drum Major special awards. The local band will vie for the Chapter 13 title this Saturday at Westminster and will be among an elite number of bands that will compete in the Mid-Atlantic Championships in Scranton, Pa., on Nov. 13.

Northern Band Earns Two More Top Finishes

Two more first places and outstanding scores were earned by the Northern High School Marching Band in two different field show competitions Saturday.

The band, which is one of the highest ranked Group I bands in the Mid-Atlantic region, won first place at a tournament held by Tygarts Valley High School near Elkins, W.Va. Northern earned a score of 87.50 to defeat Westmar Band, which finished with an 85.80. Northern also won the Best Drum Major specialty award.

The second event of the day was a tournament at McGuffey High School in Washington, Pa., where Northern won Group I with a score of 88.85. North Catholic placed second with an 85.15 and Serra Catholic was third with a score of 80.35. Wadsworth High School was the overall winner of the competition, which featured 12 bands.

Specialty awards won by Northe. . were Best Music, Best Marching, and High General Effect.

"We're putting on a late-season push," stated Eric Gallagher, NHS interim band director. "We are working hard to try to retain our Chapter 13 championship."

The Chapter 13 tournament will be held this Saturday at Westminster High School, at which Northern will be among the favorites to win the title for Group I. Northern is expected to advance to the Mid-Atlantic Championships in Scranton, Pa., the following weekend.

Southern Band Overall Winner At North Carroll

The Southern Garrett Marching Band earned a score of 88.50 to defeat a dozen other bands, of all sizes, Saturday evening in the North Carroll High School Tournament of Bands, held in Hampstead. Southern, a Group I band, even topped highly touted Severna Park, a Group IV band.

Southern also captured four Group I specialty awards: Best Music, Best Marching, Best Percussion, and Best Drum Major.

Chesapeake High School placed second in Group I with a score of 84.70, followed by Berkeley Springs with a 74.25.

"This was another excellent performance," stated Richard Clever, SHS band director. "We had one of the best performances of the season from our drum line. Our score was very good, but I don't think it was really indicative of our overall show. Some of the judges had never seen us, and others had not seen us since the Allegany Show. We've made some changes and have improved a lot since then."

Southern will be one of the favorites to win the Group I title this Saturday at the Chapter 13 Tournament of Bands championships, which will be held at Westminster High School. The local students will conclude their season the following Saturday by competing in the Mid-Atlantic Championships in Scranton.

Boosters Slate Basket Bingo

RUTH M. BOWSER

Ruth M. (DeVault) Bowser, 80, Friendsville, died Monday, Nov. 1, 1999, at her home.

Born Sept. 11, 1919, in Coolspring, Pa., she was a daughter of the late Edgar and Lyda (Shoaf) DeVault. She was also preceded in death by two daughters, Alice Jenkins and Stella Sisler; three brothers; and one sister.

She was a member of the Asher Glade Church of the Brethren.

Survivors include her husband of 51 years, Ralph Bowser; two children, Cindy Detrick, Friendsville, and Susann Collins, Crellin; two sisters, Pearl Glass, Pittsburgh, and Betty Johnson, Texas; eight grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and one step-great-grandchild.

Friends were received at the Rodney S. Turner Funeral Home, Markleysburg, Pa. A service was conducted earlier today, Nov. 4, at the Asher Glade Church of the Brethren, with the Rev. Ronald Moon officiating. Interment was in the Asher Glade Cemetery.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to Hospice of Garrett County.

ALTA H. FOWLER

Alta Harriet Fowler, 80, Relay, died Monday, Nov. 1, 1999, at St. Agnes Hospital.

Born July 6, 1919, in Zion, Ill., she was the daughter of the late Harry Brock and Harriet Louise (Enlow) Fredrickson. She was also preceded in death by one brother, Elwood Harry Fredrickson.

She was a descendant of John Friend Jr., James McMullen, Robinson T. Savage, and John Enlow, all pioneer settlers of Garrett County, and was a great-great-niece of the late Meschach Browning.

She was a former employee of Westinghouse Corp., where she worked as a computer chip QA technician. She was a member of the Halethorpe-Relay United Methodist Church, Halethorpe.

Survivors include her husband, Richard Louis Fowler Sr.; one brother, Clair Enlow Fredrickson, Staten Island, N.Y.; two sons, Richard L. Fowler Jr., Miami, Fla., and Jeffrey Harry Fowler, Relay; one daughter, Audrey Alta Fowler, Relay; four grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of the MacNabb Funeral Home, Catonsville. A service will be conducted at the Halethorpe-Relay United Methodist Church on Friday, Nov. 5, at 11 a.m., with the Rev. Claire Fiedler officiating. Interment will follow in Meadowridge Memorial Park Cemetery, Dorsey.

LEONA HART-WISE

Leona (Nicklow) Hart-Wise, 90, Baltimore, formerly of Friendsville and Oakland, died Friday, Oct. 29, 1999.

Born May 1, 1909, in Accident, she was a daughter of the late Clarence and Matilda Nicklow. She was also preceded in death by her first husband, James E. Hart, in 1964; her second husband, Raymond A. Wise, in 1972; and three brothers, Clark Nicklow, Walter Nicklow, and Coit Nicklow

She was a 1928 graduate of the Frostburg State Normal School. She taught elementary school in Garrett County for 14 years, starting in a one-room schoolhouse near Friendsville. She and her late husband moved to Baltimore in 1942, where she taught an additional 13 years at St. Bernard School.

She was actively involved in community activities, including The Chimes, St. Elizabeth School of Special Education, B.A.R.C., St. Joseph's Hospital Auxiliary, St. Vincent's auxiliary, and others. She attended Blessed Sacrament Church since 1942.

Surviving are three sons, James E. Hart, Thomas J. Hart, and Richard C. Hart, all of Baltimore; one daughter, Patricia S. Hart, Baltimore; four sisters, Catherine Mitchell and Eleanor Fearer, both of Oakland, Alta Schlosnagle, Friendsville, and Louise Seggie, Arizona; five grandchildren; one great-granddaughter; four stepchildren; and four step-grandchildren.

A Mass will be said in her honor at Blessed Sacrament Church, Baltimore, on Sunday, Nov. 7, at 9 a.m.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to The Chimes, 4815 Seton Drive, Baltimore, MD 21215.

SHIRLEY M. ZIMMERMAN

Shirley Mae (Reckart) Zimmerman, 64, Millersville, died Friday, Oct. 29, 1999, at the University of Maryland Hospital.

Born Oct. 19, 1935, in Cuzzart, W.Va., she was a daughter of Rena E. (Strawser) Reckart and the late Daniel H. Reckart. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Ronald Zimmerman; one son, Robbie Zimmerman; one daughter, Crystal; and one sister, Nancy Metheny.

She was retired from the Westinghouse Corporation.

In addition to her mother, she is survived by one daughter, Rebecca Leatherman; three brothers, Donnie Reckart, Delbert Reckart, and Rodney Reckart; four sisters, Lucille Strauss of Georgia, and Nelda Koch, Florence Friend, and Susan Harris, all of Maryland; and three granddaughters.

Friends were received at the McCully Funeral Home, Brooklyn, and the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland. A service was conducted at the Crellin Assembly of God Church on Wednesday, Nov. 3. Interment was in Garrett County Memorial Gardens.

EDITH E. MARTIN

Born March 7, 1917, in Ohiopyle, Pa., she was a daughter of the late Playford and Ersie (Metheny) Hoff. She was also preceded in death by one son, David Paul Messenger; one grandson; one brother; and two sisters.

She was Baptist by faith. She retired after many years of cooking for different eating establishments in Garrett and Preston counties.

Survivors include two sons, Willard "Jim" Reckart, Terra Alta, and Larry Reckart, Oakland; four daughters, Nancy Harsh, Terra Alta, Patty McCrobie, Fairfield, Pa., Margie Loughry, Belington, W.Va., and Rosemary Colbert, Fort Collins, Colo.; one sister, Opal Metheny, Varnsville, S.C.; 15 grandchildren; and 25 great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Arthur H. Wright Funeral Home, Terra Alta, where a service was conducted Monday, Nov. 1, with the Rev. Stanley Albright officiating. Interment was in the Terra Alta Cemetery

MILTON L. CROWE

Born June 19, 1931, at New Germany, he was a son of the late Samuel Webster Crowe and Melva Leora (Broadwater) Crowe. He was also preceded in death by three brothers, Hubert Crowe, Owen Crowe, and Archie Crowe.

He was a member of the Bedford Road Baptist Church. He retired after 34 years of service from the Cumberland Coca-Cola Bottling Company, where he was a warehouse manager. He was a U.S. Army veteran of the Korean Conflict, serving as a sergeant in the Engineer Corps. He was a member of the NRA, a life member of DAV, a lifetime member of the North American Hunting Club, and the Fort Hill Rifle and Pistol Club.

Survivors include his wife of 40 years, Sandra Lee (Twigg) Crowe; one daughter, Shelly Lee Cox, Newark, Del.; two sons, Danny Lee Crowe, Middletown, Del., and Deane Lee Crowe, Cumberland; five grandchildren; and three sisters, Diona Broadwater, Avilton, Arlene Morris, New Smyrna Beach, Fla., and Helen Broadwater, Salisbury, Pa.

Friends will be received at the Hafer Chapel of the Hills Mortuary, 1302 National Hwy., LaVale, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. today, Thursday. A service will be conducted in the funeral home chapel on Friday, Nov. 5, at 11 a.m., with the Rev. Joseph DiNicola officiating. Interment will follow in the New Germany Methodist Cemetery. Military rites will be accorded at the cemetery.

BEST OF SHOW was the award won by Linda Smouse Ropka, pictured right, at the Southwest Washington Watercolor Society's 20th annual fall show in Vancouver, Wash., for her entry titled "Pumpkin Kids." She also received the Windsor-Newton award and the Grumbacher medal. Also in the photo is Jan Kutz, show judge. Ropka, who is a daughter of Marjorie Hamill, Oakland, says she enjoys painting on location and from sketches and photographs. She paints in a variety of mediums, but prefers the expressive qualities of watercolor. She also won Best of Show in the previous two shows sponsored by the society, and won several awards at the Southwest Washington Fair, including first place in the watercolor division. Ropka resides with her husband Mark in Chehalis, Wash., and teaches private art classes, as well as in the public schools as an artist in residence.

Rookie Drivers Eligible For Prov. Licenses

New drivers who received their learner's permits on July 1 under the new Rookie Driver: Graduated Licensing System are now eligible to progress onto the provisional license phase, according to the Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration. All learner's permit licenses must be held for a minimum of four months and are valid for up to one year.

The current graduated licensing laws are aimed at providing more experience and time behind-the-wheel for all new drivers, the MVA says, adding that statistics have shown that traffic accidents are the number one cause of death for drivers aged 15-20.

As part of the new laws, drivers attempting to move on to the provisional license must turn in a completed 40-hour practice log book. Once the drivers receive their provisional license, the license must be maintained for at least 18 months. Provisional drivers under 18 years of age must also be off the roads between midnight and 5 a.m. daily.

The Rookie Driver; Graduated Licensing System is modeled after similar, successful programs in Canada.

Let's Get RUDY'S Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Rudy's Celebrates 60th Anniversary

A rusty old hand gun, Lucille Ball paper dolls, a toy machine gun, a pair of black leather wing tips size 13-AAA . . . What do these things have in common? They all are displayed in Rudy's window and are part of the story of the 60-year history of business at 115 South Second Street in Oakland.

"My grandfather bought the store in 1939 from Coffman-Fisher Drygoods," said Bob Rudy, the present owner of Rudy's. "At that time the store sold toys. These are some original toys which they stocked. We've stored them in an unused portion of the ware room all this time."

The hand gun was one used in an attempted robbery of the Coffman-Fisher store several decades ago. The perpetrator was apparently so frightened when he was caught with his hand in the cash register that he dropped the gun. It has remained in the store ever since.

The black wing tips were a special order for a customer who had an unusually narrow foot. His shoes had to be specially made for him by Florsheim. Unfortunately, the customer passed away before this pair arrived for him, Rudy said.

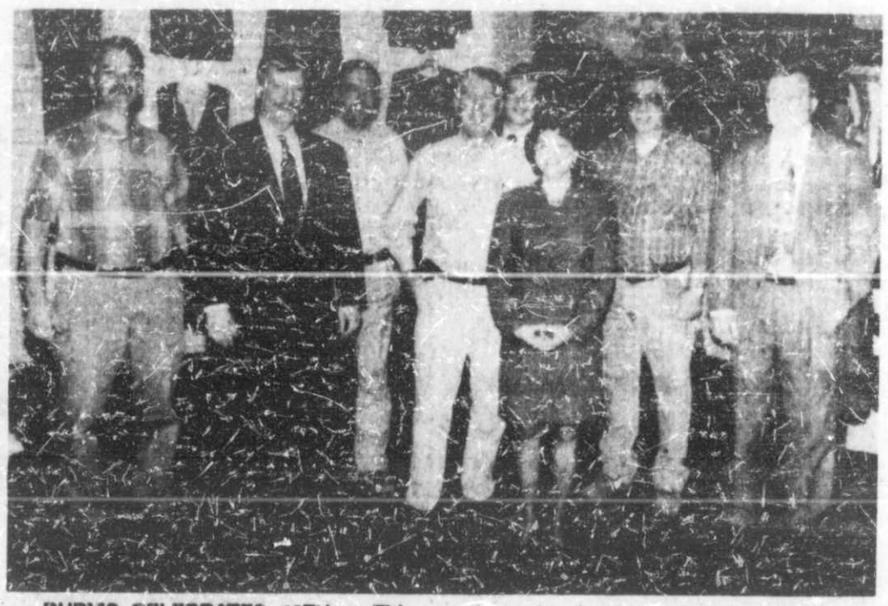
Stories like these are being retold at Rudy's as the staff begins a month-long celebration of the store's 60th anniversary. Besides the artifacts in the windows, there is a photo display inside the store that shows how Rudy's has looked at many different stages.

"My favorite is the one of the women lined up to buy nylon hosiery right after the ration was lifted after World War II," said Amy Rudy, Bob's wife and merchandise manager of Rudy's clothing. "There was a line out the door and down the street, just to buy hose. I wish I could think of something which would create that much retail excitement now."

Rudy's Department Store, as it was known then, was founded in 1939 when Bob's grandfather, Irvin R. Rudy (1896-1963), bought the building and fixtures from Coffman-Fisher Drygoods. Prior to that, Irvin had been owner of the Oakland Bargain Center and manager of the Coffman-Fisher store. Born in Hardy County, W.Va., Irvin began his career in retailing at the age of 16, when he went to work for Coffman-Fisher in Romney, W.Va. When he was offered a managerial position, he had the choice of going to Baird, W.Va., or Oakland. He was quoted as saying it was a tough decision. He knew he could make more money in Baird but there was more opportunity for growth in Oakland.

Irvin R. Rudy Jr. (1924-1992) came into the business with his father in 1946, after attending Western Maryland College and serving in the U.S. Army. I. R. Rudy Jr. expanded the business by opening a ski shop in 1951 at Marsh Mountain Ski Area, which is now Wisp. The original ski shop was a hat and glove concession in a warming hut at the foot of the rope tow. When the McHenry Lodge was built, the Rudys opened a shop big enough to sell ski equipment, clothing, and accessories.

I. Robert (Bob) Rudy came into the business in 1974 after graduating from Ohio University. Bob was instrumental in making it possible for Rudy's to become a member of Sports Specialists Ltd., a national group of sports retailers. It was through his association with this buying co-op group that Rudy's at Wisp developed into a year-around full service sport shop.



"I believe you have to be passionate about what you're doing," Rudy said. "My grandfather got into retailing because he loved it and his dream was to have his own store, which he did accomplish with a lifetime of work. My dad came into the business because it was an opportunity for him to make a good living. He was the smartest man I've known and I'm lucky to have had him as my mentor. We worked together in the business for 18 years and I'm grateful for that. Through his wisdom and my grandfather's dream, I feel fortunate to have the opportunity to make my living doing something I can be passionate about. This celebration is about honoring them and, at the same time, thanking our customers for supporting us in business for the past 60 years."

The month-long celebration will include games and prizes for Rudy's shoppers, culminating with a reception, held in the store by the Rudy family and staff, on Nov. 26 at 4 p.m.

AN ENGAGING DISPLAY can be viewed in Oakland this month as part of Rudy's 60th anniversary. The business once sold toys, and some of these 1930s and '40s playthings have been kept in mint condition for decades at Rudy's. They are currently on display in the store's front window, along with a variety of other historic items, such as a handgun once used in an attempted robbery at the store, a pair of specially made 13 AAA shoes, and a plush yellow hat reminiscent of the mobster age. Rudy's staff will celebrate the business's 60th birthday throughout the month of November with several in-store activities and events, and concluding with a special open house on Nov. 26. See story.

RUDY'S CELEBRATES 60TH — This month marks the 60th year that Rudy's has been in business in downtown Oakland, and this week several area business people helped kick off a month-long celebration of the anniversary. Bob and Amy Rudy hosted a coffee break Monday morning, inviting representatives of local businesses that have been in operation longer than the clothing and ski shop. On hand to help celebrate were, left to right, Don Sincell (editor/co-owner, The Republican newspaper, est. 1867), Bill Grant (chief executive officer, First United Bank & Trust, est. 1900), Milton Proudfoot (pharmacist/co-owner, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, est. 1893), Bob Rudy, Paul Naylor (owner, AD Naylor & Co., est. 1884), Jay Umstot (co-owner, Shirer's Tin Shop, est. 1866), and Terry Helbig (president, Gonder's Insurance, est. 1921). See story.

Grace Glotfelty Among Who's Who

Grace Glotfelty, a junior at Northern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for the 1998-99 school year. Acknowledgment in the publication, reserved for only five percent of high school students each year, recognizes the achievements of outstanding students who have contributed to their schools and communities.

Glotfelty is a member of the Northern Garrett Husky Band, for which she plays the piccolo. She is currently enrolled in the Merit Academic Program and plans to attend college. She is the daughter of Dave and Mary Ann Glotfelty of Friendsville.

Everyone Wins Scavenger Hunt

The Yough Glades Elementary School's On-line Scavenger Hunt is over, and the winners have been announced. Everyone was a winner.

There was such a tremendous response from students of Dennett Road, Broad Ford, Swan Meadow, and Yough Glades schools, Yough Glades teacher Linda Martin decreed all students who participated to be winners because of the effort the children put forth.

Oakland mayor Asa McCain and Martin conceived the scavenger hunt web site, hosted in conjunction with GCNet's Autumn Glory/Sesquicentennial web site, which was described by a GCNet spokesperson as "a resounding success."

The site had thousands of visits from people as far away as Germany and Japan. GCNet member Connie Beachy passed along an E-mail from a former Garrett County resident now living in Florida. "Thanks for sharing and, yes, they have made me very, very homesick and brought a little tear to my eye," the message from the former resident concluded.

"This kind of response was just what we hoped for," said general manager David Lee. "It's great to know that we can get such support from not only our own members, but people around the world," he added.

The next student intern on-line project will be "Mountain Top Christmas 1999," which will include a "Kids Only Section" from which children can E-mail Christmas lists to Santa Claus; a Christmas recipes section with submissions from GCNet members; and coverage of holiday events in Garrett and surrounding counties.

4-H Club News

TRAILBLAZERS
by Emily Cosner

The October meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held on October 21 at 7:30 p.m. at Yough Glades Elementary School. Emily Green reported on Alice Hevner's retirement dinner at the Bittinger 4-H Center. Diana Mayfield reported on the Livestock Association dinner and meeting. Ryan Sines reported on the Adopt-A-Highway cleanup we did in October.

It was decided to exchange names at our November meeting for a gift exchange at our Christmas dinner in December.

After the meeting, club members painted pumpkins that were provided by Susan and Diana Mayfield. Diana Mayfield and Ryan Sines then delivered the pumpkins to Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home. Susan and Diana Mayfield served refreshments.

Our next meeting will be held on November 18 at Yough Glades Elementary School. At this meeting, we will have a record book workshop and will work on enrollment for the next 4-H year. The election of officers will also be held. The Christmas Dinner and Club Achievement Night will be held on December 3 at Yough Glades Elementary School.

Swanton Center Slates Dinner

There will be a buckwheat cake and sausage supper served at the Swanton Community Center on Saturday, Nov. 13. Serving will begin at 4 p.m. and continue as long as supplies last. The price of the meal is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Proceeds from the supper are used to support the programs of the center.

Miss Tonkovich Weds Mr. Mortimer In August Ceremony At St. Peter's

Sheri A. Tonkovich and Gregory D. Mortimer were united in marriage on August 21, 1999, at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland. Father Jude Molnar performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Lorena Tonkovich, formerly of Fairmont, W.Va., now of McHenry, and the late Louis Tonkovich.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mortimer of Columbia.

Given in marriage and escorted to the altar by her brother, Mark Tonkovich, the bride was attired in a white satin and re-embroidered lace designed by Mori Lee. The front bodice featured a simple sleeveless sabrina neckline of re-embroidered lace and a modified empire waistline, which accented the satin sheath. The fully lined train was attached underneath the scalloped and scooped out back and featured a multitude of lace appliques. She carried a large tight bouquet of Leonardo roses.

Serving as matron of honor was Robbin Tonkovich of Oakland, sister-in-law of the bride. Bridesmaids were Cheryl Radcliff of Fairmont, W.Va., and Karyn Seilhamer of Oakland, both friends of the bride. The bride's attendants were attired in a black and bronze satin sleeveless sheath dress. Each carried a tight bouquet of Leonardo roses.

The flower girl was Myra Jo Coleman of Beckley, W.Va., cousin of the bride. She wore a white sleeveless satin dress with a sabrina neckline accented with pearls. Jenna Coleman, also a cousin of the bride, served as the guest book attendant.

Best man was Edward Mortimer of Alexandria, Va., brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Stephen Mortimer of Alexandria, also a brother of the groom, and Mark Tonkovich of Oakland, brother of the bride. Patrick Damon, friend of the bride and groom, escorted the bride's mother in the church and served as a reader during the mass along with Steve Mortimer. Kane Tonkovich, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer.

James Cimino of Fairmont was the soloist and Dr. David Sheets was the pianist. A string quartet from West Virginia University provided the prelude and postlude music on the lawn of the church.

Following the ceremony, the bride's mother hosted a reception and dinner at Nemacolin Woodlands Resort in Farmington, Pa. The Bobby Nicholas Band provided entertainment. A brunch was also held the following day, hosted by Regis Larkin, friend of the bride, and Josephine Ruether, aunt of the bride.

Prior to the wedding the bride was guest of honor at a wedding shower hosted by Robbin Tonkovich. Mark and Robbin Tonkovich also honored the bride and groom at a luau wedding shower held at their home.

Following a sailing cruise in the southern Caribbean the couple made their residence in McHenry.

THE SEASON IS OVER for the Southern High School boys' soccer team, which was defeated 6-2 Tuesday evening by Williamsport, the defending state 1A runner-up. The West Region quarterfinal was played at Northern High School. No other details of the match were received. Chasing the ball down in the photo above is Southern's Andrew Grant, and at right is Ram Ryan Ewing. The Southern girls were also ousted from the playoffs by Williamsport the same evening.

Huskies Win Shoot-Out With Mt. Savage, 4-3

A penalty kick by Josh Gilpin, after 100 minutes of regulation and overtime, and one full round of penalty kicks, gave the Northern High School boys' soccer team a big 4-3 victory over host Mt. Savage in the quarterfinals of the Maryland Class 1A West Region boys' soccer tournament. It was the first time the Huskies had ever defeated Mt. Savage, and avenged a final regular-season, 4-3 loss to the Indians.

The Huskies never trailed in the contest and had things well in control through most of the first half, as Ronnie Lipscomb scored an unassisted goal at the 21:48 mark and Eric Durst scored about six minutes later off an assist by Jason Fickes to give the Huskies a 2-0 advantage.

But the home team assumed the momentum for the final nine minutes of the first half and knotted the score at 2-2 with a goal by Darren Johnson off a feed by Larry O'Baker with 8:43 left, and a second goal by O'Baker off an assist by Johnson at the 3:35 mark.

The first 26 minutes of the second half were scoreless, but Gilpin put the Huskies on top again with a goal at the 13:58 mark off an assist by Mike Fletcher.

The contest was ultimately sent into overtime because of a goal by Mt. Savage's Cass Martin off a pass from Joe Shaffer with 8:21 left in regulation.

Neither team could score in two 10-minute overtime periods, so penalty kicks, one by each of the 11 players on the field for both teams, were taken. In one full round of penalty kicks, each team scored nine goals, forcing a round of sudden death kicks.

After each team scored two goals in the sudden-death series, Mt. Savage missed on its third shot. Gilpin took the Huskies' third attempt and won the game by putting the ball into the net.

"This was a total team effort," stated Northern coach Tom Ables. "But it was great that Josh got the winning kick because he is the only senior on our team."

The Huskies were edged in shots on goal by a 17-16 margin, and were dominated in corner kicks, 10-2. Woody Kenner made 12 stops in goal for Northern, as did Josh Michaels for Mt. Savage.

The Indians concluded their season with a 10-5 record.

The Huskies are now 8-6-1 and will face Beall in a region semifinal either Friday or Saturday at Beall. The Mountaineers advanced by edging Westmar, 2-1. Allegany and Williamsport are the other two teams that advanced to the semifinal round.

Southern Teams Both Ousted By Williamsport

The 1999 soccer season ended Tuesday for both the Southern High School girls' and boys' teams, as the Southern girls were hammered 8-0 by defending state runner-up Williamsport, and the Southern boys fell 6-2, also to Williamsport, in Maryland State 1A West Region quarterfinal matches played at Northern High School.

The Williamsport boys, also last year's state 1A runner-up, came into the match with the Rams with a 15-1 record, while Williamsport's girls were 14-2.

No details on either match were received.

Northern Girls Upset By Mount Savage In Playoffs

A 4-1 upset loss to Mt. Savage yesterday afternoon in the quarterfinals of the Maryland Class 1A West Region girls' soccer tournament abruptly ended the season for the Northern High School team, which had come into the playoffs with a 10-2 record and the 1999 Western Maryland Interscholastic League title. The Huskies had defeated the Indians twice during the regular season, 4-1 and 4-0.

The match was played in snowy conditions at Mt. Savage, where the Indians jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first half and were ahead 3-0 midway through the second half.

Heather Nicholson put the first Mt. Savage point on the board when she scored on a direct kick at the 24:36 mark of the first half. Erin Moulden followed with a goal off an assist by Jamie Blank about four minutes later.

The Indians' third straight goal was recorded by Blank off a feed by Tara Lybarger with 28:31 remaining in the match.

The Huskies finally got on the board with 11:10 left when Kara Kenner put one into the net unassisted, but Moulden provided an insurance goal, unassisted, for the Indians at the 8:35 mark.

Each team finished with 17 shots on goal, but Chrystal Martz won the battle between the goal keepers, as she was credited with 13 saves. Northern's Ashley Warnick had 12 saves.

The Huskies were edged in corner kicks, 5-2.

The Indians will move on to the region semifinals by facing Westmar this weekend. Westmar earned a spot in the semifinals by defeating Beall, 3-1, yesterday at Lonaconing.

GCC Netters Fall To Essex, On To Region Tourney

The Garrett Community College volleyball team finished up the regular season with a loss to Essex Community College (1-3) last Friday evening, and will be competing in the Region XX Tournament at Hagerstown College this weekend.

Essex won the first two games, 15-13 and 15-5. Garrett then came back during the third game to claim their only win 15-10. Essex ended the match with the capture of their third game from Garrett 15-8.

Terra Hudson led the Laker attack with a team-high of nine kills and four service points from aces. Jessica Saturday matched Hudson's nine kills and contributed two service aces. Lana Groves went 27 for 33 on attack, including eight kills. Tameka Graves added six kills to the Lakers' effort. Laurel Wolf finished the match with 21 for 22 on serves, with three aces, and was four for four on blocks. Rebeka Hinebaugh was a perfect three for three on attack, with one kill.

This match concluded Garrett's regular season 2-6 in the Maryland JUCO and with an overall record of 4-22.

The Lakers are set to compete in the Region XX Tourney at Hagerstown College this Friday, Nov. 5, through Sunday, Nov. 7.

Rams Edged By Alco With 48 Seconds Left

A touchdown by Allegany High School senior fullback Dave Aydelotte with just 48 seconds remaining, followed by an extra-point kick that just cleared the crossbar, put an end to a four-game winning streak for the Southern Rams last Friday night at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland. That PAT gave the Campers a 21-20 lead and, 48 seconds later, their fifth win of the campaign, while dropping the Rams to 4-5.

Coach Steve Campbell and the Rams will conclude their season this Friday against their undefeated county rivals, the Northern Huskies, at the Cove.

Allegany put the first points on the board Friday night when, after a scoreless first quarter, quarterback Nathan Simpson capped a 54-yard drive with a 27-yard touchdown run with 11:51 remaining in the second period. Back-up quarterback Ryan Strother tried to pass for the two-point conversion, but it was incomplete.

The Rams responded on their next possession with a three-play, 50-yard scoring drive that was highlighted by a 46-yard pass from Josh Sharon to Jeremy Lear, which put the ball on the Campers' 4-yard line. Sharon scored on a keeper two plays later with 8:38 left in the half, and Jeremy Hayhurst gave the Rams their first lead of the game, 7-6, when he booted the extra point. The Rams held that lead until midway through the third quarter.

A fumble by Sharon on a Southern drive in the third period at their own 40-yard line set up the Campers' next score, as Simpson hit Dan Shanholtz with a 42-yard touchdown pass with 5:03 left in the quarter. Simpson then passed to Andy Wilson for the two-point conversion to give Allegany a 14-7 advantage.

Four Allegany penalties aided the Rams' on their next drive, which was an 11-play, 78-yard march that culminated with a less-than-one-yard run by Sharon early in the fourth quarter. Hayhurst's conversion kick knotted the score at 14-14.

The Rams took their second lead of the evening after Nathaniel Panther's interception of a Simpson pass at the Southern 23 was returned to the Ram 47, setting up a seven-play, 38-yard drive that was capped by a 15-yard touchdown run up the middle by Hayhurst. The drive featured a 16-yard run on fourth-and-eight by Christian Warfield. The missed conversion kick by Hayhurst would come back to haunt the Rams, as they led by just six points, 20-14.

The Campers responded with a 17-play, 65-yard winning drive that ended when Aydelotte scored on a three-yard run with 48 ticks left on the clock. The winning extra-point kick was made by Strother, who was substituting for regular kicker John Kifer.

"We really played pretty well," stated Coach Campbell, "but we didn't take advantage of a couple of turnovers early in the game. I don't think we were outhit, but we had a tough time tackling their big boy (Aydelotte)."

The senior fullback finished with 109 yards on 22 carries.

The Rams will face one of their toughest opponents this Friday night when they travel north to take on county rival Northern, as the Huskies are assured of a playoff spot and are one game away from a perfect regular season; however, Campbell is anticipating a close-fought contest.

"There is no tomorrow for us," he said. "We have nothing to lose and everything to gain. A win would be a great finish to an average season."

There is no question that a few of the opponents on the Rams' schedule are superior to any of the teams faced by the Huskies so far this year, and history has shown on several occasions that records don't mean much when it comes to the Northern-Southern contest. The most extreme result came in 1984 when the undefeated Rams lost to the 3-6 Huskies in the final game of the season, and on the Rams' field.

"I know it's always an emotional game, and this year will be no exception," Campbell said. "Win or lose, I think we will be a good test for Northern, especially as they head into the playoffs."

Campbell's biggest concerns are the stingy Northern defense, which has allowed an average of only 5 points per game, and a trio of halfbacks in senior Ryan Brenneman (5-11, 190), junior Rob Dozier (6-4, 205), and junior Mark Wolf (5-9, 180). Wolf has amassed 810 yards of rushing in nine games, Dozier is right behind with 805, and Brenneman has recorded 602.

"Adam Brenneman (senior quarterback, 5-11, 160) also does an excellent job running the option," Campbell said. "He can do it all off the option; dive, hand to the second back or the third back, pitch, or keep the ball." Brenneman has recorded 645 of his own yards of rushing on the keeper plays.

"They also have a senior-dominated front, which does a very good job blocking," Campbell said.

"If we play up to our capabilities, I believe the game could come down to turnovers," he said. "If we turn the ball over four or five times, then we can forget about any chance of winning. But if we can hang onto it, I believe we have a shot.

"If you look at the numbers in all our games this year, our team is really only a couple touchdowns away from making the playoffs, and we've shown a lot of improvement in the second half of the season," he added.

"We also need to stay cool-headed," Campbell said. "It's such a big rivalry and the kids are so pumped up, sometimes emotions can work against you. So we want to keep things in perspective. It should be a great ball game for the fans."

Friday's kickoff at Husky Stadium is set for 7:30 p.m.

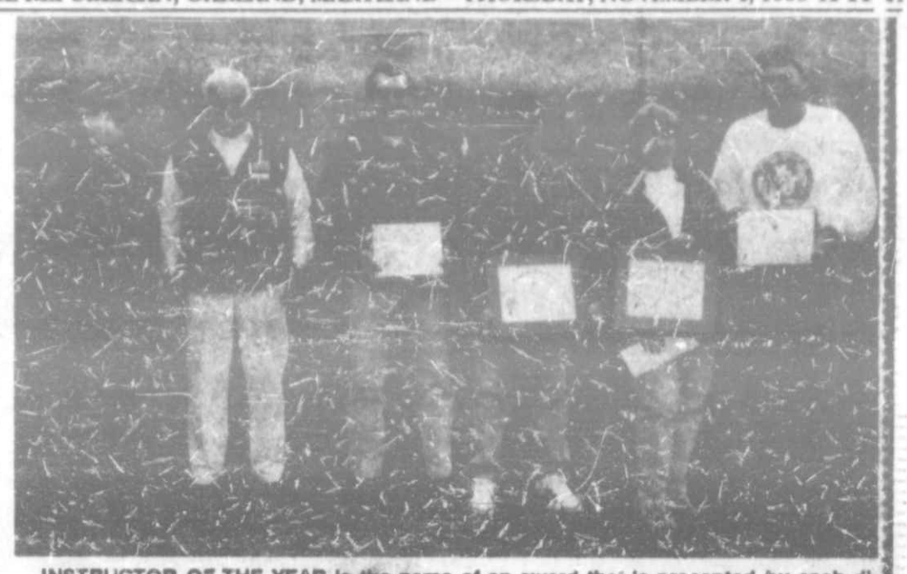
Ram Netters To Seek Revenge For Allegany Sweep

The Southern High School volleyball team concluded its regular season Monday evening against Allegany High School. Alco took the Rams in three straight games to clench hold of its undefeated season. The two teams will meet again in the opening round of the regional playoffs Monday night in Oakland.

The game scores were 15-12, 15-8, and 15-3.

Melissa Kuykendall led the Rams with 10 points from the service line, including two aces. Keri Niner contributed two kills for Southern.

Allegany also won the JV match, 15-3 and 15-1.



Southern ended the season with a record of 7-7. Southern and Alco will face off once again in the Maryland Class 1A West Region quarterfinals Monday, Nov. 8, at Southern High at 7 p.m.

Water Aerobics, Aquatic Therapy Course Slated

Weekly sessions in water aerobics and aquatic therapy will begin Monday, Nov. 15, at 5:30 p.m. in the indoor pool of the B&R Resort, located along Rock Lodge Road just off Route 219. The sessions will meet for one hour each Monday evening thereafter at the same time.

Water aerobics and aquatic therapy will focus on toning, flexibility, and strength training and the cardiovascular system. The instructor, Deb Clatterbuck, will also address health issues such as arthritis and diabetes.

The cost of the class is $5 per session. For further information persons may contact its sponsor, the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431, ext. 137, or 301-387-9634.

INSTRUCTOR OF THE YEAR is the name of an award that is presented by each division of the National Ski Patrol, and the recipient of that honor for the Eastern Division this year was Bill Freyman, Deep Creek Lake, who is a member of the Canaan Valley Ski Patrol and past patrol leader of the Wisp Ski Patrol. Freyman, who is pictured third from left above, has completed and/or instructed numerous training courses for the NSP since 1980. He is both a National and a Certified patroller with the NSP, and has served as a ski racing coach. He provided an estimated 300 hours of on-the-hill volunteer service at Canaan last season. He is a teacher at Southern High School, where he has been both a skiing and track-and-field coach. He and his wife Linda reside on Boy Scout Road. In the photo from left are: Tyler Davis, NSP Emeritus; Carl Rebele, Western Appalachian Region awards advisor and a member of the Wisp patrol; Freyman; Phil Firl, director of the Canaan Valley patrol, who received a yellow merit star; Betsy Thume, Canaan Valley, who also received a yellow merit star; and Jim Augustine, who was awarded his national NSP number.

Climbing Event, Gear Swap/Sale Slated At GCC

The Garrett Community College Adventuresports Institute will host a climbing competition between teams of AVS students from GCC and Frostburg State University on Wednesday, Nov. 10, from 9 to 11 p.m. in the GCC gymnasium. That same evening the college's Adventuresports Club will sponsor an adventure gear swap/sale, also set to begin at 9 p.m. in the gym.

The evening's activities are free and open to the public. Persons with equipment to trade or sell may bring the gear to the gym as early as 8:30 p.m. for set-up, and are reminded to bring a blanket to place on the gym floor beneath their gear.

The gear swap/sale is designed as a benefit for the Adventuresports Club's future activities and trips. The club is asking that participants donate 10 percent of their sales at the end of the swap, although no one is obligated to do so. The club's upcoming outings include local nature hikes, a trip to Earth Treks in Columbia, and an end-of-the-year skill-building trip to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

"The Adventuresports program offers students the opportunity to combine studies in business management, environmental science, and leadership development with participation in adventure sport skill classes," said program director Mike Logsdon.

For further information on the gear swap/sale, the climbing competition, or the Adventuresports Club itself, persons may contact AVS Club secretary Dreux Dominick at 301-387-3027.

Huskies Rule Region And MAC After Taming Wildcats 22-12

Rams Remain As Only Obstacle To Perfect Season

Northern High School's unbeaten varsity football team clinched the crown of both the Class 1A Region and the Mountain Athletic Conference by defeating Westmar 22-12 Friday night in Accident. The win gives the Huskies a 9-0 mark heading into the regular season finale at home tomorrow against Southern, which will decide who will wear the Garrett County football crown. Although the outcome of the coming contest will not affect the location of the quarterfinal playoff game which is set in Accident during the weekend of Nov. 12-13, a Husky loss at the hands of the Rams could put NHS on the road in semifinal action should the team continue to advance.

Tomorrow night's contest with the streaking Rams, winners of their last four out of five outings, stirs memories of a heated rivalry for fans on both sides of the lake. In 1984 a 2-7 Husky squad took on a 9-0 Ram team and came away from Oakland with a season-ending win to spoil SHS's hopes for a perfect year. Last year's Rams crushed a slumping Husky unit in the season closer, a bitter defeat that can still be tasted by the Big Blue seniors who were members of the 1998 squad. Just to be sure, coach Phil Carr will be viewing a video of that defeat with his troops tonight, a bit of psychology that he hopes will bring the team to a fevered pitch.

"Clinching the Region and the MAC by beating Westmar took a load off our minds," Carr said. "Now we don't have to worry about the playoffs, but we know we have to pin our ears back and play good hard football against a tough Southern team. The records go out the window for this one every year—it's all about pride and who wants to be remembered as the better team."

The unusual closeness of a 10-point victory margin over the Wildcats Friday was "a character builder for us," according to the coach, one that will help to prepare them for the road ahead. "Our guys got some good experience in that one, a reinforcer that no matter how good you've been all year it still takes everything you've got, both mentally and physically on every play to keep on winning.

"Westmar has a good team and they were hard to prepare for. People don't give them a lot of credit or respect as a good team, but my guys can tell you they are." Northern's team effort was the key to the win, as the Huskies' defense chalked up three take-aways via two fumble recoveries and an interception, while the offense produced its eighth 300-yard rushing tally.

The game opened with Westmar driving downfield on its first possession, a march that was turned back when middle linebacker Mark Wolf picked off a pass on the NHS 10 yard line. The offense then ate up the field on a long drive that ran out of gas four yards from the goal line without a resulting score.

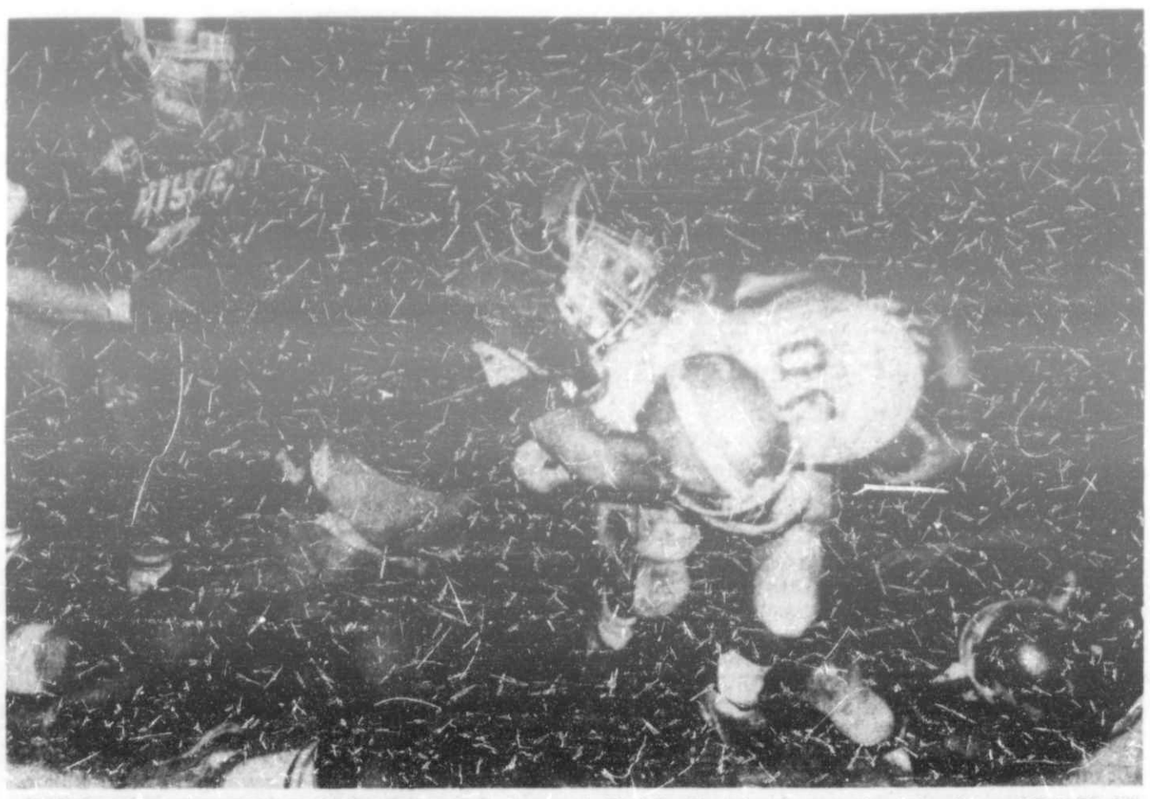
Wolf stymied a second Wildcat scoring opportunity when he scooped up a fumble inside the Husky 10 yard line and returned it 30 yards. Quarterback Adam Brenneman marshaled his offensive troops for the Huskies' first scoring drive, a 65-yard march that he capped himself with a 13-yard keeper run for a touchdown in the second quarter. The conversion run attempt failed. Westmar tied the game at 6-6 with three minutes to go in the half as a two-yard scoring run by David Ziler was followed by a failed pass conversion attempt.

The Wildcats surged into the lead in the third period when Jeremy Sellers carried the ball 28 yards for a touchdown, which was followed by another failed pass conversion attempt. Undaunted, the Huskies struck back on their next possession when Brenneman, who carried the ball just 10 times for 100 yards, exploded for an 80-yard touchdown romp. Justin Robison's extra-point kick sailed through the uprights to give NHS a 13-12 lead.

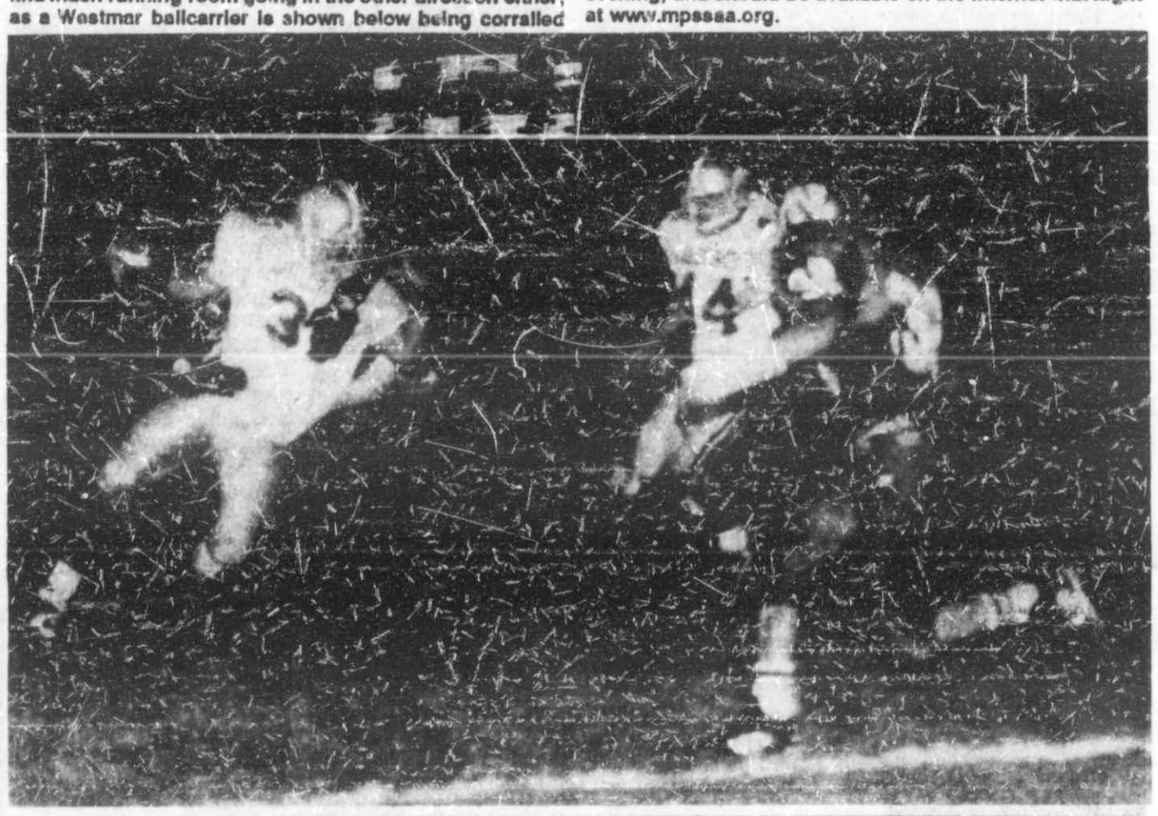
"When we got the lead at that point our guys could smell blood," said Carr. "They wanted to win so bad they could taste it. We made some adjustments on defense and shut Westmar down from then on, and our offensive line was blowing their stacked lines, sometimes as many as 10 players, off the ball. We just wore them down as the game went on."

Northern pounded the nails in the fourth quarter, as Robison connected for a 28-yard field goal at the 6:45 mark. The defense held, and when the offense got the ball back it went into a possession scheme that ate up the clock. Halfback Rob Dozier, who reeled off some fine runs in the second half, followed his sweeping blockers 19 yards to high-step across the goal line with 48 seconds remaining to make the score 22-12.

Dozier tallied 130 yards on 15 carries to lead Northern's rushers for the contest. Wolf and Dozier both went over the 800-yard rushing mark for the year during the night, and stand at 810 and 805 yards respectively. Adam Brenneman, the MAC's leading scorer, has a 645 yard tally, and halfback Ryan Brenneman has racked up 602 yards for the balanced Husky rushing game that is pacing the unit's 35 point-plus per game average.



Assistant coach Frank Ewing's defensive unit has given up an average of just five points per outing, as the Huskies have made a name for themselves with halftime and on-field adjustments. The defense has totaled 14 interceptions, with Wolf leading the way with five pick-offs of his own.



The Huskies will have their work cut out for them against Southern, Carr remarked. "We've been scouting the Rams through several games. They are on a roll and are a heck of a lot better now than they were a month ago. We've seen Coach Campbell before when he was at Hancock, so we have a pretty good idea that they'll be trying to throw the ball at us, which they did pretty well against Allegany last week. They lost by just one point when the Campers scored in the final minute, if not for that they'd be bringing a five-game winning streak in here against us."

The SHS passing game that has gotten Carr's attention is led by junior quarterback Josh Sharon (5-10, 185), who can throw as well as run. His favorite targets are split ends Nathaniel Panther (5-10, 160), a senior, and junior Jeremy Lear (5-10, 150). Senior tailback Josh Bosley (5-11, 175) and junior fullback Jeremy Hayhurst (5-10, 185), who, Carr said, "runs the ball about as hard as anybody we've seen all year," carry the Rams' rushing game.

Bosley and Hayhurst, both linebackers, are two of the mainstays of Southern's 5-3 defense, which also relies heavily on junior noseguard John Hayhurst (6-0, 195) and senior defensive end Mike Lantz (5-10, 210). "We'll have to do a good job of blocking those two guys if we plan to get anywhere," said Carr.

"We'd like to see as many Husky fans wearing blue and gold as we can muster in our stands," Carr said, noting that a big SHS contingent could work to neutralize the home-field advantage. "We know there will be a lot of people on the other side of the field, and we'll need all the support we can get." For those not attending the contest, which by all accounts should take place in superb weather, the battle will be broadcast on WXIE-FM, 92.3 on the radio dial. The pre-game show begins at 7 p.m., with the kickoff taking place 30 minutes later.

UNDEFEATED HUSKIES ARE MAC-DADDIES - Northern High School's football team clinched the first Mountain Athletic Conference crown, as well as the Class 1A West Region title and home-field advantage for the opening round of the state playoffs, with a 22-12 win over Westmar Friday night in Accident. The Huskies' stellar defense put on another clinic, racking up two fumble recoveries and one interception. Defensive end Nathan Resh (#81) is shown above slamming a Westmar runner to the ground as his teammates from the linebacking corps, Marcus Rugg (#7) and Mark Wolf (#32, with broken left wrist in a cast) assist. Resh, a senior, leads the 1999 version of Big Blue in unassisted sacks with three, while Wolf leads the squad in interceptions with five pick-offs. The Wildcats couldn't find much running room going in the other direction either, as a Westmar ballcarrier is shown below being corralled behind the line of scrimmage by defensive end Rob Dozier (#23, with arms wrapped around his prey), as Wolf zeroes in to help out with the kill. Tomorrow night the Huskies go in search of a perfect 10-0 season against a hot-handed Southern Ram team that has won four out of its last five outings. Kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m. on the Northern field, before a stadium of hopefully packed bleachers behind both benches. Northern's playoff ambitions for the Class 1A quarterfinals the following weekend rest with the other MPSSAA schools downstate. Carr said his scouts have been studying Howard County's Glenelg, a 6-3 team from the Southern Region currently seeded seventh in the state, but this weekend's action could change those plans. The finalized playoff schedule will be known by Saturday evening, and should be available on the internet that night at www.mpssaa.org.

Will Lowering Cholesterol Reduce the Risk of Stroke?

In addition to reducing the risk of heart disease, the National Cholesterol Education Program now reports that lowering total blood cholesterol levels may also decrease the risk of stroke. In some persons a healthy cholesterol level is achieved through dietary habits alone. In others cholesterol-lowering medicines may be needed if dietary measures alone prove to be inadequate.

State Champion, Former Ram To Run At Towson

Jody Bowser, former track and field standout for Southern Garrett High School, has been accepted as a member of the Towson University track team. Bowser was a member of the Southern track team for four years, competing in many various events, but becoming a standout in the 100-meter hurdles competition. During her senior year she was undefeated in this competition, culminating her season by becoming the 1-A state champion in this event during the Maryland State Track and Field Championships last May at the University of Maryland Baltimore County campus.

Jody also holds the Southern School Record in this competition with a 15.47 second-finish in the state championship race.

Bowser was contacted by Coach Roger Ericker from Towson in July of this year and agreed to sign with the team. Ericker said Jody will compete in the 100 hurdles and long jump events at Towson. "I am delighted to have Jody on the team," Ericker said.

Yurko And Hall Win Lions' 5-K Festival Race

Tony Yurko, Cumberland, and Maureen Hall, LaVale, were the overall male and female winners of the annual Autumn Glory 5-K Run for Sight, sponsored by the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club. The race was held at Broadford Park on Saturday, Oct. 16, and complete results were released this week by Paul Shockey, coordinator of the event for the Lions Club.

Yurko, 36, completed the 3.1-mile course in 17 minutes, 44 seconds to edge second-place Jimmy Railey, McHenry, who recorded a time of 17:53. Hall, 34, who was the ninth finisher overall, crossed the line in 19:20, well ahead of the second-place Tracey Delaney, 26, whose time was 21:56.

Age division winners, male and female, were: Karl Hillen and Liz Palka (ages 1-13), Joe Krafty and Brittany Naylor (14-19), Tom Ness and Jennifer Wilson (20-29), David Clark and Paige Havens (30-39), Jeff Smith and Diane Miller (40-49), Joe Aitobello and Colleen Nordeck (50-59), and Paul Kinder and Eileen Jamison (60-99).

The winner of the 2-mile Walk for Sight was Porter Welch, who finished with a time of 22:55, while Rodney Glotfelty placed second in 23:49. Leona DeWitt was just one second behind Glotfelty to be the first female walker to finish, while Amy Ritchie was the second-place female walker in 23:53.

Age division winners in the walk, male and female, were: Nick Hillen and Julie Swerbinsky (1-13), Erin Brady (14-19), Brooks Evans and Amy Clise (20-29), Dennis Clark and Shelly Lansell (30-39), John Mosser and Nancy Brady (40-49), Glenn Knotts and Janet Hardesty (50-59), and Jim Preston and Laura Miller (60-99).

Complete results of the races are as follows:

OFF AND RUNNING are scores of racers in the recent annual 5-K Run for Sight, sponsored by the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions Club and held in conjunction with the Autumn Glory Festival. Pictured above right are the overall winner and overall female winner of the race, which started and finished in Broadford Park. Tony Yurko was the fastest runner of the day, while Maureen Hall, a former winner of the race, was the first female across the finish line. Also held was the 2-Mile Walk for Sight, and below left are Porter Welch and Leona DeWitt, fastest walker and top female finisher. Below right is runner Joyce Michaels, who won the mountain bike that was given away via a raffle. See story for details about the event.

THE REPUBLICAN

Local Student Shepherd College Court Member

Emily Friend, a 1996 graduate of Southern High School, was recently selected to the Shepherd College Homecoming Court as a senior class representative. She appeared in the October 9 Homecoming Parade in Shepherdstown, W.Va., and participated in halftime ceremonies during the Shepherd vs. West Virginia Tech football game the same day.

Shepherd students may be nominated for the Homecoming Court by campus organizations, and representatives from each class are selected by a vote of the student body. Friend, a senior sports management and business student, was nominated by both Alpha Sigma Tau sorority and Phi Epsilon Kappa fraternity.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Wasn't this past weekend a beautiful touch of Indian summer? I spent Saturday morning wading the Casselman River off River Road north of Grantsville looking for some of the trout stocked there, according to news releases from the DNR. Tough fishing. The water was very low and gin clear. If there were any trout around, they must have seen me long before I hoped to see them and headed for seclusion. That means I didn't see a fish, and about noon I headed for the Savage. Before I left I did talk to fishermen near the River Road Bridge, and they said that there were some trout in the pool under the bridge. But, the last thing they needed was another angler in that pool, so I moved on.

There were trout visible in the Savage, and some of these were of trophy size. I worked long and hard trying to figure what they were taking and had zero success until I offered a very small (14-16) foam-bodied black ant. Anyhow, the Maryland Fishing Report on the web said small Duns and Blue Wing Olives should continue to be effective on the Savage. Water levels have been good and the fish are there.

Regarding the North Branch, the DNR stocked 1,000 trout in both Kitzmiller and in the Delayed Harvest Area. Both catch-and-release and put-and-take areas are producing some good catches of trout. As the water continues to cool, fishing should get even better. Terrestrials and attractor patterns should do well. Crickets and beetles in assorted colors should also be effective.

The Yough continues to have very low flow conditions. Hoppers, beetles, and variants on top and crayfish down low have worked well. Anglers might try Letort hoppers with an added short tail of a few strands of red saddle hackle. Sculpins/Muddlers and Hellgrammite patterns should also do well. Don't forget some matching emerger patterns.

DEEP CREEK LAKE REPORT

Yellow perch and bluegills are biting on night crawlers in 10 to 12 feet of water, whereas chain pickerel and smallmouth bass should respond better to minnows. Twelve- to 13-inch smallmouth bass are numerous at a depth of 15 feet on the bottom or rocky shorelines, particularly from Deep Creek Bridge down to the dam.

TURKEY TALK

Driving out of the Savage Forest via Spring Lick Road, I saw a few hunters in full camo obviously out for the first day of fall turkey season. Turkey season will close on Saturday, Nov. 6.

Wild turkey populations in western Maryland are on the upswing, having rebounded from several bad years of poor hatches. Field surveys conducted by DNR staff this year reveal that turkey poult production in western Maryland is at its highest level since 1996. Dry weather during the spring and summer months provided excellent conditions for nesting and poult survival. The number of turkey broods and the total number of turkeys observed were at their highest levels since surveys began in 1996. This increase in poult production in western Maryland will result in a larger turkey population in this area, increasing the chances for a hunter to take a fall bird.

Maryland hunters harvest between 300 and 600 turkeys every fall, and Garrett is the most productive county. When hatching success and poult production are high, fall harvests are also high. In 1994 and 1995, poult production was probably at historical highs in western Maryland, and fall harvests were at record levels of 559 and 570, respectively. In 1998, poult production was at a very low level, and the corresponding fall harvest was 301 turkeys.

Another factor that affects the success of fall turkey hunters is the availability of food in the form of hard and soft mast. Hard mast, such as acorns and beech nuts, are preferred fall foods of wild turkeys. Turkeys also eat soft mast, like wild cherries and crabapples, especially when hard mast is minimal. When food supplies are abundant, turkeys have no trouble finding food. They remain scattered and are harder for hunters to locate. When foods are scarce, turkeys will congregate in areas where food is available, thus making them more susceptible to hunting pressure.

Mast surveys conducted by DNR Wildlife & Heritage Division staff indicate that hard mast abundance is scattered across western Maryland. Acorns are more abundant in Garrett and Washington counties this year than in Allegany County. However, soft mast seems to be fairly abundant across the region.

LOCAL DEER HUNTERS DOING WELL

Both archers and muzzleloaders have been scoring well. Black powder gunners with recent successes include Gary Whitacre, who got a nice 8-pointer on North Hill, and Larry Hinebaugh, who got a 6-pointer near Frick's Crossing. Archers enjoying success include Renny Hardesty, with a 5-pointer from the Potomac State Forest, Chris Bittinger, with a 7-pointer taken in West Virginia, Wayne Evans, with a 3-pointer from the Kitzmiller area, and Randy Harold, with a 6-pointer also from the Kitzmiller area.

Special "congrats" to Jay Tasker, who tagged a big 4-pointer while hunting with a muzzleloader near Mt. Nebo and another with a bow on private land off the Oakland-Sang Run Road.

TIP FOR PROPER COMPASS USE

Proper use of a compass is good insurance against getting lost while afield in our area's big woods.

Don't try to follow a directional course by looking at a compass while you move. Instead, hold your compass at waist level, and then pivot yourself and the compass together until you are facing in the direction you want to travel. Now choose a distant object on that line and walk to it. Keep repeating this procedure until you reach your destination.

Husky JVs Shut Down, Shut Out Tucker 26-0

Northern High School's junior varsity football team ended its year on a winning note by decimating the Tucker County jayvees 26-0 in Accident Monday night.

The Husky victory was keyed by the squad's outstanding defense, which recorded its fourth shutout of the season as NHS chalked up a 3-4-1 record, and the 26-point tally was the largest offensive output of the year.

Lee Yoder led the defense with two interceptions, and his teammates swarmed the ball with fine gang-tackling throughout the evening. Ethan DeVore paced the offense with a pair of touchdown runs, and he and the other Husky ballcarriers followed their blockers to daylight through some huge holes and cut back against the grain when necessary to find some good running room on their own.

NORTHERN (26)
TUCKER COUNTY (0)
Northern	6	14	6	0 - 26

First Quarter

N - Trey Brenneman 3 run (run failed).

Second Quarter

N - Cheston Bachtel 25 run (kick failed)

N - Ethan DeVore 6 run (DeVore run).

Third Quarter

N - DeVore 3 run (kick failed).

Northern's first score came in the opening period when quarterback Trey Brenneman broke through the line for a three yard scoring run to cap a long drive. Fellow sophomore Cheston Bachtel put the next touchdown on the board with a 25 yard score that featured some fine broken field moves. Northern struck again near the end of the first half when DeVore, a sophomore halfback, gave the Huskies a commanding 20-0 lead with a six yard touchdown carry and a two-point conversion run. DeVore scored his second touchdown on a three yard run in the third quarter.

Sizing up future Husky hopes, next season's varsity unit will have several excellent ballplayers to draw on from this year's jayvee program. Among those to watch will be Brenneman, (5-11, 195) who may have a bright future if he continues to work hard on his skills at quarterback. Listed as one of only two non-senior quarterbacks on the Huskies' roster (along with varsity junior Brandon Kamp), the superb runner could conceivably make a nice fit for Phil Carr's option offense a couple of years from now.

Brenneman and each of his fellow sophomores have been moved up to the varsity squad for the remainder of the year, and they and several freshman players will be suiting up and joining the varsity unit for practice sessions and for games as the 9-0 Huskies continue their march toward a hoped-for state title.

Free Sight-In Days Scheduled

The Savage River Complex will be hosting two free sight-in days at the Savage River Shooting Range this Saturday, Nov. 6, and Tuesday, Nov. 9. The range will open at 9 a.m. on each of these days.

Rangers and area volunteers will be available to assist interested shooters in the proper sight-in techniques for their firearms. This will be an opportunity for hunters to be sure that their firearms are working properly and shooting accurately for the upcoming hunting season. The Friends of New Germany will be selling sandwiches and drinks on both of these days.

Assistance will be available until 4 p.m., and the range will remain open until sunset each day.

Arts Center

Foundation financed a feasibility study for GLAF. The study was conducted by Steven Richards, lead consultant of SR Associates, Arlington, Va., and a theatre director in Washington, D.C. The study affirmed that Garrett County would be an excellent site for such a facility and that it would be a major asset, from an economic as well as an educational standpoint.

"Garrett County is a tourist destination that has the lake and so many different types of recreation, as well as a number of established performing arts programs," Lang said. "So we believe such a facility would enhance what is already a wonderful location for visitors as well as for the residents of the county."

Sprenger used the example of Aspen, Colo., where a small arts festival that was started a number of years ago has expanded into a major world event that draws performers and audiences from all over the world.

"We have many of the same natural assets that Aspen does, and there is no reason to think that we can't so something similar here," he said.

Sprenger said that the economic benefits would include the county's ability to host a number of festivals, conferences, and performances by large groups, such as orchestras and dance companies. "We are doing a great job using the limited performance spaces we have, such as at GCC where the auditorium is really a lecture hall," Sprenger said. "But the limitations of the spaces make it impossible for some kinds of performances.

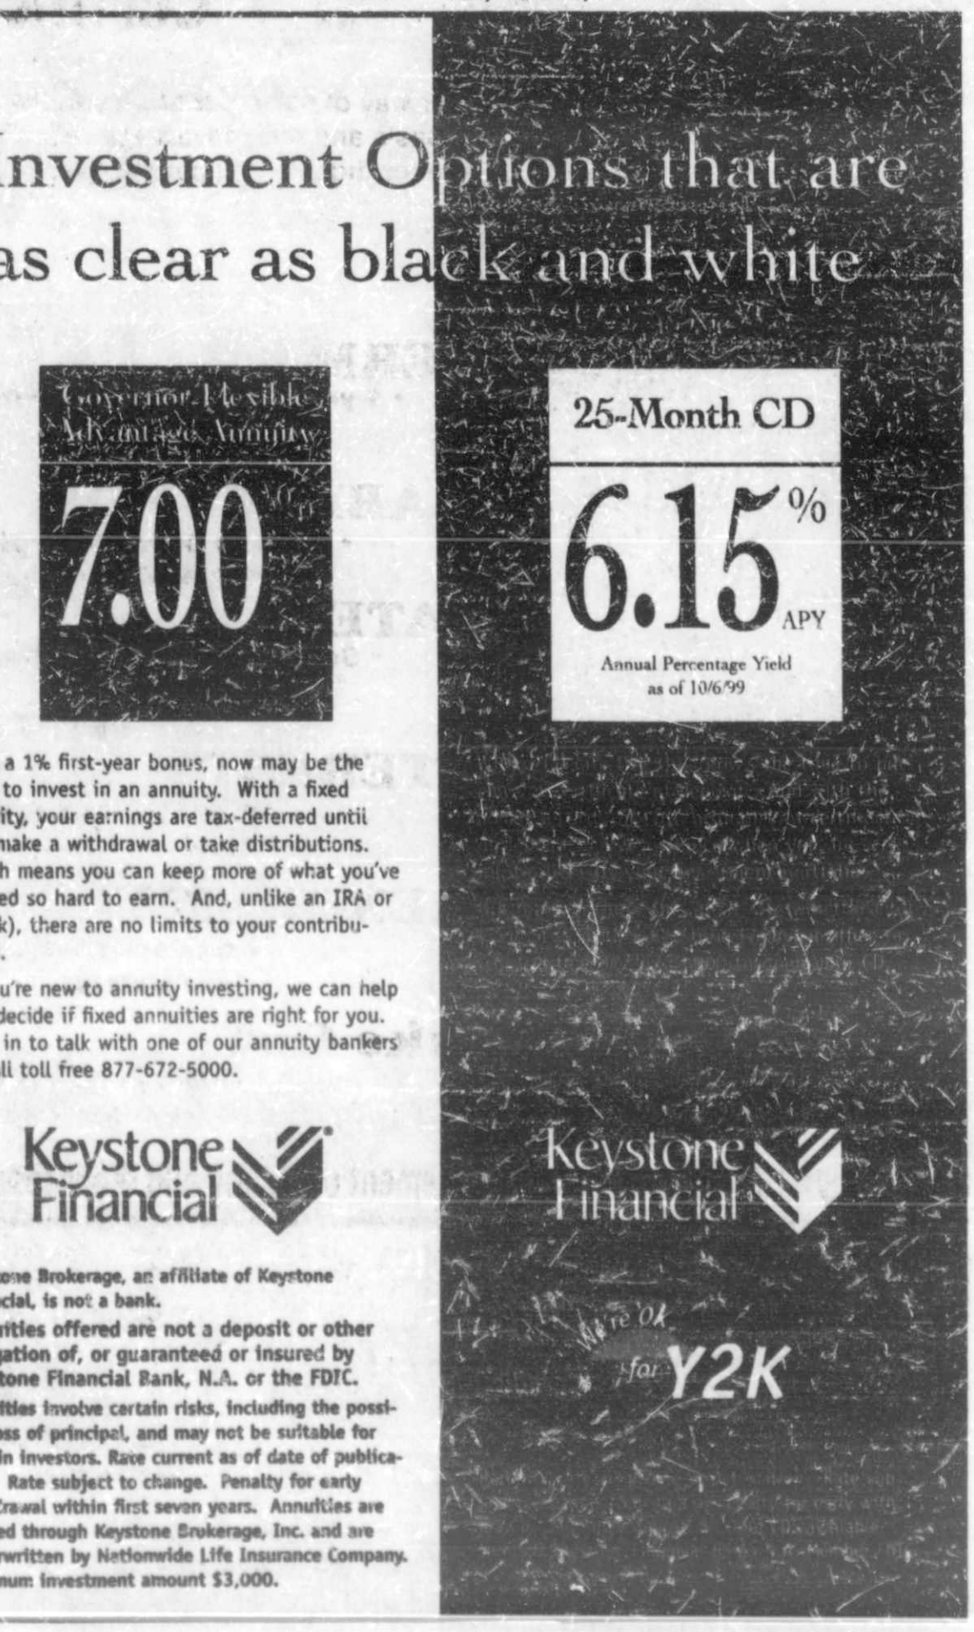
"A performing arts center would attract more visitors, more money, and ultimately more businesses into the county," he said, "which would expand the economic base. It would also provide numerous new educational opportunities for not only the college, but also our public school system."

Besides the $6 million needed for construction, Sprenger said that an estimated $75,000 would be needed annually to operate the facility. He said that approximately $4 million for construction would be secured by the college, which would actually own the building. The Sprenger-Lang Foundation will contribute $1 million, and the remainder will be raised via a capital campaign.

Sprenger added that it is hoped that a foundation or endowment fund could be established to cover most of the annual operation and maintenance costs.

The Garrett County Fair Board of Directors who were present at the meeting have agreed in principle to deed an acre of ground in the northwest corner of the fairgrounds for the building, and provide easements for an additional two acres for paved parking. In return, the college and center board of directors, when established, will guarantee use of the property by the fair board during fair week and possibly for additional joint efforts, such as festivals. The fair board directors said they would take the proposal to the next stockholders' meeting, which Sprenger plans to attend.

Sprenger said that the operation of the new center would involve the creation of a management board of directors that would be responsible for fiscal management, creation of a cultural advisory board that would help plan programming, and the hiring of a fulltime manager. The management and advisory boards would consist of representatives of numerous organizations and entities, such as GCC, GLAF, Our Town Theatre, the Sprenger-Lang Foundation, the fair board, the arts council, and others.



"We hope to finalize the agreement with the fair board within the next six months," Sprenger said. "In the meantime, GCC will be working on its budget request for its share of the project, which is due by February. Then we will start the capital campaign to secure the rest of the funding and, hopefully, break ground in May of 2001. The first performances would be in 2002."

John Hafer, and Speaker of the House Casper Taylor to inform them of the county's endeavor to obtain some of the state's cancer prevention funding.

"There's a lot of talk going on right now all over the state about how this money is going to be divided. We want to be ready when the decisions are made," Glotfelty said.

ELMO IN GROUCHLAND

Rated G - Running Time: 1:13 - Released 10/1/99

After the explosion of his "Tickle Me" toy a few Christmases ago, Elmo has become one of the most popular of Jim Henson's muppet characters on Sesame Street. With his high, whiny voice and his comparatively low level of comedic sophistication (compared, that is, to his Street cohorts), he is perhaps the character most difficult to stomach for us grownups. I suppose it was inevitable, though, that the little red furball would eventually get his own movie. Written by Mitchell Kriegman and directed by Gary Halvorson (both making their first jump from TV to the big screen), Elmo In Grouchland does not feature the muppets we are used to seeing in other Henson Productions. Instead of Kermit, Fozzie, Gonzo, and Miss Piggy, in this film we have the regulars from the Sesame Street cast: Elmo, Oscar, Big Bird, and even human characters like Maria and Gordon. The most memorable role, however, belongs to Mandy Patinkin (Chicago Hope). He plays the villain, and he milks it for all it's worth. Also difficult to stomach.

Elmo (voice of co-producer Kevin Clash) loses his beloved blanket during a tug-of-war with his best friend Zoe (Fran Brill). It accidentally goes into Oscar's trash can and Elmo goes after it. But when he lands in Grouchland, a stinky city populated by many of Oscar's kind, he is horrified to find the blanket has been stolen by the extra-nasty Huxley (Patinkin). Against impossible odds, and with a little help from his friends, Elmo goes on an adventure leading to Huxley's castle, where he must face the selfish man and teach him how to share. In the process, Elmo learns a few tough lessons himself.

Even if I were a big Elmo fan, it would be easy to see that this production is not up to the high standards of the Henson films we have seen through the years. Where Muppets In Space and its predecessors are filled with savvy humor intended for moms and dads, Elmo's story is aimed squarely at the pre-school set. The character is bereft of subtlety, the lessons are simple, loud, and clear, and there is a suprising dearth of comedy. As Huxley, Patinkin hams it up to the point of nausea, and Elmo's constant habit of referring to himself in the third person is maddening. Also on hand is Vanessa Williams, whose character as the Queen of Trash is included solely to pad the running time out to a respectable length for a feature release. You see, while she's on the screen, like everyone else, she has to belt out a few tunes.

Elmo is technically up to the standards of Sesame Street, and it is clearly an example of that type of "family entertainment." It does have a good line every now and then, and Patinkin and Williams show adequate energy. But this film would have been more appropriate as a direct-to-video release for the holiday season. Putting it in theaters first just seems like a quick dash for cash on the part of its producers, and underscores its inability to stand up to the otherwise proud Henson legacy. ★★★

THE HOUSE ON HAUNTED HILL

Rated R - Running Time: 1:55 - Released 10/29/99

The title of The House On Haunted Hill is not the only similarity it shares with July's The Haunting (the novel of which was titled The Haunting Of Hill House). Both are re-makes of earlier films, and I couldn't help noticing that the production values are similar, too. Both movies start out rather creepy, but ultimately fail to scare because of special-effects overkill. Horror director William Malone (TV's Perversions of Science), instead of asking his actors to show us how scary the "house" is, asks his digi-graphics crews to do so. The result is an excellent show of digi-graphics. But it is seldom scary.

Written by Dick Beebe (who also penned the screenplay for the 1958 version), the story focuses on a handful of people who are invited to take a challenge. If they can survive one night in a haunted house (actually, in this version it's a former insane asylum), they will each receive one million dollars. The host, who sends the invitations and offers the money, is amusement park tycoon Steven Price (Geoffrey Rush). His wife Evelyn (Famke Janssen) is celebrating her birthday, and this is his present to her. But the people who show up are not the ones invited by Steven and Evelyn. Former ball player Eddie (Taye Diggs), executive Sara (Ali Larter), TV game show producer Melissa (Bridgette Wilson), and physicien Dr. Blackburn (Peter Gallagher) were all invited by The House. It has a score to settle with them.

As we learn from Watson Pritchett (Chris Kattan), grandson of The House's architect, The House has a mind of its own. It is filled with the tortured souls of the criminally insane who used to occupy the place in the 1930s and also by the evil Doctor Vannacutt and his staff. The story goes that Vannacutt, pre-dating Dr. Mengele by 10 years, tortured the unfortunate inmates, subjecting them to crude, outdated procedures, experimenting on them with no anesthesia, etc. Eventually, the patients rose up and rioted, resulting in a fire that killed all. The House's spectral inhabitants remember this horrific history, and seek revenge on those poor suckers who are descended from Vannacutt's staff. At the beginning, the guests are all skeptical except Pritchett, who knows what The House is capable of. Before it's over, they are all believers (even if we are not).

There are two factors which save The House On Haunted Hill from being utterly mediocre: Rush and Kattan. Price and his Mrs. have a beautifully antagonistic relationship that reminds one of Peter O'Toole and Katherine Hepburn in The Lion In Winter. Price is sure his wife is plotting to kill him; she has the same suspicions about him. So, while maintaining the polite demeanor that results from good breeding, the Prices exchange barbs and dodge murder attempts. Meanwhile, Kattan is humorously pessimistic as Pritchett. "Don't you get it?" he keeps asking, with impatient resignation. "We're all going to die. It's The House."

The House, which is really not a house at all but a huge, Art Deco-style institution built on the side of a mountain, is adequately creepy, with dark basement passageways that our thrill-seekers revisit again and again. As usual in horror movies, there are many instances where people willfully walk alone into dark, dangerous places, lingering stupefied to watch as the menace approaches. But as we near the climax, like in The Haunting, the effects computers take over and ruin any chance at true horror. ★★★

ARC Tours To Include DiCarlo's "Tiffany Lady"

The Mountain Lake Park home of Louis DiCarlo, located at the corner of I Street and Rt. 135, will be among those featured in this year's Home for the Holidays house tours, sponsored by the local chapter of the American Red Cross. The event will take place the first weekend of December and will also include the homes of George and Dawn Scheffel, Norman and Janice Hanline, and Carl and Ann Rebele, as well as two businesses, Simon Pearce and the Deer Park Inn.

DiCarlo bought the 1885 house in 1990 and has since restored both the exterior and interior of the historic home. He has named it "Tiffany Lady" and has created 68 original stained glass windows and lamps, which are located throughout the house. At the entry, guests will see a stained glass door, side lights, and a large transom displaying the house number and red roses. A Victorian dress and hat from 1885 are on display nearby, as well as an Amish hat, a top hat, and a hand-carved walking cane.

DiCarlo's studio will be open during the tour, featuring a display of 1,000 stained glass items. The bathroom will also be a focal point of the visit, where guests will view a full-length stained glass door mirror and a window of birds and flowers, and a stained glass Victorian window, ceiling lamp, and other handmade stained glass creations.

In the summer months, over 10,000 flowers bloom on the grounds of Tiffany Lady. For Christmas, the home is adorned with over 12,000 lights, strung on the house and throughout the garden. DiCarlo said the house and lawn attracts garden club members from several states, and that the garden is a popular site for bridal portraits.

"TIFFANY LADY," HOME OF LOUIS DICARLO

This will be the eighth annual Home for the Holidays house tours event sponsored by the American Red Cross, and is one of the local chapter's largest fund-raisers. Tickets for the tours, which are $5 in advance or $7 at the door, are available at Englander's, Gregg's, and Proudfoot's pharmacies, Flowers by Webers along Weber Road, Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry, and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

Raffles will be held at each tour stop. Guests will be asked to refrain from photographing the sites.

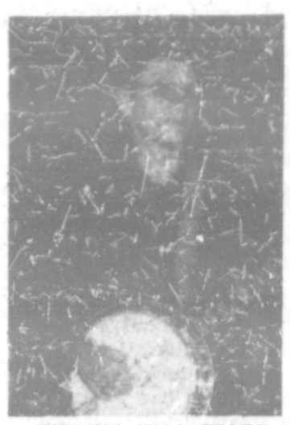
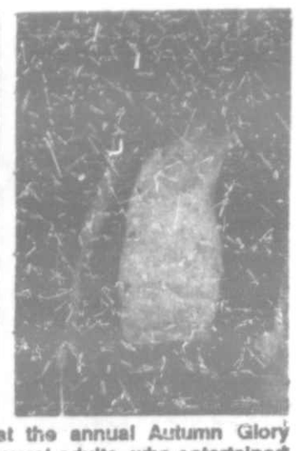
OF NOTE

•The Garrett County Arts Council, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, and Garrett Community College are collaborating to expand the annual Chautauqua presented by the Maryland Humanities Council each July into a free nine-day festival of folk music, storytelling, drama, and fine art under the "Big Tent" at McHenry. The Humanities Council presentation in 2000 will feature the Civil War in Maryland with appearances by Clara Barton, Harriet Tubman, William Lloyd Garrison, and Abraham Lincoln.



•The Sprenger-Lang Foundation and Garrett Community College are discussing site possibilities with the Garrett County Fair Board for possible establishment of a performing arts and community education center in McHenry. Negotiations follow favorable conclusions of a feasibility study commissioned by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.



•The Garrett County Literacy Council is promoting family reading with a new poster created and donated by Oakland artist Charles P. Evans.

•Maryland Citizens for the Arts is inviting nominations for the biennial Governor's Arts Awards to be held next June in Baltimore. The awards recognize extraordinary achievement of artists, educators, individuals, businesses, and patrons active in Maryland arts. (The Sincell Publishing Company won the Governor's Small Business Award in 1998.) The nomination deadline is December 31; information is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-387-3121.

GLAF ELECTS NEW BOARD MEMBERS - The annual meeting of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival took place in the Bausch and Lomb Gallery of Garrett Community College recently. After those in attendance were welcomed by Marcene Huebner, chair of the GLAF board of directors, Paul Sprenger of the board of directors presented two reports, one on the proposed outdoor amphitheater at Deep Creek Lake State Park and a second on a proposal for a new indoor performing arts center at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. Beth Johnson, the organization's executive director, presented a review of the past, and a preview of the coming, performing arts seasons, and Charity Janssen, nominating committee chair, presided over the election of new board members. Three of the four new board members are shown above. From the left are Carolyn Deverse, a retired Anne Arundel County choral music and math teacher; Tom Myers, vice president of operations for Mountaineer Log and Siding Company; and Arlene Murray of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. Garrett County Chamber of Commerce executive director Ken Wishnick, the fourth newly elected board member, was not available for the photo.

Productions At WVU Featuring Local Students

Two Garrett County students, both 1997 graduates of Southern High School, will be performing major roles in productions at West Virginia University over the next two weeks.

David Peterson, a junior vocal performance major, will perform several roles in Leonard Bernstein's opera Candide, to be presented this Friday and Saturday in the concert theatre of the WVU Creative Arts Center. His roles will include the Bear Keeper, Grand Inquisitor, a judge, and Tsar Ivan. Performances both evenings will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Peterson, a dean's list/scholarship student at WVU and a son of Tom and Susan Peterson, Oakland, will also perform the lead role of Count Almavira in WVU's production of The Marriage of Figaro, to be presented early next year.

Matthew Sincell, a junior theatre major, will play the lead role of Lord Goring in Oscar Wilde's An Ideal Husband, which will open next Thursday and be presented 10 times in the studio theatre of the CAC. Sincell's character is the oldest friend of Sir Robert Chiltern, "a brilliant politician, perfect gentleman, and ideal husband." The scheming and seductive Mrs. Cheveley threatens to reveal a dark secret from his past, and the foundations of his prized career and marriage look set to crumble.

The story, which was produced into a successful movie earlier this year, "explores human frailty and social hypocrisy," according to one critic.

The performances will be held Thursday through Sunday, Nov. 11-14, at 8 p.m. each evening, plus at 2 p.m. (matinees) on Saturday and Sunday, and four more times Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 18-20. Tickets may be purchased by telephoning the CAC box office at 1-304-293-3020.

Sincell is also a dean's list/scholarship student at WVU who has had previous roles in a number of plays, including Arcadia and The Snow Orchid. He is the son of Don and Suzie Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park.

While in high school, Peterson and Sincell performed together on several occasions in school productions and in musicals presented by the Ecumenical Youth Ministry and the Garrett Choral Society.

Café Frostburg To Host Skyland

Frostburg State University's Café Frostburg will host Paul Skyland on Friday, Nov. 19, at 8 p.m. in the Lane Center Greenhouse.

Skyland delivers his songs through the medium of his hand-crafted acoustic guitar. "His fresh approach and intimate rapport with his audiences have established him as a premier artist in the music industry," stated one critic. "People aren't just entertained at Skyland's performances, they become caught up in his music, often discovering a part of themselves in his songs."

This event is free and open to the public. For information, persons may contact the Lane Center Information Desk, Mondays through Fridays, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., 301-687-4411.

FSU To Present Glass Menagerie

Frostburg State's University Theatre will present Tennessee Williams' The Glass Menagerie on Nov. 19 and 20 and Dec. 2, 3, and 4 at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Studio Theatre. A Sunday matinee is slated for Nov. 21 at 2 p.m.

Williams' work, often described as being "translucently autobiographical," tells the story of the Wingfield family through the "memory" of son and narrator, Tom. Amanda, the mother, a daughter of the Old South, is out of step and out of time in the tumultuous world of the 1930s, along with her daughter, Laura, a frail misfit whose fragile existence is defined by her cherished collection of delicate glass animals.

Originally produced in 1944, this play continues to be one of the most frequently produced plays at all levels of the theatre.

For information and ticket reservations, persons may contact 301-687-4145.

Deadline Nearing For Operation Christmas Child

The Operation Christmas Child Project is proceeding as scheduled, according to Doug Stephens, the Garrett County Relay Coordinator for the project. The local deadline for collecting gift-filled shoe boxes is Friday, Nov. 19; however, many churches will be collecting the boxes on Sunday, Nov. 14, so they can be taken to the central Garrett County location for transport to the project's headquarters in North Carolina. A goal of collecting 800 boxes from the community was set early last month.

"So far we have collected over 200 boxes, but I think a lot more will be coming as the deadline nears," said Stephens, a member of Boy Scout Troop 22, sponsored by the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, who is coordinating the project as he works toward earning the rank of Eagle Scout.

Fourteen churches have agreed to help out with the cause, according to Stephens. "Most of the churches are located in the Oakland area, but I have had calls from churches as far away as Ridgeley, West Virginia, that have heard my announcement on the radio and have decided to participate. Two area schools have undertaken Operation Christmas Child as a school-wide project, he added, along with several classrooms in other schools. Area Scout units are assisting by collecting boxes.

Each year through the Operation Christmas Child project, Samaritan's Purse unites thousands of individuals, families, churches, and groups in sending gift-filled shoe boxes to hurting children in troubled parts of the world. Stephens set the goal of collecting 800 shoe boxes filled with hygiene items, toys, and school supplies to children in such places as Bosnia, Nicaragua, Kosovo, Kenya, and Mexico after his church got involved in the project last year.

To reach the goal, Stephens is asking churches, youth groups, and "anyone who wants to experience the joy of giving" to join in the project by contacting him to receive full instructions and an orientation packet. The shoe boxes will be transported around the world by Russian airplanes that were originally designed to carry and drop bombs.

Shoe boxes may be filled with small gifts, toiletries, and other personal items. The shipping and handling cost is $5, which includes the enclosure of literature in the shoe box. Those persons who wish to participate are asked to choose the age and sex of the recipient, buy the gifts, wrap the package, and include a tax-deductible check for $5 made out to Samaritan's Purse.

Persons who would like to be actively involved in the project may contact Stephens at 301-334-8647 or via E-mail at oz_66@hotmail.com. Literature about Operation Christmas Child is available at the J.C. Penney catalog store in Oakland, which will also serve as a drop-off location.

IN THE SPIRIT OF GIVING - Crellin Elementary School students demonstrated their glowing Christmas spirit of caring and giving by taking on the Operation Christmas Child project, and filling boxes and boxes with special gifts for children in distant lands. Eagle Scout Doug Stephens asked the students for some help in rounding up items for needy children around the world. As part of the Crellin school character building program, the students brought in shoe boxes, and went shopping for personal items, toys, and other gifts to stuff into the surprise packages. Once filled, the boxes were wrapped and brought to a pep assembly on Tuesday, where the students celebrated their good feelings about sharing and caring. Other classroom lessons were tied into the project. Children wrote descriptions of what they were doing, studied about the countries where the boxes were going, researched on the Internet about life in those countries, and wrote friendly letters to go with the gifts. The boxes will be shipped to children in Turkey, Nicaragua, Sudan, Greece, and Kosovo.

Sites Awarded CPA Credential

Mtn. Lake Park resident Joan Sites earned her CPA designation recently when she was one of six candidates that passed all four parts of the West Virginia CPA exam at the first seating. Sites was among 375 candidates who sat for the exam at the Charleston (W.Va.) Civic Center in May.

Sites has been granted a license to practice public accounting in the state of West Virginia. She is the wife of Donald Welch.

Bolden Named To Staff Of Wildlife Refuge

Jeffries Dawson Bolden, son of Nancy Dawson Bolden of Chevy Chase and DeCorsey Bolden of Oakland, has been named the new volunteer coordinator at the J.N. "Ding" Darling Wildlife Refuge of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, located on Florida's Sanibel Island. The refuge is named for the first administrator of the Biological and Wildlife Administration (the predecessor of today's USFS), who was appointed to his post by President Franklin Roosevelt.

In his new position Bolden will be responsible for recruiting, training, and scheduling volunteers; providing equipment and supplies for volunteers; preparing a budget for presentation to the "Ding" Darling Wildlife Society; and maintaining the visitor center. He will also be in charge of the refuge's Center for Education, which, according to the summer newsletter of the "Ding" Darling Wildlife Society, was to open before the end of the year with a bookstore and other facilities.

Bolden, who earned a bachelor of science degree in zoology from the University of Maryland, has past experience as a coordinator of distance learning for the Social Security Administration and as a wildlife inspector at the Customs Clearing Center at the Port of Miami, where he dealt with wildlife imports and exports.

"Most were for the pet trade," he recalled of the animals he inspected at the port. "Fifty percent of it was fish, from guppies to sharks. We had chimps, a hyena running around the office, tree sloths, porcupines, tigers, and every reptile you can imagine. Someone even tried to smuggle in baby cougars. We had to hand feed them with bottles," he said, noting that his new duty post is home to animals such as river otters, bobcats, and raccoons.

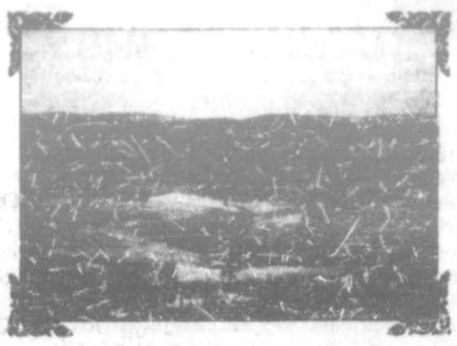
"Wildlife refuges are like nations unto themselves," according to Bolden. "We will be judged in part on how we took care of our planet and our fellow wildlife. Without these places of protection our gifts will not survive. People know this, so there will always be homes like 'Ding' Darling."

GCC Schedules Short Computer Class Sessions

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College will be offering three computer classes at the McHenry campus in coming weeks.

Introduction to Quicken is set for Wednesday, Nov. 10, and Friday, Nov. 12, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. This program will show participants how to automate their checkbook, bill payments, bank transactions, budget, and savings plans. Additional applications will be discussed. The tuition is $5, plus $21 for fees.

Introduction to Accessing the Internet will meet on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, Nov. 15, 17, and 19. The first and second session will meet from 5 to 6:30 p.m., and the third session from 5 to 7 p.m. Participants will be introduced to the "information superhighway," file transfer, E-mail, and World Wide Web. The tuition is $5, plus $26 for fees.



Introduction to Powerpoint will be offered on Monday, Nov. 29, and Wednesday, Dec. 1, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Participants will learn how to use this program as a quick and innovative tool for speakers' notes, handouts, slides, and other presentations. Tuition is $5, plus $21 for fees.

A basic understanding of computer skills is assumed for each of these courses.

Town Hall

ACCIDENT

The town meeting was held Monday, Nov. 1.

•Deputy Zimmerman of the GCSO was present. He talked with the council about the enforcement of the newly posted No Parking signs along Main Street at Accident-Friendsville Road.

•Jim Murray of Rodeheaver and Associates reviewed the financial reports of FY '98-99. He said the town is in sound financial shape and has taken all appropriate steps to be Y2K compliant. He also informed the council of changes in government accounting standards that will occur over the next five years.

•Town residents are to be reminded to continue to use water conservatively and to avoid raking leaves into the culverts along the roads.

•Town will collect leaves that are properly bagged and placed along the road. Residents must call town hall to arrange the pick-up. The office number is 301-746-6346 or 301-746-8144.

•The was discussion of the county tax differential.

•The candidates for volunteer of the year were reviewed. The winner will be announced in the near future.

•There will be a town zoning meeting On Nov. 10 at 7 p.m. for a child care center along Accident-Friendsville Road.

•Betty Welborne was accepted as a member of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society.

•Planning meetings are under way for Christmas in Flowery Vale. Anyone interested in helping may call town hall.

The next meeting will be Monday, Dec. 6.

FRIENDSVILLE

The town meeting was held Monday, Nov. 1.

•Adina Brode and Ronnie Padmos of the Area Agency on Aging met with the mayor and town council to discuss usage fees and rentals of the Friendsville Senior Community Center for special functions.

•The spotlights for the flags at the park have been repaired.

•Additional paving will be done at the Senior Community Center in the spring.

•The second annual Fall Clean Up Week was deemed a great success by the mayor and council. A majority of residents participated.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov. 16.

LOCH LYNN

The town meeting was held Tuesday, Nov. 2.

•Town elections were held Monday. Sheila O'Neil and Roger Shaffer were both re-elected to served another term, which begins in January.

•The town trash removal fee was raised to $12 per quarter. Residents who were present for the meeting questioned the need for the increase. The council explained that the town tax rate remains one of the lowest in the state at $.48 per $100, so an increase in trash fees will permit the council bring in some needed income.

•Renovations of the old school building were discussed. A handicapped-accessible bathroom has been installed. Ramps will be built in the future and a new furnace installed. Once these improvements are made, the town will be able to earn more rental income from the building. Grants will be sought in the spring.

•The county has paved Argyle Street.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Dec. 6.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Tuesday, Nov. 2.

•There was an initial reading of the town's Dangerous Building Ordinance. It will be advertised in the newspaper for two weeks and a hearing will be held on Dec. 7.

•The mayor spoke with residents who were present about the town's scheduling of trick-or-treating. He appointed Mr. and Mrs. Paul Deal to chair a citizens review committee to coordinate this event for next year.

•In response to information from the office of taxation and assessment, the town has decided to combine municipal taxing with the county's tax billing program beginning in 2001. The county treasurer will be contacted about this.

•The town's building permit application will be reviewed for possible changes.

•Discussion continued on the right-of-way issues involved with the Southern Rescue Squad project on the donated Browning property.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Dec. 7.

GETTING IN THE SPIRIT OF HALLOWEEN - Taking advantage of the opportunity for some fun, residents and staff of Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home donned costumes for a Halloween celebration last week. A group of pirates, circus clowns, gypsies, and witches filled the Dennett Road Manor activity room for a party complete with games and refreshments.

OAKLAND

The town meeting was held Monday, Nov. 1.

•Town Ordinance 99-16 to annex land along High Street was introduced. A public hearing will be scheduled for December 13.

•The council tentatively approved the draft of a new town charter. Public hearings will be scheduled following formal introduction and approval of the completed document.

•The council voted to support the choice of the low bid for general contracting on the train station renovations pending review by the state and the architect. The bid was within the amount estimated by the architect. It was one of three bids submitted.

•Two of the town's dump trucks will be advertised for bid.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, Dec. 6.

ed more than $4.5 million in technology aid to schools. "The future of our country depends on giving our children the skills they need to succeed in the knowledge-based economy of the 21st century," said Gov. Glendening.

"Our Net Weekends are keeping Maryland schools in the information superhighway fast lane, and are providing our teachers and children with the resources they need to stay informed, learn new skills, and have access to the limitless educational and cultural resources of the Internet," he said.

The Net Weekend initiative is financed by the State Information Technology Fund, which was created by the governor and the General Assembly. The governor noted the Net Weekends over the past few years had been successful largely because of the significant contributions of volunteers, and he urged parents and other members of the community to participate and help schools with their wiring, training exercises, and other activities during this year's event.

Recently, the governor proposed expansion of the "Technology in Maryland Schools Program." He announced that the state would invest in additional telephone lines and high-speed Internet access for classrooms, and would make technology training available to an additional 600 teachers annually at the Maryland Technology Academy. Speaking to the annual conference of the Maryland State Teachers Association, the governor also announced that he was investing $8 million in state funds to install telephones in every Maryland classroom over the next two years.

For additional information about Net Weekend '99, citizens may log on to the official web site at www.mec.state.md.us/mdconnect/1999, or call toll-free 1-888-828-0048, or call the Garrett County Board of Education at 301-334-8900.

"DADDY"

Today is your birthday, Daddy, you would have been 29. You were the best in the world, and I'm so glad you were mine. Everybody misses you, Daddy, without you things aren't the same. The days are so lonely. Daddy, but to no one do we place blame. We hear songs on the radio, and it makes us think of you. Why did you turn around that day, Daddy, the reason for this we have no clue. They say you didn't suffer, Daddy, we hope you felt no pain. Our loss of you, Daddy, is surely Heaven's gain.

We love and miss you, Daddy.

Annual Shooting Match Planned

The Farmer's Wildlife Club is again sponsoring its annual shooting match on Saturday, Nov. 20, at 12:30 p.m., at the club's building at Horse Shoe Run.

The match will be for 12, 16, and 20-gauge shotguns only. Refreshments will be available, and the public is welcome.

Woodland Owners Are Invited To Nov. 9 Workshop

Money CAN Grow on Trees is the name of an upcoming workshop designed specifically for West Virginia woodland owners. Through the West Virginia Forestry Association, a committee has been formed that joins the forces of several landowner-oriented groups and agencies, including the West Virginia Division of Forestry, West Virginia Farm Bureau, West Virginia Tree Farm Committee, the Natural Resources Conservation Service, the WVU Extension Service, and several others.

Dick Waybright, executive director of the Forestry Association, stated, "Since 83% of West Virginia's woodlands are owned by farmers and other non-industrial landowners, it is vital that they understand the important role they play in the continued growth and productivity of our state's woodlands."

The Forestry Association's committee has put together a program that will provide landowners with information about the following topics: management techniques that can increase the value and productivity of woodlands; how to conduct a successful timber sale; and why it is important to keep accurate woodland records.

Cinda Francis, who is heading up the Forestry Association's committee, said, "The response to the workshops has been wonderful. Through this cooperative effort many woodland owners have been exposed to the many benefits of using sound forest management practices. They are beginning to see the real values of their woodlands — both for recreation and additional income."

The Forestry Association's committee has also developed an information packet that complements the presentation. Copies of the packet will be distributed at the workshop. The next workshop will be held November 9 at 7 p.m. at Preston County High School, Vocational Center, Kingwood. "All owners of woodland acreage and those interested in selling timber in the future should find the workshop extremely informative," stated Francis. This workshop does not qualify for logger recertification credits. Persons may contact Bill Shockey, Preston County Extension agent, at 304-329-1391 for more information.

Alzheimer's Month Observance Set At Heartland Of Preston

Heartland of Preston County, Kingwood, a facility that provides health care to those who need long term care, as well as assisted living, specialty, Alzheimer's, subacute, and home health services, is recognizing National Alzheimer's Disease Month in November by raising awareness and educating the public about the facts and myths of Alzheimer's Disease.

According to Catherine Chiovaro, administrator at Heartland, information received from the Mayo Clinic indicates that more than four million Americans have been diagnosed with the disease, and the expectation is that the number will triple in the next 30 years as more and more people are living past the age of 80.

"Our staff hopes to utilize the month of November to further educate the community about the symptoms and treatments for Alzheimer's Disease," Chiovaro said. "While a cure for the disease does not yet exist, many options are available to help people with the disease enjoy a quality life."

Heartland, a member of the Preston County Community Council for Alzheimer's Caregiver Support, meets the third Monday of every month at 7 p.m. at its facility at 300 Miller Road in Kingwood.

TERRA ALTA

LIBRARY NEWS

The Terra Alta Public Library recently received several memorial books, including: Mammals by M. Barbara Brownell, presented in memory of Lynette Quick by Lydia DeLauder; and The Veterinarian's Guide To Your Cat's Symptoms by Michael S. Garvey, DVM, and Persian Cats by Ulrike Muller, both given in memory of Paul R. Nine by Kate Fickey.

The library has discontinued its story hour during the winter months, and plans to resume that activity in April.

Patrons recently donating magazines to the library include Dottie Cramer, Becky Harriman, Helen Reid, Jim McConnell, Lori Helmick, Jim Price, and Scott Ward.

Soldier To Be Honored At Church Dinner

Melvin R. Frantz, son of Don and Neva Frantz, Eglon, was promoted recently to the rank of Airman 1st Class in the U.S. Air Force. Frantz and his wife Melissa will be honored at a covered dish dinner set for this Sunday, Nov. 7, at 2 p.m. at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, located near Eglon. All friends and family are invited to attend.

The couple, who have been stationed at Langley Air Force Base in Virginia, are currently visiting family members in Eglon and Gorman prior to their Wednesday, Nov. 17, departure for new tour of duty assignment at the Osan Air Force Base in South Korea.

Wesleyan Church To Hold Revival

The Terra Alta Wesleyan Church will be holding a Vision 2000/Fall Revival Nov. 11-14 at the church, located along Rt. 7 west of Terra Alta, across from J&J Ford Sales. Rev. Daniel Finch, W.Va. district superintendent, will be the guest speaker.

MOUNTAINEERS MEET

The Eglon Mountaineers 4-H Club met Oct. 11 at the Eglon Memorial Building for a costume party and program.

Opening devotions were led by Craig Rembold, Lindsey Teets, and Josh Mullenax. Chris Mullenax led in the 4-H and American pledges. Animal exhibitors at the Buckwheat Festival reported on their projects. Melinda Teets presided at the meeting and also gave a report on plans made at the executive committee session.

Meat tickets have been sold. An officers' training and achievement event will be Nov. 14 at 2 p.m., with members asked to meet at the Memorial Building at 1 p.m.

The club's achievement event is planned for November 10 at the Maple Spring Church.

The program began with pumpkin carols: "Great Pumpkin Coming to Town," "Pumpkin Bells," and "Pumpkin Wonderland." From those coming in costume, Bridgette Strawser was judged most original; Craig Rembold, the most unusual; and Dana Feather, best representative of the season. Sara Lewis and Leslie Strawser read audience participatory ghost stories, and Craig Rembold provided a game of apple bobbing. The meeting concluded with refreshments.

DILLSWORTH BIRTH

Shawn and Michelle Dillsworth of Amboy announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, who was born in Preston Memorial Hospital on October 24. She has been named Emily Grace.

Bruce and Barb Glotfelty of Corinth are the maternal grandparents. Wilda and Ervin Heniine of St. George and Harold Dillsworth are the paternal grandparents. Great-grandmothers are Betty Keaton of Corinth, Alice Baker of Oakland, and Elmer Dillsworth, Terra Alta.

SCHOOL ART SHOW

An art show is planned at the Aurora School from 5 to 8 p.m. on Nov. 10, students' work will be displayed, and at 6:30 p.m. there will be a brief presentation by the New Tricks Barbershop Quartet. Exhibits iclude curriculum-related projects as in government building façades, sculpture, prints, paints, crafts, and all kinds of expression in visible form. The school's art teacher is Valerie Carlson.

LIONS OBSERVE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

The Mountain Lions Club celebrated its 50th anniversary on Oct. 23. The lions were chartered Nov. 23, 1949, and held their organizational meeting in the Aurora Community Building.

Thirty-nine Lion members, their spouses, and guests from various district clubs met for dinner at the Union Ambulance squad hall, with dinner served by that organization.

Floyd Newberry Jr., past International Director of Sardinia, Ohio, was the keynote speaker. Wilmer Harsh and Melvin Stemple were awarded plaques noting their status as the only two charter members remaining active providing 50 years of continuous service.

HALLOWEEN WINNERS

Winners in the costume parade at last Friday evening's Fall Fun Festival were divided into the following age groups: under 5, pre-K and K, grades 1 and 2, 3 and 4, 5 and 6, 7 through adult. Categories included "scariest," with winners in order of above: Zachary Donnelly, Brandon Myers, Dylan Radford and Michale Perrine, Julia Lewis, Jacob Pike, and Richard Norwish; "prettiest," Emily Snyder, Haley Rocha, Wickey Myers, Bethany Tasker, Amanda McMullen, and Ellen Baker; and most original: Danielle Blamble, Ryan Myers, Kayla Myers, Stephanie Bittinger, Heather Streets, and Tammy Moats.

PERSONAL MENTION

Effie Wolfe of Pine View Apartments, Thomas, offered thanks to all who sent cards for her recent 90th birthday celebration. A birthday dinner was also served at her home church, Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, Eglon, and attended by numerous relatives and friends.

Janet Judy of Horse Shoe Run was a recent patient overnight in a Morgantown hospital.

Don and Elaine Roth recently vacationed in Ireland, along with other bank-sponsored personnel, attending some business sessions and doing a lot of sight seeing there. They have since returned to their Horse Shoe Run home.

Audrey Cathell will begin treatments this week in Cumberland and may be staying with her son, Terry Cathell, for a few days. Cards may be addressed to her there at P.O. Box 548B, Cresaptown, MD 21502.

Beulah Hardesty of Aurora was admitted Sunday evening to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Alan and Mary Teets of Springfield, Va., were weekend guests in Aurora with her parents, Homer and Marguerite Myers, Mrs. Myers underwent gall bladder surgery last Monday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Paul Stemple and Wilda Stemple of Aurora were Thursday visitors in Clarksburg with Paul's sister, Cathryn Harvey.

Mildred Kovalck of Aurora was admitted Friday evening to Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Wilda Stemple of Aurora visited Saturday in Philippi with her foster-sister and husband, Lillian and Tom Mick.

Mrs. Anna Gregory of Silver Lake is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital as a result of a heart attack.

Bruce and Mary Rembold spent Sunday in Pittsburgh with his mother, Eileen Rembold, accompanied there by their sons, Shawn and Craig of Eglon.

Wade and Mary Harsh of Eglon were visitors with their son, Tim Harsh, who is attending Bryant College in Smithfield, R.I.

Tom and Carolyn Wotring of Aurora attended funeral services Sunday in Winchester, Va., for his aunt, Irene Wotring.

Youngest of the Jack and Barbara Snyder clan, Anthony, has been hospitalized at Ruby Memorial Hospital as a result of seizure activity.

Word was received of the Nov. 1 death of Virginia Lois Life of Harrisonburg, Va. Polly, as she was known, was the daughter of the late Ezra and Virgie Fike, who lived at Eglon, and is survived by her husband, Lawrence Life, two daughters, and a son.

Recent visitors with Maxine Hauser have been her daughters, Mary Kelly of Columbia, S.C., and her daughter, Kim Kelly of England; Doris Denison of Miami, Fla.; and Bonnie and Charlie Douglas, and Charles Lee Douglas and Ryan, all of Ashland, Ky.

Larry and Kathy Atha of Bridgeport were Sunday evening visitors with her aunt and uncle, Marie and Ellis Teets, at Silver Lake.

Claude and Jean Winters of Eglon were Sunday afternoon visitors in Clarkesburg with their sister-in-law, JoAnn Winters, and her mother, Goldie Summerville.

Thank You

We would like to take this opportunity to say "Thank You" to all the people of Oakland and Garrett County for their expressions of sympathy over the death of our brother Allen Murray. We were deeply touched by the overwhelming outpouring of kindness by so many people.

We would especially like to thank Rev. Father Martin Field, Rev. David Moon, the Oakland Vol. Fire Department, and the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad. We want everyone to know that we are very grateful for their thoughtfulness and prayers. It made an enormous difference in helping our families cope with this loss.

Allen Murray touched so many lives, and in turn those he touched helped support his family in their time of need. Again, we would like to say "Thank You."

Sincerely,
The Brothers and Sisters of Allen Murray

Healthy-O-Living in Garrett County

Garrett County Health Department HOME HEALTH AGENCY

By Peggy Santamaria

As the 20th century draws to a close one can look back in awe at the advances made in medicine through research and technological development. The ability to diagnose and treat disease is beyond what could have been imagined at the close of the 19th century. By all accounts, there have been incredible changes.

Some of the changes, however, may give us all pause for thought.

Mastectomies are now performed on a same-day surgery basis. Once the operation is complete, the wound resulting from the removal of the breast is bandaged and the patient goes home.

Open-heart surgery patients earn a four-day stay in a hospital bed, while new mothers take infants homes 24 hours after delivery. In many cases, the hospital stays have been shortened because of the development of minimally invasive procedures. But, often the shorter stay results from changes in insurance coverage that have occurred in recent years.

A patient may now leave the hospital with a surgical wound that has not yet healed or with a catheter, gastronomy tubing, or intravenous feeding tubes. The patient may be returning home alone or to a family. In either case, there will be an ongoing need for skilled post-surgical care. That expert care has been available to Garrett County residents since the early 1970s when the Garrett County Health Department became a state home health agency, as did other county health departments in Maryland.

Today only Garrett and Washington counties still offer this state in-home medical support program. Funding of homecare services diminished as a result of the Bbalanced Budget Act passed by Congress in 1997. "There was so much fraud and abuse in the Medicare and Medical Assistance programs at the time that something needed to be done to stop it," explained Linda Moe, director of Garrett County's home health program.

The remedy selected by legislators was cutting back on reimbursement to service providers. While this solution may have slowed the drain from the coffers caused by fraudulent claims, it also reduced the payments to the legitimate providers whose needed services were delivered as billed. County programs began closing and private home care businesses, which sprung up, did not fare much better. "Many of them have now also closed," Moe said.

The need for skilled nursing service in the home has increased, it seems, in proportion to the decrease in availability. "Congress is trying now to come up with a bill that will address this problem," Moe noted.

Among legislators working to rectify the situation is Maryland's Sen. Barbara A. Mikulski, who sits on the Senate Finance Committee. That group has developed the Balanced Budget Adjustment Act of 1999. "The Balanced Budget Act of 1997 imposed deep cuts in the Medicare Program and our seniors are now feeling the effects of these cuts," she stated in a press release last week.

As of last month, 15 bills had been introduced so far this year to the 106th Congress, according to a report from the Maryland National Capital Homecare Association.

The future availability of home health care is an issue that is of critical importance to the elderly. But the need for this service is not limited to any age group, Moe pointed out. "Any one of us, at any time, could need home health care."

Hopefully, the service will be there when we need it.

Tips On Farm Safety, Health On Fair Agenda

Lead poisoning and farm injuries will be among the many topics examined during an evening devoted to the particular safety and health issues facing people in rural and farming areas.

Ways to prevent injuries and steps that can be taken to reduce the risks of disease and illness in both children and adults will be presented at the Rural Health and Safety Fair, to be held at the Pleasant Valley Community Building on Friday, Nov. 12, 7:30-10 p.m. The event will be sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department.

Rural farming families are encouraged to attend, along with other community members, for entertaining and educational activities for people of all ages. Topics included are: farm and fire safety, bike and child safety, and environmental and family/child health.

There will be free refreshments, games, and door prizes. For more information persons may call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8111.

Help Offered For Diabetic Vision Loss

Loss of eyesight in people with diabetes is a national health problem, and two local agencies, the Garrett County Health Dept. Outreach Division and Community Action Area Agency on Aging, are doing something about it.

"We are urging all people with diabetes to get a dilated eye exam at least once a year," said June Heselbach, R.N.B.S., P.A. of the Area Agency on Aging. "The facts are these: Diabetic eye disease can cause as many as 25,000 new cases of blindness every year. People with diabetes are 25 times more likely to become blind than those without diabetes. Yet the only way to diagnose early signs of diabetic eye disease is through a yearly dilated eye exam."

November is National Diabetes Month and the Garrett County Health Department and the Area Agency on Aging, along with the National Eye Institute (NEI) and 39 other organizations, are emphasizing the importance of maintaining healthy vision.

"One of the most frightening things about diabetic eye disease is that there are no early warning signs and no symptoms," said Dr. Carl Kupfer, director of the National Eye Institute, one of the federal government's National Institutes of Health. "People with diabetic eye disease do not realize that their eyesight is slowly deteriorating. And because there are no symptoms and vision seems to be normal, people with diabetes might not make it a health priority to visit an eye care professional."

Heselbach said postponing annual dilated eye exams could lead to trouble later on, when diabetes begins to affect a person's eyesight.

"Eyesight lost from diabetes cannot be restored," said Heselbach. "Yet in about 90 percent of those who would otherwise become blind, the early detection of diabetic eye disease through annual dilated eye exams, as well as laser surgery when needed, has helped preserve vision."

A Health Department spokesperson said nearly half of the nation's estimated 16 million people with diabetes will develop some degree of diabetic retinopathy, the most common form of diabetic eye disease. Diabetic retinopathy damage the tiny blood vessels in the retina, the light-sensitive tissue that lines the back of the eye. Other eye problems that can develop in people with diabetes include cataract and glaucoma.

Dr. Kupfer said that "the longer a person has diabetes, the more likely it is that person will develop diabetic retinopathy. However, studies have shown that people with diabetes who keep their blood sugar levels as normal as possible slow the onset and progression of diabetic retinopathy and lessen the need for laser surgery. This may also help reduce other complications from the disease, such as kidney disease, stroke, and nerve damage."

To learn more about diabetic eye disease and to receive a free brochure, "Don't Lose Sight of Diabetic Eye Disease," interested persons may stop by the Mary Browning Senior Center, 104 E. Center St., Oakland, on Monday, Nov. 15, and the Grantsville Senior Center, 125 Durst Ct., Thursday, Nov. 18, anytime between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Amy Richie, R.D., a registered dietitian, will also be there to answer questions about diet.

CIVIC CLUB DONATES TO CAMO - Local orthopedic surgeon Dr. Dona Alvarez is in Honduras this week volunteering her time with Central America Medical Outreach (CAMO) in a region that suffered major damage from Hurricane Mitch in October of last year. Before leaving the states, Alvarez was the guest speaker at the MFWC Western District board meeting at the Cumberland Country Club recently, where she presented a slide show that revealed the need for medical assistance for the Honduran people. Several clubs of the Western District, including the Civic Club of Oakland, responded to Alvarez's presentation with donations plus the proceeds of their silent auction. Pictured above at the left is Sully Marks, MFWC district president, listening as Alvarez speaks. An article about the devastation that Hurricane Mitch brought to Central America appears in the current issue of National Geographic. Dramatic photographs and emotional stories show how much the help from other countries is needed and appreciated by those who survived the disaster. A speaking engagement by Alvarez can be scheduled by contacting her Oakland office at 301-334-1034.

GCC Class To Cover Stress Management

A course titled Stress and Time Management will be offered at Garrett Community College over the course of three consecutive Wednesdays, Nov. 10-24, from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m., in the Continuing Education building of Garrett Community College.

The course is designed for those who need to control their time by helping participants discover ways to become more effective in meeting various responsibilities. Some course materials are based on the book First Things First by Stephen Covey. Practical individualized learning experiences will focus on values, goals, and priorities; time management techniques; getting past procrastination and personal time wasters; increasing and using prime time; and conducting effective meetings.

"How we use time determines many essential things in our lives, [such as] how much work we accomplish; how much time we have to relax; how we feel about ourselves; and whether life runs us or we run it," said course instructor Sandy Major, counselor for the Small Business Development Center at GCC.

Tuition and fees for the nine hour class total $60 for Garrett County residents. For information on this or other business classes, persons may call the Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080 or 301-387-3069.

Short Stories By Greg Jenkins Are Published

Writer and local teacher Greg Jenkins has just had a collection of 16 short stories published under the title Night Game. The publisher is Creative Arts Book Company of Berkeley, Calif., which in the past has published such authors as William Saroyan, Aldous Huxley, and Allen Ginsberg.

Night Game has been receiving favorable reviews. The New York Times has noted that Jenkins "gleefully explores a netherworld of oddities.... Along the way, he comes up with a vivid set of major characters (James Joyce and Mickey Mantle among them) and an even more memorable group of antagonists." According to Publisher's Weekly, Jenkins writes about how "humans tend to get themselves in trouble — and then do a poor job of extricating themselves.... These tales create loopy, tragicomic worlds in which the voices of the workaday protagonists give heft and urgency to gritty conflicts."

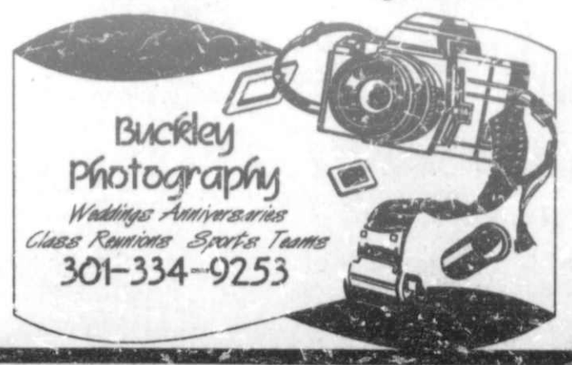
Jenkins's stories cover a wide range of settings and situations. "In the Outback" features kangaroo hunting in Australia; "A Portrait of the Artist at Warner Bros." imagines the masterful novelist James Joyce as an out-of-place Hollywood screenwriter; and "Night Game," the title story, depicts baseball legends Mickey Mantle and Billy Martin not on the field, but recklessly pursuing the bar life that would eventually undo them. The stories were originally published in such journals as Tampa Review, South Dakota Review, American Literary Review, and Sou'wester.

Night Game marks Jenkins's second book in the last three years. In 1997 McFarland and Company published his film study Stanley Kubrick and the Art of Adaptation.

Jenkins has won a number of awards for both fiction writing and playwriting. He currently teaches English at Garrett Community College and Potomac State College, and has also taught at Frostburg State University. He and his wife Michelle have two daughters, Casey and Maranda, and reside in Luke.

Night Game retails for $13.95. It is available at Main Street Books in Frostburg, Expanding Horizons along Route 219 near McHenry, and the Potomac State College Bookstore in Keyser. On-line, it may be purchased through Amazon Books or Barnes and Noble.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland



An American Red Cross bloodmobile visit is scheduled at the Oakland American Legion Post, Memorial Drive, for Friday, Nov. 12, from noon to 6 p.m.

Every two seconds, someone in the United States needs a blood transfusion, according to the ARC. Volunteer blood donors contribute 98% of the blood and blood components transfused in this country. To meet the need for blood and blood products, more than 40,000 donors are needed daily.

To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years old, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in good health. Individuals are permitted to donate blood every 56 days.

SOLD

Dear Mr. Huebner:

My wife Anne and I would like you to know how pleased we have been by working with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty and in particular Ms. Ariene Murray.

Ms. Murray has been our advisor and Realtor since we decided to purchase a vacation home in the area. She was able to locate a fabulous home for us that we enjoyed for four years. Unfortunately, we were recently obligated to sell this home and once again Arlene handled everything for us, she scheduled the work to be done, she kept me informed every single step of the way and she was able to sell the house with very little effort on our part. We have wonderful memories of Deep Creek, these memories will stay with us for the rest of our lives and we owe them to Arlene.

Thank you very much for having such a wonderful person on staff. I appreciate everything you and your company have done for us. We will make sure to recommend your firm to any of our friends interested in purchasing a home in the Deep Creek Lake area.

Arlene Murray, GRI, Sales Assoc.

Sincerely,
Jorge Massa

LET'S TALK ABOUT PRESCRIPTIONS

October is designated as "Talk About Prescriptions Month." Do you know the most important questions you should ask whenever you have a medicine prescribed or dispensed?

You should ask the name of the drug and what it is supposed to do. How to take it, and for how long. What foods, drinks, and other medicines or activities to avoid when taking the drug. If there are any side effects and what to do if they occur.

If you or a member of the family are taking medicine, be sure to get the information you need to use it right.

Trickling Toward Tomorrow

There is something about human nature which makes us want everything "five minutes ago." In this "instant society," why shouldn't we? Why trickle toward tomorrow? Follow a trickling brook? Such a tiny stream that meanders merrily along. Perhaps it is joyful knowing that one day it will be part of a mighty ocean, powerfully pounding the shore. Yet, the brook is happy in the meantime, growing naturally into a stream and then a river, increasing in size and might mile by mile on a journey toward the sea. It is God's plan.

On the journey toward our goals, we must begin slowly, growing through experience in such qualities as patience, humility, and wisdom along the way until we are groomed for greatness. To be great, our souls must be rooted in spirtual principles. Our soul will grow as we worship each week. Through worship and growth, God's plan for you will unfold.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

WHEN YOU LOSE A MOSES
November 7, 1999

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 31:1-8; 34
Devotional Reading:
Numbers 27:12-23

It was about 20 years ago that I stood on Mt. Nebo, the traditional spot from which it is believed Moses last beheld the Promised Land. We had timed our arrival there so that sundown was just a few minutes away. As the sun quickly descended across the horizon, we were able to see it shining on the roofs and towers of Jerusalem some 30 miles due west. What a glorious sight---for Moses and for us.

Mt. Nebo is a mountain in what is today the Kingdom of Jordan. If Moses ascended this mountain, he saw magnificent vistas of the Promised Land: to the north, the high mountain country of southern Gilead; to the west across the Dead Sea, our guide pointed to the desert oasis of Ein-Gedi and the mountains south of Hebron; to the east, we saw the mountainous country of Ajlun and Jerash; and running straight from the silvery Dead Sea to the Sea of Galilee, the Jordan River Valley. If this isn't where Moses looked over into the Promised Land, it should have been!

Moses would not cross the Jordan into the Promised Land. This man who was instrumental in their escape from Egypt and their journey across the Sinai peninsula was about to breathe his last. Whatever resistance the people of Israel had given Moses, whatever discontent they had murmured against him, now they were aware that they were about to lose this great leader whom God had sent them. Just as many had dispaired under his leadership, now the whole company of Hebrews dispaired at the loss of his leadership.

INDISPENSABLE MAN

This man whom many had opposed and resisted was now seen as the indispensable man. That is a very human reaction. We become so dependant upon the leadership of a person that when we are about to lose that person we are afraid that the cause is lost. No one will be able to take his or her place. It is true, many leaders are hard to replace. When it is obvious that they must relinquish their leadership we are certain no one can take their place. There could be only one Moses.

Moses knew what they were thinking and his last act of leadership was to put the situation into perspective for them. Summoning Joshua, Moses said to the people of Israel: "Be strong and of good courage; for you shall go with this people into the land which the Lord has sworn to their fathers to give them; and you shall put them in possession of it" (31:8). Moses passed the mantle of leadership to Joshua.

After Moses died, Joshua led the people into the Promised Land and they learned that, although there had been only one Moses, there was also only one Joshua. They were two different people with different gifts and graces, but they shared something in common: the realization that it was the Lord who was leading them. "It is the Lord who goes before you;" Moses told them, "he will be with you, he will not fail you or forsake you; do not fear or be dismayed" (31:8)

IT IS THE LORD WHO LEADS

I remember when President Franklin Roosevelt died. In those days he was their only President I ever knew. How could anyone replace him? When Harry S. Truman was sworn in as his successor, I was certain this man could not do the job. Totally unlike F.D.R., Harry Truman led us in a different way and in retrospect many regard Truman as a great President. But at the time hardly anyone thought he could do the job.

This is one of the mistakes we make in church, community and nation—we place too much expectation and faith in the man or woman in office. Of course we need the best leadership we can find, but we must remember what Moses told the people of Israel: "It is the Lord who goes before you; he will be with you, he will not fail you or forsake you; do not fear or be dismayed."

What do you do when you lose a Moses? You ask God to send you a Joshua.

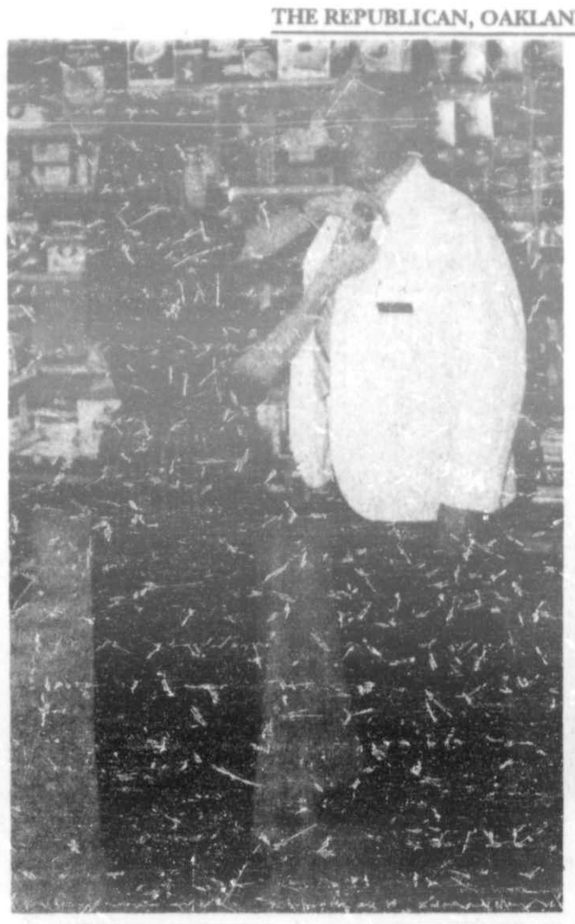
Priest With Area Roots Named To Head University

The Rev. Robert B. Lawton, a Roman Catholic priest, was recently installed as the president of Loyola Marymount University, the largest Roman Catholic University in southern California. Lawton is the son of Margaret Blocher Lawton, a former Grantsville resident who now resides in Rockville, and the late Robert B. Lawton.



Lawton is a Jesuit priest, as were each of his 13 predecessors at the 88-year-old Los Angeles-based university. He assumed his post during an inauguration ceremony that featured videotaped greetings from Los Angeles mayor Richard Riordon and several celebrities, including Tonight Show host Jay Leno. Representatives of more than 100 colleges and universities joined students, alumni, and civic leaders at the ceremony.

Loyola Marymount has an enrollment of over 5,000 students and a faculty of over 500 staff. In his inaugural remarks, the new president promised to enhance the university's film school, which he said will emphasize the "ethical responsibilities" of students joining the entertainment industry. The university's law school, he said, will also focus on ethics issues. The Jesuit order is charged with an overall mission of promoting ethics, academics, and social justice.

A Phi Betta Kappa graduate of Fordham University, New York City, the 52-year-old priest earned his doctorate in Near Eastern languages from Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., in 1977 and was ordained to the priesthood four years later. He subsequently served as dean of the Georgetown College at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. Prior to assuming the presidency of Loyola Marymount Lawton was a trustee of the University of Scranton, Pa., and of Fairfield (Conn.) University.

GC AIDS COUNCIL TEAMS WITH VOLUNTEERS - The Garrett County AIDS Council is continuing efforts to raise awareness and promote education among all residents regarding persons living with HIV and AIDS. October was AIDS Awareness Month, and as part of its activities the council sponsored the annual distribution of red ribbons for AIDS awareness, this year targeting the county's youth by distributing over 1,000 ribbons. The effort was aided by participants from Mountain Glade Adult Day Care Services, who volunteered their time to help make a number of ribbons. Shown above, from the left, are Mtn. Glade Adult Day Care Services participants Bill Wildeson, Janice Hodges, and Brenda Gregory. In the photo at the right is Kathy Wilt, left, an Americorps volunteer with the Garrett County Health Department who helped distribute the red ribbons, pinning a ribbon on Oakland pharmacist and Garrett County commissioner Ernie Gregg.

AmeriCorps Youth Leader Honored

The Frostburg State University Center for Service and Leadership and AmeriCorps announces that Patrick Faville, youth service coordinator for western Maryland, was recently named an Atlantic Region Peer Mentor with Learn and Serve America's Exchange.

"My appointment should help promote service-learning in western Maryland," Faville stated. "I am really pleased to be a resource in this area."

The LSA Exchange, a branch of the Corporation for National Service, is led by the National Youth Leadership Council. Its goal is to support service-learning programs in schools, colleges, and universities, and in community organizations across the country through peer-based training and technical assistance.

As a peer mentor with the Exchange, Faville will work directly with organizations to strengthen their service-learning initiatives. He will also be available to respond to service-learning questions and to provide site visits, presentations, and professional development workshops for these service-learning centers.

Faville holds an associate of arts degree in philosophy from Frederick Community College and a bachelor in fine arts/ceramics from FSU. He has held previous positions on the visual arts faculty of FSU, FCC, and Garrett Community College. in addition, he has exhibited and published internationally in his field of ceramics.

For information about service-learning opportunities, persons may contact the FSU Center for Service and Leadership and AmeriCorps, 301-687-4210.

Yoga Classes For Seniors Scheduled

Community Action Area Agency on Aging and Garrett Community College will be continuing Yoga classes for the winter semester. The classes will run for one hour and will take place at the Mary Browning Senior Center, 104 E. Center St., Oakland, on Monday and Friday at 10 a.m. Margaret Janney will lead the class.

Class registration will be this Friday, Nov. 5, and Monday, Nov. 8. Space is limited.

Yoga helps to develop more flexibility, which reduces the body's risk of injuries. It also improves range of motion.

"Yoga will help throughout the day because it will probably make you more aware of your posture when sitting, standing, or walking," Janney said. "You will also feel less fatigued at the end of the day and more refreshed in the morning from a good night's sleep."

The class is geared for those 60 or older. The cost is $15 for 15 sessions. The class requires comfortable clothing and an exercise mat. For information, persons may call 1-888-877-8403.

Rounds Earns Who's Who Recognition

Andy Rounds, a senior at Southern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for the 1998-99 school year. Only five percent of high school students are so honored for their achievements each year.

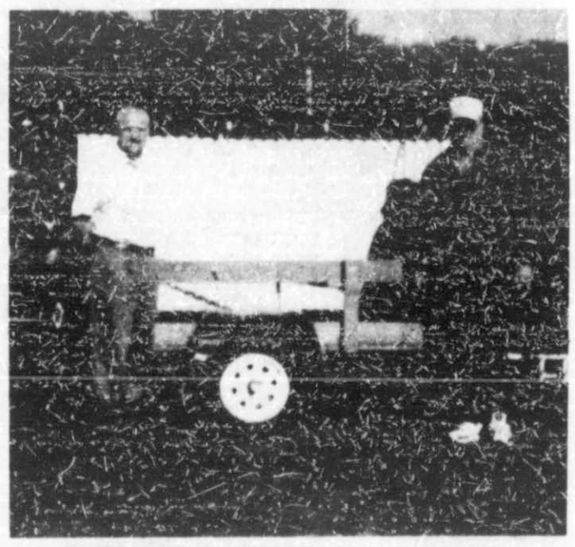
A co-captain of the SHS boys' varsity soccer team, Rounds is a member of the local Arsenal Football League team and a member of the Maryland Soccer Referees Association. He is also on the staff of the Southern High yearbook and school newspaper, and he plans to attend college to study communications. He is employed part-time at the Oakland Burger King.

Rounds is the son of Debbie Rounds, Red House, and Wayne Rounds, Oakland.

Northern GOP Women Convene, Conduct Auction

The Northern Garrett Republican Women's Club met Oct. 26, with president Carolyn Ganoe presiding. Because of the large supply of auction items, the meeting was cut short.

Carolyn announced she would be attending the MFRW fall convention in Gaithersburg Oct. 30-31. The Christmas luncheon will be Dec. 11 at 12:30 at Hill Top Inn. Carol Frazee will be in charge of the program. The fruit basket will be brought by Zeola Robeson, Mildred Husselbaugh, Carol Frazee, and Nancy Devore.



"Happy Birthday" was sung for Hazel Margraff. Beverly Wiland became a new member of the club.

Proceeds from the auction amounted to $331. Brenda Butscher brought the fruit basket. Louise McKenzie won the basket. Cora Bowser was the auctioneer.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mary Durst, Carolyn Ganoe, Twila Mae Fike, Sheila O'Neill, Mildred Husselbaugh, Cleda Baker, Hazel Margraff, Brenda Butscher, Joan Holliday, Louise McKenzie, Jean Friend, Orpha Miller, Cora Bowser, Stella Edwards, Lillian Crowe, Lois Rowe, and Beverly Wiland, a new member.

There will be no meeting in November.

GARRETT COUNTY'S LEGISLATIVE DELEGATION INVITES YOU TO FIND OUT WHAT IT MEANS.

When: Monday, November 8
Where: Garrett Community College
Continuing Education Building, Room 314
What Time: 7 p.m.

Starting next year, Marylanders will be able to choose their electric generation supplier, much like they already shop for other goods and services. But what does this really mean for consumers? What will change and what will remain the same?

To respond to these questions and many others, the Garrett County Delegation to the Maryland General Assembly invites the public to attend a free, informational meeting on Monday, Nov. 8, at Garrett Community College. In addition to elected officials, representatives from the Maryland Public Service Commission and Allegheny Energy will be there to respond to your questions and concerns. For further information, please call Delegate George Edwards at 301-895-5720 or 301-746-5831.

GOOD DEEDS REWARDED - Friendsville Elementary students in second and third grade classes spent a morning recently visiting at the Moran Manor Nursing Home, near Westernport. After cheering up the residents with their sunshiny smiles, the youngsters were rewarded with a trip to Subway in Grantsville for lunch. For some of the children, it was their first experience ordering their own meals. In the photo above, assisted by teachers the students select menu items, request sandwiches, and pay for their meals. Left to right they are Jacob Radman, Timmy House, Emily Mangee, and Pam Snyder. Helping with the orders are student teacher Stacy Morris, third grade teacher Kim Paugh, and second grade teacher Sally Frazee. Below, John Conner and Justin Friend enjoy their dessert.

GCC's Priselac Appointed To Math Education Panel

Dr. Nancy Priselac, coordinator of mathematics at Garrett Community College, has recently been appointed by state Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick to a statewide panel formed as an initiative of the Keys to Math Success program. The panel consists of educators, business community representatives, local school system administrators, parents, and mathematicians.

The initiative aims to introduce mathematics earlier in childhood, enhance math teacher preparation especially at the middle school level, and solicit principal support for school-based math reform. Keys to Math Success will mirror the concepts in the future. The state's major reading initiatives by emphasizing the introduction of mathematical thinking to young, even preschool-aged children, in order to lay a firm foundation for more sophisticated concepts in the future. The program also will help middle school math teachers access the continuing education they need to effectively teach advanced mathematics at the middle school level.

"Because of our increasing global marketplace, Maryland graduates must be prepared to compete for jobs internationally," Grasmick said. "As it stands now, our nation's students cannot compete mathematically. In Maryland, that is going to change. With our new initiative, Keys to Math Success, we aim to make mathematics an integral part of each child's early learning experience, as well as ensure that our math teachers have the training necessary to be effective."

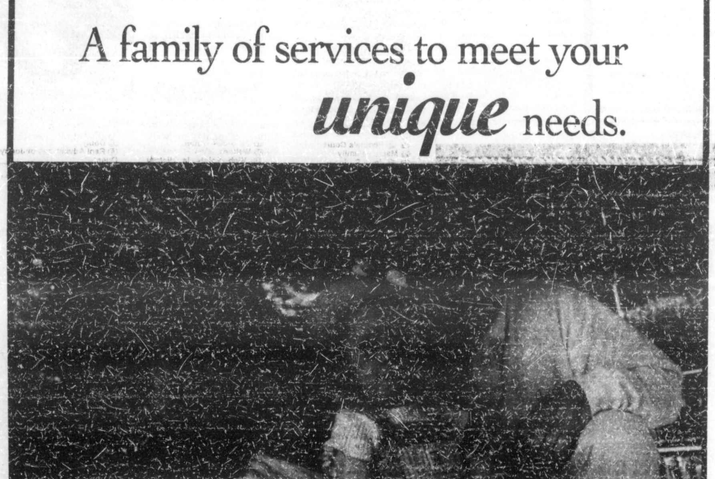
Results from the Third International Math and Science Study showed that the U.S. is the only country whose students perform worse as they progress through grades. While the United States fourth-graders performed above the international average, eighth-graders performed below, and twelfth-graders nearly at the bottom. Also significant is that states scoring highest on the National Assessment of Educational Progress mathematics exam also place significantly above the national average in the number of teachers with a major or minor in mathematics. Only about 40 percent of Maryland's math teachers have a major or minor in the subject. The problem is most prevalent in middle schools, where the majority of teachers are elementary-certified and do not have sufficient math preparation.

The panel, to be co-chaired by Dr. Skip Fennell from Western Maryland College, will examine the state's math program for possible revisions. It will meet monthly through June 2000. Priselac is the only representative of a community college on the panel.

House Of Yoder Meeting Slated

House of Yoder Inc., a nonprofit organization building a Yoder House in a colonial-era style at Spruce Forest Artisan Village in Grantsville, will hold its fourth annual meeting at Penn Alps in Grantsville on Saturday, Nov. 13, beginning at 11 a.m. Agenda items include: sharing a brunch at the Penn Alps Restaurant, a tour of the Yoder House, a short business meeting, and input from a speaker, Harvey Yoder.

Yoder will speak on the Yoder settlement in Berks County, Pa., and then the movement westward. House of Yoder Inc. is currently nearing completion of the building of the Yoder House under the leadership of a 10-member executive committee. The house will contain Yoder-related historical documents, genealogical data, and family artifacts.



All interested persons, especially those with the Yoder name and/or Yoder ancestry, are welcome at the annual meeting. For further information, persons may contact Lonnie Yoder at 540-432-6467.

SIMON PEARCE DONATES TO GCMH FOUNDATION BENEFIT - The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation's holiday luncheon/fashion show and white elephant sale, set for Friday, Nov. 12, will include a door prize of a selection of Simon Pearce glassware. Jackie Johnson, left, a member of the foundation committee that has been planning for the luncheon, is shown accepting the boxed glassware donation from Julie Adams, manager of the Simon Pearce retail store. The fund-raising luncheon, which will be held at the Silver Tree Inn, will also feature a fashion show hosted by Rudy's clothing store. Persons interested in further information may contact the foundation office at 301-334-2155, ext. 377, and persons interested in donating items for the white elephant sale should contact Tiddie Wheeler at 301-387-5018.

COVER STORY

New CBS movie mixes rock 'n' roll, romance

By Jacqueline Cutler
©TVData Features Syndicate

Bonnie Somerville

"With rap lyrics urging listeners to commit felonies, it seems quaint that rock 'n' roll was once thought of as the devil's music – and not just by extremists.

CBS takes a look at the controversial birth of rock 'n' roll from the vantage point of a couple of kids in the heartland falling in love with the beat and with each other in the two-part movie Shake, Rattle & Roll, airing Sunday, Nov. 7, and Wednesday, Nov. 10.

Tyler Hart (country music performer Brad Hawkins) and Lyne Danner (Bonnie Somerville) are the great-looking youngsters who form a band and a bond in the early years of rock. When they hear Chuck Berry sing "Maybellene" for the first time, you can nearly feel their souls soaring. These kids were starving for rhythm and fun and torn between the new music and their old lives.

An interesting aspect of what could otherwise have been a corny movie is that Lyne, who is white, has a black best friend in Marsha Stokes (Samaria Graham, Blossom). The girls' fathers are in the military, and they played together for years in Guam while developing a healthy appetite for the new music.

The movie is set against the social upheavals that began in the late '50s and erupted in the '60s. Viewers empathize as the friends sometimes have to be separated, without having to be told again how awful segregation was. But through all their travails, there is rock 'n' roll.

The soundtrack is a lot of fun, with songs by Bob Dylan, Carole King, Graham Nash, Lamont Dozier, and Leiber and Stoller. There also are new songs, which have the gritty, real feel of the classics, and some of the era's anthems, including "Ain't That a Shame," "Sh'Boom," "Long Tall Sally" and "Shake, Rattle & Roll."

Terence Trent D'Arby as Jackie Wilson and Billy Porter as Little Richard prove the adage that there are no small parts as they steal scenes. And a cameo by blues legend B.B. King is a treat.

The high-school kids are preparing to graduate and do whatever their parents expect them to while shuffling to Perry Como. But once they've danced to Little Richard, how can they return to Como? They can't – and don't.

So the rebellion begins, and the barn band lands a few gigs, including one at a fledging hamburger drive-in called McDonald's. If the group is going to make it to fame, however, it needs an agent and a manager. Enter one agent (Dana Delany), looking like the original Barbie with her short bubble-bourffant hair and haute-couture wardrobe – just one example of how the movie looks as terrific as it sounds, thanks in part to costumer Peggy Farrell.

"I had a lot of fun," says Delany, who took the job because it was a fun role and because "I wanted to work with James Coburn," who plays her husband.

"He was everything I wanted him to be and more. He really is Flint," Delany says, referring to the swinging spy Coburn played on film in the '60s. "He talks like that. He called me 'broad' and said 'groovy' and 'baby.' It was a fun character."

Also a busy one.

"It was just a blast," Delany continues. "I got to have James Coburn on one hand and this hot young guy (Hawkins) on the other."

The flamboyant Jack McFarland (Sean Hayes) and friends ask, "Whose Mom is It Anyway?" in Will & Grace, airing Tuesday on NBC.

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: Is Eric McCormack of Will & Grace really gay? What other shows has he done? –Crystal Martin, Ephrata, Pa.

A: Toronto-born McCormack, 36, has been married to Janet Holden since 1997 and says he is just "playing gay" on his sitcom. A classically trained actor, he racked up a number of stage credits before landing roles in several Canadian series and TV movies.

McCormack probably first caught the eye of U.S. viewers as Col. Francis Clay Mosby in the two syndicated Lonesome Dove series, although he had a recurring role on the ABC flop Townies and the NBC bomb Jenny. He had much better luck in Borrowed Hearts: A Holiday Romance, a 1997 TV movie in which he co-starred with Roma Downey.

He plays Mel Ferrer opposite Jennifer Love Hewitt's title character in ABC's upcoming Audrey Hepburn movie.

Q: When did The Cosby Mysteries air on TV? And what was the name of the moose who walked through the town in the opening credits of Northern Exposure? –Mrs. Mary C. Love, Loch Haven, Pa.

A: Cosby Mysteries, which starred Bill Cosby as New York criminologist Guy Hanks, aired on NBC from Sept. 21, 1994, to April 12, 1995. James Naughton and Rita Moreno co-starred.

Morty the moose in Northern Exposure was part of a captive moose herd maintained at a research station affiliated with Washington State University. He died during the run of the show, apparently of a copper and cobalt deficiency. His offspring include Melody and Matilda, born in 1993.

Q: Who created the role of Alex Keaton on The Hoosiers, moonerz? –M. Huberth, Port Charlotte, Fla.

Eric McCormack

A: The character of Alex Keaton appeared on Cavalcade of Stars with Pert Kelton in the role.

Q: I heard that Tea Leoni and David Duchovny are expecting. Has the baby been born? –Roseanne Harrington, San Angelo, Texas.

A: A daughter, Madelaine Westa Duchovny, was born April 24.

Q: Is Rebecca Romijn-Stamos related to John Stamos of Full House? –Alesha Stewart, Centerton, Ark.

A: They're married.

Q: Where was Joe Lando (Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman) born? –Donann Ausderau, Palo Texas.

A: Lando was born Dec. 9, 1961 in Chicago.

Q: Can you provide the title of a TV movie set in a Pennsylvania coal mining area and starring Colleen Dewhurst, Jason Robards and Kathy Bates? –April, Punta Gorda, Fla.

A: That was Johnny Bull (1986), which also co-starred Peter MacNicol (Ally McBeal).

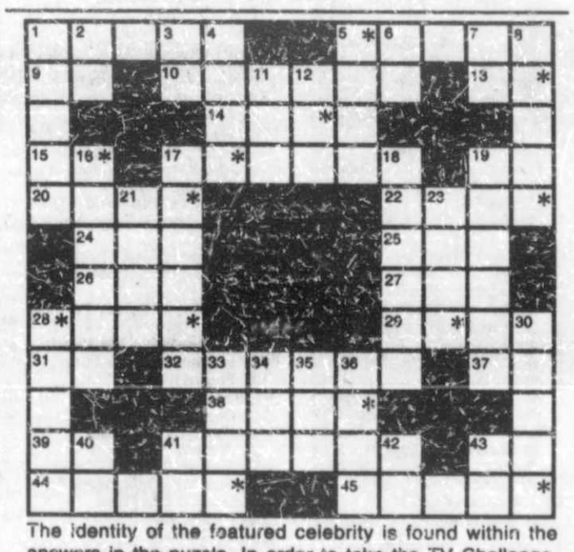
In Focus



Willie Nelson stars as half of a mismatched duo searching for a serial killer in A Pair of Aces, airing Thursday, Nov. 11, on TNN.

Kris Kristofferson plays Rip Metcalf, a Texas Ranger assigned to investigate the murders of local high-school girls.

Billy Roy Baker (Nelson) is a con man about to stand trial and facing a life sentence in prison. He also has valuable information on the seedy underbelly of Texas society that could help Metcalf solve this case.

November Is Prime Time For Deer-Car Crashes

Over 500,000 collisions occur between deer and motor vehicles each year. In Maryland, a state with both high vehicle density and a large deer population, this can be not only a costly problem, but a life-threatening one.

According to the AAA, the most dangerous times of day for deer-related crashes are in the early evening and early morning — the most active time for deer and the most highly traveled time for commuters. The most dangerous time of year is during the mating season, in November and December, with the peak of breeding occurring during the first two weeks of November. Deer increase their daily movement and become more active during this season, with no regard for traffic movement.

"The average deer-vehicle crash causes about $2,000 worth of damage, often to the front end of the vehicle, or shattering the windshield," said Myra Wieman, public relations manager for AAA Mid-Atlantic. "Thousands of motorists are injured in these accidents each year, some unfortunately killed.

"Most drivers swerve to avoid hitting the animal, but this action often confuses the deer as to which way to run and can possibly result in a worse collision with an oncoming vehicle or a nearby tree," Wieman noted. In order to decrease one's odds of falling prey to this type of accident, AAA recommends the following tips:

- Pay attention to animal crossing signs. These signs indicate locations of frequent deer movement.
- If you see a deer in the road, honk your horn — Flashing your lights may cause the deer to further fixate on your vehicle.
- If you see a deer crossing the road ahead, slow down and keep your eyes focused for more deer; frequently they travel in packs.
- Don't rely on hood-mounted deer whistles to scare off deer. There is no conclusive evidence that these devices work.
- Remember the exact spot where you saw a deer cross the road. They are creatures of habit and use the same paths over and over again.
- Obey the speed limit, keep a close watch for deer around dusk and dawn, and wear your seat belts at all times.

GCC Diversity Workshop To Cover Topic Of Prejudice

An experiential program in understanding human relations will be offered to Garrett Community College students and community residents during the prejudice reduction workshop "Welcoming Diversity," set for Friday, Nov. 12, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Room 307 of the college. The participatory workshop is an activity of the National Coalition Building Institute (NCBI), based in Washington, D.C., a nonprofit leadership training organization that works to eliminate prejudice and intergroup conflict in communities throughout the world.

The event has been planned by Terry Kasecamp, associate professor of psychology and certified NCBI trainer, who will lead the workshop along with seven facilitators from Frostburg State University. It is designed to empower people of all ages and backgrounds to take leadership roles in their communities and workplaces to build inclusive environments that welcome diversity.

SMS HONORS STUDENTS OF THE MONTH - Southern Middle School selected the Students of the Month for September. They are pictured above and include, from left to right, row one: Michael Friend, 7th grade, language arts; Robbie Stemple, 8th grade, technology education; Destiny Kitzmiller, 6th grade, science; Jamie White, 7th grade, reading enrichment; and Andrew Gosd, 7th grade, foreign language. In row two are: Twila Ashby, 8th grade, science; Corey Lewis, 6th grade, language arts; Ivan Stutzman, 6th grade, computers; and Nathaniel Harris, 6th grade, math. In row three are: Hannah Logsdon, 6th grade, social studies; Katie Nichols, 8th grade, reading enrichment; Brittany Paugh, 6th grade, language arts; Andrew VanBogelen, 6th grade, physical education; Laura Hirshbaugh, 8th grade, social studies; and Stasha Blum, 8th grade, cooking. In row four are: Erica Pratt, 7th grade, math; Katie McGehee, 8th grade, math; Lora Teets, 7th grade, science; Rebecca Shipe, 7th grade, physical education; Amanda King, 8th grade, physical education; and April Teets, 8th grade, reading enrichment. Pictured separately is Kayla Nazelrod, 7th grade, social studies, who was absent for the picture.

NCBI Campus Affiliate chapters now exist on over 50 college campuses across the United States with the purpose of offering a systematic approach to welcoming diversity. Through a three-day Train the Trainer Seminar, a cadre of students, administrators, and faculty members who act as a leadership team are empowered to address campus diversity issues and to lead the Prejudice Reduction Workshop. Follow-up activities for team leaders include monthly telephone support and an annual NCBI Campus Retreat.

The workshop will include a set of activities that help participants celebrate their similarities and differences, identify misinformation they have learned about other groups, claim pride in their own group identifies, and learn about the personal impact of discrimination.

The event is open to interested members of the community, Kasecamp said, but they must sign up in advance at the GCC library. A lunch will be served to all workshop participants. Persons interested in further information may call Kasecamp at 301-387-3005.

Funds Approved To Improve MVA Licensing System

The Board of Public Works has approved a $32 million contract for the Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration to upgrade the state's driver licensing system by improving customer service, providing better access, and reducing fraud.

"This system will revolutionize the way the MVA does business and improve customer service," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "By streamlining the process and computerizing the entire licensing transaction, Marylanders will get faster, more efficient service when they visit the MVA."

"One-stop-shopping" will allow customers to complete their transactions at a single MVA counter. From the payment of fees to the digital photograph, all will be done at the same location. The motorist's personal information will be reviewed and his/her digital photograph will be taken via the new computerized system. An immediate check will be made through the computerized National Driver Register to determine if that motorist has any driving violations in other states.

The new system will allow motorists to be alerted to any outstanding violations or accumulated points on their driving record. Computer screens and keypads will replace the paperwork all customers now fill out. Motorists will be able to update personal information, answer legal questions about their driving status, and register to vote electronically.

"The MVA will be entirely revamped with this electronic system," said MVA Administrator Anne S. Ferro. "This will benefit the citizens of Maryland, not only by reducing trips and wait times at the MVA, but also by better securing all Marylanders' information from fraud."

A motorist's information will be kept for up to 14 days. This will allow any customer service representative at any counter to pull up a motorist's transaction at a later date should the motorist need to leave the MVA and return at a later time to complete a transaction.

The $31,788,570 contract was awarded to Compaq Computer Corporation of Greenbelt. The upgrades are expected to be completed by June 2001.

Reaching Out To Russian Orphans: Enriched By New Relationships

by Peggy Santamaria

"It's not the quality or quantity of work that you do, but the relationships that you build...."

With these words from Dr. Frank Shaffer echoing in her mind, Connie Trickett left Garrett County and slipped into the ranks of fellow travelers bound for Russia. The group's destination was not Moscow with the great art and architecture of the Kremlin. The group's destination was Podol'sk and the children of its orphanage.

The group with which Trickett traveled, a work team of Volunteers In Missions (VIM), planned to arrive at the orphanage while the 144 resident children were spending some time at a camp facility. Team members would then hunker down to some serious repair and refurbishing work in the orphanage.

"With the children away, we were able to paint, repair drywall, put down floors, and that sort of thing," Trickett said. And the repair work was essential. There are so many orphanages in Russia — more than 1,000 in the Moscow region alone — that the cost of maintenance outstrips the economy, she explained.

Trickett has noticed many changes in the Russian market place over the 5-year span in which she has worked there with VIM. "There are more shops now stocked with many more items, things you couldn't get before," she noted. But even in this "new" economy there remains a vast divide between the "haves and have-nots," she emphasized.

And it is the have-nots who are driven by desperation to relinquish their children to the Russian orphanage system. "The way Russian parents see this is so different from the way parents in the United States see it. The Russian parents, who are so poor that they know they cannot possibly provide for a child, see putting that child in an orphanage as a service to the child," she explained.

At the orphanage the child will receive life's basic necessities, such as sufficient food, water, and shelter. These necessities are beyond the reach of the parents who let their children go.

It was to help some of these youngsters that Trickett and the other VIM workers from the Maryland/West Virginia area were drawn to Podol'sk.

After the work team members completed their planned tasks, there was time to spend with the young residents, who ranged from about 6 to 16 years old. "We always take little gifts to them. Nothing big. We just tuck whatever we can fit into our luggage. I found that they love bubbles, jump-ropes, crayons, and coloring books," Trickett said.

Shoes are also considered a great gift, she noted. So each team travels equipped with various sizes and colors of sneakers for the orphans. "These children are delighted with the gifts and with the attention. They are so hungry for human interaction and starved for affection." Trickett explained that it is not that the caregivers are unkind, but that their resources are limited and their numbers are stretched thin to meet responsibility.

Within the walls of the Podol'sk orphanage these youngster will remain until they are 18. Then they are on their own, on the street, without home or family. "These young people are displaced. When I learned about this and saw it, first there were feelings of anger, then other feelings. We have so much and they have so little. Realizing that is very humbling," Trickett reflected.

The harsh reality of the lives of others was, in still other ways, to stare coldly into the eyes of Trickett and her fellow travelers. "Seeing a communist demonstration in Red Square was sobering," she recalled. The square was busy with public activity when suddenly things came to a standstill. "When the movement was interrupted, there was a strange and frightening silence that fell upon the crowd. A group of protestors broke through the gates — with order, by their definition. But for those of us very unfamiliar with this kind of uprising, it was frightening."

Contrasting starkly with this experience was a Sunday worship service, described by Trickett. Held in a small room of a factory, this Methodist liturgy brought Russians and VIM workers together in prayer before a simple altar contrived of a cloth-covered table, a candle, and a Bible.

"As humble as this was, it was a striking contrast to the power of the spirit of the people in the room. His presence was upon each of us as we sang the same music, but in different languages," she said.

On the trip home, Trickett's luggage no longer bulged with bottles of bubbles or deflatible balls. But, she said, she did carry home "gifts" from her mission experience. "God works through each of us to be present with others for reasons that have for more to do with changing ourselves than others. Being in mission is listening to hear God speak in the most unexpected places," she concluded.

For more information about this mission program, persons may contact West Virginia VIM coordinator Rev. Tom Clark at 304-872-3221 or Connie Trickett at 301-334-1878 or e-mail druzhba-@hotmail.com.

Hello, Dolly To Be Presented At Potomac State

The popular musical Hello, Dolly will be presented at the Church-McKee Arts Center of Potomac State College, Keyser, W.Va., on Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m. The performance is being sponsored by Highland Arts Unlimited Inc. Tickets may be purchased at the door on the evening of the performance.

One of the longest running musicals in Broadway history, Hello, Dolly opened on Broadway in 1964 and ran through 1970. The first production won an all-time record 10 Tony awards (including Best Musical), as well as the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award for Best Musical.

The musical tells the story of a busybody widow, Dolly Levi, who makes a living as a meddling matchmaker in the horse and buggy era of New York City. She sets out to arrange a marriage between Irene Molloy, a widowed New York milliner, and Horace Vandergelder, a rich curmudgeon of a Yonkers merchant. Dolly leaves a whirlwind of merry mixups in her wake, as midway through her attempts to play cupid she decides to grab the Yonkers "half-a-millionaire" for herself.

Programs of Highland Arts Unlimited are funded in part by the West Virginia Commission on the Arts, the National Endowment on the Arts, Highland Arts memberships, Potomac State College, and the Mineral County Board of Education.

Antiques

An antique dining room table is one of the most expensive pieces of furniture needed in a house. A good shopper can often find an old table at a bargain price. But there are pitfalls to be avoided when choosing a table.

The table has evolved in the past 300 years as dining styles have changed. In the 17th century, the table was long and narrow, made to be used in a hall. Then came the gate-leg table that could be used on a round or oval table sized for the special room meant for dining. The gate leg swung shut, and the table could be moved to the side of the room.

By the 18th century, the table was often three tables, a center rectangle and two drop-leaf tables that could be added to the center table. All the legs on the three tables created a seating problem, so designers created the center pedestal table.

When buying a table, decide how many people will use the table and check the size of the table and room space. Be sure the table is not too wide for the room. The average rectangular table is 30 inches to 44 inches wide. There must be space to pull the chair away from the table to sit down. A chair is at least 24 inches wide.

Notice the position of the table legs. Be sure they will not make a seated guest uncomfortable. Check the number of inches from the floor to the bottom of the tabletop or apron. It must be high enough so you can sit in the chair without bumping your knees.

Look underneath the table to see if all of the leaves are original. Small tables are often made larger with added leaves. Prices are determined by the style, the type of wood and the age. An all-original table that seats more than eight is desirable. If it is large enough for 12 to 16, it sells for a very high price.

For Thanksgiving dinner, fill the table with guests and be sure you own a tablecloth that is long enough to hang at least 12 inches over at each end. Cloths over four yards long are hard to find.

Home Tips

THE LAST DROP – Many lotions and creams are in plastic tubes that defy removing all the contents. Using a very sharp scissors, cut the tube in half. You'll be surprised how much more you can use. Trudy K., Cibolo, Texas

DOORSTOP – Gift-wrap a brick either with paper or colorful fabric, add a nice bow, and it becomes a really good doorstop! Jim F., New Bern, N.C.

THANK YOU – My tip for writing real thank-you cards is this: After being blessed with three showers for our first child, I had a wall of gifts and thank-yous to send. I sat each gift in front of me, one at a time, as I wrote that particular thank-you message. This really worked to inspire a message that came straight from the heart. Maria H., Lancaster, Pa.

STAY PUT – The plastic stays in the collars of my husband's dress shirts occasionally go astray after laundering. To overcome this, I take expired, plastic credit cards to make new stays, using the old ones as a pattern. They work as well as the originals. Greta B., Arlington, Va.

Biography®

MIKE MYERS: "GROOVY" COMEDIAN AND "BOFFO" TALENT

Mike Myers, star of "Wayne's World," "Austin Powers," "Saturday Night Live" and "Second City," literally is an overnight success. Unlike others who toil unrecognized for years, the talented comedian has gone from one success to another. Born in 1966 to British immigrants from Liverpool, Myers grew up in Toronto. He landed his first TV gigs at 8, appearing in commercials.

As he tells June's Biography magazine, at 11, he performed in a commercial with Gilda Radner, who played his mom. "I fell in love with her," Myers says. When his family learned she was appearing on a new show called "Saturday Night Live," they all watched. "I turned to my family and said, 'I'm going to be on that show one day.'" On the final day of high school exams, he auditioned for Canada's Second City Comedy Troupe, and was hired that day.

Starting in Toronto, he joined the company in Chicago, where "Saturday Night Live's" creator, producer and fellow Canadian Lorne Michaels hired him. He took SNL by storm. During his successful six-year stint, Myers created a wickedly funny gallery of characters, including Wayne Campbell, the teenage heavy metal wannabe and cable access host. Before long, the whole country was talking like Wayne. His popularity led to the two Wayne movies, followed by the first "Austin Powers" movie and its sequel "Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me," opening this month. Powers' character was affectionately inspired by Myers' dad Eric, who died in 1991 of Alzheimer's.

In Austin Powers-speak, everything is "boffo, groovy," especially his six-year marriage to writer/actress Robin Ruzan which longtime friend and SNL co-producer Marci Klein calls a "100% perfect, compatible marriage." Next up? Who knows. "I never have a plan," Myers says. "You want to do something and then a meteor hits the earth." As Austin Powers would say, "Yeah, baby."

New Dimensions Still Accepting New Applicants

The New Dimensions Displaced Homemaker's Program of Garrett Community College will still accept a limited number of new program participants for FY2000. New Dimensions is a displaced homemaker program designed to help the homemaker deal with immediate crisis, increase self-confidence, and develop the skills needed to support herself and her family.

To be eligible for the program, one must be a Maryland resident over 30 years of age; must have performed primarily as a homemaker; must have depended for support on the income of a family member and lost that income because of separation, divorce, death, or disability of that family member; must be underemployed, not gainfully employed, or would have difficulty finding employment; or must have depended on TCA (Temporary Cash Assistance) and no longer be eligible for TCA or must currently be receiving TCA and have been receiving TCA for 24 months or longer.

New Dimensions can offer program participants the following services: individual and career counseling; Career Path class; career development workshops; assistance in obtaining education and training; monthly support groups; and referral to community agencies.

New Dimensions can help program participants obtain a Graduation Equivalency Diploma (GED); explore and develop vocational interests and expand job options; identify work needs, motivation, and marketable skills; investigate and evaluate occupations, training programs, and sources of financial aid to attend college; and review employment options.

New Dimensions can provide the following financial assistance for program participants who are income-eligible: tuition/books, child care/transportation, emergency car repairs, work uniforms, and other emergency expenses.

For information about the program or to determine eligibility, persons may call 301-387-3071 Tuesday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. or visit the New Horizons/New Dimensions office at GCC in Room 302. The project is funded by the Maryland Department of Human Resources, Community Services Administration.

NMS AFTER-SCHOOL PROGRAM RECEIVES SUPPORT - The All-Star After-School Program of Northern Middle School, which utilizes the volunteer efforts of high school students to assist the younger students with homework and in service learning projects and recreational programs, among other activities, received a number of donations from local businesses recently. The after-school program will use these items as incentive gifts to award to their high school volunteers. Participating businesses were Arrowhead Market, Schoolhouse Earth, S&S Market, Hill Top Fruit Market, Potomac Video's Grantsville branch, Smiley's Pizzeria, Trading Post, Uno's, Funny Farm Citgo, Proulx Investigations, Reminisce Antique Mall, and ProGuard Security. Shown above with the contributions is Nan Proulx, program coordinator at NMS. (Angie Browning, coordinator for Americorps Volunteer Maryland, was absent for the photo.) For further information on after school programs persons may contact the Americorps at the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8122.

Earns Scholarship At Allegany College

Six Allegany College of Maryland students, including one from Garrett County, are among those receiving scholarships sponsored by public safety, civil service, and veterans groups in the current 1999-2000 academic year, the AC Foundation announced.

Jill Ravenscroft of Oakland was awarded a Forty Et Eight Memorial Scholarship. She is completing an associate degree in nursing. Before enrolling at AC, she worked nine years at Bausch and Lomb, where she was a group leader until the plant's closure. She also attended Garrett Community College.

Married to Owen Ravenscroft, she has three children, Jamie, Missy, and Brandon, and two stepchildren, Nikki and T.J.

Local Resident Commits To Year Of AmeriCorps

Angela Browning, who recently moved to Kitzmiller, has made a commitment to a full year of service in Garrett County. A mother of one, she has joined Volunteer Maryland, an AmeriCorps program.

As a Volunteer Maryland coordinator, Browning will recruit volunteers to tutor and mentor middle school students, as well as to help with after-school recreational activities at Northern and Southern middle schools. This project is being developed through a partnership between Volunteer Maryland, A STAR in Western Maryland (another AmeriCorps program), and the Garrett County Health Department.

Browning is one of 22 coordinators who recently began their year of service with Volunteer Maryland. Each coordinator is matched with a local nonprofit agency to create a volunteer program. Since 1992, Volunteer Maryland coordinators have helped 244 nonprofits develop volunteer programs that meet critical community needs such as tutoring youth, building low-income housing, cleaning parks, and assisting crime victims.

To learn more about volunteering at Northern or Southern middle schools, persons may call Angela at 301-334-8122.

NHS GRADS OF 1979 REUNITE — The members of the Northern High School graduating class of 1979 met for their 20-year reunion on August 28, held at the Grantsville Holiday Inn. Fifty-seven classmates attended the dinner/dance. An awards ceremony took place, recognizing several graduates for achievements and goals accomplished over the past 20 years. An "ice breaker" get-together just for classmates was held at Uno's on the Friday before the reunion, which over 50 graduates attended. In the front row, left to right, are Jim McCrobie, Howard Ross, Neil Garlock, Debbie Bowman, Donna Broadwater, Tom VanSickle, Phil Workman, Lori Taylor, Sharon Lipscomb, Nancy Rush, Chris McKenzie, and Linda McKenzie. In the second row, same order, are Glenda Yoder, Carol Ross, Mary Jane Reed, Marsha Garlitz, Linda Edminston, Robin Edminston, Barb Kipp, Jeanette Harman, Carla Deal, Susan Thomas, Pam Butler, Lisa Winebrenner, Debbie Maust, Nancy Bowser, Terry Broadwater, Nancy Jo Durst, Arlene Glotfelty, and Alice Brenneman. Third row: Brenda Wakefield, Sandi Sisler, Becky Herman, Dan Beller, Janet Bach, Kim Glover, Arlende Guard, Larry Hanlin, Kathy Warnick, Robin DeWitt, and Carolee Crendon. Fourth row: Dave Rodeheaver, Dwane Hummel, Rosetta Resh, Doug Bowser, Tony Doerr, and Ken Bowman. Last row: Gary Fike, Brenda Wagner, Kevin Margroff, Dave Winebrenner, John Beltzel, Duane Stein, Jay Humberson, Elsworth Merrbach, Bronda Sisler, Sherry Griffith, Mary Sebold, and Dave Oester. (The married names of the women were not available for publication.)

Backgammon Tourney Set To Benefit BBBS

Sign-up is under way for all those wishing to participate in a Backgammon tournament at Deep Creek Brewing Company, 200 Quarry Road, Deep Creek Lake, this Saturday, Nov. 6. The tournament will begin at 2 p.m.

Proceeds from the tournament are to benefit Garrett County Big Brothers Big Sisters. "We appreciate Dave Saba, owner of the brewing company, for his efforts and his staff's support of Big Brothers Big Sisters," said JoAnn Fletcher, county coordinator. "Hopefully this will not only help to raise funds for our program, but also give us an opportunity to interest several people to become Big Brothers, Big Sisters, or Big Couples. There are over 30 young people in our county waiting for a mentor and friend."

Participants are asked to bring their own backgammon board. To sign up or obtain more information, persons may call the Deep Creek Brewing Company at 301-387-2182.

Habitat House To Be Dedicated

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity and Keystone Financial Bank will dedicate the Keystone Cares home in Mountain Lake Park this Sunday, Nov. 7, at 1:30 p.m. With construction complete, Barry and Diane Thrift and their children will soon move into their Habitat home.

A brief ceremony will commemorate completion of the new home. Garrett County Habitat for Humanity president Cosette Harman and leaders of Keystone Financial Bank will also be on hand for comment.

The Keystone Cares program provided Garrett County Habitat for Humanity with half of the money needed to build the new home. Keystone Financial is donating costs and services to build a total of seven Keystone Cares Habitat for Humanity homes in Pennsylvania and Maryland.

A Note of Appreciation

I would like to thank everyone for their quick and efficient response during my recent illness.

A special thanks to Charlotte, Bessie and Tom, The Kitzmiller VFD, the Elk Garden Rescue Squad, Garrett County Memorial Hospital staff, Dr. Perry and Dr. Porcaro.

The visits, the phone calls and the many prayers were greatly appreciated by me and by my family.

Sincerely,
Bill Brantner, Leona, Sandy, Billy & Mike

Speakers Discuss One Maryland, Student Interns

Members of the Greater Grantsville Business Association (GGBA) were recently invited to cross county boundaries and join the Allegany County Chamber of Commerce. They were also offered the opportunity to participate in the Garrett County Board of Education student intern program.

Margy Pein of the Allegany County Convention and Visitors Bureau and a participant in the One Maryland initiative addressed the GGBA members during their meeting last week. She brought a dual message to the group.

Pein offered membership in the Allegany County marketing and tourism cooperative, along with the benefit of listing and advertising the group's tour guide bookie, The Mountain Side of Maryland. She also spoke of the need for the counties to work together for promotion and growth.

"I see us moving toward regional activity. We're wester Maryland. We can get beyond the parochialism. We really want to bring these barriers down," Pein said.

Speaking for the Garrett County Board of Education, Jo Ann Vent, supervisor of career and technology education, spoke to the GGBA members about the intern program. "It was about four years ago that the chamber of commerce came to us and pointed out that our students were not very customer service oriented and many of them didn't know a lot about Garrett County," she explained.

Taking this cue, and using funds from the School to Career program, Vent said customer service training began in earnest and the intern program started. In response to requests from other businesses in the community, students were taught financial skills and marina technology to prepare them for the market place, she noted.

Another skill training option for students resulted from a joint venture with Allegany County. Vent, who is also a participant in the One Maryland initiative, has worked in the past with Pein on projects shared by the two counties. "Partnering with Allegany College, we received a grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission, to offer autocad (a computer assisted design program) to Garrett County students in the technology academy we are starting," Vent said.

Students who intern with local employers are responsible for their own transportation and are covered by insurance, as this is part of the school day, Vent said. "We would like to expand our intern placement opportunities in the northern part of the county. It is a good opportunity for the student and for your business," she concluded.

TOWN NEWS

The second annual Old-Fashioned Holiday Celebration has been scheduled for Friday, Dec. 3. All groups, organizations, and individuals are welcome to participate by setting up fundraiser tables to sell such items as food, crafts, and drinks. Musical entertainment is being planned, as well as a visit and treat from Santa Claus. Carolers will travel through the town on a hayride. The public is urged to join in the celebration of light-up night and the starting of the holiday season.

FRIENDSVILLE COMMUNITY CENTER DEDICATION

The Friendsville Community Center was dedicated Friday with an open house and ribbon-cutting ceremony.

A prayer was given by Rev. Charlie Ross to start the ceremony. A light lunch was served to over 75 people present and was followed by a short program to pay tribute to those responsible for the center.

Those most recognized were the senior citizens who rallied for over seven years to get their wishes to become a reality.

Duane Yoder, president of the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., was in charge of the program and welcomed the standing-room-only crowd to the occasion.

The idea for the Friendsville Community Center was conceived over seven years ago when seniors decided they wanted a place to meet, stated Eleanor Teats, president of the Friendsville Senior Citizens. It started out as a dream and we are all very happy to see this dream become a reality," she said.

"It took a lot of pushing and pulling from everyone involved" she said, including the eldest senior citizen, Chauncey Friend, who was commended on his efforts. "Chauncey really did a job on them at the state meeting," commented Delegate George Edwards during his speech to the crowd. He also recognized Duane Yoder and the Friendsville community for "stepping up to the plate" to get the required funding.

The Friendsville Community Center is adjoined to the Head Start building at the town park. "A perfect location," stated Garrett County commissioner Fred Holliday. "You've got a military tank on one side that signifies freedom, and Head Start on the other side that represents the future."

Other keynote speakers for the program included Senator John J. Hafer, who expressed pleasure at being a part of the festivities, and Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, who explained the hard work and determination that it took by all involved. "It took a joint effort to make this possible, and we, together did this!" he said.

Gordan Outlaw, member of the Department of Housing and Community Development shared greetings from those who couldn't be present in the celebration and wished everyone "good luck" with the project in the future.

James Macgill, deputy secretary for the Maryland Department of Aging, encouraged the seniors to learn about and use any of the services available by his department.

The Friendsville Community Center was made possible through funding by the Department of Housing and Community Development, Community Development Block Grant, Town of Friendsville, and the Friendsville Senior Citizens. The center is available for use by the town of Friendsville by calling the Garrett County Community Action, and interested persons are encouraged to do so.

The building was designed by Sheldon Deardon and the general contractor was Richard Skipper.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony was held after the program.

AAUW Salutes NHS Student

The Garrett Branch of the American Association of University Women recently honored Stacy Stein, a student from Northern High School, for receiving the AAUW scholarship for 1999-2000. The student was recognized at a dinner held recently in the great room of the Harley Farms Bed and Breakfast, Oakland.

Stein, an honor student, is attending Garrett Community College this year as an Early College Advanced Placement student. She is active in the NHS band program and has worked as a lifeguard at Sunrise Mountain, Markleysburg, Pa., and volunteered at the Mennonite Nursing Home.

One of the career options Stein said she is considering is pediatric medicine.

Accompanying her to the dinner were her mother, Lucy Stein, and her grandparents, Maxine and Clarence Guthrie, all of Grantsville.

Bundle-Up Blanket Drive Under Way

The annual Bundle Up blanket collection campaign is again under way in Garrett County. The drive, which will continue through November 15, is spearheaded by the Community Action Emergency Services department.

Bundle Up coordinator Virginia Fike explained that the blankets collected will benefit Garrett County residents in the event of an emergency or energy crisis during the winter months.

Drop-off sites are scattered about the county. Anyone wishing to contribute a blanket may drop it off at any of the following locations: St. Mark's Lutheran Church, the Oakland and Grantsville locations of the Ruth Enlow Library, Gregg's Pharmacy, the West Marva District Office Church of the Brethren, Arrowhead Market, Bloomington United Methodist Church, and Zion Lutheran Church.

Anyone needing blankets may call Fike, an AmeriCorps member, at 301-334-9431 ext. 121.

MFRW Members Attend Statewide Annual Convention

The Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club members joined Republican women throughout the state for the Maryland Federation of Republican Women's 78th annual convention at the Holiday Inn in Gaithersburg, from Friday, Oct. 29, through Sunday, Oct. 31.

Guest speakers included: Congresswoman Jennifer Dunn, noted for interpreting legislation before the House from a woman's perspective; Heather Neuert, government affairs consultant and media commentator who specializes in health care and retirement issues; Ellen Sauerbrey, national committee woman; and Mary Jo Arndt, president of the National Federation of Republican Women and the National Republican Committeewoman of Illinois. Arndt also introduced the newly elected officers.

At the convention MFRW held workshops on Caring for America/Outreach Program and Campaign Activities. Several resolutions were passed, including "to encourage Congress to utilize the government surplus to reduce the national debt, stabalize Social Security and Medicare, and to improve the country's health care system and education" and "to encourage all MFRW members to gather facts on environmental issues and contract congressional representatives to promote sound public policy on such issues."

Senatorial candidates and elected officials along with 150 Republican women attended the convention.

The president of MFRW is Ann Horner Granados of Ocean City, and Marilyn Dankner, Montgomery County regional chairman, was the event coordinator.

MFRW is the state's largest women's political organization, with 1,700 members in 40 clubs throughout the state. It is part of the National Federation of Republican Women, with 107,000 members, the foremost women's political organization in the world.

Women interested in becoming a member are encouraged to contact club president Nita Roberts at 301-387-4026.

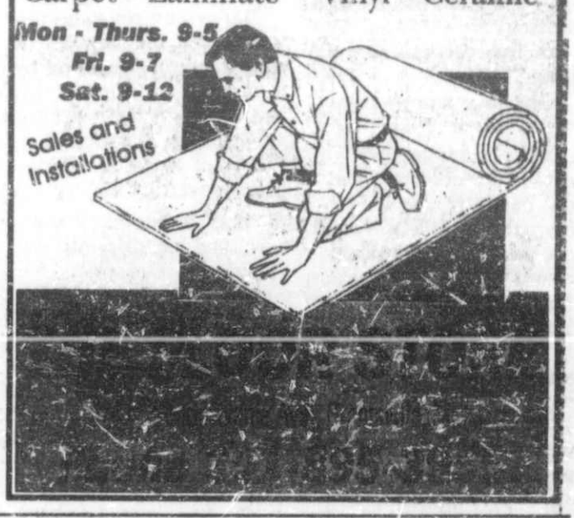
ON A PERSONAL NOTE
by: Lucretia Sines

At a time when the news is filled with hate crimes and tragedies, Y2K worries and political campaigns, I appreciate more and more the small town that I am lucky enough to live in — a small town that has people who know and care about each other and are willing to go the limits for a good cause.

I recently attended the dedication of the Friendsville Community Center, a laughter-filled place that was packed with very excited, happy, and emotionally proud citizens who had worked hard to achieve a goal.

From the moment I walked into the center, I was greeted with happy faces and couldn't help but feel proud to be a citizen of Friendsville. I am very thankful for the hard work that everyone involved did to build a meeting place, not just for senior citizens, but a place that will benefit our whole community.



It is a bright and cheery place, the perfect spot for a group of citizens with the love and respect that they show toward one another, and the view into the future that they can see.

Eleanor Teats said it well when she told the crowd, "We are proud to have been a part of this center, so that when the little ones in Head Start get to be our age, they can say that they have something."

While everyone was waiting for the program to begin, the children form Head Start paraded in their Halloween costumes through the new center for the grateful citizens. It was a very appropriate gesture, one that you might not get in a big city, and especially one that is not heard of on the news.

Thanks to everyone involved for adding yet another good thing about our little town of Friendsville.

Small Grain Yields Are Up In Maryland

The Maryland Small Grains report, provided by over 500 farmers surveyed in September, is presented by the Maryland Ag Statistics Service.

The winter wheat yield in Maryland for 1999 averaged 60 bushels per acre, 10 bushels more than last year's estimate of 50 bushels per acre, but eight bushels below the record yield of 1997. Winter wheat production, at 12 million bushels, was almost 12% more than 1998's production level of 10.75 million bushels. Harvested acreage for 1999 was 200,000 acres, down 15,000 acres from 1998. This is the lowest harvest level since 1993.

Barley production amounted to 4 million bushels, up 16% from a year ago. The barley yield was estimated at 80 bushels per acre, up 16 bushels from 1998 and was harvested from 50,000 acres. This year tied the record yield from 1997.

The oat crop was harvested from 5,000 acres, 2,000 less than in 1998. The oat yield averaged 51 bushels per acre, one bushel more than 1998's 50 bushels per acre. Oat production came to 255,000 bushels. This was a 27% drop from 1998.

The rye yield was estimated at 31 bushels per acre, one bushel more than 1998. Rye harvested acres was estimated at 5,000 acres, up 2,000 acres from 1998. Rye production was 155,000 bushels.

Across the United States wheat production totaled 2.32 billion bushels in 1999, up less than 1% from the last forecast, but down 9% from 1998. Most of the production increase from the last forecast is due to the change in winter wheat production. Grain area is 54.3 million acres, down 8% from last year. The U.S. yield is 42.7 bushels per acre, down half a bushel from last year's record high. Barley production in 1999 is estimated at 284 million bushels, up 1% from the last forecast but down 19% from last year's estimate. This is the lowest production since 1953. Average yield per acre, at 59.5 bushels, is down 0.5 bushels from 1998. The area harvested for grain is estimated at 4.78 million acres, 19% less than a year ago. This is the lowest acreage since 1900.

Ag Prices In State Reported

Barley and soybeans appear to be the only bright spot for prices received by Maryland farmers this month. Soybeans improved 14 cents on the bushel, a 3% price increase. Barley price moved up eight cents to $1.43 a bushel. Wheat, corn, and hay prices all declined.

Livestock prices didn't fare much better, according to the Md. Ag. Statistics Service, as beef cow, hog, chicken, and egg prices were down. Broiler prices moved up two cents and milk prices went up $2.30 per cwt.

On the national level, wheat, corn, oats, and soybean prices all moved up.

Estimating Winter Hay for the Beef Herd

The following is a rule-of-thumb for determining hay demand for your herd. Estimate Hay Available. It would be best to weigh a few bales over a local set of truck scales. We perhaps incorrectly assume that all big bale packages weigh 1,000 pounds. Many times, so-called 1,000-pound bales may only weigh 700 to 800 pounds. Remember some of that hay will disappear just while the hay is sitting there. Calculate The Number of Animal Units. One system to use might be the following: Mature cow or bull=1-1.5 unit; Yearling cattle=½ unit; Calves=¼ unit. Figure each unit will eat 30-40 pounds of hay per day (this may account for some feed waste). Example: 25 cows x 1=25; 10 backgrounded steers x ½=5; 10 replacement heifers x ½=5; 1 mature bull x 1.5=1.5. Total=36.5 units.

Let's assume 120 days of feeding hay: 36.5 animal units x 120 days x 30 lbs. of hay/day=131,400 lbs. of hay; 131,400/1,000 pound bales=132 bales or 131,400/800 pound bales=165 bales.

If it is apparent that feed supplies will be inadequate, start considering management options such as selling livestock and seeking alternative feed sources such as corn.

Ag Statistics Reports On Chickens, Eggs

Maryland's laying flocks produced 63 million eggs during August 1999, of which 57 million were table eggs and 7 million were hatching eggs. The average rate of lay was 71%. The average number of layers on hand during August 1999 was 2,875,000. On September 1, 1999, 10.5% of the layers in Maryland were being molted and 31.0% of all layers had been through a molt.

In the United States, egg production totaled 6.96 billion during August 1999, up 4% from 6.69 billion produced during August 1998. Production included 5.87 billion table eggs and 1.10 billion hatching-type eggs. Hatching eggs included 1.03 billion from boiler-type flocks and 65 million from egg-type flocks. The total number of layers during August 1999 averaged 320 million, up 3% from the average for August 1998. August egg production per 100 layers was 2,175 eggs, compared to 2,165 eggs a year earlier. On September 1, 1999, 4.5% of the layers in the U.S. were being molted and 22.3% had been through a molt.

Egg-type chicks hatched during August totaled 35.5 million, up 6% from August 1998. Additional egg-type hatching eggs in incubators totaled 35.3 million on September 1, 1999, up 6% from a year ago. Pullets hatched and intended for future placement in domestic egg-type hatchery supply flocks totaled 318,000 during August 1999, up 72% from the 185,000 replacements hatched in August 1998.

The August 1999 hatch of broiler-type chicks, at 741 million, was up 4% above August of the previous year. There were 620 million broiler-type eggs in incubators on September 1, up 2% from a year earlier. Leading breeders intend to place 7.67 million broiler-type pullet chicks in domestic broiler-type hatchery supply flocks from chicks hatched during August 1999, up 8% compared to a year ago.

Number Of Hogs And Pigs In U.S. Down

U.S. inventory of all hogs and pigs on September 1, 1999, was 60.7 million head. This was 4% below September 1998, but slightly above the revised inventory of 60.7 million for June 1, 1999. Breeding inventory, at 6.29 million head, was down 8% from September 1, 1998, and down 3% from June 1, 1999. Market hog inventory, at 54.4 million head, was 4% below last year, but 1% above last quarter. The average pigs per litter rose to 8.86 pigs saved per litter for the June-August period, compared to 8.72 pigs last year. Pigs saved per litter by size of operation ranged from 7.80 for operations with 1-99 hogs to 9.00 for operations with more than 5,000 hogs and pigs.

All hogs under contract accounted for 31% of the total U.S. inventory. Iowa remained the number one hog state with 15.5 million hogs.

When to Treat for Cattle Lice:

Systemic organophosphate pour-ons & spot-ons and ivermectrin pour-on & injection for lice control on beef and non-lactating dairy cattle are convenient because Garrett County winter, are often very cold, preventing spraying or dipping. Grub treatment before Nov. 1 cutoff date will often not take care of cattle lice problems. Louse eggs are not susceptible to insecticides, and therefore animals should be re-examined about three weeks after treatment to determine if viable lice eggs have hatched and reinfected the herd. Do not use grubicides such as coumaphos (Co-Ral), famphur (Warbex), fenthion (Tiguvon), fenthion (Spotton), phosmet (Prolate, GX-118) or trichiorfon (Neguvon) during November and December on cattle not previously treated for grubs due to possible host-parasite reaction. After January 1, grub larvae have migrated from the spinal canal or esophagus, and usually encyst in the back, and cattle may then be safely treated with grubicides. It is then safer to treat for lice to minimize the host-parasite reaction.

For cattle previously treated for grubs, a second treatment later in the season may become necessary should lice become a problem. The second treatment usually should not be applied sooner than 35 days after the first treatment. Be sure to follow instructions on the label for any safety precautions.

There are spot-ons and pour-ons such as cyfluthrin (Cylence), fenthion (Lysoff, Lice-Chek), ivermectin (Ivomec), lambdacyhalothrin (Saber), and permethrin (Brute, Delice, Expar, Hard-hitter, Permectrin) registered for lice control and applied any time through the autumn and winter months because they do not kill grubs. However, fenthion has a warning of rare (but possible) host parasite reactions. Be sure to follow instructions on the label for any safety precautions.

Notice: The Maryland Private Pesticide Applicator's License. Anyone who needs to obtain the Private Pesticide Applicator's License should plan to take the examination on Tuesday, November 16, 7:30 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension Office. Call 301-334-6960 to make reservations.

4-H Club News

COUNTRY KIDS
by Anissa Jamison
reporter

The Country Kids 4-H Club recently held its monthly meeting. Several reports were given, including one by Sarah Rexrode on 4-H Sunday. Debbie Barnard reported on Alice Hevner's retirement party, and Bobby Barnard spoke about the livestock dinner. Information was also given to the group on the club's Autumn Glory activities and a 4-H Week presentation at Yough Glades Elementary School.

A GCC livestock meeting will be held on November 10 at 7 p.m., and the National Fashion Review will be discussed. Members should bring their 4-H record books to the next meeting so members can help each other complete them.

The club will sell hoagies on November 10, due for delivery on November 17. Each members is asked to sell 10 hoagies and call orders in by November 10. The kinds available are Italian, turkey, and ham and cheese. Contents will be packed separately.

Members brought their pumpkins to the meeting. They were given to members by Jerry Browning, who had planted the seedlings. Vanessa Logan demonstrated fabric creations, using ties to make an ornament, a wreath, and an apron. Nicole Harvey explained the daily weight-gain of her pig, and Sarah Rexrode demonstrated hemming a dress.

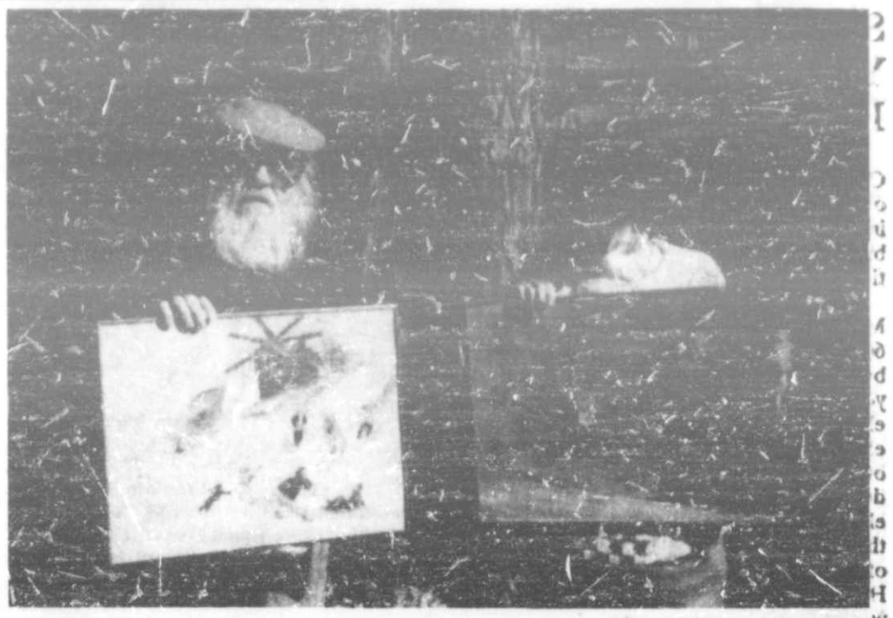
Third Autumn Hopefest Slated At Wisp Resort



Two original oil paintings featuring the combined talents of local artists Mike Zuckerman and Ireta Sweitzer, known as "Mike Ireta," will be auctioned off during the third annual Autumn Hopefest, to be held this Saturday, Nov. 6, at 7 p.m. at Wisp Resort, McHenry. The Hopefest, one of the major fund-raisers for the House of Hope, will feature two auctions: a silent auction whereby participants bid on selected items and a "Chinese auction" where tickets can be purchased for a drawing to take place that evening.

Approximately 50 items have been donated to the House of Hope by area businesses and artisans. "The support we get is tremendous," said an event spokesperson. "Local businesses are so generous. Last year we raised more than $1,300 from the auction alone."

Other items donated include an autographed Rusty Wallace Miller Racing 1:43 diecast car with letter of authenticity, and gift certificates from Marvin's Men's Wear, Water Street Market Place, Glotfelty Enterprises, Herbal Treasures, Garrett Automotive, the Hen House, and Black Bear Tavern. Local artisan Lou DiCarlo donated an original stained glass lamp to be auctioned, and the Cumberland Theatre has donated two season passes for the upcoming season.

Betty's Doll House, Helbig's Jewelers, Four All Seasons Gift & Craft Shoppe, Just Us Styling and Tanning Salon, Jan Florist, the Book Mark'et, Animal Crackers Happyat Horsery, Oakland Golf Club, Annie's Kitchen, Haley Farm, Cobblestone Alley, Schoolhouse Earth, and others have all donated items to be bid on. Artisans such as Sharon Bernard, Terra Cotta, Michael Houpt, "Art by Bart," This 'N' That, Robin Fink, Kasia, Patty Novak, Joshua Brown, and others have also donated original handcrafted items for the auction.

Tickets are still available for the Hopefest and can be purchased for $25 each at Gregg's Pharmacy and Water Street Market Place in Oakland, and at Cobblestone Alley and Pizzazz Pizzeria in McHenry. They will be available until 5 p.m. on Saturday. Tickets will be available at the door, but will cost $30 per person. Ticket price includes an "all-you-can-eat" buffet from The Place Restaurant and Pizzazz Pizzeria, beer, wine, and soft drinks, and dancing to the sounds of DJ Jonny Rock. A cash bar will also be available. The auctions will run throughout the evening.

"MIKE IRETA" is the name of a pair of original oil paintings by local artists Mike Zuckerman and Ireta Sweitzer, pictured above, that will be auctioned off during the third annual Autumn Hopefest, an event that benefits the House of Hope. The Hopefest will be held this Saturday, Nov. 6, at the Wisp Resort, McHenry. See story for details.

Malec Designated SBDC Counselor Of The Year

The Western Maryland Small Business Development Center (SBDC) recently held its annual staff meeting to mark the beginning of its new fiscal year, FY2000, which started October 1. The SBDC's executive director, Sam LaManna, presented the Western Region's Counselor of The Year Award to Mark Malec. The Counselor of The Year award recognizes outstanding achievements in assisting small business clients to package loan requests, start businesses, and expand existing business operations.

The extraordinary counseling efforts turned in by Mark Malec this past year resulted in local businesses obtaining over $4 million in commercial loan capital. Most importantly, the businesses he assisted were able to create (or save) 86 local jobs. Those numbers are fairly significant in a region, such as ours," stated LaMann.

The Small Business Development Center - Western Region is a cooperative effort of the U.S. Small Business Administration, the State of Maryland, and local partnering institutions. The partners that form the organization's local base of support are: Frostburg State University, Allegany College, Hagerstown Community College, Garrett Community College, Allegany County Department of Economic Development, and Frederick County Economic Development. The SBDC offers one-on-one counseling and cost-effective training to existing small businesses and individuals considering a new business venture.

The regional headquarters located along National Highway in LaVale serves Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington counties. The staff of the Western Maryland SBDC are: Alice Growden, consultant for Washington County located at Hagerstown Community College; Linda Checchia, newly hired Frederick County consultant; Sandy Major, consultant for Garrett County; Mark Malec, Allegany County consultant and training coordinator for Allegany College's small business programs; Patti Henry, administrative manager for the region; and LaManna, executive director.

Potential clients may contact the SBDC by calling 800-457-SBDC (7232) or 301-729-2400.

FIRE SAFETY IS EVERYONE'S BUSINESS - Members of the Bittinger VFD visited Grantsville Elementary School last week to mark Fire Prevention Week. They talked with students in the kindergarten classes of Kim Collins and Suzy Norris. Pictured at right is Blair Upole dressed in Chief Pete Buckel's his fire gear, which she modeled for her classmates. All the students received fire helmets to remind them that they, too, are responsible to for fire prevention.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

About a month ago I painted a picture from my memory of the landscape of the Glades, which is my favorite place in the world, that is the beaver dam on the property now belonging to Denny Buckel. When I was growing up it was known as the "Ashby Place." I am never clear about the Ashby family which originally settled on that piece of land on the first ridge of Meadow Mountain. In between the ridges are many areas of wetland. The headwater of the Casselman River is the creek which beavers made into a dam. I always have loved it. It is a perfect mix of water, trees, grass and sky. It was the destination for me whether walking, riding, or skiing.

It makes me crazy that I can go there when I hear it calling to me. My family is not very supportive of my desire to ride again. They are so afraid that I will fall off and hurt myself, and become worse that I am. Nothing could be worse than my utter frustration when I know I could do it and I get no cooperation. I found a nice old gentle pony for myself, but he gets older every month and without my getting started to ride him. Soon it will be too late.

Spring goes, then summer, and now for the last two months with perfectly lovely autumn weather conditions, and finally my friends, Adeline and Billy, Savage managed to fit in their busy schedules to haul three horses over here and we just did it. We planned the ride for a month, but we put it on the back burner with soccer and preparation for winter. Finally, at the Saturday playoff game for the Under-12 soccer team, the Galaxy, we decided that this weather was too good to waste.

First we thought maybe Sunday afternoon would be a good time after the final game, but we both realized it may be too late in the day. So we took advantage of the extra hour in the morning with the time change, and we did it. We were mounted up, and blasted off at 9 a.m.

I was on an old hard-working logging horse, which was a mount for Billy's father. Now he is semi-retired and just occasionally on duty as a "company horse" for inexperienced, non-relative visitors. He was perfectly gentle. But no matter how hard I tried, he would not canter for me. I was dying to canter up the long hill up to the second ridge of Meadow Mountain, where Addy and I always galloped when we were on our many trail rides there at the time when Addy lived back of the Ashby place. When our kids were little and still in bed, we met at 6 a.m. and rode to our heart's content. In those days my mount was "Joey," who was a racing model or a Ferrari. We jumped every log or fence we encountered.

Yesterday, Bill rode a young black gelding who reminded me very much of Joey in just the way he carried his head, the way he walked, and the expression in his eyes. I insisted that Bill jump him over a low split-rail fence. In spite of the fact that he was riding in a western saddle, they did a nice jump.

Before we made it down to the Beaver Dam we took in some favorite attractions including a very old apple tree near a few very old foundation stones. I think that the first homestead was located there. I always stopped by that golden delicious tree for a snack. We ate a few of those apples and threw the cores to the horses. But that did not satisfy me. I had to try to pick a few of the red-yellow apples from a tree right along the trail. I reached Up to try to get the most beautiful apple. I knocked it loose, but it fell and hit me right in the mouth. That's all the injury I suffered except that my seat bones are pretty sore and my leg is so tired from my effort to make "Smokey" go a bit faster.

On that long, inviting stretch, someone put a speed limit along the trail of 30 mph. Most of the time Joey and I would break that speed limit. Of course, the sign was not there then. I wonder who put it up for what traffic? I can't think of anything that could go faster than 30 mph except a galloping horse. You can't drive a car or truck on that particular stretch any faster than at a slow crawl without ruining shocks. If riding a four wheeler if you go very fast there it would be so bumpy that it would throw the rider off. I don't think snowmobiles could go up there more than maybe 10 mph, if that. I never knew of any other modes of transportation back there, except for cross county skiing. I am sure nobody except maybe an Olympic gold medalist could go uphill on skis faster than 30 mph. It looked to me like that sign was an example of unnecessary regulations. Quite honestly, I was dying to violate it. No way could I push "Smokey" out of first gear, less than 5 mph.

One interesting thing that we saw was two piles of bear scat. (That is the correct term for wildlife manure.) Each one was bigger than my head, probably 10 pounds each.

I wish I could jump that nice young black horse that Billy rode. But I know my riding skills are not yet that good. I am pretty sure what I can and can't do, which is the reason I am so annoyed with people who tell me, "You can't do that." My sister Carol told me, "You can't ride in woods without getting thrown off." My riding position yesterday was perfect. My control was very good considering the relative unresponsiveness of Smokey. I am sure that I could ride any decent trained horse. I don't want to get on anything which might buck.

We had to cut the bliss of a few hours that I experienced since 1994 when I first had my aneurism. It was the first time that I felt like myself and really happy. Today, I am pretty saddle sore. I am not used to riding a western saddle and it killed my seat bones. But we had to limit our sightseeing just past the beaver dam and the big tree stand on top of the mountain. We had to rush home because of our kids.

Caitlin and their son Zach, had a big soccer game -- the final game of the playoffs between our second place team, the Galaxy, and the first place team that was undefeated. After a tough game on Saturday, we met another team from Friendsville, the Sisler Lumber team. We won, but it was a close score of 2-1. They kept up that good play on Sunday afternoon, too. But they lost a tough game in Oakland. They may have lost the game, but their spirits were not broken.

After the ride on Sunday I checked the painting of the Beaver Dam in October, but it was remarkably accurate since it was from memory. The colors are right. The red, maroon, gold of tree and the silver/gold of the trees and the silver, gold, pinkish grass was harmoniously muted, yet brilliant, and the water was deep indigo (my favorite color). Just perfect. I can't wait to paint a picture of an apple tree without any leaves remaining, just hundreds of pinkish apples. Bill posed in front of it. I hope my pictures turn out, because I count on them for inspirations for my winter's art.

After Caitlin wrapped up her soccer games, Claire's team, the Breakers, will be going for another championship playoff game this week. So we just have one more kid still playing. It was very crazy trying to keep up with all three girls going to practice, game scheduling, and other running around.

Caitlin played on Saturday on only about four hours of sleep, since she and her friend, Dana Hannibal, attended the Lock-in sponsored by Emmanuel Lutheran Church Youth Group. The 20-plus kids stayed up until 3 a.m. watching movies and playing games. Claire and her friend, Heidi McMillian, from Grantsville attended. Then Heidi and Claire rushed over to Heidi's church in Salisbury for another party on Saturday afternoon and evening.

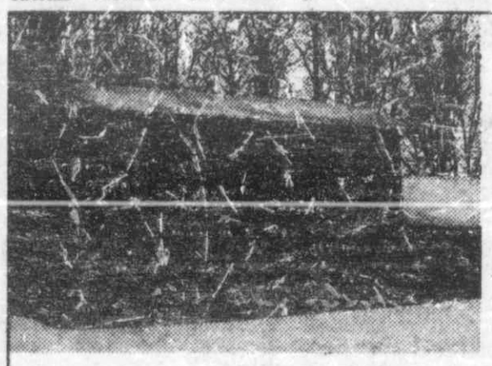
Since it was Halloween weekend our girls were booked solid, with the Fall Festival of Fun at Accident Elementary School, and a dance at Northern Middle School before the Lock-In. They were so busy they barely had a chance to go local trick-or-treating until Sunday evening. Following a night walk organized by Sheila Southerly over a trail back off Feat Bog Road, they saw no sign of the "Bog Monster." Then a quick run to near neighbors and family. They did manage to get over on Beachy Road to Kevin and Caroline Dodge's home. Their almost 3-year-old daughter, Reanna was all dressed up in a red Santa elf costume. We got a preview of Reanna's costume as we passed through Accident on Thursday evening.

I was home on Friday night to receive any kids when the Youth Group trick-or-treaters were supposed to come for UNICEF. I had my donation and plenty of candy for the kids and lighted my cattail torches and our jack-o-lanterns. However, no one showed up. Finally on Saturday evening, Carol Bass drove Emma, Mere, and Megan Voelkel down. Then on Sunday evening after the walk, the Glotfelty cousins arrived. I gave the award for the Best Costume to Elliot Glotfelty, who was dressed as Albert Einstein.

I am glad the holiday is over. Next thing going is the stampede of November birthdays. First one is Kevin Bass on the 5th, followed by mine on the 6th, Carol Voekel on the 12th, Rick McManus on the 13th, and Ferne Beachy on the 11th. These are just a few, as I probably missed many more.

Ellen and Brent Housley and my girls and I finished off the Halloween holiday with a quick incomplete tour of some old cemeteries off the beaten track. We first visited an old Brenneman place along Foxtown Road. It is loaded with members of the Tice family, including the grave of John Tice, born on the Atlantic Ocean in 1833. Richard Brenneman, who now lives on part of the old Brenneman farm, heard that he was born on a ship as his parents were on the way to America. Also buried there were a number of Brennemans, including my grandmother's brother, Roy Brenneman, who died at age of 10 months. His stone is a slim obelisk. My daughters took a rubbing of its inscription. There were quite a lot of unmarked stones of probably infants.

Then we ran over to the corner of Accident-Bittinger and Foxtown roads to see an old graveyard that Richard Brenneman told us about. It is the family of John and Lydia Brenneman and their six children, all who died in 1870. We barely scratched the surface of wonderful old graveyards around here with our ancestors.



As the Breakers prepare for their playoff championship game this week, we are possibly in for cold and even snowy weather.

Sally Poholsky and her mother, Ferne Beachy, visited Ferne's sister, Ruby Orendorf and husband Paul, in LaVale last week. Cindy Stanton also paid a visit to Lea's apartment in Baltimore.

Again visiting for several days with Ruth DiPaolo were the Sacras from Partlow.

Drafting Syllabus, Assessment Report Reviewed By BOE

An update on the state high school assessment testing and a presentation of the proposed syllabus for a new curriculum in drafting were among the items on the agenda for Tuesday night's meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education.

Drafting Program

The program of drafting studies outlined by Jo Ann Vent, supervisor of career and technology education, would replace the current two-part drafting course. The program, divided into the three curricular areas of architectural and mechanical drawing and auto cad, would permit students to select drafting courses that pertain to skill areas such as building trades, automotive, or machine tool.

"This program allows flexibility for students to concentrate on their particular area of drafting interest. As a student enhances his or her drafting skills, an additional program that incorporates real world work experience is available," Vent noted.

Each of the drafting courses suggested in this program of studies would be offered as a one-year, one-credit course. A program "completer" must complete four credits of the drafting sequence. "The drafting program is project-oriented. Students complete both individual projects that teach problem-solving and thinking skills, as well as group projects which emphasize communications and team work," Vent explained.

Copies of the working draft of the curriculum have been placed on display at the board of education office in Oakland. Members of the community are welcome to view and comment on the curriculum. It will be available on weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. from Monday, Nov. 11,

RESISTING ARREST? Responding to a single-bovine mishap on Route 219 in Accident early Wednesday morning, investigating officer Tfc. Seaman from the McHenry barrack of Maryland State Police encountered a "juvenile female" cow frolicking about. Investigation revealed that, following a "breaking and exiting incident," the bovine vacated the farm premises and gamboled across Route 219 onto a neighboring property. With assistance from Accident residents Clark Kolb and his wife Fannie Mae (not pictured) and Cory Bergstrom, the officer took the young cow into custody, and with considerable athletic maneuvering and stopping of traffic, convinced her to re-cross the highway. The critter was later released to the custody of her pasture. No charges were filed against the heifer.

To our military veterans, living and dead, who defended our nation and protected freedom all over the world, we thank you.

Annual Rotary Christmas Gift Project Planned

The Oakland Rotary Christmas project trees will begin appearing in local business establishments the week of Thanksgiving. The trees will display cards, each requesting a gift for a needy Garrett County child.

Rotary members encourage people to visit a tree, take a card or two, purchase the item listed, and return the gift to the tree by December 15. Those who wish to help with the Rotary project, are asked to mark their calendars to help with the preparations for distribution of the gifts and food baskets on December 17 and delivery on December 18.

For information or to volunteer to help, persons may call Kathy Zimmerman at 301-334-2820 or Doug Riley at 301-334-8798. Anyone who prefers to make a tax deductible contribution may mail a check to Oakland Rotary Club, PO Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550.

Contractors Hope To Form Garrett Licensing Brd., Provide More Training

In an effort to help local plumbers, builders, electricians, and other tradesmen obtain more training and licensing, two local men have proposed the formation of a Garrett County licensing board. James Garner, a county electrical inspector, and Robert Heilig, a local contractor and master electrician, introduced their idea to the Garrett County commissioners last week.

"Right now, the only licensing available to local workers is the state's master electrician license. This is extremely difficult to obtain, and the guys have to go to Frederick or beyond for the test," Garner said. "A local board would be able to offer training and licensing in more specialized areas, like heating, ventilation, and air conditioning (HVAC) only, or residential electric only."

Any costs that would be incurred by the formation of the board would be covered by license fees, Heilig and Garner said. Fees that are currently paid to the state by master electricians could be redirected to the local board. The local fees would most likely be less than state tariffs.

"We're not asking for any county money. We're confident that it would be self-supporting," Garner said.

Because local licensing is currently unavailable, the few master electricians in the area are held responsible for anyone they may contract to do work. If a laborer is not licensed, he is also uninsured, and the contractor has no recourse should the work be done inadequately.

"The construction business around here is having a hard time finding good electricians. If we had more training held locally, we could start to fix that problem," Heilig said.

Both men explained that the formation of a board would be conducive to bringing more training sessions into the county. The Maryland Electric League (MEL) works with county boards, offering training sessions in areas such as fiber optics, wiring, motors and controls, and other advanced techniques. Currently, local tradesmen have to travel to other parts of Maryland to obtain adequate training because the MEL only goes into counties where boards have been established.

The board would also be able to be more aware of any problems in the local construction business. The members would know who was licensed for specific work, as well as who was not.

"We are not trying to put anyone out of business, or tell the homeowner that he can't do his own work," Heilig told the commissioners. "What we want to do is offer more training and licensing to people who can't necessarily make the trips downstate. We want to see these guys get decent wages. And we want to do

List Of Holiday Events In Accident Being Coordinated

The times and places of various holiday events are currrently being planned for this year's Christmas celebration in Accident. The festivities will be scheduled for the weekend of December 10-11.

The activities are slated to begin Friday evening at St. Paul's Lutheran Church a music program, the annual lighting of the town Christmas tree, and caroling throughout the town. To end the evening, refreshments will be served and Santa Claus will pay a visit.

Saturday's activities will include a craft show and bake sale, a luncheon, and tours of homes, churches, and the Drane House. The traditional festival of music, featuring the Accident Concert Band and the Community in Harmony Chorus, will be held Saturday evening.

These events are sponsored by the town of Accident, the Accident Cultural and Historical Society, AAL Branch #5821, and St. Paul's Lutheran Church. For more information person may call Town Hall at 301-746-6346.

A listing of times and places for all events will be released in the near future.

Governor Selects Board Members; Yoder Appointed

Governor Parris N. Glendening recently appointed 11 of the 13 board members to manage the Joseph Fund. One local resident, Duane Yoder, was selected for this position. Yoder is the executive director of the Garrett County Community Action Committee.

The Joseph Fund is a new state program which sets aside financial reserves during times of economic prosperity in order to help meet the emergency needs of low-income Marylanders during economic downturns. The fund was proposed to the governor by members of the Baltimoreans United in Leadership Development (BUILD) and was passed earlier this year.

Under the new legislation, the state must commit a minimum of $10 million for the first year and $5 million annually thereafter from the budget surplus to the Joseph Fund. The monies can be used only to provide emergency funding to state and locally based anti-poverty, health, and community-based organizations, many of which will suffer both increased demands for services and re-duced funding during difficult economic times.

Oakland Man Faces Charges After Accident

An Oakland man was charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) after his vehicle ran off a Mtn. Lake Park roadway Thursday night, traveled through a parking lot, and struck a parked car, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Christopher Shawn DeWitt, 21, sustained minor injuries as a result of the accident, which occurred shortly after 10 p.m. when his Ford sedan veered off Southern Crosscut Road in its southbound approach to Oakland Drive. The deputy's report stated that DeWitt's vehicle left over 100 yards of tire and skid marks as it traversed a grassy area and traveled through the parking lot. He was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and released from custody on his own recognizance after being charged with DWI and leaving the scene of property damage only accident.

In other sheriff's news, a Mtn. Lake Park man was arrested and charged with DWI, possession of marijuana, and leaving the scene of a property damage only accident in the wake of a Wednesday, Oct. 20, vehicle

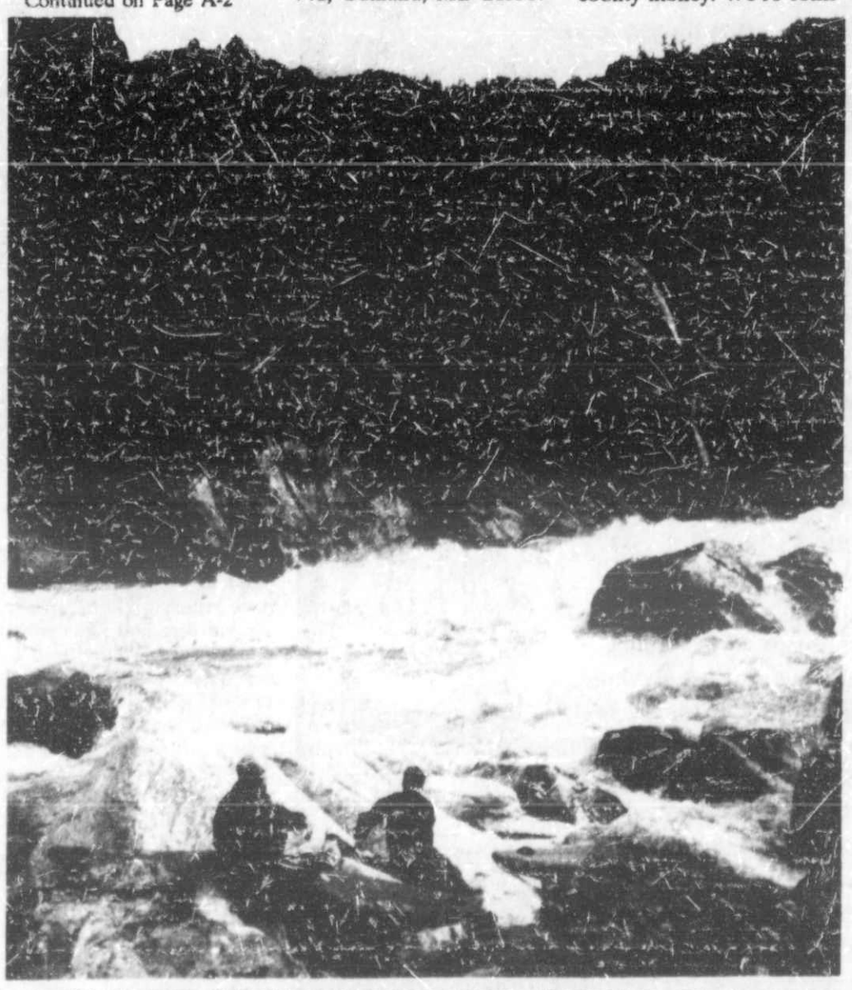
Woman Injured In Collision On Garrett Highway

A woman was injured last Friday when the 1993 Buick Regal she was driving on Garrett Highway was struck by a 1994 Western Star dump truck. The accident occurred at 10:26 a.m.

According to the report filed by Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack, Freda L. Iden, 75, Oakland, was making a right turn onto Sand Flat Road from Garrett Highway when James C. Vinci, 33, Lonaconing, operating the truck, approached from behind Iden and failed to reduce speed. Investigating officer Tfc. Clapper reported that Vinci's truck skidded onto the shoulder and then collided with Iden's car as it was turning.

Deep Creek VFC and Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported Iden to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Vinci was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.



Fails To Stop At Light

The intersection of Rroutes 219 and 40 in Grantsville was the scene of an early morning accident on Saturday, Nov. 6. According to the police report, Samantha M. Fike, 18, Grantsville, was westbound on Route 40, east of Route 219, around 12:38 a.m., when her vehicle was struck by a car driven by Lori E. Bodes, 19, Meyersdale, Pa.

Bodes had allegedly failed to stop for a flashing red light at the intersection.

Grantsville VFD and Northern Rescue Squad responded to the scene. Both LOCAL PADDLER RECOUNTS TIBETAN KAYAKING ADVENTURE - Friendsville resident Roger Zbel recently described for The Republican his journey through a previously unexplored river gorge in Tibet that took place one year ago at this time. The National Geographic-sponsored expedition prematurely ended in tragedy when one of four kayakers, Doug Gordon of Utah, capsized in the raging rapids of the Tsangpo River and was swept away to his death. Zbel, left, and fellow expedition member Tom McEwan of Washington, D.C. are shown above along the bank of the treacherous river. The magnitude of the remote landscape is brought into perspective when one realizes that the huge rock in the middle of the rapids would dwarf a house and the steep slope on the other side of the river rises hundreds of feet into the air. An account of Zbel's journey through the setting of the fabled Shangri-La and back home to his wife Nancy and daughter Carl begins on page A-19.

Youth Injured In Explosion

A 15-year-old boy was hospitalized after an explosion in his Mtn. Lake Park home Friday afternoon. The youth sustained facial and hand injuries while handling a homemade explosive device in his basement. He was able to call 911 after the explosion and was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

Deputy state fire marshals have determined that the 4:18 p.m. incident on D Street involved an explosive device made by the youth. No other residents were home at the time of the explosion. A search of the home uncovered no other explosive devices. The home sustained no damage from the heat.

The investigation of the explosion is continuing and charges are pending.

A SIGN OF SOLIDARITY was displayed by Garrett County's two high school band directors following Saturday's Chapter 13 Tournament of Bands championships, held at Westminster High School. The Northern High School Band successfully defended its Chapter 13 Group I title, while the Southern Garrett Marching Band finished in third place, which qualified both to compete in this Saturday's Mid-Atlantic TOB Championships in Scranton, Pa. Pictured from left above are Rick Clever, SHS director; Eric Gallagher, NHS interim director; and Marge Clever, assistant SHS director. Both bands will leave Friday for Saturday's competition at Lackawanna Stadium in Scranton. Only the top 25 Group I bands from a multiple-state region are selected for the championships, based upon their scores and success in the regular season. See other photos and story in this section.

High School Assessment

Martin Green, director of secondary education 9-12, presented an update to the board members on the high school assessment program being developed by the state Department of Education.

The process has involved the formation of five testing tools to measure student achievement in the core subjects of English I, algebra, geometry, government, and biology. CTB/McGraw Hill and Measurement Incorporated have been contracted by the state for this project. Segments of the assessment tool are now ready to be evaluated for inclusion in the completed package.

A series of tests will be conducted involving approximately 34,000 students from 19 local school systems across the state. "The first field test is scheduled for January 2000 and Garrett County will participate. Southern High School has been selected to administer assessments in biology, geometry, and algebra," Green explained.

There will be no feedback to the schools from the January testing as that is not the purpose of the trial. Additional field testing will take place in May and will involve all students. A time line established for the field testing of the assessment tool is subject to revision and change.

By current calculation, the students now in the seventh grade — the class of 2005 — will be the first to actually be assessed with this testing series, Green explained.

Other Issues

The board heard the proposal for the purchase of an FCC-licensed radio system for all school buses. School superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets and Arthur Refosco, director of the transportation department of the school system, informed the board members that they have discussed the need for radios over the past three years.

"I believe the system will greatly enhance the operation and safety of our transportation department," Dr. Teets reported. He also explained because there have been cost savings in the transportation budget, the price of a lease-purchase agreement on radios should be covered.

The board concurred with the opinions stated by Refosco and Dr. Teets as to the benefits of increased safety that would result from radio communication with school buses.

The board will advertise for Request For Proposals to purchase such radios.

A proclamation designated national education week was signed by board members. A copy of the proclamation will be presented to each school for display.

A SPARK FROM A WORK TRAIN is believed to have been the cause of a brush fire just south and east of Oakland yesterday that caused the evacuation of the Yough Glades Elementary School. Firefighters from the Oakland, Deer Park, and Gorman volunteer departments were called to the scene, located near the State Highway Administration garage along Weber Road, at 12:23 p.m. Tall brush, dry conditions, and gusty winds caused the blaze to spread quickly, with flames coming within about 100 feet of the school before they were contained. An estimated 15 acres were burned, according to Ernie Metz of the Department of Natural Resources, which also sent a firefighting unit. The work train, which is equipped with high-pressure water hoses, was used to help contain the fire. Students were bused to Dennett Road Elementary School, and returned to Yough Glades about one-half hour later. Also responding was the Southern Rescue Squad; however, no injuries were reported. Oakland units were called back to the scene at 3:53 when it rekindled. In another brush fire this week, about five acres of ground off Fingerboard Road burned on Monday, with crews from Oakland and Terra Alta summoned at 4:11 p.m. The rains received last night and this morning will temporarily relieve the dry conditions; however, rainfall remains well below average.

Faces Charges

mishap.

Steven Ray Thomas, 37, was traveling on Pleasant Valley Road shortly after midnight when his Chrysler sedan ran off the roadway near Doc Barnard Road and struck an embankment and a fence. He was found a short time later. The suspected marijuana was found during a search at the jail. Thomas remains incarcerated, with bond set at $7,000.

A drug arrest took place in the Hutton area Thursday night after a traffic stop on Route 39 at 10 p.m.

Christopher Lee Guthrie, 21, Oakland, a passenger in a vehicle that was stopped for speeding, was charged with possession of marijuana, codeine pills, and drug paraphernalia after deputies discovered two bags of suspected marijuana and two suspected codeine pills lying on the ground next to the passenger side window along with a small pile of pink feathers. The feathers appeared to match the feathers on a roach clip (of the type sometimes used for smoking marijuana cigarettes) that Guthrie had in his possession inside the vehicle.

Guthrie remained incarcerated this morning on a $2,500 bond. Another subject in the vehicle, Thomas Edward Gank, 19, Oakland, was cited for possession of alcohol by a person under 21.

Francesco Giovanni Pisano, 30, McHenry, was charged with first and second degree assault and reckless endangerment after his arrest Tuesday morning at his Rock Lodge Road residence. He is alleged to have struck a visitor with a large object and reportedly tried to push him out a second story window during the 3:45 a.m. incident. Pisano was subsequently released after posting a $10,000 bond.

Victor Frank Gardea Jr., 20, Accident, faces charges of third degree burglary and destruction of property which were filed yesterday after the investigation of an Oct. 23 burglary in the Crellin area. He remains held on a $5,000 bond after allegedly taking part in a burglary of a Preston Lane residence.

Benjamin John Shaffer, 25, Deer Park, faces charges of DWI, possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, carrying a concealed weapon, and illegal transportation of a handgun after a Thursday, Oct. 14, traffic stop along Sand Flat Road. A subsequent vehicle search uncovered a pistol and a large machete under the front seat, as well as two suspected marijuana cigarettes. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

A traffic stop along Rt. 135 near Deer Park resulted in the arrest of Clint Derrick Nelson, 27, Bloomington, shortly after midnight on Saturday, Oct. 16.

After stopping Nelson for speeding the deputy observed what appeared to be a military ammunition box in the vehicle. A consent search ensued, and a handgun with a loaded magazine was found in second box in the passenger compartment, and a shotgun and numerous items of various ammunition were also found in the vehicle, as well as a credit card that did not belong to Nelson.

Nelson was charged with illegal transporting of a handgun and possession of another individual's credit card without permission, and was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

Several individuals in addition to those previously mentioned were arrested by deputies and charged with DWI recently: Peter John Ligas III, 27, MLP; Thomas Matthew Tusing, 21, McHenry; and Kathy Ann Bolding, 42, Taba Ann Hinebaugh, 28, Jeremy Shawn Baker, 23, all of Oakland.

Several persons were cited for underage possession of alcohol at the scene of a Saturday, Oct. 9, party at a Doerr Road residence: Nathaniel Richard Kauffman, 20, Accident; Jason Allen Artice, 19, and Stephen Matthew Hinebaugh, 19, both of Friendsville; Andria Michelle McRobie, 18, Grantsville; and Justin Robert Heslop, 18, McHenry. Several juveniles on the scene were cited as well. A subjects were released o the scene.

Capitals' Mascot "Slapshot" To Entertain At '99 Workout For Hope

The Washington Capitals' mascot Slapshot, pictured, and the Pittsburgh Pirates' Parrot will be on hand to help out with this year's Workout for Hope, a dance-exercise family event that raises funds for the House of Hope. The workout will be held on Sunday, Nov. 21, from 2 until 5 p.m. at the Southern High School gymnasium.

Workout for Hope is being sponsored by the House of Hope and coordinated by Brenda's Body Shop.

"The preparations for our third Workout for Hope having been going well," said Brenda Brosnihan, event coordinator. "The workout not only helps raise funds for the House of Hope, but also sends a positive message to youth about health, fitness, and the importance of community and volunteerism."

Over the past two years, the fund-raiser has resulted in over $6,000 in pledges and donations.

"Our goal this year is not to depend on a few people, but to encourage more people to participate in the pledging and try to exceed our total from last year," said Lexi Frey, co-coordinator.

The fund-raiser strategy is this: Participants agree to exercise for at least one 30-minute segment. They seek pledges of support from friends and family. The participants will have a chance to earn various prizes for their efforts. In addition to the prize incentive for the pledges, there will also be grand prizes.

Organizers said the three-hour event will be "action-packed" with workouts and entertainment. Performing groups from Brenda's Body Shop will include the Power Pac, Energizers, Mat Mates, Tryhards, Jr. Jazz, and junior and senior dance teams. The Northern High School cheerleaders are also in the line-up, slated to "add some spirit to the event with cheers and a dance routine," Brosnihan said.

Another highlight will be the introduction of the four athletes training to compete in the 2000 Sportaerobics National Competition next April.

The Workout for Hope will feature a Mardi Gras theme. Youth participants turning in a pledge sheet will receive Mardi Gras masks, beads, and other prizes. Two workout segments are scheduled, with the first geared toward children of all ages, featuring limbo games, a parachute, balloons, and a Mardi Gras parade. The second workout will include some easy-to-follow routines to some of the latest pop music hits, Brosnihan said.

Middle and high school students may receive up to three hours of community service for participating in the workout. Those interested in taking part may pick up a pledge sheet at Brenda's Body Shop. There is no admission to the event; however, spectators will be requested to make a donation at the door or to donate a non-perishable food item for the House of Hope food pantry.

For more information about the event, persons may contact Brenda's Body Shop at 301-334-1275.

Rev. Dana Umbel Earns Doctorate

Dana Umbel, former local resident and pastor of Good Shepherd Baptist Church of Accident, was recently awarded his doctorate in pastoral theology from Trinity Theological Seminary, graduating with highest honors. After completing a Bible diploma, Graduate of Theology degree, and B.A. Ministry degree, Umbel has continued graduate studies through summer school and module classes for a number of years.

As he worked toward his doctorate, Umbel completed three master's degrees (M.A. Ministry, M.A. Biblical Studies, and M. Divinity equivalency), through Temple Baptist Seminary of Chattanooga, Tenn. Pastor Umbel also completed his doctoral studies at Temple before transferring to Trinity for an additional semester and an alternate research project. His final research explored a possible relationship between spiritual gifts and personality types.

Dr. Umbel and his wife Nancy reside at Fort Ashby, W.Va., where he has served as pastor for the past seven years. The Umbels have three children, Matthew, Brian, and Laura. He is the son of Mrs. Betty Wampler of Friendsville and the son-in-law of Charles Strauss of Accident.

it right."

The members of the proposed board would be individuals who are not necessarily directly involved in the local construction business, but who have experience and knowledge in that area. Retired builders or electricians would be desired, as well as a firefighter knowledgeable of fire marshal codes and/or an individual who works within the school system or a manufacturing plant (posing no competition or conflict of interest).

"No one entity will control the board, or dictate what the board does," Heilig said. "We want to do this to help local people, not hinder them."

John Nelson, director of the county's office of planning and zoning, was present for the meeting and expressed his concern that the bureaucracy of such a board could possibly complicate the workings of his office. He asked Garner and Heilig if it would be his office's responsibility to determine if a person was eligible to receive a permit.

"Will we be responsible for determining if that person is authorized by the local board?" Nelson asked. Garner said it would possibly be an added step in the permitting process, but that it would most likely not complicate the system significantly. He noted that the only other counties that do not have licensing boards are Howard, Allegany, and Somerset.

Garner said the local tradesmen have also discussed the idea of forming a joint licensing board with Allegany County, mostly because a number of local workers are contracted to do jobs in both counties. The commissioners did not appear to support the idea, but did ask that Garner and Heilig explore how two or three other counties conduct their licensing boards.

"I'd just like to see how it's done in other counties," Commissioner Wendell Beitzel said. Garner said he could easily obtain that information, which he said would also answer Nelson's questions.

Both men said that whether or not the board was formed, the local tradesmen are working to form a Garrett County association of the area's electrical, heating and cooling, and plumbing professionals.

"We haven't had one person speak out against this yet," Heilig said. "We believe the majority of the county's workers want to move in this direction."

NOV. 15 IS AMERICA RECYCLES DAY — The Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling is joining thousands of other recyclers across the country in celebrating the third annual America Recycles Day on Monday, Nov. 15. The theme of this year's event is "For Our Children's Future . . . Buy Recycled Today." "America Recycles Day is all about making the world a better place for children," said Gary Love, director of the local recycling office. "We can keep recycling working by buying products made from the materials we separate for recycling. You can find these products easily when you shop for groceries, hardware, auto parts, office supplies, and more. 'Safe bets' that almost always have recycled content are steel products, aluminum cans, glass containers, paper egg cartons, and cereal boxes. Other items that may have recycled material are decking, clothing, paper products, carpeting, pencils, and playground equipment." County residents can support America Recycles Day by pledging to step up their efforts to recycle and to buy recycled items. By making a pledge, Americans 18 and over will become eligible to win the "American Green Dream House," which is a new home made of recycled content material. Young-sters under the age of 18 who complete a pledge card are eligible to win a family trip to Walt Disney World, or a remanufactured computer for the winner and a computer network for the school of the winner's choice. The winners will be chosen from a random drawing of the pledge cards on Dec. 15 for the youth prizes and Dec. 20, 2000, for the "Green Dream" home. America Recycles Day pledge cards can be obtained at the county landfill, local refuse collection sites, the courthouse, and the Ruth Enlow Library. For more information on America Recycles Day or recycling in general, persons may call Love's office at 301-387-0322 or E-mail gcsw@gcnet.net. Pictured as they proclaim the recycling celebration are, left to right, Commissioners Wendell Beitzel and Fred Holliday, Nikki Brown, assistant recycling coordinator, Love, and Commissioner Chairman Ernie Gregg.

Lives on the Line...

Fire Prevention Week was observed recently, and just two weeks ago we were reminded by the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, and others, to check the batteries in our smoke alarms when we turned our clocks back to Eastern Standard Time. We wonder how many local residents really heeded this advice.

With the cold nights now upon us, and the resumption of the use of our woodstoves and furnaces, it is the most logical time to check those smoke alarms and make certain they are functioning properly. It is a Maryland law that all residences have smoke alarms, but if they don't work, having them is pointless.

The student body president of nearby Fort Hill High School, 17-year-old Melody Williams, died in a house fire last week, as did her 5-year-old sister, when fire destroyed their house in south Cumberland. The girls were sleeping on the second floor of the two-story log-style structure. Their parents were sleeping on the first floor, but were not awakened by the fire until it was too late to alert their daughters. There were no smoke alarms in the house, let alone smoke alarms with dead batteries.

The last thing this family needs right now is for someone to tell them "I told you so," or, "You know, if you had smoke alarms in your house, you probably would have all survived." Such words only increase the pain of their loss, and certainly cannot change what has happened. There are many houses that still do not have smoke alarms, and there are most likely just as many that have alarms that are not in working order.

But certainly we can all learn from this tragedy and thus honor the lives of these children by not allowing their deaths to be in vain. Because more and more people now have smoke alarms in their homes, fire deaths in Maryland have decreased by 40% over the past 10 years. But we can do better. If every single home had working alarms, that percentage would probably double.

Smoke alarms cost about $6 each, and batteries less than half of that. It takes 15 minutes to install an alarm and about 30 seconds to install a new battery. We hope that the persons reading this column who do not presently have functioning smoke alarms in their houses will put this newspaper down right now, at this moment, and address this deficiency. The lives of everyone in the house are literally on the line, every single night.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Our third grade classes are working on a special project and we would like your readers to help us. Please send us a post card to show and tell us about your area. We want to learn about all 50 states. Our address is: Ms. Armstrong's 3rd Grade Class, Newfield Elementary School, 247 Main St., Newfield, NY 14867.

We hope to hear from you soon. Thank you for helping us with our project.

Sincerely,
Noelle Moseley

To the Editor:

In denying the declining degeneration of humanity you deny God's word, the Bible, and accept the evolutionary lie of mankind's ascension to perfection. It seems that II Peter 3:3-5 was written especially for scoffers like you. Using italics on the phrase "conservative" Christian leaders denotes your disdain for fundamentalists who believe in the virgin birth, sinless life, atoning death, miraculous resurrection, and bodily ascension of God's son. You have now extended your 'wall of separation" beliefs from the educational area into the political one. A more proper title would be "wall of rejection," as it expresses freedom from religion rather than freedom of religion.

I can't speak for past centuries, but in the well-documented one that I live, Hitler and Stalin together killed between 100 and 200 million humans, and the USA is murdering 1½ million babies each year by abortion, yet you imply things remain as in former times. Baloney!

Bob Groves

To the Editor:

In Garrett County the roads are in bad condition in many areas: for example, Garrett, Wilson Corona, and Mayhew Inn roads. In addition, there are many more roads that need work.

The roads need to be in good condition, not only to help maintain the quality of citizen's vehicles, but also for emergency vehicles. The fire trucks and rescue squads need to travel at a high rate of speed, and if they need to go on these roads that are in bad condition it could create more problems. The emergency vehicles could overturn or hit a tree very easily if they hit a big enough pot hole. They also lose speed in rescue operations because they have to slow down on some of the roads due to the cracks, holes, and sharp turns. I think that the cracks and holes should be filled in.

As a teenager, I will be driving soon, and I know that my family would like to be assured that I, along with other teenagers, will be safe. I will be a responsible and careful driver, but I need the roads to be safe and in good condition all year-round. Our county roads need serious work, and I hope the county acts soon to address my concerns.

Sincerely,
Charlene Thomas

To the Editor:

I'm back from the Marine Corps Marathon, which was held Oct. 24 in Washington, D.C. It was exhilarating! Great weather, 50 degrees (although a little windier than was really comfortable). Approximately 14,500 runners crossed the starting line and 14,364 finished. I was one of those, with a time of 4:52:44 for the 26.2 miles. I am not fast, but in some ways it's harder on us slower runners...the winners are done with their race before those in my league reach the halfway point!

Many thanks to all who supported my Leukemia Society Team in Training campaign. The total amount I was able to raise in this event was $2,534, part of $100,000 raised by Maryland runners...and I had worried that I might not reach the $1,600 goal! I underestimated you folks. I thank you so much. Combined with the funds I raised through the Alaska marathon this spring, my own total for the year is $8,800. I feel I have done something worthwhile. The Leukemia Society is entirely volunteer, with all of its funds coming from contributions and donations, 80% of it going directly into programs of research, public education, and direct patient assistance. With your help, we have hope of finding cures for leukemia, lymphoma, Hodgkins disease, and myeloma.

Thanks especially to Ryan King, Dennis Evans, and Becky Diller for providing me with inspiration and courage to continue as I prepared for and ran this event. They are each running personal races a lot longer than 26.2 miles.

Sincerely,
Ellie Hamilton

To the Editor:

I was very upset to read Ms. Amber Close's letter in which she unfairly brands the people of Garrett County as being racist. I needed to read her letter several times, as I couldn't believe that she was describing the Garrett County that I have grown to love so dearly, not only for its physical beauty, but for its beautiful people. I was heartened to read Mr. Jeremy Brenneman's reaction to Ms. Close's letter, as he so effectively expressed the wrong in stereotyping a community because of the views held by a few.

Though I am not of the same generation as Ms. Close, I, too, am an Asian. My Caucasian husband, who grew up in Garrett County, and I spend parts of each year in Garrett County; we spend the rest of the year in Hawaii. Throughout the 40 years we have been married, I have never encountered in Garrett County any prejudice against me because of my ethnicity. On the contrary, the people of Garrett County have been most cordial and friendly to me.

I have had the privilege of traveling through all 50 of the United States. During my travels, I have encountered some behavior that may stem from non-acceptance of Asians. Examples of these are being ignored at restaurants and being spoken to in a rude manner. These actions are few; in no way do I reach the conclusion that all people in those areas share the same attitudes as the people who treat me unkindly. To date, I have not encountered any such behavior throughout my stays in Garrett County.

Through the years, a number of my relatives from Hawaii have visited us in Maryland. Their impressions of life in Garrett County have been nothing but favorable. Should racism exist in Garrett County to the degree Ms. Close describes, I am sure that they would not be as anxious as they are to make return trips to Garrett County.

The term "Oriental" is not at all offensive to me. In Hawaii, we use it without malice to describe people whose ancestors came from the Orient. There is a large population of Asians in Hawaii and I doubt if any of them would take offense at being referred to as Oriental.

It is sad that, with all the beauty that abounds us in Garrett County, Ms. Close possesses such bitter feelings about the people in Garrett County and of the community in which she was raised. I strongly believe that she owes the citizens of Garrett County an apology for labeling them as she did in her letter.

In closing, I would like to thank the many people in Garrett County who continually help to make my stays in Garrett County so pleasurable. I truly feel blessed to have the opportunity to be a part-time resident of Garrett County.

Thank you very much for allowing me to express my views.

Sincerely,
Alice N. Bruner

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to Erin Orr's letter to you in last week's edition of The Republican. Ms. Orr indicated that she believes that teen drinking is escalating ("increasing as each year passes") and that this increase is directly related to "the fact that there really isn't much around ... for teenagers to do."

It is my opinion, as well as the combined opinion of several hundred participants who attended the 1995 Children's Summit, the 1999 Garrett Summit, and Getting to the Heart of the Matter Forum, that Ms. Orr has a valid point of view. A 1997 independent stratified random sampling of 200 individuals conducted by FSU for the Teen Pregnancy Prevention Coalition found that "getting stuff to do" was the number one priority for county teens and their parents.

We know that the strengths possessed by local youth are phenomenal and that youth do make a difference in this community each and every day. However, we also know that youth who are unattended, who do not have access to structured activity provided by caring adults between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m., are vulnerable. We know that the preponderance of youth drinking, drugging, too early

THE COPPER BEECH

A few weeks ago I drove by a place I had not seen for awhile. It used to be on my regular route, but roads had changed, and so had the path of my journey. The property was always a refreshment to me. A two-story, white clapboard house with a front yard and a hedge.

Just like that it was a nice place, and still is. What had set it apart from just being nice, what made it grand, was a magnificent copper beech tree. The copper beech takes its name from its leaves, which are copper-colored. There is also a purple beech, which is not nearly as handsome.

Though slow-growing, the copper beech becomes a massive tree. Not often can a handsome giant live in the front yard, but with a copper beech and a century's worth of patience it can happen.

Such a tree stood in the yard of that house I drove by until a few weeks ago. Its limbs, instead of reaching in all directions and thereby commanding the attention of all who passed, were being dismembered. The limbs were cut up, lying in neat piles in the yard. The trunk still stood, but naked against the sun. I could see the extensive scars of disease which branch and leaf had previously hidden.

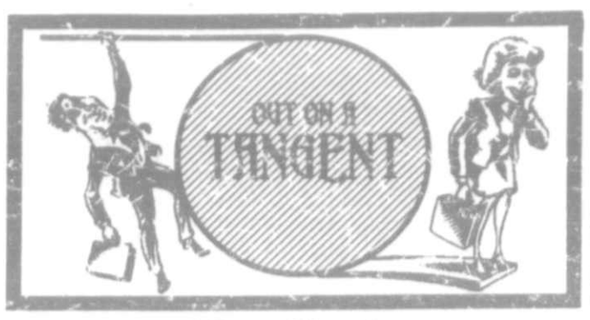
While I had admired that tree over the past years, it was dying, and I did not know it. Now it is dead, and I do know.

That particular tree had a special place in my life because my wife and I both loved it. We were rarely in the car together when one of us would drive by so we talked about it at supper or at the end of a day. One would ask the other, "Have you seen that copper beech lately? I drove by it today, and it is magnificent."

We talked about getting copper beeches here at our home, and we did try a few times. We found the purple beech, but not the copper. The copper beech is not an overly common tree. The quality of slow-growth does not lend itself to our instant society.

Developers and homeowners too want landscaping to be appreciated immediately. They know that in five to ten years someone different will be living in the house, and that in a hundred years the housing development may have been knocked down for something else.

The copper beech is a tree for the long haul.



Careful readers of this column will have noted that over the past year or so the "we" of my life has devolved into an "I." Last year my wife left here and left our life together to forge ahead on her own. Divorce takes longer than leaving, but that too has now occurred, and I am legally as well as physically alone.

When I came upon that dead and dismembered copper beech, I pulled off the road. I could not believe it, and in my seeing, disbelieving, I wept. The demise of any one of God's creatures, especially one as awe inspiring as this seraphim of trees, deserves tears, but I wept not for the tree alone, but also for the shared love of that tree which had also died.

Who knows how intricate the web of life may be? It is possible that there was a mutual sustenance between that copper beech and my marriage. The beauty of the tree surely fed our marriage; perhaps our love of the tree fed it. The dying of one may have been the cutting of a lifeline to the other. These are things we do not know. I do not suggest anything as mechanical as cause and effect, rather I suggest the possibility that all of God's creatures participate in each other's lives.

One thing made the death of that copper beech bearable. Less than two weeks before seeing it dead and dismembered, I had found and bought a copper beech at a local nursery. Why I had not found it there years ago I do not know and will not know. That young tree in my yard comforts me, even though I shall probably not live to see its mature majesty.

One of my favorite stories is told about John Wesley, the father of Methodism. He was asked what he would do today if he knew he would die tomorrow. He replied, "Plant a tree." It is also a worthy endeavor for those of us who expect to live tomorrow.

A Peace of November
by Mary Sincell McEwen

Walking home two weeks ago, I looked up the town street toward our house. The afternoon was waning, the sun sending its end-of-day rays almost horizontally through the nearly naked trees. My three sons were romping around in our front yard, raking leaves into a giant pile and leaping into them. Their healthy legs and arms and blond heads jumbled together on the ground, and their laughter faintly carried through the chilly air. My husband reclined on the porch steps, leaning on his elbows, one knee up and the other stretched out, watching our boys play. None of them knew I was there, and I gazed at them. It was a golden moment for me. I stopped walking and looked at the treasure that is my family, pure richness that for some reason has been granted to me. I wanted to pluck the moment out of time and preserve it, forever, in my mind and in my soul. I hope I can always recall it, especially on those days when the bleakness of life is too apparent.

I love November. There is a peacefulness about it, a quiet calm. The trees worked hard for Autumn Glory, I think, holding on tight to their most brilliant leaves throughout the festival (and Oakland's 150th). Then it seemed as if they all gave a good shiver, spilling their leaves in great circles beneath their limbs. Those bright wheels of scarlet and yellow lay still on the ground for quite a few days, until the gusty pre-winter winds scattered them, sending the leaves flying like flocks of mindless birds whirling up toward the sky. Now the mighty trees are bare and gray, standing ready for another mountaintop winter. I'm ready, too.

The march of the seasons is therapeutic for many of us, I think, providing a shifting, yet reliable, cycle. Life is cyclical, anyway, and so it seems fitting that the weather is, too. The seasons roll by, marking the year, each of which passes more quickly than the last. Our children thrive, their limbs growing long and their thoughts growing deep. Our relationships with our lifemates change, having started like the first buds of spring, new and beautiful yet painfully fragile, slowly maturing like fruit on a tree, becoming strong and old, until we can't at all picture our lives without one another. The frenzied pace of every day is as cluttered as the autumn ground, sometimes hindering our view of what we really have in this life.

But in November, the world is swept clean. We can see farther because the trees are stark and the grasses die back. Activities slow as sport seasons come to a close. The summer people go back home and the tourists give us a rest, biding time until Wisp opens. When we sit down for dinner, the night is already upon us, making it easier to get the kids in bed by 8:30. We begin again the business of carrying wood and building fires, pulling on boots and zipping jackets, guiding little mittens onto littler hands, and watching the skies for snow clouds. It's a quiet, pensive time; a lull we all need, because life is never very easy.

On another day, I might not have seen the picture of my family as I saw it two weeks ago. I could have just as easily walked on home, not even noticing that moment, which is now a framed memory permanently filed in my brain. The realities of life are rarely picturesque, whatever our lot might be — married, single, with children or without, young, old, wealthy, poor. Children cause stress, they feel stress, spouses argue, cars break down, the laundry piles up, the cat gets fleas, and groceries cost lots of money. Planes crash and crazy people shoot people, trees get hacked down just because they're old, and mega-stores move in to small towns.

But we're here. Here with these bodies that allow us to hear and see and taste and feel and breathe in the fragrance of the seasons. SO, give me the moments. The moments of being thrust up into the air like an autumn leaf and looking down on what's really there. We all have goodness in our lives. It's important to see it from time to time.

NORTHERN SUCCESSFULLY DEFENDS TITLE - The Northern High School Band, reigning Group I champion of Chapter 13, Tournament of Bands, successfully defended that title Saturday in the annual tournament, held this year at Westminster High School. Northern, directed by Eric Gallagher, earned a score of 91.10, plus three specialty awards. The character Zorro is the theme of this season's show, and is pictured above saving a damsel in distress during Saturday's performance. Above right is a shot of the Southern Garrett Marching Band, directed by Rick Clever, which finished third in the Group I standings. Both local bands have qualified for the Mid-Atlantic Regional Championships, which will be held this Saturday in Scranton, Pa. See story. Photos courtesy of Bill Robinson.

Northern Wins Chapter 13 Title, Southern Is Third

For the second year in a row, the Northern High School Marching Band captured the Chapter 13 Tournament of Bands Group I championship, as the local marchers recorded a top score of 91.10 in the competition, held Saturday at Westminster High School in Carroll County. The Northern band also won the Best Marching, Best Music, and Best Drum Major specialty awards.

Meanwhile, the Southern Garrett Marching Band placed third in the same division, garnering a score of 88.65. Brunswick was awarded second place with a score of 89.25. Southern also won the Best Auxiliary specialty award.

The Westmar High School band placed fourth with an 83.45 and won Best Percussion, while Catoctin was fifth with a score of 80.30, Frederick was sixth with a 79.45, North Carroll placed seventh with a 78.70, and Berkeley Springs was eighth with a score of 73.30.

By virtue of their high scores in the Chapter 13 tournament, as well as those received throughout the season, both Garrett County bands have earned a spot in the annual Mid-Atlantic Championships, which will be held this Saturday in Scranton, Pa. Only the top 25 bands in the eastern region are selected for this elite competition.

"I am very proud of the band this year, because even when the scores stayed the same a couple of weeks, they didn't give up," stated NHS director Eric Gallagher. "They just kept working to improve with every performance."

Northern placed ninth in the Mid-Atlantic tournament last season, while Southern placed 17th in the Group II division.

"We felt this was one of our best efforts of the season," stated Rick Clever, Southern director, who admitted he was disappointed that Southern's score was not higher. "We were very pleased with all of the elements of the band," he said. "We got a great show out of our color guard. We hope to improve our score this week at Scranton. It would be nice to see both county bands move up in the standings."

Both bands will leave early on Friday for Scranton and will spend both Friday and Saturday nights there. The Group I competition is slated for Saturday evening at Lackawanna Stadium. The Mid-Atlantic Championships will be the final competition of the season for Northern and Southern.

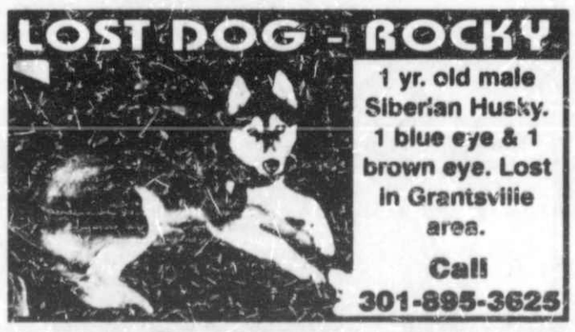
sexual involvement, and violence/crime occurs during this time period. Unfortunately, we know that Garrett County youth meet and exceed state statistics in their use of tobacco and alcohol. We know that there is an increase in the use of inhalants. We know that we have the highest rate of Caucasian teen pregnancy in Maryland. All of this has become so much a part of the status quo, that a recent class motto was "to the bah" (Bostonian for bar).



In response to all of this, local human service organizations as well as many volunteer organizations have taken some meaningful steps to address infrastructure weaknesses by getting grant funding to operationalize activities and to excite youth to participate. Funds are provided to various sports leagues, faith-group activities, and after-school events. We are trying to get the word out about Garrett's Promise, Garrett Youth Council, and various other youth groups who are working with youth to develop meaningful, accessible, low-cost activities.

Teen clubs, a cyber-café, a "Y," and an alernative sports complex specalizing in boarding, biking, and blading are all ideas that have been and are being bantered around as possibilities. Ms. Orr says that she has the "ear" of the student body of Southern High. I would like to invite her to call our office, to attend a youth council meeting, to see what strategies we can take together to achieve more momentum on the development of activities for youth.

We are hoping to generate interest in a Youth Summit this spring. But this will only be possible if we have successfully partnered with youth leaders. Ms. Orr can be assured that there are literally hundreds of adults (including parents) who want to be in touch with the youth voice, who know full well that youth are our future, and who encourage youth to take an interest in the present that will determine that future.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

The need is great this year. In Garrett County, Maryland, needy children will go cold this winter without your help.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is neighbors helping neighbors. The Republican is asking readers to donate to the fund, and the proceeds are being used to buy new winter clothing for needy area children. There are no administrative fees; all the money donated is used to buy warm winter clothing.

How are needy children being identified?

A collaborative effort to identify needy children is under way between the Department of Social Services, Healthy Families, the Dove Center, and other organizations. We want to help families who are trying to make ends meet, but who are simply in need of a boost this year.

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

The staff at The Republican has recruited volunteers to serve as "shoppers" who accompany selected children and their parents on shopping trips. The kids are able to select their own coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, boots, or any other needed winter items. Any person or civic group interested in helping out is welcome to contact Mary McEwen at the newspaper, 301-334-3963.

How can I help?

Either sign up as a volunteer, or complete the coupon below and send it with a donation to the address on the coupon. (All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.) All donations are tax deductible. Please make your donations before December 12, 1999. Those collected after December 12 will be saved for next year's campaign.

Adorable Adoptables

JUST A PHONE CALL to the Garrett County Humane Society can bring this young female mixed breed dog into a loving home — yours perhaps? Described as very friendly, this dog could make a nice companion for a child. Interested persons may make an inquiry by calling 301-334-5216.

Children's Book Illustrator Visits Grantsville School

Karen Lee Schmidt, who has illustrated more than 25 children's books, visited students at Grantsville Elementary School last week. She spoke to the children about her work and her inspirations for the characters she draws.

Schmidt's illustrations are populated by a variety of animals, as was her childhood in the Mojave Desert in California, she explained. Her father would tell the children stories about each animal and insect, giving names and family histories, even to the spiders.

"The animals in my books, like those I imagined as a child, have human characteristics and find themselves in situations usually reserved for humans," Schmidt said.

One of five children of a first grade teacher, Schmidt said her artistic inclinations were always fostered. "I loved to draw as a child and was always encouraged by my parents. They kept me well stocked with art supplies, and, when my father's career as an air force pilot took our family to Taiwan for two years, they arranged for me to study with a Chinese brush-painting master," she said.

The books that Schmidt illustrates address themes of love, friendship, jealousy, loss, joy, and sadness. "I am currently working on two very different books. One is suspenseful and sad, the other, rollicking and funny. It is that variety I love," she concluded.

LWV To Sponsor Lobbying Course

A one-day seminar titled "Citizens Making a Difference in 2000," sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Maryland, will be held in Annapolis on Saturday, Nov. 20. The forum will offer information on advocacy through effective lobbying techniques at all levels of government.

The seminar will begin at 9:30 a.m. with opening comments by Speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates Casper R. Taylor Jr. Following at 10:15 a.m., three workshops will focus on legislative process, year-round lobbying, and advanced strategies. At 11:25 a.m. a panel of experts will speak on the budget process and how to influence its outcome.

Afternoon workshops will feature lobbying techniques, legislative staffs as resources, and coalition/partnerships/grassroots activities.

Pre-registration is required. The cost is $35 for League members; $50 for non-members; $20 for students; and $40 for non-member groups of 10 or more. An optional box lunch will be available for $7. Checks should be made payable to LWVMD and mailed to 106 B South St., Annapolis, MD 21401 by November 12.

For more information persons may contact Susan Athey-Oxford at 301-334-8653 or E-mail at sao@gcnet.net.

Local Civic Club's Spaghetti Dinner Set At Fire Hall

The Junior Women's Civic Club annual Spaghetti Dinner will be held at the Deep Creek fire hall on Friday, Nov. 12, 4-8 p.m. The cost of the dinner will be $5 for adults and $3.50 for children. Both eat-in and take-out orders will be available. The menu will include spaghetti with meat sauce or marinara, salad, and a roll.

In addition, the JWCC will offer a lunch special this year. The meal will cost $3.50 and will be served from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. as take-out orders only. Tickets will be available at the door.

Many local charities will benefit from the event.

Md. Mtn. Trust Selects Simmers To Head Project

Maryland Mountain Trust, Garrett County's land trust organization, has selected Marcia Simmers, Keysers Ridge, as project director. She will assume responsibilities for coordinating the activities of the groups to promote preservation, protection, and balanced use of natural resources in western Maryland.

Simmers, who was raised on a farm in Fayette County, Pa., brings to her new post an extensive background in conservation, property assessment, and business management. She recently completed training in forest and wildlife management as a coverts project volunteer. Through this program she will help other landowners improve wildlife habitat, woodland recreation, and timber production through good management.

Owner and operator of Simmers Realty and Appraisal Services, Simmers has about 15 years' experience in real estate sales and property appraisal. Having pursued studies in economics, management, and accounting at Essex Community College, Baltimore, and West Virginia University, Morgantown, she is currently enrolled in the business administration curriculum at Garrett Community College.

Among her other activities, Simmers has served the local community in several varied capacities. She was a member of the board of directors of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., the Garrett County Arthritis Advisory Board, and the Citizens Review Board for Foster Care.

"We are very pleased that Marcia is stepping in to fill this position. She knows real estate and management of natural resources. This combination will be very helpful to our education projects. We are planning to begin holding informal community information forums on Rural Legacy and conservation trusts. I know she will be a great asset in these efforts," said Peggy Santamaria, chair of the MMT board of directors.

MOTORCYCLE RAFFLE BENEFITS LOCAL CHILD - A raffle of a 1983 Honda motorcycle recently raised over $1,150 to help defray the medical expenses of Tiffany Morgan, a young Oakland-area resident who is living with cystic fibrosis. Numerous area businesses, organizations, and individuals assisted with the benefit, including the Town and Country Printer of Oakland, which donated the raffle tickets, and Deloris Murphy, who distributed the tickets. Shown above from the left are Chris Rowe of Finzel, who purchased the winning ticket at Lakeview Auto Parts, Morgan (seated on the motorcycle), and John Furr, who donated the motorcycle for the fund-raiser.

DSS Lists Top 10 Reasons To Adopt A Child

Recognizing National Adoption Awareness Month, Garrett County Department of Social Services listed the 10 top reasons for a person to consider adoption.

10. Others tell you that you are good with kids.

9. Your commitment will help change a child's future.

8. Patience and a sense of humor are two of your greatest strengths.

7. You have a heart that is bigger than your home.

6. Reaching out to others seems natural to you.

5. You have a spare bedroom, and you would rather it go to a child than become yet another storage closet.

4. You know how important it is to be part of a family.

3. You are ready to accept the challenge of parenting a special needs child.

2. You believe every child counts.

1. In Maryland there are currently more than 500 children waiting for a permanent family.

For further information on adoption, persons may call 301-533-3045.

Spaghetti Dinner Offered By VFD

Eastern Garrett VFD will host a spaghetti dinner at the fire hall in Finzel on Saturday, Nov. 13, 4-8 p.m. Spaghetti, meat sauce, tossed salad, Italian bread, and tea or coffee will be served. The cost is $5 for adults, $2.50 for children 6-12, and free for children under 6.

The women's auxiliary will hold a bake sale during the dinner. The fire hall is located off I-68 at exit 29.

Wengerds Mark Golden Anniversary

Joe and Darlene Wengerd celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a dinner given by their children. They were married November 13, 1949, at the Church of the Brethren, Meyersdale, Pa., with Rev. Paul officiating.

Mr. Wengerd, a self-employed painter, is the son of the late Logan and Ann Wengerd. Mrs. Wengerd is the daughter of the late Albert and Myrtle Buterbaugh. She is an LPN and secretary for the painting business.

The Wengerds are the parents of four children: Craig Wengerd, Oakland, and Linda Wengerd, Gale Ringer, and Carol Humberson, all of Grantsville. They have four grandchildren Kane and Kara Wengerd and Courtney and Cody Humberson.

The family dinner was held at Hill Top Restaurant and was attended by 50 relatives and close friends.

drivers and two passengers, Terry A. Spiker, 17, Boyton, Pa., and Angela K. Reeves, 19, Frostburg, were taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital for treatment and later released.

DWI

Amy Susan M. Custer, 31, Accident, was injured Monday in a single-vehicle accident on Route 219 at about 8:50 p.m. Tpr. Bond reported that Custer was driving a 1996 Dodge Avenger southbound on Route 219 near Sand Flat Road, when her vehicle left the travel portion of the road and struck a telephone pole.

Custer was charged with negligent driving and driving while intoxicated.

Possession of Marijuana

William A. McClain II, 34, Morgantown, W.Va., was charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia Sunday, Nov. 7, at 1:45 a.m. when the vehicle in which he was a passenger was stopped on Route 219.

Tfc. J. LeMay reported that the Ford Explorer was stopped when a lit cigarette was thrown out of the driver's side window. Investigation led to the arrest of the vehicle's driver for driving while intoxicated. When asked if there were any illegal guns, weapons, or drugs inside the car, McClain advised the officer that there was a pipe. He then produced a glass pipe with marijuana residue, LeMay said.

McClain was later released on his signature.

Zimmerman Couple To Celebrate 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zimmerman, Deer Park, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on November 20. The couple, married on November 20, 1949, in Loch Lynn, will celebrate the occasion at an open house for all friends and family at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, 1-4 p.m. The center is located off the Joni Miller Road, Oakland. Cards will be welcome in lieu of gifts. Cards may be sent to the Zimmermans at 1229 Sand Flat Road, Oakland, MD 21550.

Huskies Edged In Region Championship Match, 2-0

Recording one of the most impressive turnarounds ever in local athletics this season was the Northern High School boys' soccer team, which did not win a match in 13 attempts last year, but came within a couple goals this season of entering the Maryland 1A West Region championships. The Huskies, coached by Tom Ables, edged Mt. Savage, 4-3, last week in opening-round action, topped host Beall on Saturday in a regional semifinal, and was finally halted Tuesday evening at home in the regional championship game, 2-0, by highly touted Williamsport. Northern finished with an overall record of 9-7-1.

Williamsport, last year's 1A state runner-up and boasting one of the state's most prolific offenses, came into the contest with a 17-1 record, having topped Southern last week, 6-2, in another semifinal match-up.

Shane Mayle scored the only goal in Saturday's match against Beall, his first of the season, and it came unassisted at the 25-minute mark of the first half. The rest of the contest was all defense, with Northern keeper Woody Kenaer recording some outstanding saves.

Other details of that match were not received.

Although the Huskies lost to Williamsport, Kenaer would still most likely be voted the match's MVP, as he finished with 21 saves, including several split-second, diving stops.

Carlos Gomez, a sophomore, scored the first goal for Williamsport at the 30:53 mark of the first half when he received a pass from Todd Knepper and sent it past Kenner into the right corner of the goal.

Northern also had several scoring opportunities in the first half, three of which came on deep throw-ins by Jason Fickes, but none was converted. Another chance, set up by a two-on-one breakaway at about the 8-minute mark, was squelched by an offside call.

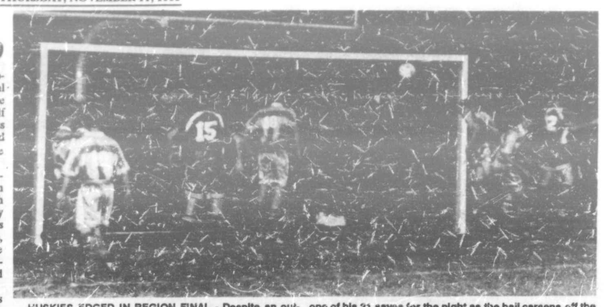
The Williamsport booters dominated play through most of the second half, as they kept the ball on the Huskies' side of the field for long periods of time, but they managed to get just one more shot past Kenner. It was at the 22:01 mark that Ryan Meese sent a pass through the Northern defense, which was picked up by Jason Knicley, who blasted it into the goal just inside the right post.

Northern's Andy Bowser nearly got Williamsport's lead in half when he blasted a long, hard shot toward the goal, but the ball rolled just wide of the far post.

In being shut out, the Huskies were in good company, as Williamsport keeper Josh Miller turned away six shots and recorded his 13th shutout victory of the 19-match season.

"We moved the ball very well and created all kinds of opportunities, but the ball just wouldn't go in for us," stated Williamsport coach Stan Stouffer. "We dominated play, especially in the second half, but Northern deserves a lot of credit. Their goalkeeper had a lot of nice stops and they played great defense."

The Huskies were outshot by a lopsided 29-10 margin, and Williamsport also finished with a 9-1 lead in corner kicks.



"We played very hard defensively, and Woody was unbelievable in the goal," Coach Ables said.

"This team really turned things around this year, and got better as the season went along. We lost to the area champion (Bishop Walsh) by just one goal (2-1) and we had three players with at least eight goals. On any given night, I think we could beat anyone," he said, "and we have only one senior on the team."

HUSKIES EDGED IN REGION FINAL - Despite an outstanding performance in goal by Northern High School keeper Woody Kenaer, and despite the fact that their opponent was the defending state runner-up and a team that had won 17 of 18 matches this season, the Huskies were edged by only a 2-0 margin in the Maryland State 1A West Region championship match Tuesday night by visiting Williamsport. In the photo above, Kenner is captured making one of his 21 saves for the night as the ball careens off the crossbar. Other Huskies identifiable in the photo are Jeff Newman (#10) and Andy Bowser (#18). Below, Northern's Dustin George gets ready to blast the ball toward Williamsport's net. Pictured center is Husky Jason Fickes. The Huskies and their coach, Tom Ables, finished their season with a 9-7-1 overall record after going winless last year.

Arsenal Football Tryouts Slated For November 20

Arsenal Football of Oakland will be holding tryouts for the upcoming indoor (winter) and outdoor soccer (spring) soccer seasons on Saturday, Nov. 20, at the National Guard Armory in Oakland. There will be four boys teams and three girls teams sponsored by the club. The times for each team are as follows:

Girls born Aug. 1, 1987, or later may try out for the U-12 girls team at 9 a.m.

Girls born Aug. 1, 1985, or later may try out for the U-14 girls team at 10 a.m.

Girls born Aug. 1, 1983, or later may try out for the U-16 girls team at 11 a.m.

Boys born Aug. 1, 1987, or later may try out for the U-12 boys team at noon.

Boys born Aug. 1, 1985, or later may try out for the U-14 boys team at 1 p.m.

Boys born Aug. 1, 1983, or later may try out for the U-16 boys team at 2 p.m.

Boys born Aug. 1, 1982, or later may try out for the U-17 boys team at 3 p.m.

The tryouts will be held indoors, so participants should bring tennis, gym, or indoor soccer shoes to wear. All must also bring shorts, shin guards, and socks that cover the shin guards. Scrimmage practice jerseys to wear over a T-shirt will be provided, as will soccer balls.

A parent or guardian must accompany the player to the tryout, as a waiver form must be completed before a player may participate. Those players who have not played in the Arsenal club before should also bring a copy of their birth certificate for age verification, as well as social security number, which must be kept by the club for future use. There is no cost for the tryout; however, tryouts are limited to Garrett County residents.

Players who want to play in the spring (outdoor) league only must also attend this tryout because there will be no additional tryouts held later for the 2000 season, according to Mel Menker, club coordinator.

All who are selected to play will be expected to attend two 1-hour practice sessions per week and matches on Sunday afternoons. Because Arsenal Football plays in a travel league, parents will be asked to help provide transportation to distant locations. The travel season runs from March 28 through June 5.

The club is scheduled to participate in tournament play in Gettysburg or Hampden, Pa., over the Memorial Day weekend, and will participate in Arsenal's Mountaintop Madness Tournament over the second weekend of June, held in Garrett County. This tournament could be moved to the third weekend, depending on the date for high school graduation in Garrett County.

For more information about the tryouts and/or Arsenal Football, persons may telephone Menker at 301-334-5906.

MSA's Annual Awards Event Slated Saturday

The Mountaintop Soccer Association (MSA) will hold its annual awards ceremony this Saturday, Nov. 13, in the auditorium of Garrett Community College. The U-6 and U-8 awards program will begin at 2 p. m., followed by the U-10 awards at 3 p. m. and the U-12 and U-15 awards at 3:45 p.m.

"This is our opportunity to thank our sponsors and all the people who help make our soccer league so successful," said Ron Petrella, MSA president. "All of the kids receive soccer medals, and the champions and runners-up in the U-12 and U-16 divisions receive trophies."

As has been done in the past, each coach will introduce each team member and present each with a medal, and then the trophies will be presented by representatives of the team sponsors.

All team members are encouraged to wear their team game jerseys to the awards ceremony. All coaches who have not yet returned their equipment are also to do so on that day, Petrella said. All coaches are to return all equipment that was distributed to them at the beginning of the season.

"Equipment is a major expense to the program and it is important that everything is returned to the league," Petrella said.

For more information about the awards ceremony, persons may contact Petrella at 301-334-1174. Coaches may contact Bill Stuck at 301-334-6280 with questions regarding soccer equipment.

Book Signing With Graham Ramsey Slated

Writer Graham Ramsey, author of Soccer for Girls: An Introductory Step-By-Step Guide, will be at the Book Mark'et and Antique Mezzanine, Oakland, on Saturday, Nov. 13, for a book-signing event. Ramsey will be available to offer his autograph from 10 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

In addition to his signatures, Ramsey will distribute free copies of a poster titled "Opposites," which outlines the basic tenets of the game of soccer.

Critics have deemed Ramsey's book "very practical and refreshingly informative," and reportedly consider it to be one of the best references for players, coaches, and parents. Ramsey is the director of coaching for the Maryland Youth Soccer Association.

Southern Girls Recapture Region Cross Country Title

After being upset in last year's Maryland Class 1A West Regional Championships, the Southern High School girls' cross country team recaptured that title on Saturday at Allegany College, Cumberland. The Runnin' Rams, coached by Louis Newcomb, coasted to the championship and a trip to the state meet in Hereford this Saturday by finishing with 45 team points.

Meanwhile, the young Southern boys' team placed sixth among the 10 schools represented.

Westmar placed second in the girls' race with 85 points, followed by Williamsport and Smithsburg with 88 each, Boonsboro with 96, Allegany with 115, and Beall with 166. The Rams were led by freshman Melissa Durst and seniors Beth Sauder, Erin Hoalcraft, and Angie Sincell, who placed 5th through 8th places.

Nory Sams of Allegany was the fastest female competitor of the day, as she completed the course in 19 minutes, 59 seconds. Boonsboro sisters Angie and Anita Rhoderick placed 2nd and 3rd, respectively, with times of 20:28 and 20:32, while Laura Stouffer of Smithsburg was fourth in 20:54, just edging out Southern's Durst, who also recorded a time of 20:54. Sauder, Hoalcraft, and Sincell had respective times of 21:01, 21:08, and 21:17.

Southern's other runners were Faryn Shaffer, who placed 19th, Amber Stewart, who finished 22nd, and Erin Lucas, who was 34th.

Westmar won the boys' regional title with 53 points, followed by Beall with 74, Boonsboro with 75, Williamsport with 100, Smithsburg with 120, Southern with 139, Allegany with 171, Clear Spring with 195, and South Hagerstown with 244.

Rusty Strubin led the Rams with a 17th place finish and a time of 18:38. He just missed earning a spot in the state championships, as the top 16 individual finishers and the top four teams at the regional event qualify. The top 15 individuals and top four teams qualify for the state meet in the girls' competition.

Other members of the SHS boys' team, coached by Carl Booth, and their finishes were: Chad Carrito, 20th, 18:41; Matthew Frederick, 25th, 18:52; Shawn Shiflett, 40th, 20:01; Andrew Sisler, 41st, 20:04; Kyle Conroy, 47th, 20:19; and Stephen Elswert, 56th, 21:05.

Beall's Ryan Foster won the boys' race with a course record time of 16:05, while Zach Bittinger of Westmar was second in 16:55.

The Southern boys' team has won the state 1A title five times under Coach Booth, while the SHS girls' team has won it once under Coach Newcomb.

Condoerr, 219 Motors, Smiley's Win In League

Condoerr narrowly defeated Deep Creek Ready Mix, 69-63, in Mountaintop Basketball League play Sunday afternoon, 219 Motors stopped Beckman's, 71-63, and Smiley's edged the Welding Rod, 62-60, in overtime.

Leading Condoerr's scoring was Tom Stem with 23 points, while C.J. Getson scored 21 to pace Deep Creek Ready Mix.

T. Reams netted 21 points for 219 Motors, while Jared Beckman finished with 28 to lead Beckman's.

Mike Harvey of Smiley's captured scoring honors for the week with 32 points, and also hit the winning basket in overtime, while Jason Shreve recorded 17 points for the Welding Rod.

Games slated for this Sunday, Nov. 14, will pit Condoerr against Smiley's in the first game, followed by 219 Motors vs. Beckman's, and the Welding Rod against Smiley's. Scorekeeping will be handled by 219 Motors, Smiley's, and the Welding Rod, respectively.

NHS Netters Go Down Fighting Vs. Westmar, 3-1

The Northern High School volleyball team were taken out of the single elimination playoffs in a Maryland Class 1A West Quarterfinal by Westmar Monday evening. The Huskies did not leave quietly as they took Westmar to a four game match.

Westmar dominated during the first two games of the night, 15-0 and 15-6. Then Northern triumphed during the third game 15-5. The Wildcats then clenched the win as they defeated Northern 15-1 in the fourth.

Heidi Frazee led Northern with six points, three kills, and three blocks. Malia Collins and Heather Umbel each added five service points for the Huskies. They finished their year with a record of 8-8.

Ram Netters Battle Alco, But Fall 3-1

The Southern Rams volleyball team concluded its season Monday night with a loss to Allegany during a Maryland Class 1A West Quarterfinal playoff game. The Campers downed the Rams in a 3-1 match.

Southern started out strongly, defeating the Campers in the first game 15-8. Allegany then claimed the victory in the next three matches, 15-11, 15-4, and 15-4.

Laura Johnson led the Rams with 14 service points, three assists, and three kills. Misty Sereno added three kills to Southern's offense.

The Southern Rams finished the season with a record of 7-8.

Gear Donation Program Set By High Mtn. Sports

Donate-A-Ski/Donate-A-Board, a nationwide tax-deductible charity program, is being sponsored locally again this year by McHenry's High Mountain Sports. The donation program, which began October 15, continues through Friday, Dec. 31.

"Just bring your used or unwanted ski or snowboarding equipment and clothing to High Mountain Sports and get a tax deductible receipt," said Steve Green, co-owner of the outdoor equipment store. "After we collect the gear and clothing it will be evaluated, then distributed to charitable organizations such as Special Olympics."

High Mountain Sports has already sent 27 large boxes of equipment to the program this year. "Some of this equipment is more valuable to some of our customers as a tax deduction than selling it used," explained Green, adding that equipment that cannot be reused will be recycled.

High Mountain Sports is one of 300 ski and snowboarding shops taking part in the national Donate-A-Ski/Donate-A-Snowboard program. Last year's pilot program, sponsored by the SnowSports Industries America (SIA) Ski Educational Foundation, collected more than 36 tons of used items. The goal this year is to double that figure.

Read. Then Recycle.

AUTOGRAPHED BY CAL RIPKEN JR. of the Baltimore Orioles is this Cooperstown bat that has been donated to the Oakland Rotary Club by the law offices of Peter Angelos, owner of the Orioles. Raffle tickets are now on sale, and the bat will be awarded via a drawing that is slated for December 17 during the Rotary Christmas Project. All proceeds from the raffle are being donated by the Rotary to the local office of Big Brothers/Big Sisters. Tickets cost $1 and they may be purchased at Deep Creek Pharmacy, Beachy Pharmacy, Expanding Horizons, Real Video, the office of Big Brothers/Big Sisters, and from members of the Oakland Rotary Club and staff at the Garrett County State's Attorney's Office. Lakers Open Campaign With 83-73 Win Over Takoma Park

The men's basketball team of Garrett Community College kicked off its season with a Maryland JUCO win last night, as the Lakers topped visiting Montgomery-Takoma Park, 83-73, behind a 20-point, 16-rebound performance by Charles Somerville.

Somerville, who averaged just under 12 points and over 10 rebounds per game last year as a freshman, led four Lakers in double figures, and he also blocked four shots. Finishing with 16 points, six assists, and three steals was Carlos Jones, a 6-2 sophomore guard who transferred to GCC from San Jacinto, Tex. Michael Ward recorded 10 points and nine rebounds, while Dexter Levi netted 10 points and blocked three shots.

The score was not indicative of how the Lakers outgunned the visitors from the floor, as they finished with a lopsided 35-22 lead in shots. But Takoma Park converted 22 of 25 free-throw opportunities, while the Lakers connected on 9 of 18.

The Lakers held a 38-32 lead at halftime and were up by as many as 19 with about six minutes remaining in the game, but Takoma Park cut that margin to eight down the stretch.

"We played well in spurts, which is pretty typical of an opening game," GCC coach Dennis Gibson said. "We let them make a couple runs at our lead, but we were able to stay just out of reach."

Leading Takoma Park (0-2) in scoring were Ataro Lewis with 18 points, John Bush and Greg Brown, with 17 points each, and Xi Phoummithone with 11. Bush also grabbed a team-high 14 rebounds.

The Lakers will play again this weekend when they host their annual Garrett Preview Tournament. Potomac State College will face Rockingham (N.C.) in the 5 p.m. game Friday, and GCC will meet Penn State-Beaver in the 7 p.m. contest. The consolation game will tip off Saturday at 2 p.m., and the championship match-up will begin at 4 p.m.

The Lakers will then go on the road for a pair of games, traveling to Butler County CC on Monday and to CCAC-South on Wednesday.

Huskies Perfect After 35-6 Romp Over Rams

Title Run Begins Saturday In Accident

From the sandy beaches of the Atlantic to the ridge line of Backbone Mountain, only one Class 1A football team in the entire state of Maryland will go down in the books as undefeated through the 1999 regular season — the Northern High Huskies. With a 10-0 season under their belt after Friday night's 35-6 victory over visiting Southern, the West Region champions are seeded number one in the state tournament, which opens this weekend. Eighth-seeded Elkton High School, a 7-3 Cecil County squad, will take on the Huskies in a 1 p.m. match-up Saturday in Accident.

Garrett County came to a standstill Friday night for the annual battle between Northern and Southern, and while both teams' fans who had packed the NHS stadium were given something to cheer about during the evening, the Husky faithful came away with the loudest cheers at the end of the night. Although the Rams had jumped out to an early 6-0 lead and dominated the first half, the Huskies' half-time adjustments, a hallmark of the Northern program, resulted in 35 unanswered points through a second half dominated in turn by Big Blue. "It was a game of two different halves," said NHS head coach Phil Carr.

"Our coaching staff did a great job in the locker room of helping the guys focus on Southern's weaknesses," Carr commented. "They had spotted some areas we could capitalize on and helped us draw up some plays to exploit them. Still, you can draw all over the chalkboard and not see results. Our players were the ones who made it happen. We said to them 'Look, here it is — do you want to be 10-0? Then here's what you have to do to get it,' and they went out and did it."

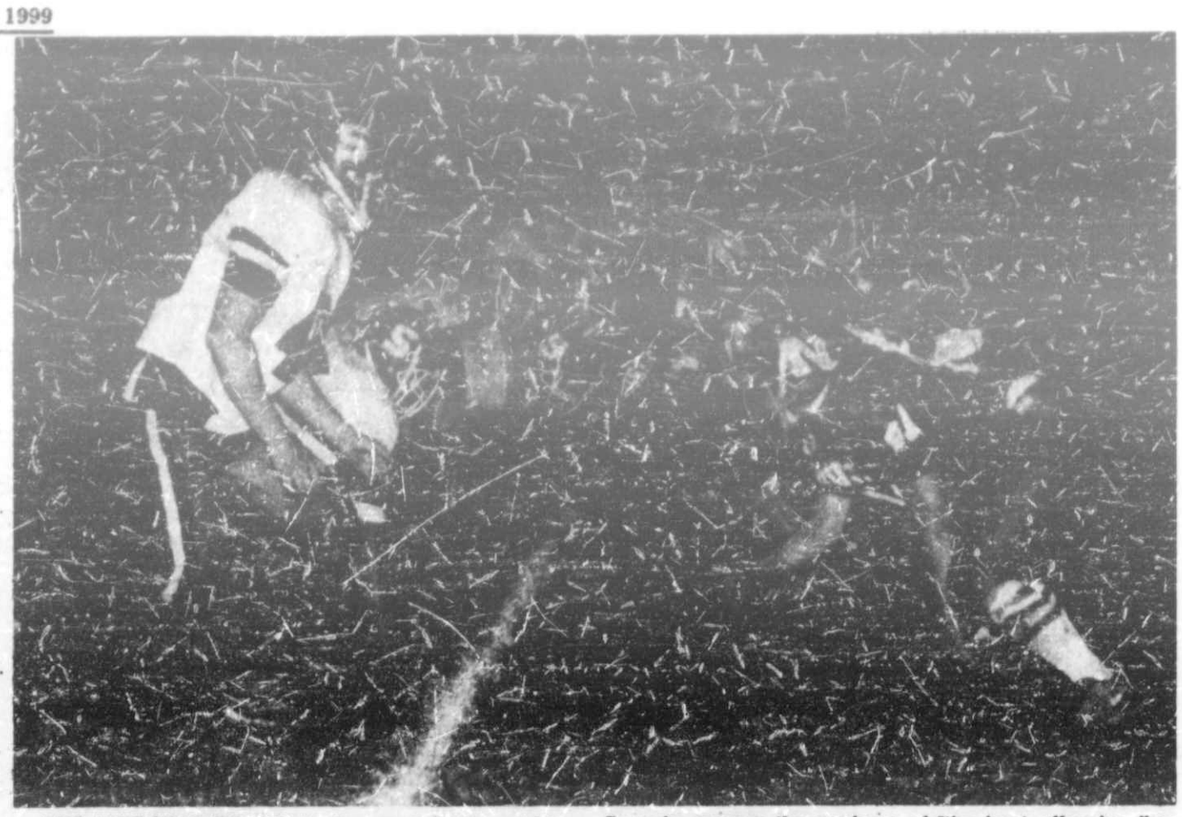
Northern found itself in the unfamiliar setting of being forced to come from behind when Southern took the opening kickoff and mounted an 86-yard, 19-play scoring drive that ate up nearly the entire first quarter. Running dead ahead into the heart of the Huskies line, the Rams' offense showed no fear in taking the ball to one of the best defensive units in the state. With 1:46 to go in the quarter, SHS fullback Jeremy Hayhurst broke through from the 1-yard line on fourth-and-goal to score the opening touchdown. Southern's point-after-touchdown kick attempt failed, and the Rams held the upper hand with a 6-0 lead.

Northern's offense stalled on its first possession. Southern regained the ball and again pounded away at the Huskies' defensive line, marching the ball down to the Northern 2-yard line on another impressive drive. With the Rams knocking at the door once again, NHS's "grave digger" defense rose in unison on four straight plays to turn away a second touchdown and, as both coaches observed afterwards, turn the tide of the contest.

On fourth-and-goal from the two, defensive end Nathan Resh and outside linebacker Josh Resh teamed up to toss back halfback Josh Bosley short of the end zone; thus, when the teams broke ranks for the halftime locker room soon afterwards, SHS still had only a six-point lead despite controlling the ball for 17:15 as compared to Northern's 6:45.



"That was the turning point for us," Carr said. "Coach Campbell's team was executing a great game plan against us right up until that goal-line stand. They could have gone up by as many as 14 points going into the half if we hadn't stopped them there, and it's hard to tell what would have happened. But that's the way our defense has performed all year — we may bend a little, but we don't break."

SHS's Campbell concurred, stating that "When they kept us from scoring it was the beginning of a downward spiral for us, an absolutely huge turning point. It reminded me of our game against Keyser. We were playing very well through most of the first half, then a few things happened, and we got frustrated and began to fall apart."

Buffeted by the clamor of the frenzied crowd outside their locker room, Northern's coaching staff outlined its second half plans during the chalk talk. Relying on reports from assistants Joe McKenzie and Jon Houser, the Huskies' "upstairs eyes" in the booth, Carr and his offense unit drew up a new blocking scheme. Frank Ewing and the defensive unit decided to bring the strong safety up into a quasi-linebacking mode to neutralize the blocking effectiveness of the man in motion and pull the defensive ends in tighter to neutralize the off-tackle running game.

THE LINE WAS DRAWN in the sand Friday night as Northern and Southern high schools squared off in their annual cross-county battle, which resulted in a 35-6 NHS win. The Huskies came into the match-up seeking a win to cap their perfect season, while the Rams, playing for pride, looked like giant-killers at the outset by dominating the first half. Northern showed why it is the top-seeded Class 1A team in Maryland by roaring back in the second half to shred Southern's defense with 35 unanswered points. NHS field general Adam Brenneman is shown above, at the right, taking the snap from his dependable center Dan Rounds, among the anchors of "the best offensive line you'll find anywhere," as head coach Phil Carr put it. "They're small, but they play big, and their quickness and smarts have been a big part of our undefeated season." The sideline shot of coach Carr and his quarterback Brenneman shown below (with defensive guru Frank Ewing partially obstructed), illustrates the relationship between the NHS staff and their athletes. The strategies worked. "I think we took control of both lines in the second half," Carr said. "We also capitalized on the Rams' mistakes; we had told our players that if a mistake was made we had to use it to our advantage. We ended up scoring off every turnover but one on the night."

With 3:02 remaining in the third quarter, a patient Northern offense drove down the field and scored when halfback Rob Dozier slammed into the end zone from the one yard line. Justin Robison's extra point kick gave the Huskies the lead and the upper hand. "When we took the 7-6 lead I could really feel the momentum shift," Carr said. "You could see it in our players' eyes, and you could sense things were changing right then."

The pendulum continued on its Husky arc when, just three plays later, outside linebacker Marcus Rugg smothered a Ram fumble at the six. Quarterback Adam Brenneman scored on a keeper behind some excellent sweep blocking by the line and split end Robison and fullback Mark Wolf, and with 2:35 remaining in the quarter the Huskies were up 14-6.

Southern fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Keith Artice pounced on it at the nine. Robison was called on for a 23-yard field goal shortly afterwards to make the score 17-6 with 22 seconds to go in the quarter. Bosley reeled off a 22-yard carry on the Rams' next possession to lift hopes in the Southern bleachers, but the Husky defense stiffened to take the ball back on downs at the 38.

On the very next play Wolf took a handoff and ran into a pile of players on the line of scrimmage; feet churning, he slid sideways down the line until breaking free on the outside and for a 62-yard score that broke Southern's back. "I haven't seen a Husky run like that since I started coaching in 1988," Carr said of the junior, who also racked up his sixth interception of the season for a team-high total. "Mark is a tremendous player on both offense and defense."

Having scored 23 unanswered points in five minutes, the Huskies were firmly in the driver's seat. A 37-yard touchdown run by Adam Brenneman with five minutes remaining made the score 32-6. A mental error by the Rams allowed the ensuing kickoff to roll untouched to Southern 23, where quick-thinking Brandon Stein jumped on it. With 2:30 remaining, back-up fullback Bill Rodeheaver blasted into the end zone from four yards out to notch the final points of the 35-6 Husky victory.

Statiscally the two teams played almost an even game. Among the individual standouts were Northern's Wolf, who gained 126 yards on 14 carries. Sophomore SHS defensive end Brad Palmer had a fine game as well, recording a total of 15 tackles.

"Northern took the game from us outright in the second half," the Rams' Campbell said afterwards, gracious in defeat. "A couple of late hits and two or three other personal fouls certainly didn't help matters. We not only lost control of the game, but a few of our kids lost mental control. I want to apologize to our fans and the community for their behavior.

"But I also don't want to take anything away from Northern. They are a senior-dominated team and they played like one. Their level of experience, compared to ours, made a big difference."

In reflecting on his first season as coach of the Rams, Campbell said, "We saw a lot of improvement as the season went along, which is always one of your goals. We were within just a few touchdowns, and a few mistakes, of finishing 7-3 instead of 4-6, and a 7-3 record this year would have most likely got us in the playoffs. We certainly should have beaten Preston, we had our chances against Keyser and Northern, and we lost by just one point in the last minute to Allegany.

"It will help a lot to spend the off-season with the kids at the school," the SHS skipper continued. "The first day of practice was the first time I laid eyes on most of them, and it will really help to get to know them better during the off-season. We also plan to get the kids into the weight room next week, and next year we hope to field a freshman team rather than a junior varsity team. We had to pull too many sophomores off our jayvee team to play varsity this year, so we had mostly freshmen playing against sophomores, and even juniors, in our junior varsity program."

Northern's Carr, who will be making his major post-season analysis after the Huskies conclude their playoff run, took time to salute his offensive line, something he said occurs far too infrequently in the football world.

"Our scores against Southern, and all year long, came on the backs of our great blocking, which has helped carry our offense all year," commented Carr. "Guards Ryan Savage, Dale Herrick, and Toby Gilpin, tackles Brandon Wilkens, Dave Wampler, and Josh Swandol — a sophomore who started the year with the junior varsity — center Dan Rounds, and tight end Nathan Resh, have all worked together as a team to spark our running game, which has rushed for 3,380 yards over the 10-game season."

That blocking unit, as well as the Huskies' defensive line, will be put to the test in Saturday's playoff game by a huge Elkton line on both sides of the ball. The visitors will be packing a lot of muscle for the contest, as they average well over 200 pounds across the front. "Yes, they're pretty big," Carr said. "We've been there before this season, though, and our kids won't be intimidated. They know they'll have to use their own quickness and mental skills to their advantage to take control of the lines."

Elkton's offense utilizes a balanced attack, having rushed for over 2,000 yards on the year while accumulating over 1,000 yards in the air. Quarterback John Russell (junior, 6-2, 220) is not one for a lot of scrambling, preferring to settle back in the pocket and wait for the passing routes to unfold.

When not seeking out one of his receivers, most notably split end Dane Culver (a 6-1, 220-pound junior who sometimes shifts back to a tailback position), Russell has a small but quick tailback, John Tripplett (5-9, 154) to hand the ball to. A speedy runner as well as an excellent pass-catcher in his own right, the sophomore "has the ability to get outside and go," Carr said, noting that Elkton has seen success with the toss sweep and off-tackle game. Fullback Dave Squiteri (senior, 6-1, 190) is "an excellent blocker," according to Carr, who does a good job of opening holes for the tailbacks.

Elkton's offensive line, sure to cast some big shadows on the ball, is composed of center Nick Lanzi (sophomore, 6-2, 220), junior guards Jacob Walter (6-1, 220) and Craig Rongstad (the runt of the litter at 6-2, 200), tackles Will May (sophomore, 6-4, 245) and Roland Weeden (senior, 5-11, 268), and tight end Mike Lyon (senior, 6-3, 220).

"Elkton likes to run an I-formation with a wing," Carr said of the scouting data he and his staff have gleaned from the films. "They like to power you a little, but it looks like most of their success on the ground is in going to the outside while their big men tie up the defensive line. Sometimes they'll come out in a shotgun with five receivers, and if Russell gets the time he'll find one of them. We know we have to pressure him in the pocket, as well as contain the corners and keep Tripplett from getting to the outside."

On the other side of the ball, Carr said his offense can expect to see a 4-3 Elkton defense with blitzing linebackers. "We know it could be tough running the ball right at big defensive line like theirs, especially with their size advantage. We're going to stay with our option game, which has worked all year, and try to make their defenders take specific assignments, which can end up causing confusion in a defense because of the intricate nature of a wishbone option. That's when our mental sharpness, as well as our speed, will come into play on offense."

The Huskies will have to handle two of the best defenders in Cecil County, as linebackers Russell and Culver are two of the five leading tacklers in the county, with Russell leading the way for his unit. May has a reputation as a quick defensive tackle, and fellow tacklers Ed Lofthouse (junior, 5-11, 263) and Sebastian Mafnas (junior, 6-0, 285) help anchor the line.

"We're a little bit behind in our scouting work because we open with the lowest-seeded team, which wasn't decided until last weekend was over," Carr said. "It's part of the price you pay for being number one. Everyone knew we were headed for the playoffs (scouts from several downstate schools were in fact observed in the stands Friday night taking notes on the Huskies), but the lower seeds were pretty fluid.

"We traded film with Elkton early this week, and from what we've seen they are an excellent team. Obviously they're big, but one thing you really can't judge from video footage is how fast a team is. We're hoping they're slow, but really can't count on that until we meet them on the field.

"Elkton is much better than a 7-3 mark would indicate, and we're drilling our guys on that," Carr emphasized. "Two of their three losses came against eventual playoff teams; a 13-12 loss to Bohemian Manor, which is seeded second with a 9-1 record, and a six point loss to Bishop Hickey, the fourth seed with a 7-2 record."

Should the Huskies defeat Elkton, they will take on the winner of tomorrow night's match-up between Bishop Hickey and fifth-seeded Brunswick (8-2).

"We can't look beyond Elkton," Carr warned. "We've got our work cut out for us Saturday, no doubt about it. We'll need a packed house to help make it happen, fans as loud as Friday night's crowd, which we estimate was the largest crowd in school history." Weather conditions for the 1 p.m. match-up should be ideal, as the forecast is for a partly cloudy sky with temperatures in the upper 50s. Fans not able to make it can tune in to John Hill and Jim Bosley's live broadcast on WKHJ 104.5-FM.

Still, the Northern coach has taken a well-earned moment or two to revel in his team's accomplishment. "We've got a perfect regular season chalked up, the school's first since 1964's 9-0 squad, and nobody can take that away from us. It's a tribute to the discipline and hard work of our players, each one of whom is an intelligent athlete. We've started receiving letters of congratulations from former players, coaches, teachers, and students," said Carr.

"It's something the whole community — all of Garrett County — can get behind and be proud of for a long time."

LET THE CELEBRATION BEGIN! - The stands of Husky Stadium, packed to capacity on both sides of the field, erupted on the Northern side when Big Blue rallied, then overwhelmed, the valiant first-half effort of the Southern Rams. When it was all said and done, NHS owned a perfect 10-0 record, its first undefeated mark since 1984. The Husky Cheer Squad, pictured above, led the celebration in front of the Big Blue bleachers, with a helpful hoist from the team mascot. Head coach Phil Carr is shown at the left being embraced by his wife Lisa after the final horn sounded, capping a perfect regular season.

Southern Mat Club Schedules Sign-Up Night

The Southern Mat Club Youth Wrestling Team will be holding its annual Sign-Up Night next Monday, Nov. 15, at 7 p.m. in the Southern Middle School cafeteria. All youth, kindergarten through 8th grade, are welcome to attend this informational meeting and to join the team. There are no try-outs, so every student wishing to participate may do so.

"Youth wrestling is a fast-paced, fun-filled, challenging sport," said Dave Taylor, one of the club coaches. "The team teaches the fundamentals of the sport while stressing dedication, discipline, and the team concept in a fun-filled atmosphere. Practice sessions are filled with activities designed to prepare the child for competitive youth wrestling with the broader goals of developing overall physical abilities and good sportsmanship."

Each season, the Southern Mat Club travels throughout the area to compete in youth wrestling tournaments. The team members are encouraged to attend however many events they desire. "The team does not require participation in tournaments every weekend, but the young athlete will soon find out that weekend tournaments are the most enjoyable part of being on the team," Taylor said.

"Our club has a strong history. It has helped to produce some of the best athletes in the country. Each season, several team members work their way through qualifying tournaments with their sights set on qualifying for the National Championships," he said.

Throughout the years, many SMC wrestlers have reached this level. Former Southern High School wrestling standouts such as Eric Rexrode, Pete Strawser, Jason Burgess, and Nick Dolan were team members as youth. Current high school wrestlers such as John and Jeremy Hayhurst, Nick Sines, and Brad Palmer were also SMC wrestlers who wrestled at the national level. Additionally, Nathan Rickman, who is now a Virginia collegiate state champion at James Madison University and one of the best college wrestlers in the country, was one of the original members of the Southern Mat Club.

The team is coached by Taylor, Darrell Ozias, and Rob Browning, who are assisted by Dan Clark, Jason Burgess, and a number of the current high school wrestlers. Each child who joins the team will receive a lot of individualized instruction, according to Taylor.

For more information, persons should come to the sign-up meeting on Monday, or contact any team member or coach.

World Archery Title Captured By Sandi Friend

Sandi Friend, Westernport, earned a world championship by winning the women's semi-pro class of the 10th annual Outdoor World Championship competition.

The event, which was sponsored by the International Bowhunters Organization (IBO), included in excess of 2,500 competitors and was held in Clymer, N.Y.

Other honors won by Friend this season include a first place in the MD State NFAA 3-D Championship, Frederick; first place in the MD State IBO Championship, Baltimore; first place in the second leg of the National Triple Crown, Erie, Pa.; and a second place overall in the National Triple Crown competition.

Friend is sponsored by Martin Archery, Walla Walla, Wash., Brian Simpson, local sales representative; Golden Key Futura Inc., Montrose, Colo.; Bull's Eye Sights and Archery, Lawrence, Ga.; BCY Bowstring, South Lyme, Conn.; and Flex Fletch, St. Paul, Minn.

She is a member of the MD Archery Association (MAA), National Field Archery Association (NFAA), and the executive board of the Cumberland Bowhunter's Association, where she shoots regularly.

The Cumberland Bowhunter's Association offers 3-D shoots and indoor shooting, and sponsors the MD State Indoor Championship.

AREA ARCHER IS WORLD CHAMPION - Garrett County native Sandi Friend, who currently resides in Westernport, bagged the women's semi-pro title recently in the annual Outdoor World Championship, a tournament sponsored by the International Bowhunters Organization. The Bruce High School graduate is the daughter of William and Avanell Virts of the Chestnut Grove area, located just above Bloomington on Backbone Mountain.

Maryland Youth Deer Hunting Day This Saturday

Maryland's fifth annual Youth Deer Hunt Day will be held this Saturday, Nov. 13. On this autumn Saturday only licensed young hunters under age 16 may hunt deer with firearms throughout Maryland. Each young hunter must be accompanied in the field by a person at least 21 years of age who possesses a valid Maryland hunting license or is exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements. The accompanying adult may not possess a firearm, bow, or any other hunting device while assisting the young deer hunter on this day.

"Young hunters are the future for effective deer management in Maryland," said Michael Slattery, director of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife and Heritage Division. "This unique deer hunting day provides the opportunity for adults to pass on effective hunting skills, safe firearm handling techniques, and conservation ethics required by all deer hunters."

Studies by state conservation agencies have found that hunters begin this outdoor activity at an early age. They are introduced to hunting and are taught hunting techniques by a family member, usually a male father figure. Therefore, taking a youngster hunting on November 13 will help to instill a lifetime hunting tradition, Slattery said.

This special youth day and other DNR youth conservationist initiatives have generated a 20 percent increase in youth license sales between 1995 and 1998. The first Youth Deer Hunt Day occurred in 1995, with 1,028 deer taken. In 1998 young deer hunters took 1,664 deer.

Young deer hunters who wish to participate in the Nov. 13 hunt must possess a Maryland resident junior hunting license; or be younger than 16 years of age and be exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements; or be younger than 16 years of age and possess a Maryland nonresident hunting license.

On Nov. 13, youth deer hunters may take one antlered or antlerless deer. Bonus Deer Stamps are not valid in Deer Management Region A or B for this one-day hunt. In Region C (except Frederick County, zone 2) and Region D youth hunters may take an additional deer by purchasing a Bonus Deer Stamp. The second deer must be antlerless if the first deer taken was antlered. The second deer may be either sex if the first deer taken was antlerless.

Each young hunter who deer hunts on Nov. 13 is entitled to receive a specially designed arm patch. These iron-on patches are available at all Maryland official deer checking stations throughout the state. The Chesapeake Chapter of the Safari Club International donates the funds to purchase these blaze orange and black patches.

The Chesapeake Chapter of the Safari Club International also sponsors an all-expenses-paid eight-day trip for two youngsters to Texas in July 2000. The two Maryland youths will learn wilderness survival, natural resource management, hunting, tracking, and firearm safety. Interested youngsters should apply by following the instructions on page 17 of the DNR publication Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1999-2000. This publication is available from all DNR Sport License agents and DNR regional service centers.

For additional information regarding Maryland's deer hunting regulations and for information about hunting on more than 250,000 acres of public lands, persons may consult the DNR publication Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1999-2000.

Hunters Warned About Wearing Hats With Fur

Calling it a potentially serious safety hazard, Maryland Natural Resources Police Supt. John W. Rhoads this week warned hunters against wearing hats with exposed fur while hunting.

"It has come to my attention that blaze orange bomber-style hats, with rabbit fur on the front and ear flaps, are being sold in catalogs and retail stores in Maryland. This product does not meet Maryland's legal requirements for fluorescent orange hunting clothes, and clearly increases the risk of the hunter being mistaken for an animal," Col. Rhoads said.

Maryland hunting law states that when blaze orange is required, hunters must wear a cap of solid daylight fluorescent orange, or a vest or jacket containing fluorescent orange front and back panels of at least 250 square inches, or a camouflage outer garment, above the waist, containing at least 50 percent fluorescent orange.

'99 Black Bear Stamp Now On Sale By DNR

Maryland's Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is selling the 1999 Black Bear Conservation Stamp. Authorized by the Maryland General Assembly, the $5 stamp generates funds that are used to compensate farmers who have reported damage to agricultural crops caused by black bears.

Black bears, once nearly extirpated in Maryland, have made a remarkable comeback, according to DNR. The healthy population of more than 300 bears continues to expand its range in western Maryland. Maryland's black bear population is increasing due, in part, to wetland restoration, reforestation, and protection of open space in western portions of the state. As the population has increased, so has the incidence of bear damage to agricultural activities in western Maryland.

Maryland's 1999 Black Bear Conservation Stamp features a mother bear and two cubs, illustrated by world-renowned wildlife artist Will Goebel. To purchase a Maryland 1999 Black Bear Conservation Stamp, persons may call 1-800-873-3763, visit their local DNR Service Center, or consult the world wide web at: dnr.state.md.us/gift shop/bearstamp.html.

Proceeds from the sale of Black Bear Conservation Stamps provide compensation to western Maryland farmers whose crops sustain black bear damage.

Anyone who purchases a 1999 bear stamp up until February 15, 2000, will automatically be entered into a contest to accompany DNR wildlife biologists on a spring bear-tagging excursion in Garrett County. Biologists will examine previously tagged hibernating bears, as well as tag cubs for future observation. The winner and a guest will also receive a complimentary one-night cabin stay at New Germany State Park and go the following day to count new cubs. No purchase is necessary to enter the bear-tagging excursion contest. To enter without purchasing a stamp, persons must submit a letter with name, address, and telephone number to: DNR Wildlife & Heritage Division, Black Bear Conservation Promotion, 580 Taylor Avenue, E-1, Annapolis, MD 21401.

In addition, DNR will host an art design contest to select the art for the 2000 Black Bear Conservation Stamp. The subject must be a black bear, and it must be original work. The contest begins Wednesday, Dec. 1, and ends February 19, 2000. For contest entry forms, rules, and guidelines persons may call DNR toll-free at 817-620-8DNR, ext. 8546.

THE BACHELOR

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:42 - Released 11/5/99

Would you marry Chris O'Donnell for 100 million dollars? Okay, well, what about if he were a stranger? That's the question asked by The Bachelor, a romantic comedy based on the 1925 Buster Keaton film Seven Chances. In this version, adapted by Steve Cohen and directed by Gary Sinyor, O'Donneil plays Jimmie Shannon, a confirmed bachelor who must marry within the next 24 hours in order to receive his grandfather's multimillion-dollar inheritance. Though not without laughs, this movie suffers the same fate as many such comedies. It has a clever premise and some great bits, but devolves into mushy nonsense in the final reel.

Jimmie has a steady girlfriend, Ann (Renée Zeliweger), and he does want to marry her, but his attempt at a proposal ("you win") falls flat. After she gives up on him, Jimmie learns about the will from his deceased grandfather (Englishman Peter Ustinov, donning an amusing Texan accent). In a videotaped testimony similar to the one in Brewster's Millions, the old man lays it on the line: get married by 6 p.m. on your 30th birthday, stay married for at least 10 years, and produce children, or you're cut off without a cent. Unfortunately, that means that Jimmie would also lose his family's billiards equipment company, and hundreds of friends and employees would be out in the cold. And to make matters worse, his 30th birthday just happens to be tomorrow.

With Ann apparently out of the picture, Jimmie, assisted by his friend Marco (Artie Lange), manager (Hal Holbrook) and attorney (Ed Asner), begins searching for the next Mrs. Shannon. They book a church, hire a priest (James Cromwell), and contact numerous former girlfriends, including Mariah Carey and Brooke Shields. But all the ladies are either attached, offended, uninterested, or all of the above. Besides, Jimmie can't escape the realization that the one he really wants is Ann. With the hours dwindling, he must find her and make things right.

With its cast of ex-lovers, Cohen's first screenplay takes us on a mildly amusing jaunt through Jimmie's past. There are a few standout performances, like Shields, who almost goes through with it until she discovers she actually has to have sex with him (that would turn me off, too). The theme of Jimmie imagining himself as a wild mustang being roped and tamed allows for Sinyor to create some amusing images, but all the women in the film except Ann are stereotyped in one way or another. This may be the first chick flick that shows an open lack of respect for chicks. Meanwhile, O'Donnell and Zellweger both give the lackluster performances of actors caught in a mediocre romance, just putting in time for a paycheck. In the end, The Bachelor doesn't appear to have much more in the way of brains than Runaway Bride or Mickey Blue Eyes. ★★½

THE INSIDER

Rated R - Running Time: 2:37 - Released 11/5/99

Many people saw the story of tobacco industry whistleblower Jeffrey Wigand a few years ago, especially those who follow the CBS newsmagazine 60 Minutes. Wigand was the scientific consultant who, after being fired from a large tobacco company, decided to expose the hypocrisy that permeated that most evil of empires on the country's highest rated news show. In Michael Mann's The Insider, Wigand's story is told, from the death threats he received after breaking his "confidentiality agreement," to the political ramifications of his testimony, to the furor that erupted behind the scenes at CBS News when 60 Minutes almost caved in to pressure from the mammoth and deep-pocketed tobacco industry.

Not only is the story fascinating and intelligent (written by Eric Roth, adapted from the article "The Man Who Knew Too Much" by Marie Brenner), and not only is Mann's directing inventive and yet down to earth, but the performances by the cast are truly excellent. Russell Crowe (L.A. Confidential), who portrays Wigand as a man with strong integrity and dwindling options, Al Facino as producer Lowell Bergman, the one who convinced Wigand that his story was important enough to justify putting his life on the line, and Christopher Plummer in an impeccable performance as 60 Minutes correspondent Mike Wallace, all shine with honesty and realism.

As some may remember, Wigand had been employed as corporate vice president at Brown & Williamson, testing the chemical makeup of the cigarettes produced by the company. When he piped up about the dangers of the product to consumers, he was summarily fired, but because he had knowledge of the company's secrets, he was given a lucrative severance package in return for keeping his mouth shut. When Lowell (Pacino) contacts Wigand to help explain some technical, industry-related documents, Wigand's conscience leads him to reveal secrets that make his former employers very unhappy. As his intentions with 60 Minutes become increasingly clear, he and his family begin to receive death threats. His wife (Diane Venora) promptly leaves him, taking his two daughters. Then, in an incredibly uncharacteristic move, the show's producers decide to cancel the planned interview because the tobacco company threatens CBS with a major lawsuit. So, despite Lowell's loud protests, Wigand is left out on a limb, his credibility destroyed, his reputation shattered, his marriage over.

In tone, this film bears a striking resemblance to All The Presidents' Men. The newsroom arguments, the struggle between accurate news coverage and fiscal responsibilities, and the dogged determination of its lead character to get to the truth, are all there. Not to mention the danger present when messing with the big boys. Since Mann saw that he could not keep the film under 2 hours in length, he seems to have intentionally slowed the pace, giving us time to absorb the thought processes of the characters. One flaw is the overuse of the handheld camera to convey the hectic nature of Lowell's lifestyle and the tense character of Wigand's dilemma. It worked in The Blair Witch Project because we were following three unprofessional movie producers who were running for their lives. But chasing Pacino through the streets of New York, and tripping over the occasional curbstone, gets a little old after 2+ hours. Nevertheless, The Insider is produced with vision and intelligence, and it's one of the few tinseltown products in which the characters aren't puffing away in every scene. Hmmm — I guess big tobacco didn't want to back this one. ★★★★★

THE BONE COLLECTOR

Rated R - Running Time: 1:58 - Released 11/5/99

Just when you had run out of reasons for not living in New York City, along comes The Bone Collector. Denzel Washington and Angelina Jolie star in this chilling tale about a serial killer who makes the Big Apple his home. It's well-stocked with cruel torture and psychopathic behavior, but also contains good work by its two leads and director Phillip Noyce (Clear And Present Danger). Its plot, by Jeffery Deaver, adapted for the screen by Jeremy Iacone, is tight and intriguing, along the lines of Kiss The Girls or The Silence Of The Lambs.

Washington is Lincoln Rhyme, a locally legendary investigator who was injured on the job 4 years ago and left a paraplegic, but still collects a paycheck because he can still use his mind. Having written several books on how to dissect a crime scene, he lives with his nurse Thelma (Queen Latifah) and uses the most state-of-the-art computer technology available to investigate evidence found at homicides. Jolie is Amelia Donaghy, a street cop who runs across a curious murder scene. A man has been buried near the train tracks with his hand left uncovered, his index finger slashed to the bone and his wife's wedding ring jammed onto it. Nearby, on the track, is a pile of sand, an antique iron bolt, and a few small pieces of paper with cryptic printing on them. Rhyme is called on to investigate the evidence, but because of Dohaghy's ability to protect the scene so well, he insists that she be his assistant on the case.

Since Donaghy's desire is to be assigned with youth services and not as a homicide detective, she is nonplussed at his request. But he convinces her to go along, and they soon learn the chilling truth. All the items found at the site, when examined forensically, point to the date, time, and scene of the killer's next murder. As they work together, with Donaghy acting as Rhyme's eyes, ears, and legs, they uncover a string of murder scenes, each with a carefully prepared collection of symbolic items. Soon they will be able to predict where the murderer will strike next — they hope.

This is characteristically excellent work by Washington, although he is once again playing the same flawless hero he always plays. Taking away his ability to walk is an interesting choice; it forces him to act using only his face, pushing the envelope of his considerable talent. Jolie is quite believable as Donaghy; she goes from being skeptical and unenthusiastic to learning the rewards of solving a complex case. Also present is Ed O'Neill (Married With Children), who provides adequate support as Rhyme's partner and aide, and H.R.H. Latifah shows again that her talent goes beyond singing. On the other hand, Michael Rooker is eminently unconvincing as the villainous Capt. Howard Cheney, who has no reason for being present except to throw in some conflict and manufactured obstacles for Rhyme and Dohaghy to overcome.

Director Noyce makes good use of the seamier side of the city, and of Dean Semler's cinematography (Dances With Wolves), as the team creeps through sewer systems and abandoned slaughterhouses from turn-of-the-century New York. Moreover, Craig Armstrong's beautiful musical score provides a nice counterpoint to the film's graphically disturbing subject matter. The Bone Collector's weakest point is its ending, in which not only is the main conflict stupidly resolved, but a sappy, quasi-romantic denouement is tacked on uncomfortably to an otherwise intelligent story. Still, it's worth a look for the fan of the tough-edged police mystery. ★★★★

Service Learning Hours

Need Service Learning Hours? If you have computer skills and like to develop web pages or would like to learn more about making web pages, then this is the place to go! Students may currently assist with the "Mt. Top Christmas 99" web page. Students may assist with ongoing community outreach web pages and occasional data entry. For more information call Kelly-Marie Morris at 301-387-3197.

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce would like to assist students in getting their Service Learning hours. Students may assist in greeting visitors, giving directions, answering phones, and occasionally assisting with mailings. The center is open 7 days a week, Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Fridays, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and weekends, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. For more information, call Sandra at 301-387-6171.

Discover Card Youth Program

Juniors who have a cumulative GPA of 2.75 (approx. 82%) or higher can apply for the Discover Card Tribute Award Scholarship. The program will honor outstanding high school students across the nation by awarding scholarships ranging from $1,000 to $2,500. Scholarships will help toward training to be certified in a trade, training technical school, or enrolling in courses in a 2- or 4-year school. Students need to pick up applications soon to allow 2-3 weeks to complete the application package. Application requires an essay; three reference letters, completion of application form, which must be certified by Beverly Sincell, guidance counselor, and an official school transcript. The deadline for receipt of the applications is January 11, 2000.

Elks Scholarship Award

The Oakland Elks Lodge #2481 is proud to take part in the Elks National Foundation scholarship program. The Elks National Foundation provides more than $3 million in college scholarships each year to graduating high school seniors. The "Most Valuable Student," Eagle Scout, and Girl Scout Gold awards, as well as the Elks Vocational Scholarships are open to any graduating high school senior. Legacy Awards and Emergency Educational Fund Grants are available only to children of Elks members. The applications, except for the scouting awards, must go through a local Elks lodge before reaching the Elks National Foundation Office.

The "Most Valuable Student" Award — Awards are four-year scholarships, ranging from $1,000 to $7,500 per year; based on financial need, scholarship, and leadership; applicants do not need to be children of Elks members; awards require ACT or SAT scores and can only be applied to American colleges and universities.

Elks Vocational Scholarships — Student must be planning to enroll in or currently enrolled in a vocational/technical career program of two years or less in length; students enrolled in two-year transfer programs are not eligible; students do not need to be children of Elks members; scholarships are for two years only, and may be reviewed at the beginning of the second academic year.

The Emergency Education Fund Grants — One-year grants available to children of deceased or totally incapacitated Elks members.

The Legacy Awards for Children of Elks — The first deadline for consideration for these awards has passed. (We as a school had five applicants at the local level.)

For applications or further information, contact Robin Spiker, Oakland Lodge scholarship chairman, at 301-334-4669 or 301-334-1119 and leave a message, or by E-mail at rspiker1@hotmail.com.

Great Christmas Idea

The SGHS School Store is now taking orders for long-sleeve denim shirts. These one-of-a-kind shirts will be embroidered with the Southern Ram and your name can be added at no additional charge. These shirts are available in adult sizes small, medium, large, extra large, and double extra large, and are only $30 plus tax (the 2x large shirts will be an additional $3.) Be sure to place your order before November 18 to assure Christmas delivery. Contact Lisa Bender at the school for more information.

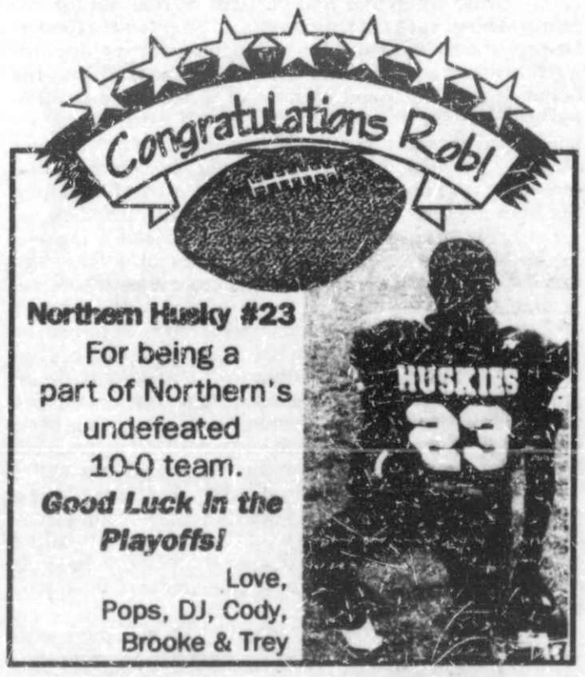
ASVAB Testing

The dates for the ASVAB test at SGHS have been changed to December 6 and 7. Sophomores with last names A-L will be tested on Monday, 12/6, and sophomores with last names M-Z will be tested on 12/7.

Area Tellabration '99 To Be Held At Deep Creek

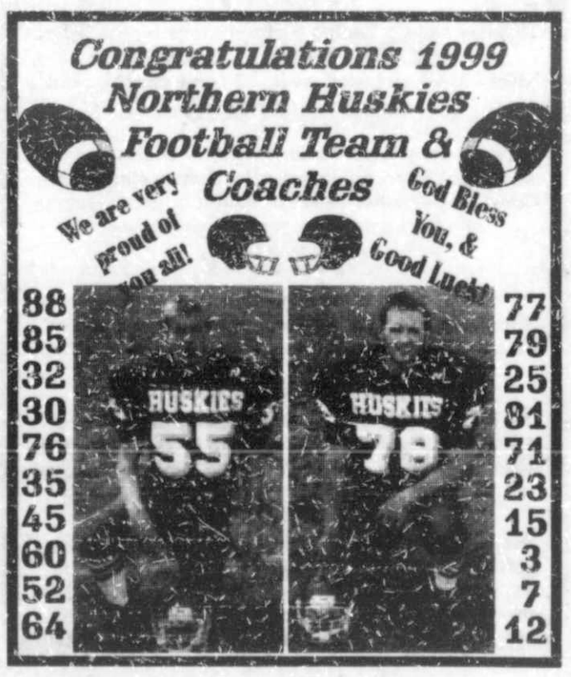
An evening of storytelling that spans the globe will take place on November 18, and Garrett County's site for stories will be the Canoe on the Run Restaurant, located along Deep Creek Drive in McHenry. Tellabration is an event encouraged by the National Storytelling Association, according to Dr. Gail Herman, local representative of the group.

Guests are invited to arrive at 6 p.m. to order dinner. Stories will begin at approximately 7:15 p.m. Local and regional storytellers are slated to share some of their favorite tales. Guests are invited to tell stories as well, Herman said. The cost is a suggested $3 per person, in addition to dinner costs.



The Garrett County branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) is sponsoring the event. The proceeds will go toward the organization's educational and scholarship funds.

Reservations for Tellabration '99 may be made by calling the Canoe on the Run Restaurant at 301-387-5933. Seating will be limited to approximately 32 people.



For more information, persons may contact Herman at 301-387-5933 or Katie Ross at 301-729-0875.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER

A buckwheat cake and sausage dinner is planned for Sunday, Nov. 21, at Mt. Grove Slaubaugh Memorial Building. It is sponsored by the Mountain Lions Club. Serving begins at noon and continues through 7 p.m. Cost for adults is $5, for children 6 to 12, $3, and children 5 and under may eat for free. Persons who wish to purchase sausage at $1.75 per pound may reserve an order by calling John Calcamp at 735-3141.

YOUTH MINISTRY

Special youth ministry programs will be held at the Maple Spring Church on Nov. 19 and 20 at 7:30 p.m. The local youth invite others to join them for this special event.

COMMUNITY SERVICES

Union District will have its community Thanksgiving services on Wednesday evening, Nov. 24, at 7:30 p.m., in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora. Everyone is invited to this special service.

WV SOIL AND WATER CONFERENCE

The West Virginia Soil and Water Conservation Partnership Conference was held Nov. 1 through 5 at the Marriott in Charleston. Partners are: WV Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisors Association and Auxiliary; WV Soil and Water Conservation Society; WV Resource Conservation and Development; WV Association of Professional Soil Scientists; USDA Matira; and Resource Conservation Service.

Commissioner of Agriculture Gus Douglass introduced Governor Cecil Underwood. He also welcomed the partnership efforts being made by the above agencies to solve soil and water problems in West Virginia.

Rudy Rice, president of the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD), and Peggy Skains, president of RC and D, both addressed the General Assembly. Songa Neal, special assistant to Pearly Reed, the chief presidential assistant, spoke about civil rights and outreach activities of USDA-NRCS. Congressman Bob Wise spoke to the group via video tape.

The WV Soil and Water Conservation Auxiliary was sponsor of a school poster contest, with entries in five categories. Four of the winners were present and received $50 U.S. savings bonds presented by Mildred Teets, president. The posters will be sent for national judging at the conference to be held at Colorado Springs, Colo., in February 2000. West Virginia did have a national winner in 1999.

The Education Committee sponsors two $750 scholarships each year and sponsored its fund-raising auction, for which Gus Douglass served as the auctioneer. Over $2,200 toward the $50,000 goal was raised by this method. The Scil and Water Committee raised enough for two scholarships at its silent auction.

Named as Conservation Family of the Year were the Robert Grubers of Jefferson County. Placing second was the Boggess Dairy of Monroe County, and third place went to Wayne County's Roberson family.

Much of the agenda focused on the drought program and future needs in similar disasters. Emphasis was also placed on biosolid waste and its disposal.

Hancell Teets of Aurora was honored for his 20 years of service, and was presented with a certificate and pin. Others attending from Aurora were his wife Mildred, along with Brad Durst and Jill Hauser.

METTIKI SUPPORTS ARTS FOR YOUTH - Mettiki Coal Corporation sponsored several area youth who attended an intensive week-long theater arts camp recently at the YMCA's Camp Horseshoe. The camp resulted from a coordinated effort between Tucker County-based Camp Horseshoe and Voices From the Earth, both nonprofit organizations that serve a wide area beyond state boundaries. Pictured from the left are Voices From the Earth board member Tom Gearhart; George Tichnell, Mettiki's vice president of operations; Ilina Evans, Voices From the Earth artistic director; David Thomas, Mettiki's corporate affairs manager; and scholarship recipient Emily Shaffer of Saint George. Not pictured are additional scholarship recipients Patrick Tesner of Leadmine and Clay Johnson of Bruceton Mills. "Mettiki Coal, which employs persons from throughout the tri-state area, has consistently supported the arts as well as other civic interests in the area," a spokesperson said.

HEALTH, SAFETY FAIR

The public is invited to Pleasant Valley Community Building this Friday evening, Nov. 12, for a 7:30 until 10 p.m. health and safety fair, sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department. Rural families are encouraged to attend the event, which provides information about farm and fire safety, bike and child safety, and environmental, family, and child health issues.

FRANTZ HONORED

Melvin R. Frantz, son of Don and Neva Frantz, Eglon, will be leaving his post at Langley Field, Va., on Nov. 17 for a tour of duty at Osan Air Force Base in South Korea. He and his wife Melissa are visiting family at Eglon and Gorman prior to his departure, and were honored with a covered dish dinner on Sunday afternoon at the Maple Spring Church.

Melvin, was recently promoted to Airman 1st Class. Family and friends attended this Thanksgiving-Christmas farewell.

SHOOTING MATCH

An annual shooting match, sponsored by the Farmers' Wildlife Club, will be held at the park at Horse Shoe Run on Saturday, Nov. 20, beginning at noon. The match will be for 12., 16., and 20-gauge shotguns only. Refreshments will be available. The public is welcome.

OBITUARY

Betty L. Smith, 68, of St. George (Limestone Rd.), died Saturday, Oct. 30, 1999, at Davis Memorial Hospital in Elkins, following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Smith was born May 30, 1931, in Akron, Ohio, a daughter of the late Collas and Marjorie Auvil Jones, who lived at Aurora. She was also preceded in death by her husband, Arlie Smith, in 1980.

She is survived by one son and daughter-in-law, Gary and Christine Smith of Mogadore, Ohio; one brother and spouse, Ronnie and Kathy Jones of Parsons; two sisters, JoAnn (Mrs. Richard) Frazee and Joan Nice, both of Oakland; a companion, Donal Hamrick of St. George; two grandchildren, Jason and Jill Smith; and one great-grandson.

Services were held at the Newcomer and Farley Funeral Home in Akron on Wednesday, Nov. 3, with the Rev. Howard Powell officiating. Interment followed in Hillside Memorial Park, Akron.

PERSONAL MENTION

Janet Judy of Horse Shoe Run underwent double bypass surgery Friday at Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown and was expecting to be home early this week.

Jack and Barbara Snyder's son Anthony returned last Friday to their Amboy home from Ruby Memorial Hospital.

Brian Fike recently spent a week's leave with his parents, Gary and Cleda Fike, Terra Alta. On Oct. 31, he and his parents, a friend, and his uncle and cousins, Norman, Kevin, and Becky Fike, were all guests of his grandmother, Mrs. Louella Fike, Aurora.

Wanda Melton of Buffalo was a weekend visitor at Aurora with her brother and sister-in-law, David and Delores Stemple, and their family.

Visiting with Tim and Linda Blakely at their home at Horse Shoe Run were Linda's parents, Jake and Daphne Miller of White Sulphur Springs.

Earl and Alice Roth of Renick were weekend visitors with relatives in this area.

Virginia Bolyard was released last week from Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, and is staying in Eglon with her daughter and family Kathy and Danny Moats and children.

The Aurora United Methodist Church held its annual Thanksgiving dinner following morning services on Sunday. At this time, they also belatedly honored Sheridan and Nina Layman, who had observed their 64th wedding anniversary on Oct. 23. Also invited for the occasion were the Layman's son and family, David, Lois, and Aaron Layman.

Pastor John Crowe and daughter Julie spent a few days at Taylor University in Indiana visiting with the latter's brother Andrew, who is a student there. Pastor Crowe is taking the month of November as a sabbatical and Sunday's guest speaker at Maple Spring was Carl Fike of Oakland.

Aurora/TA VFW, Ladies Auxiliary Observe 100 Years

Members of the Aurora/Terra Alta Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 578 and its Ladies Auxiliary met recently to observe the 100th anniversary of the VFW.

In honor of the occasion, the members presented "VFW, Our First Century, 1899-1999," by Herbert Molloy Mason Jr., to the Terra Alta Public Library to be used at its new location on the East end of Terra Alta. The book, containing 235 pages and 11 chapters, includes information about West Virginian Richard W. Holman who served as VFW's commander-in-chief from 1968-69, the time of "Operation Speak Out." He served during World War II as a sergeant with the 610th Tank Destroyer in Europe.

The book presentation, led by Betty Sereno, president of the Aurora/Terra Alta VFW Ladies Auxiliary, VFW Commander Todd Deahl, and Harold Sereno, chairman of "The Celebration of the 100 Years of VFW," was made to Ima Thomas, librarian.

The meeting included The Pledge of Allegiance, led by Americanism Chairman Dorothy Hauser, and an audio presentation by Tom Brokaw, titled "The Greatest Generation."

Attending the meeeting, in addition to those previously mentioned, were Sharon Haskell, assistant librarian, Floyd Sandlin, Sterling Queen, Warren and Joan Dixon, Sheridan Layman, Hubert and Doris Schnopp, Ernest and Merle Nice, John and Barbara Beerbower, Violet Bishop, Bonnie Harsh, Robert and Margarete Sypolt, Bonnie Harsh, and Linda Snyder.

Church To Host Music Revival

There will be a music revival at the White Oak Church, located along the Cranesville Road about 4½ miles outside Terra Alta. Lance Damion from Kentucky will be a guest performer. The schedule of services is as follows: Friday, Nov. 19, 7 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 20, 7 p.m.; and Sunday, Nov. 21, 10 a.m.

Great American SMOKEOUT

by Peggy Santamaria

It's almost that time of year again. The third Thursday of November is approaching. It is the day that gives new meaning to the term "smoke break." Instead of taking a break to smoke, those who are inclined to "light-up" are asked to take a break from smoking. Thursday, Nov. 18, will be the Great American Smokeout.

"Quitters are winners during the Smokeout. It is an upbeat, good-natured effort to encourage users of tobacco to give up their tobacco for 24 hours. If they can prove to themselves they can do it for the day, they might quit for good," said Kendra Todd of the Garrett County Health Department.

Members of the Outreach team of the health department will be in their respective communities during the coming week, with sign-up materials for those who are interested in participating in the Smokeout. Those who do not use tobacco are en-couraged to 'adopt' someone whom they care about that does use tobacco and support his or her efforts to quit for the day," Todd said.

Pledging participation earns a piggy bank for the tobacco user. The idea behind the pig is that ending tobacco use will result in great savings. There will also be an incentive prize awarded through a raffle. "Those who successfully quit for the full 24 hours are invited to call the health department to be included in a drawing for dinner and movies for two — in a smoke-free environment, of course," Todd noted.

To follow up on the Great American Smokeout, the health department will offer a free "No Nag" smoking cessation class on December 9, 6-8 p.m., at the Community Services Center. For details on any of the health department's tobacco prevention activities or to sign up for the No Nag class, persons may call Community Health at 301-334-8122 or 301-895-3111.

To Qualify For Medicare Benefits

In order to receive home care under Medicare, the patient must be homebound. A homebound patient is defined as one who requires considerable effort and assistance to leave home. Medicare guidelines require that the care given must be medically reasonable, necessary, and ordered by a physician. The patient must require skilled care that can be administered intermittently.

Rural Health And Safety Fair Activity Schedule

The Garrett County Health Department and local businesses are sponsoring a Rural Health and Safety Fair — an evening of family activities and information — to be held at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, Friday, Nov. 12., 5-10 p.m.

5 p.m.: Tables will set up for display, and drinks will be available.

7:30 p.m.: Welcome and explanation of the fair will be offered.

7:45 p.m.: Dr. Savopoulos will speak about prevention of melanoma, prostate, colon, and breast cancer.

8:15 p.m.: Lois Ford will draw names for adult and youth door prize winners. Drawings will also be held at 9 and 9:15 p.m.

8:20 p.m.: Mike Miller will speak about farm safety.

8:30 p.m.: Dr. Gotsch will present information on preventing childhood lead poisoning.

9:05 p.m.: Pharmacist Jerry Herpel will talk about medication safety.

9:20 p.m.: Refreshments will be served and the following displays available to visit: Cancer prevention — Becky Parks; child/adult immunizations -- Lois Ford; lead, rabies, food safety — Tina Buckel; bike helmets and smoke detectors — Michael Gibbons and Gail Devers; blood pressure screening — Martha Layton, R.N.; medication safety — Jerry Herpel; farm injury prevention — Mike Miller; and the farm safety game — AmeriCorps.

9:45 p.m.: There will be a final grand prize drawing.

NOTICE

to the patients of

John C. Seese, D.D.S.

Please stop by the office on Sat., Nov. 20, 1999, between 10 a.m. & 12 noon to obtain your dental records.

National Home Care Month

Garrett is one of two remaining counties in Maryland to offer a state home care program which provides medical support services for patients with acute or chronic illnesses who do not qualify for or require in-hospital treatment.

The Garrett County Health Department Home Health Agency, licensed by the state of Maryland, is certified by Medicare and Medical Assistance. Private or third party insurance may also cover in-home care.

ELIGIBILITY

To be eligible for the home care services of the health department, a person must be a resident of Garrett County who, under the care of a physician, is confined to his or her home because of a medical condition that requires intermittent skilled home health services.

FEE FOR SERVICES

Fees for home health care are established according to type of services provided. The cost will usually be covered by Medicare or Medical Assistance, and in some cases, may be covered by the individual's health insurance. A sliding fee scale is used to determine the cost for persons paying cash.

The patient's ability to pay is not a requirement for admission to the home care program. On request, fully itemized billing statements are provided to the patient.

PHYSICAL THERAPY

A patient's physical deterioration caused by inactivity may be alleviated through rehabilitation services offered by physical therapy. Post joint-replacement patients are considered to be good candidates for physical therapy. Services provided through home care include gait training, bed mobility transfers, strengthening and therapeutic exercises, and the proper application and use of prosthetic devices and braces.

SPEECH THERAPY

Stroke, cancer and other diseases frequently impair a person's ability to speak clearly. A speech therapist, working in the home, may help the patient overcome these problems through language and communications retraining, and coping with dysphasia.

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY

A person's physical deterioration may impair the ability to perform normal daily or job functions. The occupational therapist can help the patient to independently perform daily activities and/or assist in job functions.

NUTRITIONAL SERVICES

Patients are provided with diet recommendations dictated by the individual's medical circumstances.

MEDICAL SOCIAL SERVICES

A social worker will assist with client services such as placement assistance, financial and emotional counseling, and community resource planning.

Anyone in need of home health care may contact his or her physician or call the Garrett County Health Department Home Health Agency at 301-334-8113 or 301-895-3112.

Epilepsy Services Group Establishes Garrett Presence

SARA HOFFMAN

Residents of Garrett County now have a local contact with the Epilepsy Foundation through Sara Hoffman, county resident and local EF program director. Before Hoffman established the area service, which provides programs and services to persons of all ages living with epilepsy and other disabilities, contact between a local citizen and the Epilepsy Foundation was directed through the organization's western Maryland office in Frederick.

Hoffman will be on hand to meet persons attending a presentation by pharmacist Steve Oaks titled "Seizures and Natural Hormone Replacement Therapy" set for tonight, Nov. 11, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Community Services Building located next to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The free program is sponsored by the Epilepsy Support Group of Garrett County.

"The Epilepsy Foundation is a private, non-profit organization whose mission is to assist people with epilepsy and other disabilities in achieving their personal goals and in reaching their maximum potential," Hoffman said. "Services are tailored to support each person to live, work, socialize, and to encourage the highest level of participation of each person in his or her community."

Services and support are provided for both individuals and families by the Epilepsy Foundation. "EF helps people become aware of services that are available in certain communities, like health care, and legal and financial assistance," Hoffman continued. "We also offer counseling, living assistance, and help with developing job skills for those individuals who wish to be employed."

The Family and Children's Services of the Epilepsy Foundation are focused on the needs of entire families that have a child with a disability. "We work collaboratively with other resources by identifying and developing relationships and supports within the family's community," stated Hoffman. "EF provides in-home assistance, adaptive equipment and home modifications, peer support for both parents, adolescents, and children, an inclusive summer camp, and Project ACT (All Children Together), a child care support program."

Persons interested in information on services and programs available through the Epilepsy Foundation in Garrett County may contact Hoffman at 301-387-7723. For information on tonight's presentation on natural hormone therapy, persons may call Jo Shoesmith of the Epilepsy Support Group at 800-394-9504.

Agenda Set For Medicare Forum At Senior Center

The Grantsville Senior Center will be the site of a Medicare information seminar on Friday, Nov. 12. The agenda for the forum has been released.

At 10:15 a.m. Barbara Mullican, beneficiary education coordinator with Trailblazer Health Enterprises, will speak about what one may expect from Medicare.

At 11 a.m. a representative from the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) will address questions about the "disappearance" of HMOs, what happened to them, and how it happened.

At 11:20 a.m. SHIP coordinator June Heselbach will talk about Medigap insurance plans — what a person needs, and what it may cost.

Lunch will be served at noon for those who have pre-registered. A discussion/question period will follow from 1 to 2 p.m.

The center is located along Durst Road, Grantsville. For information, persons may call the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403.

When Smokers Quit

Within 20 minutes of smoking that last cigarette, the body begins a series of changes that continue for years.

20 Minutes

Blood pressure and pulse rate drop to normal; body temperature of hands and feet increases to normal.

8 Hours

The carbon monoxide level in the blood drops to normal, and the oxygen level in the blood increases to normal.

24 Hours

The chance of a heart attack decreases.

48 Hours

Nerve endings start regrowing, and the ability to smell and taste is enhanced.

2 Weeks to 3 Months

Circulation improves; walking becomes easier; and lung function increases up to 30 percent.

1 to 9 Months

Coughing, sinus congestion, fatigue, and shortness of breath decrease; cilia regrow in the lungs, increasing the ability to handle mucus, clean the lungs, and reduce infection; and the body's overall energy increases.

1 Year

Excess risk of coronary heart disease is half that of a smoker.

5 Years

The lung cancer death rate for the average former smoker decreases by almost half; stroke risk is reduced to that of a nonsmoker 5-15 years after quitting; and the risk of cancer of the mouth, throat, and esophagus is half that of a smoker's.

10 Years

The lung cancer death rate is similar to that of nonsmokers; precancerous cells are replaced; and the risk of cancer of the mouth, throat, esophagus, bladder, kidney, and pancreas decreases.

15 Years

The risk of coronary heart disease is that of a nonsmoker.

NATIONAL ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE AWARENESS MONTH is November, as proclaimed nationally and locally this week. Several elder care health professionals met with the Garrett County commissioners Tuesday to make the proclamation. The signed document states in part that Alzheimer's disease is a progressive, degenerative disease of the brain, and the most common form of dementia, which results in impaired memory, thinking, and behavior. Communication becomes difficult as the person with Alzheimer's struggles to find words, finish thoughts, or follow directions. Persons with the disease may wander off and get lost, in their own neighborhoods or far from home. Eventually, affected persons become totally unable to care for themselves. According to the document, one in 10 persons over 65 and nearly half of those over 85 have Alzheimer's disease, as well as a small percentage of people in their 30s and 40s. A person with Alzheimer's disease will live an average of eight years and as many as 20 years or more from the onset of symptoms. Today there are more than 4 million Americans with Alzheimer's disease. Unless a cure or prevention is found, that number will jump to 14 million by the year 2050. In Garrett County, there are an estimated 530 county residents who have Alzheimer's disease. The commissioners commended the programs, services, and advocacy that the Alzheimer's Association, Western Maryland Chapter, has provided to county residents, and proclaimed the month's observance to support these efforts and enhance public awareness of Alzheimer's disease. Pictured at the signing, left to right, are Commissioner Wendell Beitzel, Pat Light, Chairman Ernest Gregg, Leona Beckman (Area Agency on Aging), Donna McClintock (health department), Monty Pagenhardt (county administrator), Jo-Anne Harsh (director of Mtn. Glade Medical Adult Day Care), and Commissioner Fred Holliday.

NATIONAL HOME CARE MONTH PROCLAIMED — November is National Home Care Month, and local representatives of that system met with the Garrett County commissioners this week to proclaim the observance. According to Rodney Glotfelty, county health officer, home care is the oldest and most enduring tradition of health care delivery in the world. "Most individuals prefer to remain at home with their loved ones in surroundings that are familiar and comfortable," Glotfelty said. "In so doing, home care helps preserve one of the country's most important social values: keeping families together." Home health care has been proven to provide high quality care and quick recovery while keeping costs lower, he added, especially in light of the ever-increasing costs of medical care, changes in Medicare, and the advent of HMOs. The health department's Home Health Agency "continues to offer a practical means of providing health care and related services to those in need with the expertise of a highly trained and efficient staff," he said. Glotfelty also announced that the local Home Health Agency recently underwent review by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Office of Health Care Quality, and no deficiencies were found. He said the GCHD Home Health Agency will continue to be licensed and Medicare certified to provide home care services to the citizens of Garrett County. The agency's services offered in the home include skilled nursing, home health aides, physical, speech, and occupational therapy, medical social services, and nutrition consultations. For more information, persons may call 301-334-8113 or 301-895-3112, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Free in-home evaluations can be provided by the Adult Evaluation Review Services team. Pictured at the signing, standing left to right, are Glotfelty; Linda Moe, R.N., Home Health director; Kathy Elewert, R.N., staff nurse; Gladys Collins, human service aide; Alice Vitez-Slater, fiscal associate; Marina Getz, physical therapist; and Donna McClintock, licensed certified social worker.

"Why Not Me?" — Friendsville Kayaker Recalls Whitewater Tragedy On Remote Tibetan River

EARTH'S TALLEST PEAKS and mankind's most deeply rooted hopes provide a backdrop for this portrait of Garrett County's Roger Zbel. Tibet's Tsangpo River slices through a high plateau dotted with small Buddhist prayer cloths, some shown billowing from sticks behind the Friendsville resident. The cloths symbolize prayers destined for the spirit world, borne upon winds that constantly rake the plateau. The region, closed to westerners for decades by the Chinese government, is considered sacred ground by Buddhist natives.

by David Foster

A year ago at this time Friendsville resident and world-class whitewater paddler Roger Zbel was in Tibet as part of a National Geographic expedition team attempting to explore the Tsangpo River Gorge — the deepest river gorge in the world.

The four kayakers had hopes of becoming the first explorers to navigate the treacherous river, tucked in between jagged Himalayan peaks soaring thousands of feet into the air; however, their journey was cut short when team member Doug Gordon of Utah drowned in one of the Tsangpo's all but insurmountable rapids.

"It kind of shakes your beliefs and makes you wonder if things happen for a reason or at random," Zbel said one year later as he reflected on the tragedy and the last moments he saw his friend.

"You're left asking yourself: 'Why not me?'"

Whitewater's Everest

Zbel, seated in the lobby of Precision Rafters, the Friendsville white water outfitter company that he owns and operates, recently discussed the ill-fated expedition while viewing a video of the journey produced for the National Geographic Explorer television program.

The group of expert kayakers was drawn to the other side of the globe by a river shrouded as much in the midst of legend as it is in the shadows of 5-mile high Himalayan peaks. "The Tsangpo is an awesome river — words just can't describe it," Zbel said. "We used satellite photos to help scout it out, and you could see the white water from outer space."

The Tsangpo cuts completely across Tibet, starting at 7,000 feet above sea level before making a rapid descent and roaring through the mountain plateau by way of the only gap in the Himalayas. Its very existence was considered just a rumor for centuries, and, up until just a few months ago (just after the National Geographic kayaking expedition was called off) it had never been seen, much less explored, by Westerners.

"If you took the flow of the Mississippi River and cut it through the Rocky Mountains you'd get the idea of what the Tsangpo is like. It's so remote that data is hard to come by, but our best guess was that it was running as high as 50,000 cubic feet per second (cfs) while we were there, while whitewater on the Youghiogheny is about 2000 cfs at its highest point," the Friendsville paddler said.

The Yough, which has some of most challenging rapids in the U.S., is a Class IV river on a whitewater scale that goes up to six.

"Death was a real possibility, and before we left for Tibet I was probably the most apprehensive of the guys," said Zbel, who had signed on with the group as a substitute when one of the initial members bowed out. "But it was something I had to do. In talking with my wife after the call asking me to join the team, I told her that I had wanted to climb Mount Everest ever since I was a kid. That will probably never happen, but the Tsangpo is the Everest of whitewater. She was nervous, of course, but supported me in the decision we made together."

When Zbel and his teammates landed at Tibet's Katmandu airport, 15 years had passed since organizers had first started planning for the expedition. With the region in the iron grip of Communist China for decades, all but closed to the outside world, no precise maps existed that detailed the area.

After a long journey to the river that included a treacherous drive through three 15,000-foot passes and three days of brutal mountain hiking while shouldering boats, gear, and provisions, the team came upon a sight they couldn't have prepared for.

"Once we arrived we saw there was no way we'd be able to do all 140 miles of the river. It was so bad that I immediately decided that I would play it totally conservative and carry my boat if we came upon an especially risky spot," the world-class paddler said.

Current speeds exceeded 20 miles an hour in the Tsangpo's rapids, as compared to 7-8 miles per hour on a fast-flowing stretch of the Yough. Although full, the river fell short of its peak level when the monsoon rains melt the snow pack in the river's headwater region. Still, the water was so high that the team had to hike long stretches around impassible rapids, swinging machetes to cut a trail, sometimes along cliffs far above the raging river, with 45 pounds of boat and gear on their backs.

Escapes

"We all had some close spells on the water that we were lucky to come away from," recalled Zbel. "I got in trouble once when I went over an 8-foot drop and got flushed out to the middle of the river, over ¼ mile wide at that point. I backpaddled for all I was worth and was lucky to get into the next eddy safely. There was no way anyone could run the middle of that river; the hydraulics could have swallowed this [Precision Rafters] building."

Expedition member Jamie McEwan capsized and lost his boat in the early going, and had to hike across cliffs that reached over 1,000 feet above the river. When he met the support team at a pre-arranged camp, he learned that his boat had been located by native hunters 18 miles downriver. McEwan had to bargain $100 and a tarp to get it back.

The effort was total, Zbel said. "It was like walking on eggshells at all times, whether on the water or not. You had to be totally focused on what you were doing every moment. At the end of the day you were so worn out that you'd be out like a light when you went to bed, but I had a lot of vivid dreams at night. I guess at first that was an escape from the enormity of what we were attempting to do at first, then later as an escape from the horror of watching Doug die.

"A dream that especially sticks with me was that I was back in Friendsville running the Yough, while telling my friends 'I've got to get back on the plane to Tibet.'"

Gateway to Nirvana

Zbel, Gordon, and Tom McEwan met Jamie McEwan at the camp, gateway to the deepest part of the gorge, wedged between two 25,000-foot peaks. With steep canyon walls towering thousands of feet above their heads, barring the support team's way, the kayakers had to add extra provisions to each boat and double the weight to 90 pounds per craft. Upon entering the gorge they had been traveling on or alongside the river for 11 days, and had covered just 30 miles.

The tragedy occurred shortly after the run through the gorge began. "Doug was lost over an 8-foot waterfall just into the gorge," the soft-spoken Zbel said. "He got caught at the base of the falls, capsized, and was held upside down for a few seconds. He popped upright but then was swept into the middle of the river, turned upside down again and held under for about 20 seconds. Then his boat moved away and disappeared. We never saw him or his boat again.

"Even if Doug had succeeded in making it through his last rapid, there was no way I was going to even attempt it," said Zbel. He and the other two remaining kayakers abandoned the river. They spent seven somber days hiking out to meet the support team and begin the journey home to their families and loved ones.

PORTAGING WAS A WAY OF LIFE for Zbel and his fellow explorers, as many stretches of the Tsangpo proved unnavigable for even these world-class paddlers. Tom McEwan, foreground, and Zbel gingerly pick their footsteps through the water under the watchful eye of a support team member. The camera tripod mounted on the bow of McEwan's kayak served to help document the expedition's progress with still photos for National Geographic Adventure magazine and video footage for the National Geographic Explorer television program. "Tragedy on the Tsangpo River" is expected to air on the cable channel CNBC sometime in January, according to its producers.

"It was inconceivable to continue without Doug. We knew from the satellite photos that just downstream the river entered a crease that dropped 190 feet in the span of less than a mile as it entered into a 180-degree turn on itself," before plummeting over the fabled 105-foot Hidden Falls.

Those falls were viewed by Western explorers, part of a National Geographic-sponsored hiking expedition, for the very first time just a few weeks after Zbel's river-running group had departed. Hidden Falls, and the Tsangpo River region as a whole, have since been closed off to the outside world by the Chinese authorities once again.

"Where Doug died is a holy space in the local mythology," said Zbel. "The Buddhists say if you die there you go straight to Nirvana."

"Why Not . . . ?"

The horror of seeing Doug drown, realizing he left a wife and two small children, really shook all of us up," Zbel quietly reflected as he held his 4-year-old daughter Cari on his knee.

"We were all in our 40s, each with years of whitewater experience, and we all had part of our past that involved playing the hot dog, seeking the great adrenalin rush. I was just starting to get close to Doug, who was a very calculating kayaker — not a risk-taker by any means — when he was lost.

"When I finally got home to my wife Nancy it was really something, and when I first saw Cari she held me for what seemed like hours."

Roger Zbel had found the answer to his question.

Footnote

The expedition of Roger Zbel, Doug Gordon, and brothers Tom and Jamie McEwan is the subject of a National Geographic Explorer episode titled "Tragedy on the Tsangpo River." The documentary series is carried on the CNBC cable television channel, and producers said that it will likely be repeated in January.

A feature account of the expedition titled "Trouble in Shangri-La; The Siege of the Tsangpo," by Michael McRae appears in the Spring 1999 premiere issue of the National Geographic Adventure magazine. The publication is available at the library of Garrett Community College.

Allegheny Energy Donates To Friends Of Potomac Group

Allegheny Energy has made a $10,000 corporate contribution to Friends of the Potomac that will be earmarked to help train regional leaders to become stewards of the Potomac River Watershed. "This donation will complete funding to plan a conservation and leadership training program called 'Leadership Potomac,' as well as other educational opportunities for local community leaders," said Dennis D. Limbach, Allegheny Energy's manager for Federal Legislative Affairs. "Allegheny is proud to support Friends of the Potomac, whose efforts will improve and protect the water quality of one of the region's most beautiful and historic watersheds."

Leadership Potomac has also benefited from $10,000 in matching implementation assistance from the National Park Service. The project will be conducted by the Friends in partnership with the Accokeek Foundation and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's National Conservation Training Center in Shepherdstown, W.Va., said Wilton Corkern, a Friends board member. "Leadership Potomac will be an ongoing program to inform, inspire, and motivate leaders in the region who share a broad knowledge of the Potomac River Watershed and the critical issues it faces in the 21st century," Corkern said. "This program will help to develop a network of leaders who share a common base of understanding of the entire basin."

Next fall, the first of an annual class of approximately 50 individuals from throughout the Potomac Basin will meet for a series of two-day meetings focusing on such themes as conservation leadership, group development, and river understanding. Each meeting will be devoted to a particular topic or issue of significance in the region, such as agriculture or urban development.

"The program will bring in experts and trained facilitators to ensure the effectiveness of the sessions," Corkern said. "The class days will be tightly programmed to pack as much information and interaction into the experience as possible. Potomac 'Leaders' will learn facts and figures about the Potomac and the people who live in its watershed and develop a thorough understanding of what stewardship of the Potomac Watershed means."

The 50 participants will be selected by a committee appointed by the Friends of the Potomac board. They will be selected so that each class forms a diverse cross-section of people from throughout the basin, representing civil servants, elected officials, private businesspeople, nonprofit executives, and community activists. Individuals will be chosen for their leadership potential, current and future ability to influence and effect positive change in the region, and their commitment to the Potomac region.

Friends of the Potomac is a nonprofit organization formed to help Potomac River Watershed groups and localities pursue government and private assistance to support locally driven economic development, environmental restoration, and cultural and historical protection projects throughout the 15,000-square-mile Potomac Basin. Its goals include: protecting and restoring water quality and living resources; promoting enjoyment of natural, recreational, and heritage assets; encouraging citizen involvement in community decision-making; and fostering sustainable economic development.

For more information on Friends of the Potomac, interested persons may call 301-405-1216.

Maryland Made With Pride

AMERICORPS EARNS PRESIDENTIAL HONORS - To mark the fifth anniversary of AmeriCorps, the national volunteer service organization, Garrett and Allegany county members boarded buses and headed for Washington, D.C., to join their counterparts from around the country for a celebration at the White House. It was a rainy day, local AmeriCorps member Sharon Paugh recalled. Long lines and waiting outside were the order of the day, she said. After considerable confusion and over two hours of delays, the Garrett County contingent was ushered in to meet the president and first lady. "It felt fantastic," Paugh stated. Mrs. Clinton spoke, praising the efforts and accomplishments of AmeriCorps members. Paugh, who serves in the Garrett WORKS program at the Garrett County Department of Social Services, said she felt overwhelmingly proud to be part of the group. "I saw the president walk toward where I was standing, begin to walk away, and then return. He came up to me, and I had my picture taken with him even though my hair was drenched from standing in the rain," she said. All the rain and all the waiting were worth it, she said. "I feel the end results were wonderful," Paugh concluded. Garrett WORKS, created in response to the welfare reform movement, assists community members in moving from the welfare rolls to economic self-sufficiency. The advisory council to the project holds monthly meetings, which are open to the community.

Oakland Eastern Star Chapter Celebrates 75th Anniversary

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, hosted its 75th anniversary observance recently at the Will O' the Wisp. Those in attendance and bringing remarks were: Deborah Raynovich, Worthy Matron; Theodore Raynovich, Worthy Patron; Bonnie T. Wagner, Worthy Grand Matron; Raymond G. Trott, Worthy Grand Patron; P. Archie Minor, Past Grand Patron of Oakland Chapter; Mildred Martin, MWGM Ambassador to China/Taiwan, and Past Grand Matron.

Excerpts of Oakland Chapter were done by Naomi Harned from 1924 to 1975, and updated by Wilda Hile. In 1924, Pearl Boor, Worthy Grand Matron from Bethlehem Chapter in Westernport, was interested in starting an Eastern Star Chapter in Oakland. She was acquainted with a Mr. Lock, a traveling salesman, and a Mason from Mtn. Lake Park. He agreed to contact some Masons in the Oakland Lodge for their opinions. Some of them were favorable to the idea, and were able to interest 30 people necessary to start an Eastern Star Chapter.

The first meeting was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rathbun. While waiting for Mrs. Boor to come in on the train, Mr. Lock rushed from the house to meet her. This was in January, and he did not wear his hat. The next few days he contracted pneumonia and died. Mrs. Boor gave the Rathbuns a list of officers required and what their duties would be.

The officers from Bethlehem Chapter came to Oakland in March and presented the initiatory work. They also presented the chapter with its jewels.

There were some Masons not in favor, and would not let the officers meet in the Masonic Temple. They met in the Knights of Pythias hall for a year and a half. In 1925, Worshipful Master Frank Rathbun sent a letter stating they could meet in the Masonic Temple. They exercised care in their spending, as they had to pay $10 each meeting and extra for heat in the winter.

Olga Elliott, who was Worthy Matron in 1926, lived in Mtn. Lake Park. She often waded snow knee-deep, as there were no plows to keep the roads open. She never missed a meeting. The first Grand Officer visit was was Anita Mealy, Grand Organist, in 1926. In 1927, the Masonic home was started, and Oakland Chapter was asked for help. The chapter has donated to it ever since.

Lulu Dawson was privileged to initiate her mother in 1928. In 1935, Naomi Harned was appointed Grand Ruth. In 1936, the officers went to Easton, and initiated a Worshipful Grand Master and his wife into Eastern Star. In 1945, there was no Grand Session and were no Grand Visitations, because of the shortage of gasoline. Members gave a donation to the local hospital which was being built, and started a fund to buy an electric signet.

E. Ray Jones, father of retired judge Lewis Jones, was Worthy Patron 12 times. By 1963, membership was in such a slump, the charter was in jeopardy. But, by the end of that year, 11 new members were initiated.

Sarah and Paul Naylor bequeathed enough money to build a new Masonic Temple, located at 3 S. First Street.

In 1974, Helen Henline and Bernard Burns were Matron and Patron. Myra Martin was appointed Grand Martha. Oakland Chapter moved to the new Temple on May 7, 1976, and held the first meeting May 18. Vivian and Bernard Burns were Matron and Patron that year. Wilda Hile was the first new member to be initiated in the new temple.

Grand Chapter changed its year to end March 1 in 1978-79, so Helena Thrasher and Lewis Marks served 14 months as Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron. Doris Swartzentruber was appointed Grand Electa that year. In 1981-82, Beryl Gortner was honored for being secretary 47 years, and Hazel Dowling for serving 10 years as treasurer. In 1982-83, dual membership was approved by Grand Chapter.

In 1984-85, Frances Comp received her 50-year pin. In 1985-86, the chapter received 10 new members, and in 1986-87, eight new members. In 1987-88, Wilda Hile received the appointment of Grand Martha. In 1988-89, Elsie Sincell received a certificate for being a member for 60 years. In 1990-91, Mary Jones and Myra Martin received 50-year pins. In 1992-93, P. Archie Minor was elected Associate Grand Patron of Maryland. In 1993-94, P. Archie Minor was elected Worthy Grand Patron, Oakland's first Worthy Grand, and Charee Reckner received an appointment of Grand Electa. In 1994-95, Lillian Reckner was appointed Grand Organist, and Dessie Bell received her 50-year pin. Ted Raynovich was Worthy Patron in 1994 and was appointed Deputy Grand Lecturer for the Masons. In 1995-96, a dedication of a new labyrinth was done by Judy Travis, Past Matron, which was a special project started when she and her late husband Richard were Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron. In 1997-98, Elizabeth McComas presented a new altar cloth to the chapter. In 1998-99, three members were in attendance to receive their 50-year pins and certificates. They were Ethel Rae Snyder, Reaford Purbaugh, who just celebrated his 93rd birthday, and retired judge Lewis Jones.

Each person attending the 75th anniversary received a lead crystal candle holder and a 75th anniversary booklet, and lead crystal center piece bowls were awarded. Entertainment was provided by the Men of Accord, a local barbershop quartet.

THE REPUBLICAN

FSU Study Shows Area Employers Generally Happy With Workers

Employers in the tri-state area are generally satisfied with the quality and attitudes of their workers, according to a study by the Center for Regional Progress, part of the College of Business at Frostburg State University.

The labor quality study surveyed 1,100 firms in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties in Maryland; Franklin, Fulton, Bedford, and Somerset counties in Pennsylvania; and Berkeley, Hampshire, and Mineral counties in West Virginia. Responses were received from 254 firms. Employers were asked about their individual experiences with the labor force, as well as company wage scales, absentee rates, worker productivity, turnover rates, and company training programs and expenses. The study was funded in part by the Appalachian Regional Commission as administered by the Maryland Office of Planning.

The survey, which was completed just over a year ago, was created as a benchmark for later comparison, since little data on employer/employee attitudes exists.

"You have to start somewhere," said Dr. Peggy Dalton, director of the Center for Regional Progress.

Other findings follow:

- Seventy-nine percent of the firms responding said they were not unionized. Those that were reported an average of 71.3 percent of their employees were union members. Only seven of the 190 unionized firms reported a union work stoppage in the last decade.
- The average hourly wage was $9.61 per hour, ranging from a low of $4.60 per hour to a high of $27.58 per hour.
- Permanent, full-time employees made up 78.5 percent of the staff of responding firms.
- For the 185 firms that responded that had full-time employees, the average annual absentee rate was 3.8 percent. Seven firms had an absentee rate above 10 percent.
- Construction employers reported difficulty recruiting professional and management employees. More than a third of manufacturing employers reported difficulty attracting unskilled workers, and half of the retail, construction, and manufacturing employers reported trouble recruiting skilled employees.
- The estimates of average annual turnover rates for firms with full-time employees ranged from zero to a high of 150 percent, with an average of 14.5 percent. For most firms, the rate was less than 10 percent.
- Results are available broken down by state, but not by individual county, Dalton said, because the response from certain counties was too small.

The survey concluded that the climate for employers in the area appears to be positive, with a stable, willing labor force. Wages, salaries, and benefits are moderate and turnover and absentee rates low.

"Generally, people are pretty happy with their employees," Dalton said.

One of the uses of this information will be to give prospective businesses a better view of the kind of people available to be hired. For employers looking at locating in an area, there is plenty of information on market potential, the size of the labor pool, comparative wages, test scores, and educational attainment. However, this information, especially education level, is limited in its ability to predict worker satisfaction, productivity, or work ethic, Dalton explained.

The information can also be used to determine areas in which the local work force can be improved.

The Labor Quality Report is an indication of the type of information provided by the Center for Regional Progress at FSU.

"The mission is to provide comprehensive data on the western Maryland region and surrounding counties and to assist in economic analysis of topics and issues related to economic development," Dalton said.

"The CRP is a gem. It successfully provides support for western Maryland's economic development. The assets CRP brings to the region are data collection, analysis, and information. The outcome is professionally developed, real recommendations," said Dr. Steven P. Wilkinson, dean of the FSU College of Business.

For more information on the Center for Regional Progress, persons may call Dalton at 301-687-3032. For information on the FSU College of Business, persons may call 301-687-4019.

Horrors and Hungers of War

As we honor our veterans this year, many of us remember when those of our family were engaged in war. We think in horror of the dangers faced by our loved ones. We imagine how they must have hungered for their families and the terror of wondering what fate the next day or even the next second would bring. There were so many indescribable horrors.

General Robert E. Lee wrote to his daughter Annie, of yet another hunger of war as he said... "One of the miseries of war is that there is no Sabbath, and the current of work and strife has no cessation."

As we rise this Sabbath, let us give thanks to our Father in Heaven that we are able to attend weekly worship freely. May we never take for granted that right that we have in our nation. Worship this week with your loved ones as we remember Veterans Day.

WHY DO DIABETICS NEED TO TEST?

Blood testing lets diabetics know what their bloodsugar level is at any given time. This information will help them decide what adjustments to make in their diabetes control plan.

Getting into the habit of testing may be hard for a diabetic at first. But as they get used to it, keeping diabetes under control is a lot easier.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

DRYING UP YOUR JORDON
November 14, 1999

Background Scripture:
Joshua 3
Devotional Reading:
Joshua 4:15-24

I could write a whole column on Joshua 3 and skillfully avoid the point at which you the reader may stumble. I could talk about how God confirmed Joshua's leadership. I could write about the faith which the people displayed in obeying Joshua's command. I could ignore completely the difficult questions raised by this passage.

The story is not as complicated as it appears. Joshua called the people together to tell them that their crossing of the flooded Jordan River would be a sign of God's presence. Twelve men—one from each of the tribes—were to be selected. When the priests' feet touched the flood waters of the Jordan, wherever they stood, the waters would be backed up so that the people of Israel could walk across.

It is a fascinating and inspiring story, but it leaves us with some nagging questions. Did God really dry up the Jordan River so that the Israelites could cross over? Or is this simply a mythical retelling of an actual event in which the people witnessed God's help? Shall we look for similar miracles today? And, if God does not give us signs such as these, what does that mean?

SIGNS & WONDERS

First of all, I need to remind you that the term "miracle" is not a common term in the Bible. In my RSV concordance there are only twelve verses in which a word in Hebrew or Greek is translated as "miracle." In fact, even these translations are not accurate renderings of the original words. Some Bible translations do not use the word "miracle" at all. In neither the Old or New Testament was there a concept of "miracle," which is today popularly understood as a supernatural event. The terms "supernatural" and "natural" had no meaning in Biblical times.

Instead, the usual rendering of such events was "signs and wonders" and my Bible dictionary speaks of it as an "event...in which one sees an act or revelation of God." The three principal New Testament words for miracles are dunameis ("powers" or "acts of power," "mighty works"), terata ("wonders") and semeia ("signs"). The question as to whether these signs and wonders violated the natural order—the problem with which we wrestle today— never occurred to them.

So, in both the Old and New Testaments people saw God at work in wonderful events which were beyond their ordinary experience. If that is what you mean by "miracle," then I have no problem confirming that God still performs signs and wonders today. He may have divided the Red Sea for Moses, stopped up the Jordan for Joshua, and multiplied the loaves and fishes for Jesus. I don't doubt that these things can happen. At the same time I don't believe they have to happen today in order for us to see God in the signs and wonders he does perform in our midst.

GOD'S PRESENCE

I have never seen anyone walk on water, but I have seen a man walk on coals so hot I could not approach them. I have known people who believe that they received a healing by means which appeared to them to be a sign of God's love and care. I knew

Parental Role In Children's Literacy Learning Underscored By Head Start

The Head Start program of the Garrett County Community Action Committee has placed an emphasis on promoting family literacy this school year. Based on the premise that a child's most important teachers are his or her own parents, Head Start is utilizing a variety of avenues, including several literacy grants, to imparting the "parents as teachers" concept.

"We strongly believe that a child's first and most valuable instruction takes place in the home," commented Barbara Hornyak, GCCAC family development coordinator. "That's why we offer training sessions and workshops specifically for parents, as well as a number of hands-on activities that bring parents and children together for learning experiences."

Local Head Start children will be receiving books of their own this month from First Book, a free book distribution program. First Book was a part of this past month's Make A Difference Day project, the nation's largest day of volunteering, which was observed October 23. Disney Publishing Worldwide joined with the First Book program to distribute new books to disadvantaged children across the country.

Local Head Start parents can pick up their children's First Books at the November parent meetings or by visiting the classrooms during the month, and each child is entitled to four books.

Again this year, Head Start has partnered with the Ruth Enlow Library to encourage parents to utilize the library and its branches. During November's "Get to Know the Library" promotion, library personnel provided training to all Head Start parent groups on the use of the library. Classroom field trips to the library are also being planned by the Head Start teaching staff on an ongoing basis.

Two Head Start family literacy workshops featuring local storyteller Dr. Gail N. Herman were held in conjunction with the Garrett County Health Department Community Outreach program. Reading aloud with the use of active vocal techniques and puppets, Herman showed parents how to prompt the imaginations of their children.

All Head Start children will be participating in the first Reading Is Fundamental (RIF) book distribution set for Friday, Nov. 19. Each child will be able to select a book of his or her own to take home and keep. The book distributions will be held in each Head Start classroom a minimum of three times during the school year. Local sponsors who have made receipt of the RIF grant possible are the Deep Creek Lioness Club, Oakland Rotary Club, and Woodmen of the World Lodge 11.

A guest reader program has been initiated as stipulated by the RIF grant. Community volunteers are being sought to visit the Head Start classrooms and read to the children. Kay Howard, Bob and Jane Hughes, Nita Roberts, Mary Ann Fink, Sue Shockey, and Camille Spurr have each volunteered to read.

Another avenue of literacy promotion being undertaken by Head Start parents is the publication of the parent newsletter The Child's Voice. Published four times a year (with an additional mini-issue during the Christmas season), The Child's Voice is designed to provide parents with information on Head Start's age-appropriate learning readiness activities for their children. The newsletter includes suggestions to help promote family literacy and announces opportunities for parent training and parent volunteer involvement.

Persons interested in volunteering as Head Start guest readers, or in further information about the Head Start literacy program, other classroom volunteer opportunities, or enrolling a child in Head Start may contact Barbara Hornyak, GCCAC family development coordinator at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403, ext. 126.

Parenting Skills Classes Offered

A series of four parenting classes is being offered through a partnership between Garrett County Community Action Head Start and the Garrett County Health Department. The program is made possible through an Alcohol, Tobacco, and other Drugs (ATOD) Preschool Grant.

Head Start parents were given the opportunity to vote on topics of interest. Topics chosen were: Avoiding Bedtime Battles, Assertive Discipline, Surviving Sibling Rivalry, and Winning the Chores Wars. Nancy Brady will be presenting the classes at the Mary Browning Senior Center beginning November 16. An additional series is planned for the northern area of Garrett County in March.

Persons interested in the classes may call Garrett County Community Action Head Start at 1-301-888-8403 or 301-334-9431, ext. 127. Parents do not need to be affiliated with the Head Start program to attend.

Allegheny Energy Files For Fuel Rate Decrease

Allegheny Energy Inc. announced this week that its Maryland utility subsidiary, doing business as Allegheny Power, is requesting a decrease in the fuel rate portion of its customers' bills — a result of continuing efficient operations of the business and other factors, according to a release from the corporation.

The company filed a request with the state Public Service Commission (PSC) to decrease the fuel rate, from the present 1.195 cents per kilowatt-hour (kwh) to 1.118 cents per kwh. The decrease, if approved by the PSC, will mean a reduction of about 75 cents per month for the typical Maryland customer using 1,000 kWh of electricity.

The requested decrease is primarily because of greater efficiencies within the company, lower fuel costs, and increased nonaffiliated generation and transmission sales, according to the release.

The fuel portion of customers' bills relates directly to the cost of fuel, primarily coal, used to produce electricity. Because of periodic fluctuations in the price of fuel, customers may see increases or decreases in the fuel rate.

If approved by the PSC, the new fuel rate will become effective with bills rendered on or after Dec. 7, 1999.

Allegheny Energy Inc. is a diversified energy company headquartered in Hagerstown. The Allegheny Energy family includes Allegheny Power, which delivers electric energy to about three million people in parts of Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia; Allegheny Energy Supply, which operates and markets competitive retail and wholesale electric generation and operates regulated electric generation for its affiliates; and Allegheny Ventures, which actively invests in and develops energy-related and telecommunications projects.

Junior Woman's Civic Club Holds Monthly Meeting

The Junior Woman's Civic Club met Thursday, Nov. 4, at the Blakeslee clubhouse for the regular monthly business meeting.

At the beginning of the meeting, Holly Huxford was inducted into the club as a new member.

The JWCC then finalized the plans for the spaghetti dinner which will be held Friday, Nov. 12, at the McHenry fire hall. Donation checks were written to Hospice, the House of Hope, and Habitat for Humanity.

After the meeting, members shared a pot luck dinner.

The next meeting was scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 2. The club's Christmas dinner and gift and cookie exchange will be held on this date.

The Junior Woman's Civic Club is open to any woman, 18 years or older. Persons wishing to attend a meeting or join the club may contact Beverly Haines at 301-387-9629, Beverly Barb at 301-334-2113, or any other club member for further information.

Seat Belt Use Effort Receives Major Funding

Senators Paul S. Sarbanes and Barbara A. Mikulski have announced that the U.S. Department of Transportation has awarded $2,950,800 in seat belt use incentive grants to the state of Maryland. This represents an increase of over four times the total funding that was allocated last year.

This is the second year that the Maryland Department of Transportation has received a seat belt use incentive grant. These grants are awarded to states that have obtained a state seat belt usage rate above the national average. Maryland's seat belt usage rate was 83% in 1998, 13 points higher than the national average. The amount of the grant was calculated based upon the savings in medical costs to the federal government that result from increased seat belt rate use.

These funds will be used to support a variety of programs ranging from encouraging seat belt use and special traffic enforcement programs to highway construction activities. In Maryland, they will be used by the Department of Transportation to increase seat belt use education and outreach. More specifically, this funding will expand the Child Passenger Safety Program, which holds clinics to educate both parents and teenagers in proper seat belt use. Parents are instructed on the appropriate techniques for safely securing their children in their cars. Teenagers are also targeted for seat belt safety education before they reach driving age.

"Increasing seat belt safety awareness will help to decrease accident injuries and mortalities in the state of Maryland," said Sarbanes. "It has been proven time and time again that seat belts are the most effective safety device in vehicles and would save thousands of more lives if everyone used them all the time."

"These grants from the U.S. Department of Transportation will help Maryland get behind our kids by expanding clinics that demonstrate to teenagers and parents the proper use of seat belts," said Senator Mikulski. "Maryland's highway safety record is moving in the right direction, and I want to ensure that we continue down this road."

This grant is authorized by the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA-21), which President Clinton signed into law on June 9, 1998. Sarbanes, who serves as the ranking Democrat on the Senate Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs Committee, was involved in helping to craft the TEA-21 legislation.

Holiday Dinner Delivery Project Needs Volunteers

Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging is seeking volunteers for its "Share the Holiday" project. Volunteers will share their Thanksgiving dinners with homebound seniors in poor health who have either no family or no family in the area to share the holiday with them.

"The Thanksgiving dinner project concept is simple: Volunteers share the holiday by packaging a meal from their Thanksgiving table and delivering it to a homebound senior identified by the AAA," explained an agency spokeswoman.

The seniors identified live alone and are frail, medically unstable and/or are at nutritional risk. Occasionally, the agency identifies a couple in need of the service because they are both frail and in need.

The project provides a nutritious home-prepared meal to a senior in need and it addresses an emotional need of an individual who is isolated due to health and age. "It also provides a sense of satisfaction and fulfillment for the volunteer, who for so little effort reaps a priceless reward. The pairing of volunteers with frail seniors in need of a meal on Thanksgiving day is a win, win situation," the agency spokeswoman said.

Anyone wishing to participate in the "Share the Holiday" project may contact the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or toll free 888-877-8403, ext. 137. Interested persons are asked to contact the agency by November 19.

Family Violence Report Released

Statistics on incidents of family violence during the month of October were released last week by the Maryland State Police. Tfc. James B. Hovis of the Regional Family Violence Unit stated that in Garrett County four incidents of domestic violence were reported and investigated. Two of these investigations led to the arrest of the abuser.

In all reported cases, the victims were referred to community resources for counseling, support, shelter, or advocacy.

COVER STORY

Unimpressive story mars message of Black and Blue

By Jacqueline Cutler
©TVData Features Syndicate

Mary Stuart Masterson

Bobby Benedetto's a decorated New York detective. He's also a bossy pig who beats his wife to a pulp. But for some unknown reason, Frannie, his spouse of 12 years, still loves him.

When she leaves dishes in the sink overnight, he grabs her by the neck and forces her face down to look at the mess. When she doesn't wear a slip under a summer dress, he calls her a slut – in front of their son, Robert.

None of this is easy to watch in Black and Blue, a CBS TV movie airing Wednesday, Nov. 17. The underside of man's psyche is rarely pleasant to witness, but that, of course, doesn't excuse us from trying to help women who are used as punching bags.

"If we did it without violence, it would have been a total cop-out," says Mary Stuart Masterson, who plays Frannie.

Masterson says she has tremendous sympathy for Frannie. "It was important to me not to portray her as a victim, but as someone who made choices that didn't work out."

Masterson (Fried Green Tomatoes, Benny & Joon) says it was a difficult role to play. "I thought, 'I've got to basically construct the whole thing around the love my character had for her husband, and if that weren't there, it would be a monster movie.'"

On-screen, there's no apparent reason why she does love him.

"Why does anybody love anybody?" Masterson says. "There was stuff we didn't have screen time to cover. He was always full of remorse and in some ways was very tender. And in some ways, what fueled his rage was jealousy. You feel loved or appreciated if somebody is that jealous."

Regardless of its good intentions, the movie fails – not because the plot does not hang together. Based on the popular book by respected writer Anna Quindlen, it has the feel of too many people tinkering with it and no one realizing that the last half-hour raises many questions without bothering to answer any of them.

Nevertheless, Anthony La-Paglia turns in a chilling performance.

Frannie, a nurse, contacts a woman who helps battered women. After hearing Frannie's story, she realizes that Frannie should not just obtain a restraining order and divorce, but flee with her son and adopt a new identity. She gets Frannie a fake Social Security card, bus fare and an apartment in Florida.

Naturally, Bobby Benedetto is going to find his son. The only question is when. Frannie's underground contact warns her to cut off her long red hair because it's too conspicuous – sound advice and not hard to follow. Although she's supposedly a smart woman, however, she leaves her hacked-off hair in their bathroom as evidence and never bothers to pick up that bottle of hair dye.

From the moment Sam Robards (American Beauty) enters the picture as Robert's new teacher, it's clear he and Frannie will fall in love. The suspense is supposed to come from whether Bobby will locate his son and estranged wife.

Masterson says she hopes the message people glean from this movie is, "People should do whatever they can to get help and get treatment and get out of relationships that are dangerous."

If this movie helps one abused woman, then it's to be lauded. Otherwise, just as a movie, it can be missed.

IN FOCUS

Why does everybody love Ray Romano? And who creates the music for The Simpsons? Step behind the scenes of your favorite shows with Secret World of Sitcoms, airing Saturday, Nov. 20, on The Learning Channel.

From brainstorming sessions to taping on the sound stage, this special follows weekly sitcoms through the production cycle. Meet writers, cast members, casting directors and others who collaborate on such hit shows as Friends and Everybody Loves Raymond.

SATURDAY

Two single parents (George Clooney, Michelle Pfeiffer) tiptoe around romance in One Fine Day, airing Saturday on ABC.

McFarland Named To Who's Who

Misty McFarland, a junior at Northern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for the 1998-99 school year. Acknowledgment in the publication recognizes the achievements of students who have contributed in their schools and communities.

Misty is a member of the yearbook staff and is currently serving on the prom committee. She is currenly enrolled in the merit academic program and plans to attend college. She is the daughter of Kenneth (Pete) and Denise McFarland of Grantsville.

Church Slates Holiday Dinner

The Gortner Union Church will hold its annual Thanksgiving dinner on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 6:30 p.m. An offering to benefit the Mountain Top Crisis Preg-nancy Center will be re-ceived. Following the meal, a program with Jim Shaffer and Hammers and Strings will be performed. Everyone is welcome to attend the dinner and performance.

FRIENDSVILLE WITCH PROJECT? - The Friendsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library welcomed over 150 children recently as library staff handed out goodies during Trick or Treat night. The library also sponsored its third annual coloring contest, and each artist who submitted one of the more than 200 entries received a prize for his or her "crayoning" achievement. Katelynn Lacey, shown above standing in front of a display of coloring contest submissions, was among the costumed multitude of witches, ghosts, goblins, and Power Rangers that descended upon the library during Trick or Treat night.

State, County Jobless Rates Fall In Sept.

According to monthly figures released this week, Maryland's unemployment rate continues to fall, and in September tied an all time low of 3.3 percent. The unemployment rate, which declined from 3.6 percent in August, remains significantly below the national unemployment average of 4.1 percent.

Meanwhile Garrett County's jobless rate dropped from 6.3 percent in August to 6.0 percent in September, which was one-tenth of a point below the September 1998 rate of 6.1 percent.

"Maryland's economy is booming, and this historically low unemployment rate proves that we are moving forward to create opportunities for Marylanders well into the next century," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "This phenomenal drop in unemployment shows that Marylanders are getting jobs, keeping jobs, and ensuring better lives for themselves and their families."

"These encouraging statistics tell us we are continuing on the right path," said Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, chair of the Cabinet Council on Business and Economic Development. "This is also a strong testament to the depth and diversity of Maryland's economy, as well as a reflection of our dynamic, well-educated workforce."

In September, the unemployment rate declined in every region, and in nearly every jurisdiction, with the exceptions of Somerset County and Worcester County. More than half of the state's jurisdictions reported unemployment rates below the statewide average. Howard and Montgomery counties had the lowest unemployment rate, each at 1.8 percent. Other low unemployment rates included Frederick County at 2.0 percent and Carroll, Charles, and Talbot counties at 2.1 percent.

The 3.3 percent unemployment rate ties an all-time low set in April 1989, and is significantly lower than last September's rate of 4.3 percent.

LEARNING AT AN ALARMING RATE - Participants in AmeriCorps' Southern Middle School after-school program were trained in fire prevention and safety techniques as part of Fire Prevention Week, observed in October. Some of the group is shown above learning the proper operation of smoke detectors and fire extinguishers. From the left in the foreground are Charles French, Chris Miller (in a Steelers jersey), and Andrea Patton. In the second row are Christin Miller, presenter Michael Gibbons, outreach worker with the Garrett County Health Department, Andria Dale, and Joe Sliger.

NHS Improvement Team Outlines Plan Objectives

The Northern High School Improvement Team (SIT), composed of school staff, parents, and students, works to plan and achieve school progression each year. The parents on this year's SIT will volunteer many hours of time to provide the community a voice in the process of making vital decisions for the school. This year's parent members are Susan Bell, Carla Carr, Nancy Jo Fratz, and Lesa Whittemore.

Objectives of the 1999-2000 School Improvement Plan that has been formulated address four areas:

1. By the year 2004-2005, students will demonstrate an increased proficiency in technology use as measured by a 15 percentage point increase on the Northern County Student Technology Survey in each of the following: word processing, spreadsheets, database, and Internet usage.

2. By the year 2004-2005, students will demonstrate increased math skills as measured by 72 percent scoring at or above the National Norm (50 percent) on CTBS-5 in math.

3. By the year 2004-2005, students will demonstrate increased academic abilities as measured by a minimum of 78 percent of students who take the AP test in biology, English literature, calculus, and/or U.S. history, scoring a 3 or above.

4. To develop a program of lessons and activities for the homeroom advisor program that will provide for increased student success, both academically and socially.

Specific strategies and indicators of success have been identified for each of the objectives.

The Middle States Association Accreditation team will be visiting NHS on November 15, 16, and 17. The team, consisting of four professional educators from various areas of Maryland, will review the NHS strategic plan for improving student performance in the areas identified in the School Improvement Plan.

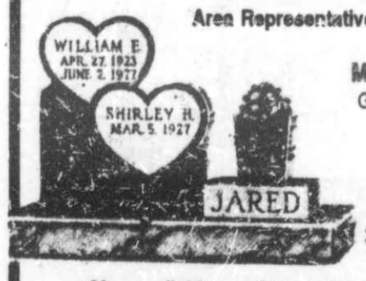
In completing this evaluation, the team will speak with and interview the administration, faculty, staff members, students, parents, and members of the central office staff. "We feel that we are well prepared for the accreditation team's visit and are looking forward to sharing our ideas and plans with them," said a school spokesperson.

Yough Glades To Host Learning Links Sessions

Yough Glades Elementary School will again host interactive child and parent learning sessions. Children need not attend Yough Glades in order to participate in the program, which is open to any child from age 3 to fifth grade.

The meetings, to be held on Thursday evenings, 6-8 p.m., November 11 and 18 and December 2 and 9, will culminate with a special activity for all families who attended the sessions.

During the first hour of the meeting, children will work with parents on literature games, crafts, and computers. During the second hour, younger children will work at activity centers, older children will play fitness games, and parents will work with a facilitator on a variety of parenting issues, such as getting along in school and helping with homework.



"This is our sixth year of Learning Links, and the response has been very positive. It is a great opportunity for parents to see some of the wonderful things their children are doing in school," said program coordinator Barbara Baker.

For more information or to register for the program, persons may contact Baker at 301-334-3334.

Y2K Update
Heard about the year 2000 computer problem, referred to as Y2K? It involves how computers, computer software, and integral computer-control hardware handle the numbers of dates. Many computers and programs use only the last two digits to represent the year, so when Jan. 1, 2000, rolls around, many computer systems will assume it is Jan. 1, 1900.
No need to worry about your money at The Terra Alta Bank. Our systems have been fully tested and re-tested for operation on January 1, 2000, and into the future.

"College & Me" Program At GCC Begins 10th Year

For the tenth year, fifth grade students in Garrett County elementary schools are participating in the College and Me program at Garrett Community College. Each fifth grade class will spend four days on the GCC campus participating in a variety of enrichment activities taught by college and community personnel.

"The College and Me program is off to another great start. The students are excited about coming to college for the four days. It is a great way for them to have a positive experience at college and to view college as a goal," said coordinator Pam Fike. At the end of their experience, each student receives a T-shirt displaying the College and Me logo on the front and the new sponsors' logo, The Print Shop, on the back.

On Wednesday of each week, parents are invited to accompany children to the program to attend classes and eat lunch with them. "Many parents have never before visited Garrett Community College and are unaware of the opportunities available to their children and to them as adults," Fike commented.

So far this year, College and Me participants have been Terri Hilliard's class at Broad Ford, Betty Smith's class at Route 40, Debbie Paugh's class at Kitzmiller, Jodi Nichol's class at Bloomington, Donna Deal's class at Friendsville, Ralph Miller's class at Grantsville, Jack Burdock's class at Broad Ford, and Rosanne Sherwood's class at Accident.

Enrichment activities this year include: rivers and river safety by Mike Logsdon; poetry by Debra Wolf; health careers by Debora Nichols, Garrett County Memorial Hospital; Jr. Rangers by the Garrett County DNR officers; biology by Carolyn Deniker; library treasure hunt by Dana Shimrock and Linda Tomblin; oil painting by Edna Bender; "Math-Think" by Dr. Nancy Priselac; computer concepts by Terry Norris; music by Lillian Reckner; origami by Vicki Teets; and theater by Ben Sincell.

Meet Garrett County's NEW TEACHERS

Some schools in the county have more than one new teacher. In some cases, new teachers are familiar to the students because they have held long-term substitute positions.

Dennett Road Elementary School

KIM WOTRING

Kim Wotring joined the staff at Dennett Road Elementary School this year as a special education teacher. She earned her master's degree in special education from West Virginia University.

Prior to taking the teaching position at Dennett Road, Wotring was a substitute teacher for a year in Preston County. She lives in Bruceton Mills with her husband Greg and 2-year old son Garrett. She said she enjoys spending time with her family and being outdoors.

DARLENE TAYLOR

Darlene Taylor has assumed the position of a class-size reduction teacher for Dennett Road. She graduated from Frostburg State Unniversity and Garrett Community College and has substitute taught for three years. Taylor has been married for 23 years and has three children.

In her spare time she enjoys reading and being outdoors, she said.

SHANA RHOTEN

Shana Rhoten is a level 4 special education teacher this year. Prior to this job at Dennett Road, she was the director of St. Peter's Pre-K in Oakland. She received her bachelor's degree in special education/elementary education from Slippery Rock University. Rhoten resides in Oakland with her husband Matt.

LAURA SHANNON

Laura Shannon, a behavior support instructor at Dennett Road Elementary, is teaching in Garrett County this year for the first time. Previously, Shannon was a behavior consultant for the Preston County school system and a behavior intervention intern specialist at Chestnut Ridge Hospital.

Update Given On Honors Program At Garrett CC

The new Garrett Community College Honors Program implemented this fall is proving to be a "lot of hard work and extremely challenging; but very beneficial," according to the eight students enrolled.

Virginia Broaddus, assistant professor of English and coordinator of the Honors Program, said she sees the program helping students to realize their dreams and providing a path for transfer into the best four-year colleges and universities appropriate for their chosen careers. In keeping with the GCC logo "challenging all to excel," Broaddus said, "I see the Honors Program giving impetus not only to the academically talented students but to all students to do their best."

Broaddus recently attended the National Collegiate Honors Council Conference in Florida, where she found "contagious enthusiasm" among the 1,500 attendees and gained ideas for the GCC program.

Students in the program have opportunities to take scheduled honor courses and "contract courses" in other subjects, where they contract with the instructor to complete honors level research and projects above and beyond regular course requirements.

Commenting on her experience in the program, Rachel Bender said, "Yes, it is a lot of work, but it is manageable. The one-on-one time spent with the professor is especially helpful."

Michelle McCartney, who plans to study veterinary medicine, added another advantage. "It was an economical decision for me to start at GCC, but the Honors Program makes it an educational step in the right direction," she said.

Shelley Taylor, who intends to become an orthopedic surgeon, agreed that enrolling in the Honors Program is the right step for her. "It will help me get into a good medical school so that I can pursue my goals," she said.

In addition to taking honors courses, students in the program participate in an Honors Colloquium, where they work with a faculty member who guides them in creating a "capstone" project requiring research and reflection on an issue important in today's society. They also work together as members of the Honors Association, which supports initiatives like volunteer programs, traveling to conferences where they can present their research, field trips, and community projects.

Further information about the GCC Honors Program is available at high school guidance offices or by contacting Broaddus at 301-387-3077.

Q. I have heard of coffee pots and teapots, but what is a chocolate pot?

A. Hot chocolate was introduced in liquid form to western Europeans in the early 1500s. Once Europeans mixed the bitter drink with their favorite flavors and sweeteners, it became popular. Some even believed it could cure diseases. Chocolate pots made of silver or porcelain were made by the late 1600s. They look much like coffee pots, but the handle is at a right angle from the spout, not directly across from it. The finial at the top of a chocolate pot swivels or lifts up on a hinge to reveal a small hole for a mixing device called a molinillo (similar to a swizzle stick).

Q. My mother has a Sleepy Eye Milling Co. cookbook. It is shaped like a loaf of bread. There is a picture of an Indian wearing a headband with a few feathers. The cookbook belonged to one of her relatives.

A. The Sleepy Eye Milling Co. of Sleepy Eye, Minn., used a picture of an Indian as part of its advertising from 1883 to 1921. The company promoted its flour with many advertising pieces including cookbooks, calendars, thermometers, postcards, ad cards, pillow covers, fans, letter openers, paperweights, bread scrapers and many pieces of pottery. Your cookbook is popular with collectors and sells for over $100.

Q. What can you tell me about the Indian Tree pattern of china? I have collected a few pieces. They are marked with the names of different English potteries.

A. The Indian Tree pattern has been made by more than 100 different china manufacturers in about a dozen countries, including the United States. The design, a gnarled tree branch surrounded by peonies, originated in China. It was used on Chinese Export wares during the early 1700s. The pattern was probably introduced in England in the late 1790s by Caughley Works or by Coalport, which is now a part of the Wedgwood Group. Indian tree pattern dishes are still being made.

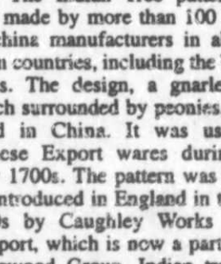
DIAMOND CLEANING – Here's how to keep a diamond engagement ring sparkling. I keep an old head from my electric toothbrush inside my jewelry cleaner solution. Once a week, I attach it to my spinning toothbrush and clean my ring as I would my teeth. It only takes a couple of minutes and works well to get the sides of the diamond clean again.



Always place it back in the cleaning solution jar when done so you don't accidentally use that head to brush your teeth with.

Also, have your ring checked periodically to be sure the diamond is securely set. Otherwise, the brushing action could loosen it, and it could fall out. Katie E., Fairfax, Va.

Household Help
by John Amantea

In today's world of high tech and civil lawsuits, it's more important than ever to document everything and keep signed copies of all transactions. The remodeling world is no exception. That's why the National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) urges homeowners and contractors to put everything on paper.

Whenever an agreement is made before, during, and after a remodeling project, you need to have written confirmation. This includes a written contract before any work takes place, documenting change orders and work directives, and a letter of confirmation when the scope of the project is altered in any way.

These items should be signed by both the homeowner and the contractor or an officer of the contractor's company. Any changes in the remodeling project should also be noted in the contract. It is a good idea to keep a copy of the contract on hand for a quick reference and clarification.

Creating a contract and change order procedures, and negotiating terms, needs to be done prior to starting any work. Homeowners should discuss the contractor's procedure for dealing with changes or special requests, such as work on rooms not included in the main contract, as part of the initial contract negotiations. This offers protection against later disputes regarding changes, price, and scope of the project. In addition, this gives both parties an up-front understanding of how changes in the project are to be handled and what additional type of charges, if any, will be incurred by the homeowner.

The best protection for homeowners and contractors is to:

- Write everything down.
- Keep thorough records.
- Negotiate terms, procedures, and prices before starting the project.
- Establish that the contractor only works according to the written version of the project.
- Allow the contractor to begin work when an agreement has been reached by both parties.

Keeping good, written records will help eliminate problems and will allow the project to meet the homeowner's and the contractor's expectations.

"Faith Is The Heart Of The Soldier"

A Catholic Priest Reflects On Military Service

By Chaplain (Major) Rick Spencer

Greetings from Korea!

It has been almost a year since I departed Garrett County and returned to ministry in our U.S. Army. I still list Oakland as my "home of record" and proudly tell many others about our home in the western Maryland mountains. I remain grateful for the many letters and E-mails of best wishes that still come to me while I am serving as a chaplain in our United States Army.

The most often asked question is "Why as a man of faith do you serve and minister in a war-machine oriented organization?" Well, after debating this question within myself, I do have some responses to share.

Yes, I am a person of faith and a soldier—whose faith as a man, leader and soldier is based on a relationship with God through Jesus Christ. The lyrics to a fine old Christian song read: "On Christ the solid rock I stand; all other ground is sinking sand." I have certainly tried to build my faith and hope on that rock while serving as a Roman Catholic priest and chaplain to our U.S. Army troops in Korea.

I have four thoughts that I would like to share with everyone, especially as we approach Veterans Day celebrations.

First, the military is the heart of any society. Secondly, the soldier is the heart of the military. Next, faith is the heart of the soldier, and finally, nurturing the faith of soldiers is a commander's duty—and hence this is the mission of the chaplain as the personal staff officer to the commander.

As military professionals, we are familiar with the fact that a nation's military is an essential element of its national power. Our military has the mission to fight and win our nation's wars. This mission is supported by the institution of armed forces. It is this institution that protects the society from external attack and shields it from internal decay. To accomplish this mission, the armed forces must be supported by a system of values and morals that form the spiritual underpinning, the very infrastructure of the society it is charged to protect. Without a system of values and morals, a military lacks credibility in the eyes of the people it is supposed to defend.

Just as the military provides the spiritual infrastructure of a nation, the soldier is unquestionably the heart of the military. "Soldiers are our credentials" is the creed of the former Army chief of staff, General Dennis Reimer. Taken from a motto of the 8th U.S. Infantry Division, the phrase has its origin in the reply that a U.S. assistant division commander gave in World War II to a German general who refused to surrender until he saw the American general's credentials. Turning to the two soldiers who had accompanied him, the assistant division commander responded to the German general, "These are my credentials."

This vignette demonstrates our belief that our military is made up of people—living, breathing representatives of society who have chosen to serve their fellow human beings. They have spirit and will, strength and ability. They are at the heart of our preparedness. The preparedness of our nation depends on the people's will, the readiness of our forces, and just as surely on the spirit of our soldiers. It is the will of the soldier that determines victory on the battlefield. The will of the soldier comes from inside us and is the product of values that our institution internalizes.

Just as the soldier is the heart of the military, faith is the heart of the soldier. Napoleon once said, "Moral is to physical as three is to one." A soldier's faith sustains him in battle, in both victory and defeat. As general of the Army, General George C. Marshall said, "The soldier's heart, the soldier's spirit, the soldier's soul are everything. Unless the solder's soul sustains him, he cannot be relied upon and will fail himself and his country in the end."

You have probably heard the saying, "There are no atheists in foxholes." T.R. Fehrenbach alludes to this theme in his book, This Kind of War. The strength of a soldier's faith is directly proportional to the values that he believes in. Values are our prescription for what ought to be, what should prevail among us when we are guided by a higher calling. Values define the fundamental character of our nation, our military and our soldiers. They provide the moral justification of all three and allow our soldiers to have true faith in the nation that they serve.

It is the commander's duty, and hence the mission of the chaplain, to nurture the soldier's faith and values; indeed, this may be the leader's most important task.

A commander must include this task in every mission, ensuring that he creates a climate where values are recognized and strengthened, and faith grows within the ranks. The commander's nurturing of faith truly prepares the soldier for the rigors of battle and the uneasiness of peace. As Nehemiah demonstrated when he returned to build a wall around Jerusalem, personal leadership and testimony of faith will always make a difference. Facing the enemies of the nation of Dwid, Nehemiah proclaimed, "Don't be afraid of them. Remember the Lord, who is great and powerful, and fight for your brothers, your sons and daughters, your families and homes." In effect, he stood defiantly before the enemy and provided the example that nurtured the faith of his followers and expelled doubt from the weak.

This is a commander's charge: to stand for what is right and teach his soldiers to do the same.

Only by nurturing faith can a soldier be truly ready. Values are the essence of faith, and like combat skills, they have to be trained, honed, and polished to perfection through practice. Just as a leader must devote time and resources to the training of combat skills, so must leaders devote time and energy to strengthening the values of his collective force and the soul of the soldier.

Yes, as a chaplain and as a soldier, I need to often return to this truism—that the heart of any society is its military; that faith must beat proudly in the heart of every soldier; and that it is the commander's solemn duty to nurture the faith of his force.

These truisms form the cornerstone of my life as a chaplain and certainly my service to the U.S. Army, my country, and her allies.

Chaplain (Major) Rick Spencer is a Roman Catholic priest of the Archdiocese of Baltimore and former pastor of the Catholic community of Garrett County. He currently serves as an U.S. Army chaplain in the western corridor of the Demilitarized Zone between North and South Korea. Fr. Spencer completes his tour in Korea next month, and then will be assigned for one year to the United Nations peacekeeping mission in the Sinai Desert, located between Egypt and Israel.

ELCA Women At Zion Meet

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on November 2.

The annual ingathering of the thank offering was observed with the service — God's Gifts are Abundant and Free. The service included a scripture reading from Romans, a responsive reading, and the hymn "Now Thank We All Our God."

The third session of the Bible study on Genesis was introduced by cassette tape. Leota Baker led discussion of the topic "God Will Never Do That Again!" The lesson focused on the story of the flood and helped the group to gain an appreciation of the God who was revealed in the story and the implications of that portrayal for faith and life.

Donations closed with a passage from Genesis being read in unison, and a stanza of the hymn "Your Heart, O God Is Grieved."

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

A letter of thanks was received from Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Box Elder, Mont., upon receipt of a package of sweaters for their clothing giveaway on the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation.

A birthday offering was presented by Dorothy Burow.

Evergreens have been gathered by Judy Stanton, and an Advent wreath will be made for use in the church during the Advent season.

GCC Registering For Intersession, Spring Semester

Registration for Intersession and Spring Semester 2000 at Garrett Community College will begin Monday, Nov. 15, and continue through Friday, Dec. 10, according to Deloris Edgar, director of records and registration. Students may register at the Student Assistance Center weekdays from 8:30 to 4 p.m.

During Intersession, from January 5-20, 11 one-credit courses will be offered. Adventure Sports courses include Intermediate Skiing, Advanced Skiing, Beginning Snowboarding, Intermediate Snowboarding, Advanced Snowboarding, Advanced First Aid, and a practicum. Most of these courses will meet Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Wisp Resort.

Other courses offered during Intersession are Teaching Lab (ED 200), Graphing Calculator (MAT 290), Career Preparation (OT 290), and Weight Management (PE 290).

Spring semester classes are scheduled to begin January 24 and conclude May 15. As in past years, both day and evening courses will be offered in all areas, from Adventure Sports to Theatre. Several Internet courses are scheduled, including Introduction to Computers (CS 105), Physical Geography (ES 121), and Differential Equations (MAT 250).

TALKING TOWNS — Oakland business people Connie Margison, Water Street Market Place and Decorator's Nook, and Jack Jones, Marvin's Men's Wear (at right), were in Berlin (Md.) last week, where they "talked towns" with Berlin's mayor, Rex Hailey (left foreground), and that town's administrative director, Andrew Fulghum. The discussions took place during the Maryland Downtown Development Association meeting, which was also attended by Oakland Main Street program manager, Glenn Tolbert. Most of the presentations at the meeting revolved around how to attract major motion picture productions into home towns. Berlin was the location for the filming of The Runaway Bride, starring Julia Roberts and Richard Gere. Another topic presented at the two-day session that was of local interest was how to utilize old buildings for high-tech businesses. Photo provided by Glenn Tolbert.

Special-interest courses include Plant Propagation (HORT 130), Ceramics (ART 207), Web Page Design (CIT 201), PC Repair (CIT 262), Greco-Roman Myths: The Odyssey and The Aeneid (ENG 240), Fiction Writing (ENG 210), Criminal Law (LE 210), Intro to Logical Reasoning (PHL 110), Personal Health and Fitness (PE 117), Gender Roles (SOC 260), and Fundamentals of Technical Theatre (THE 106).

Christmas Event Organizers Seek Public Input

The first Joy of Christ celebration, a non-denominational Christmas observance, is set to take place throughout December in Rotary Park and along the bridge, arch, riverbank, and trees that adjoin Oakland's municipal parking lot.

Organizers are inviting interested individuals, church congregations, youth groups, and other organizations to participate by signing up to decorate the area or present a performance "that helps us to remember and celebrate the birth of Christ," according to Paul Browning of Deer Park United Methodist Chruch.

Starting Monday, Dec. 6, the park, bridge, and riverbank will be available for decorating. Electrical power will be available for displays with Christmas lights. The suggested guidelines for displays follow: They should be Christ-centered; displays that include Santa, elves, reindeer, etc., and advertising are discouraged; no display should be dangerous; lights must be designed for outdoor use; and the bridge may not be damaged in any way with staples or nails.

For information about times and days of these courses, interested persons may call the Student Assistance Center at 301-387-3044.

Public performances will be taking place in the same location from Sunday, Dec. 19, through Friday, Dec 24. The area will be available for groups or individuals to sing, read, dance, worship, pray, or perform any other activity that celebrates the birth of Christ. Among the suggested performances are solo instrumentals, bands, solo vocalists with recorded accompaniment, choir groups, or a manger scene re-enactment (with or without live animals).

Those wishing to perform are asked to sign up for a time slot, which will allow for publication of a schedule and for each performance to take place without competing with or interrupting another performance.

Volunteers are also being solicited to assist with the construction of a life-sized manger scene and a temporary stage; promotion of this year's event; and organization of next year's Joy of Christ celebration.

For further information, or to sign up to decorate, perform, or volunteer a service, persons may call Browning at 301-334-3448 (work) or 301-334-3122 (home). He may also be reached via E-mail at paul@tcicomp.com, or by U.S. mail at 238 Hotel Drive, Deer Park, MD 21550.

The religious-oriented event is not being sponsored by the town of Oakland, according to Browning, who added that a Supreme Court precedent does enable a municipality to allow such an event to take place on public grounds.

Revitalization Meeting Slated In Kitzmiller

Results of a community-wide survey will be shared with residents in Kitzmiller Thursday, Nov. 18, 7 p.m., at the Community Center. The questionnaire about the needs and concerns of town residents was distributed several months ago as an initial step in creating a revitalization and development plan for Kitzmiller.

Under the direction of Mayor Nancy Brady, community residents have been working in partnership with a number of organizations and agencies to develop the community enrichment plan. Involved in the process are Wendell Keaton, circuit rider for the Kitzmilier community, Garrett County Office of Planning and Zoning, Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC) Community and Economic Development Department, and community volunteers.

Based on the results of the survey, a report was prepared by Jimmy A. Atkins, an intern with the National Congress for Community Development who was working with Mikal McCartney, GCCAC, and Brady.

Other information collection activities will include meetings with the Department of Natural Resources and other agencies involved with the state forest, Jennings Randolph Lake, and the Potomac River American Heritage River Program, plus Tim Magrath representing Sen. Paul Sarbanes.

The committee will review resources available from the Neighborhood Business Development Program, Maryland Historic Trust, and the Community Development Block Grant Program.

"Although there are many challenges ahead for Kitzmiller in the coming millennium, Mayor Brady reports very positive remarks on the survey, such as the safe environment for raising children with a supportive school environment," said McCartney.

In the next few months the plan will be worked on during a series of meetings. Anyone interested in the process is invited to attend the November 18 meeting.

LADIES AUXILIARY RAISES $1,700 FROM RAFFLE - The Southern Garrett Rescue Squad Ladies Auxiliary recently held a 50-50 raffle to raise money for the SGRS. In Loving Memory of
Ralph E. Arnold

It has been a year since your passing and the grieving still exists. When we are feeling down and gloomy it's because you're sadly missed. We wish we had another day to say how much we love and miss you, but we know in our hearts you left us knowing this on that gloomy afternoon. We know you heard your calling, for the path God laid for you, and we know you went to finish your dream of what you loved to do.

Public Invited To Park To Watch Meteor Shower

The public is invited to join the Herrington Manor State Park staff to observe the November Leonids meteor shower next Wednesday, Nov. 17, at 6:30 p.m. "This meteor shower promises to be a spectacular one," stated a park staff person. "In fact, a meteor storm is hoped for. If we get a meteor storm, we could see thousands of meteors an hour."

There will be telescopes on hand to observe the skies that night. All are invited to bring chairs and blankets, and meet at the Herrington Manor office at 6:30 p.m.

This is an apology regarding an advertisement I had placed earlier this year on my qualifications. I am truly sorry for the misunderstanding and would hope my fellow community would accept my apology and forgive me for the false advertisement and misrepresentation.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

This weekend was so busy that I can hardly think today. The first big event was on Friday night with the Northern Huskies and the Southern Rams battling it out on Northern's field. You can never grow out of that rivalry between the schools. The Brenneman boys from Bittinger helped lead the charge for Northern's victory. Many alumni from Bittinger cheered the Huskies to victory. I guess we sheared some sheep (the Rams), as we used to say when I was at Northern High School. It has been a great, undefeated season.

I heard it was a great game, but the weather was a little cold and kept me from attending, but Lloyd and the three girls were there. The Housley family was there, including Michelle, who was home from Virginia Tech to attend her "Hokie"/West Virginia "Mountaineers" game at Morgantown on Saturday. Her family all attended the game in Morgantown and cheered her team on to victory. They were a little disappointed in the Hokies' playing, as their win came in the last seconds of the game. The Hokies were number #3 in the nation and have now moved up to number 2 team following Penn State's loss on Saturday.

After Friday nights game, Ellen Housley's voice was worn out from all her cheering, then on Saturday cheering at the soccer game, and Morgantown didn't help matters. This morning she was not quite "croaked out," but she still sounded pretty hoarse.

Accompanying the Housleys to the game was Torrey Poholsky. Also attending from Bittinger were birthday boys Bill Southerly and Kevin Bass, both of whom attended WVU in their younger years.

On Saturday at Oakland our under-15 Breakers team won their semi-final game, 3-2, against a team from Oakland coached by Dr. William Pope. The Oakland team was pretty upset-minded, but it didn't happen.

On Sunday the final playoff game was held in Oakland, with the Breakers winning the championship game over the Jammers, 6-0. It was a very exciting game, as many local fans were on hand. The Breakers were coached by Lenny Poholsky and Sam Housley. Sally Poholsky served as the team mother with the mostest!

Since Saturday was my birthday, I hung another year on the line. We celebrated the day "very mild to dry," to quote from Paul Simon, songwriter. The first of my birthdays which I can remember was my seventh. I visited the old election polling place which was in part of the Buckel home, next to Buckel's Store in Bittinger. My grandmother, Emma Glotfelty, was one of the election judges. I can remember that pretty clearly. It was the campaign between Nixon and JFK.

Sharon Buckel and her daughter Kandi also had birthdays last week, both on the 4th. The Bittinger Birthday Binge will also be in full time this week, with more birthdays of Bill Southerly, David Taylor, Ferne Beachy, Beulah Moon, Virginia Brenneman, and Joyce Brenneman. I probably missed quite a few more. My Aunt Dorothy Quaintance, who now lives in Las Cruces, N.M., will also celebrate her birthday on the 13th. I still need to get more cards sent in the mail soon to several close friends. By the way, I got more fan letters than birthday cards this week (3-2).

Instead of going to the final soccer game, I went riding at the Savage farm in the Sang Run area. We took a beautiful trail on our ride, but it was pretty steep for me. The younger horse that Billy rode, and my old horse Smokey, were as beat as I was with shaking legs. I felt like having a nap, but instead I went to another birthday party.

My family rounded out our big weekend with a birthday dinner and party for Kevin Bass and me, combined with a victory celebration for Claire and Matthew for their big soccer win. Carol Bass cooked for Kevin his favorite dinner and birthday pecan pie, and we celebrated our birthdays on Sunday evening with dinner, cake, and pies. Just a nice family celebration including Rodney Glotfelty and family, Ruth DiPaolo, Courtney Englar, Dale Glotfelty, and Lesa and Maddy Whittemore.

Just as Lloyd and I thought we finished with team sports for this year, Claire joined Northern Middle School 8th grade girls' basketball team. Brent Housley and Robbie Glotfelty are on the 8th grade boys' team. Since we are all big hoop fans, we can't complain. Now we can put away soccer equipment since Caitlin's under-12 team, the Galaxy, lost in their final game last weekend. They had a great season finishing in second place in the regular season. Also on the team was Scotty Bass.

Mere's team did not have a play-off game. I don't think I could stand any more exciting close games than I already experienced this year. Now if we can get the girl's team jerseys clean for the award program on Saturday at GCC, we will be happy. After a few team parties we are finished with soccer for this year.

Services were held on Saturday for Evelyn Shawley. She will be missed in our community.

Lottie Brenneman, Ferne Beachy, Linda Buckel, Mary Simpson, and Sharon Knupp represented Emmanuel Lutheran at the Autumn Retreat of the Women of the Western Maryland-W.Va. Synod of the Lutheran Church at Jackson Mills, W.Va., last weekend. They were surprised to find that they had a hard frost that far south.

Twenty family members gathered at the Ida Reckner home for dinner on Sunday.

LOCAL GROOMER ATTENDS NATIONAL EXPO - Grantsville business owner Lindy Moebs of MuttWorks recently attended Groom Expo in Hershey, Pa. A national trade show for the pet industry, the expo attracted several thousand participants, including groomers and boarding kennel personnel. Speakers for the event included veterinarians, groomers, trainers, and manufacturers of pet care items. Included in the show were training sessions on the use of new pet care products and grooming techniques. MuttWorks offers grooming, pet sitting and training, and a new line of pet supplies, including the original pet fragrances designed by Moebs.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the Planetarium at Frostburg State. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. For a weekly sky report, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270. Doyle also hosts "SkyWatch," a brief weekly program on days of the week and sky sights on WFWM, Frostburg State's listener-supported radio station. E-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

THE SUN — In November, sunlight hours each day drop from 10.5 on the 1st to 9.6 on the 30th. The sun's midday peak height drops from 36 to 28 degrees (45 degrees is halfway up). Sunset times fall back about 25 minutes (before 5 p.m. by Thanksgiving), while sunrise times push more than 30 minutes forward (to after 7 p.m. in late November).

THE MOON — November opens with a half full moon (like a backwards "D") in the early morning hours. On November 4 and 5 the crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus in the eastern dawn. On November 7 the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. By November 9 the moon may be spied as a very slender crescent low in the western dusk. On November 13 the crescent moon appears near the planet Mars in the southwestern dusk. By November 16 the evening moon has grown to half full (looks like a "D"). This shape of the moon offers the best views of the moon's craters and mountains through binoculars or telescope. The moon will appear near the bright planet Jupiter on November 20 and near Saturn on the 21st. The moon is full on the night of November 23-24; this is called the Beaver or Frosty Moon. As November ends, the moon will have shrunk to half full in the morning sky.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, compared to the flickering stars. As soon as it gets dark, look for yellowish Mars, low in the southwest. Dominating the eastern sky is the very bright planet Jupiter. Below and to the left of Jupiter is the planet Saturn. At dawn the planet Venus is awesome in the east, becoming higher and more prominent as the weeks pass. You can also see Jupiter and Saturn in the west at dawn. The planet Mercury may be seen low in the southwestern dusk in early November. There may be a very good meteor shower before dawn on the mornings of November 17 and 18. The meteors will appear to stream from the star group Leo.

NOVEMBER'S STAR SIGHTS — Early on November evenings, the Big Dipper is too close to the northern horizon to be seen from most backyards. Late in the evening, the Dipper's scoop emerges in the north northeast. High in the north northeast is the charming zig-zag star pattern of Cassiopeia. Low in the northeast is the sparkling yellow star Capella, the first of the winter evening stars to become prominent. To the right of Capella is the bright orange-white star Aldeberan, which marks the eye of Taurus, the Bull. Above Aldeberan is the charming 7 Sisters star cluster, resembling a tiny dipper (It's not the Little Dipper!). To the right and above the 7 Sisters are the planets Saturn and Jupiter. Midway up in the west is the Summer Triangle, a trio of bright stars. By dawn, the sky has turned through 180 degrees. The Big Dipper is then very high in the north; low in the southwest are the brilliant winter evening stars, soon to drop out of view.

NOVEMBER PUBLIC SHOW AT FROSTBURG STATE — The FSU Planetarium's main feature in November is "America Under the Stars," with free showings each Sunday at 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. These presentations are free and open to the public. They last about an hour. Also included is an informal tour of the current evening sky. The Planetarium is just off the front lobby of Tawes Hall in the middle of campus, with convenient parking nearby.

LOCAL ASTRONOMY CLUB MEETS — The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet Friday, Nov. 19, at the LaVale Public Library at 7:30 p.m. All interested sky gazers are welcome.

New Treatments for Athlete's Foot

Athlete's foot (medical term is tinea pedis) is a fungal infection that affects more than 10 percent of Americans. Almost three-fourths of the US population will have athlete's foot sometime during their lives. Symptoms include itching or burning feet. The skin between the toes may become white, moist, and easily rubs off. The soles and sides of the feet often become red and dry. If not treated the infection can lead to a bacterial infection between the toes or on the soles of the feet. Prevention of athlete's foot begins by not walking barefoot in public shower stalls and locker rooms.

Treatment involves keeping the feet dry (drying between the toes after bathing). Powders help keep the area dry and medicated.

WOW Lodge 41 Members Hold Awards Banquet

The members of Woodmen of the World Lodge 41, Grantsville, met Saturday at the Bittinger fire hall for their annual awards banquet. Lillian Guthrie was mistress of ceremonies.

James Guthrie, lodge president, introduced officers for the year.

The following awards were presented: Environmentalist Award to Sutton and Ashley Aspey, Cresaptown; Conservation Award to Ernest and Carolyn Ganoe; Young Farmers Award to Forrest Blocher Jr.; Fraternal Spirit Award to Maxine Guthrie; 10-year service pin to Greg Blocher; and 25-year service pins to Randy Wiley and Kathleen Sipple.

Jurisdictional President Kenneth Moore and wife Catherine from Forrestville were special guests. Entertainment was provided by Mike Sherri and Olivia Hartman. Some 100 persons attended the banquet.

James and Lillian Guthrie also recently attended the awards dinners of Lodges 45 and 68. Lillian, James, Janis Pope, and Mary Frantz attended lodge events in Hagerstown on Oct. 24.

Lodge 41 recently presented a check to the Michael McClintock family.

Garrett Co. Farm Bureau Holds 62nd Annual Meeting, Dinner

Garrett County Farm Bureau members gathered at the Bittinger fire hall on Fri., Oct. 22, for the organization's 62nd annual meeting and banquet to elect new officers and approve resolutions for the coming year.

The invocation was given by Rev. Alan Birkby, and members of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department were recognized for the dinner consisting of turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, sauerkraut, corn, bread, butter, apple butter, and dessert.

Outgoing president Paul D. Miller introduced special guests, and secretary/treasurer Clark Kolb introduced speaker Wendell Beitzel, Garrett County commissioner, who discussed the Ag Preservation Program, an effort to start other programs to help county farmers.

Special remarks were presented by Garrett County Farm Queen Susan Mayfield and Allegany/Garrett County Dairy Princess Crissy Steyer.

Garrett County Farm Bureau received two state Gold Star Awards this year. They were presented to Debbie Barnard for Women's Committee, and Becky DeBerry for Information Director.

It was reported that Farm Bureau's ice cream booth at the Garrett County Fair had another profitable year, selling 540 gallons of ice cream.

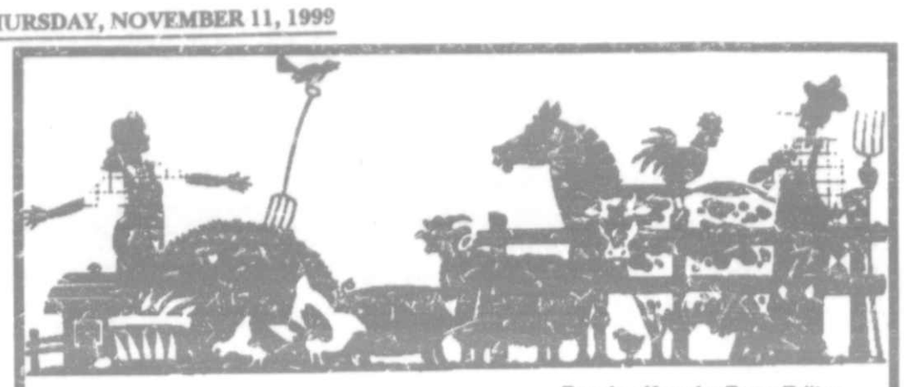
The organization is once again selling "Florida's best" citrus fruit through Maryland Farm Bureau's service company, Farmer-to-Farmer Agricultural Commodity Marketing Service, and Florida Farm Bureau. The deadline for orders is Nov. 15 with delivery planned the week of Dec. 9 through 17. Orders for navel oranges, red grapefruit, tangelos and orange juice concentrate can be made by calling Paul Miller at 301-746-8616.

Elections were held for the coming year, with W. Brooks Hamilton elected president; Paul D. Miller, vice president; Gary Fratz, Accident director; Larry Meyers, Friendsville-McHenry director; Alan Birkby, Grantsville-Bittinger director; Ralph Lichty, Oakland-Red House director; and Arthur Lake, Swanton-Deer Park director. Delegates to the state convention will be Ralph Lichty, William Enlow, Donald Ringer, and Clark A. Kolb.

Women's Committee directors will be Mary Ellen Lichty, Oakland-Red House; Linda Wolf, Friendsville-McHenry; Joanne Ringer and Garna Enlow, Accident; Margaret Hershberger, Grantsville-Bittinger; and Beth Myers, Swanton-Deer Park. The committee co-chairpersons are Debbie Barnard and Becky DeBerry.

Brooks Hamilton led the vote of approval of resolutions for 2000. Those approved were:

1. BE IT RESOLVED: That GCFB supports the proposed Tax Deferral and Tax Credit program for properties participating in the Md. Agriculture Land Preservation program.



2. BE IT RESOLVED: That the GCFB requests more information from the county; i.e., draft proposal on countywide zoning to make an informed decision on zoning.

3. BE IT RESOLVED: That GCFB urges all members to vote in the upcoming primary and general elections of 2000. Your vote counts.

4. BE IT RESOLVED: That GCFB urges the Department of Natural Resources to actively work to help control the large number of deer and increasing menace from bears.

5. BE IT RESOLVED: That GCFB opposes Sunday hunting in Garrett County.

It was announced that the state Farm Bureau Convention is coming up Dec. 5-8 in Hagerstown. Those interested in attending may contact Clark Kolb at 301-746-8484.

Farming In Maryland.....

Soybean Harvest Lags Behind Previous Years

Wet conditions are still keeping the soybean harvest well behind the previous year's average and only slightly behind the five-year average, according to the Maryland Ag Statistics Service. With the soybean harvest slowed, the seeding of wheat has fallen behind as a result. Wheat planting was also well behind its previous year's average. Several counts of fieldwork stoppage in small grain seeding and soybean harvesting were reported on Maryland's Eastern Shore. Barley, on the other hand, was following closely to the previous year's progress and only slightly below the five-year average. Soil moisture has been proving positive for western Maryland's pastures as late grazing and harvesting of forage has been reported.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended on Nov. 7, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows.

Small grains seeded: barley 94, 90, 99, 95; wheat 71, 63, 84, 77; and rye 88, 66, 91, and 84.

Crops harvested: corn, grain 92, 85, 91, 87; soybeans 61, 47, 73, 63; sorghum 83, 74, 83, 67; alfalfa, 5th cutting 71, 56, 59, 65; and other hay, 4th cutting 91, 89, 95, and 88.

Crop conditions listing the commodity and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, in that order, are: wheat 0, 1, 8, 88, 3; barley 3, 0, 16, 76, 5; rye 0, 0, 13, 79, 8; and pasture 1, 2, 21, 66, and 10.

USDA Reminds Soybean Producers Of Referendum

The Department of Agriculture (USDA) reminds soybean producers that the opportunity to request a referendum on the Soybean Promotion and Research Order or "Soybean Checkoff Program" will end on Nov. 16.

A form to request a referendum maybe obtained at local Farm Service Agency (FSA) offices or by mail or facsimile through Nov. 16. Producers may request a referendum at county FSA offices, where their administrative farm records are maintained. Producers who are not participating in FSA programs may request a referendum at the FSA office serving the county where the producer owns or rents land.

Completed mail-in forms must be postmarked by Nov. 16 and received in the FSA office no later than Dec. 1. All other requests for a referendum made by facsimile or in person must be received in the FSA office by Nov. 16.

To be eligible to request a referendum, the producer must have been engaged in the growing of soybeans in the United States and own or share the ownership and risk of loss of such soybeans between Jan. 1, 1997, and Nov. 16, 1999.

FSA county office staff can answer most questions about the referendum. For further information, those interested may contact Ralph L. Tapp, USDA, Agricultural Marketing Service, Washington, DC, or by calling 303-720-1115.

If the secretary determines that at least 10% of the U.S. producers engaged in growing soybeans (not in excess of one-fifth of which may be producers in any one state) support the conduct of a referendum, the secretary must conduct a referendum within one year of that determination. If these requirements are not met, no referendum would be conducted.

Md. Ag Statistics Service Reports On Crop Production

Based on conditions as of Oct. 1, corn and soybean production in Maryland is expected to be down from 1998, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Yields remained unchanged from the Sept. 1 report for corn and soybeans; however, tobacco yield did increase slightly. Corn production is forecast at 34 million bushels, down 22% from last year and 8% from 1997. Yield is projected at 85 bushels per acre, down 24 bushels from last year's estimate of 109. If realized, this would be the lowest yield since 1993. According to the Crop Progress Report for Oct. 4, corn condition stood at 19% very poor, 28% poor, 36% fair, 16% good, and 1% excellent.

Soybean production is forecast at 11.7 million bushels, down 18% from last year and 25% from 1997. This would be the smallest production since 1987. Yield is forecast at 26 bushels per acre, down 5 bushels from 1998's final estimate of 31 bushels per acre. From the Oct. 4 Crop Progress Report, soybean condition was rated 6% very poor, 17% poor, 32% fair, 39% good, and 6% excellent.

Across the United States corn grain production is forecast at 9.47 billion bushels, up 1% from last month but down 3% from 1998. Based on Oct. 1 conditions, yields are expected to average 133.5 bushels per acre, up 1.3 bushels from last month but down 0.9 bushels from a year ago. If realized, this would be the fourth largest production and the third highest yield on record. Acreage for harvest is estimated at 70.9 million acres, down 30,000 acres from last month due to flooding in North Carolina.

Soybean production is forecast at 2.70 billion bushels, down 3% from Sept. 1 and down 2% from last year's record of 2.74 billion bushels. The yield forecast, at 37.0 bushels per acre, decreased 0.9 bushels from last month and is 1.9 bushels below the 1998 final yield. Acreage for harvest is estimated at a record 72.8 million acres, down 1% from Sept. 1 but up 3% from 1998. Acres expected for harvest were decreased by 475,000 acres in nine states due to abandonment or harvesting for hay. The states with the largest acreage reductions are North Carolina, Kentucky, Ohio, and Tennessee. Downward adjustments to harvested acres were also made in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Missouri, and South Carolina.

U.S. old crop corn stocks in all positions on Sept. 1 totaled 1.80 billion bushels, up 37% from Sept. 1, 1998. Of the total stocks, 807 million bushels were stored on farms, up 26% from a year ago. Off-farm stocks, at 989 million bushels, were up 48% from a year ago. The June-August report indicated disappearance is 1.82 billion bushels, 5% above the disappearance of 1.73 billion bushels during the same period a year earlier. Old crop soybeans stored in all positions on Sept. 1 totaled 348 million bushels, up 74% from Sept. 1, 1998. On-farm stocks totaled 145 million bushels, up 72% from last September. Off-farm stocks at 203 million bushels are 76% above the previous year. Indicated disappearance for the Sept. 1998 through August 1999 marketing year totaled 2.60 billion bushels, 1% below disappearance during the comparable period a year earlier.

The 1998 soybean production was revised to 2.74 billion bushels, down 15.8 million bushels from the previous 1998 estimate. Acreage planted and harvested was decreased by 350,000 and 370,000 acres to 72.0 and 70.4 million acres, respectively. The 1998 yield per acre, at 38.9 remained unchanged from the previous 1998 estimate. Revisions were made based upon an analysis of end-of-marketing year stock estimate and disappearance data for exports and crushings. All available administrative data on exports were used. All wheat stored in all positions Sept. 1, 1999, totaled 2.46 billion bushels, up 3% from a year ago and the highest September 1 level since the 1987-88 marketing year.

Farm stocks are 903 million bushels, up 2% from last year. Barley stocks in all positions on Sept. 1 are estimated at 297 million bushels, 9% below last year. Of the total barley stocks on hand, 167 million bushels are stored on farms, 14% below a year ago. Off-farm stocks, at 130 million bushels, are only 2% below 1998. Indicated disappearance during the June through August 1999 quarter totaled 135 million bushels, 11% lower than the same period a year earlier.

Maryland Farm Bureau To Hold 84th Annual State Convention

Maryland's largest farm organization, Maryland State Farm Bureau, will hold its 84th annual convention Sunday to Wednesday, Dec. 5 to 8, at the Ramada Inn Convention Center in Hagerstown. Over 300 members will discuss "Vision and Growth for a New Millennium."

The meeting is important to Maryland agriculture as members will discuss and approve Farm Bureau policy for the upcoming year. This policy, which has been reviewed and submitted by member counties, will guide Farm Bureau's legislative agendas into the new millennium.

Tuesday evening's awards banquet will be highlighted with the naming of the Women's Committee, Young Farmers Committee, and county Farm Bureau programs. The finalizing of policy and election of officers will be held on the final day.

Speakers on Monday will be Bruce Vincent, president of Alliance for America; and David Hollingsworth, senior vice president of Multi Channel & Sponsor Relations, Nationwide Insurance. Tuesday's speakers will include Henry "Bud" Virts, Maryland secretary of agriculture; Maryland Farm Queen Evelyn Hardman; Robert Worcester, president, Maryland Business for Responsive Government; Dr. Thomas Fretz and Dr. James Wade, University of Maryland; and banquet speaker Katherine Trent, manager of Agricultural Relations, Philip Morris Co.

On Wednesday the speaker will be Terry Barr, chief economist and vice president, National Council of Farmer Cooperatives.

Local Farm Bureau members wishing to attend the state convention may contact Clark Kolb at 301-746-8484.

Precautions - Hunting from Tree Stands

During hunting season, deer hunters have to take care to be safe in many different aspects of their sport. Tree stands are popular with hunters, but there are precautions hunters should take.

Your checklist should be:

1. Tell someone where you are hunting and provide details on your location and schedule so people will be able to find you if you do not return on time.

2. Use a portable rather than a permanent tree stand. A portable stand reduces damage to the tree and affords the hunter greater flexibility in moving a stand's location.

3. Securely attach the tree stand no higher than you feel comfortable in jumping safely from the tree.

4. Use a safety belt to secure yourself to the tree. Harnesses made for this purpose are much safer than rope.

5. Use an equipment haul line to bring your unloaded gun or bow into and out of the stand. Never climb into a tree stand carrying any equipment.

6. Keep your tree stand in good working condition; replace any worn or missing parts.

7. Practice using your tree stand before going into the woods the first time. Set it up close to the ground to become familiar with how it reacts to your body weight and movements.

8. If you choose to use an existing permanent stand, thoroughly inspect it before the season and make any necessary repairs. Decaying wood and natural tree growth could make a permanent stand unsafe.

9. Select straight, live trees for tree-stand sites; inspect for bee or wasp nests, animal dens, and overhead dead wood before putting up the stand.

10. Stay awake! A common cause of tree-stand accidents is falling asleep. Don't climb a tree after taking medication that makes you drowsy. If you start to nod off, get down to the ground immediately.

Hunting remains popular, and as hunters are showing greater interest in black-powder and bow hunting, the use of tree stands also increases.

Selecting and Storing Apples

This has been a very good production year for apples in our area. Apples can be stored successfully for several months. Late maturing varieties such as Winesap Yellow Newton, Rome Beauty, York Emperial, and Northern Spy will store up to 7 months.

It is very important that you select firm apples, free of bruises, decay, broken or shriveled skin. Fruit should be ripe when picked to have good flavor, texture, and storing ability. Apples should be well colored; check for background that is greenish-yellow to yellow.

For most varieties of apples, the optimum storage temperature is 30-32 degrees F with a 90% relative humidity. Higher storage temperatures reduce the storage life considerably, as apples ripen twice as fast at 40 degrees F. Apples can be stored outdoors in insulated boxes or straw-lined pits or buried containers as long as the outside temperatures are above 10 degrees F. They will last longer and retain more flavor if kept in a fruit cellar in plastic bags or in cardboard boxes lined with plastic sheets. The cardboard box and plastic bags must be perforated to allow air circulation. If the fruits are individually wrapped in tissue paper or newspaper before being placed in boxes or baskets, you will achieve better results. Plastic liners or bags help maintain high humidity and prevent the apples from being affected by the surrounding air. The balance of humidity is subtle; excess humidity will encourage decay, and insufficient humidity will encourage shriveling.

Avoid storing apples too long, and regularly check for signs of spoilage. Mustiness will spread to healthy apples. The storage duration depends on the variety.

Caucus Identifies United States Trade Objectives

With concern mounting about the prominence of U.S. agricultural priorities in the upcoming World Trade Organization ministerial meeting, 37 members of the House and Senate recently created the WTO Trade Caucus for Farmers and Ranchers. Co-chaired by Sens. Larry Craig (R-Idaho) and Byron Dorgan (D-N.D.), and Reps. Mike Simpson (R-Idaho) and Earl Pomeroy (D-N.D.), the caucus was formed to present a united agenda for agriculture and ensure that U.S. trade negotiators actively pursue a positive agenda for agriculture at the meeting in Seattle.

Dorgan said the group's goal is to have U.S. negotiators pursue policies that allow U.S. farmers and ranchers to compete on equal terms. "If the rules are fair, our farmers and ranchers can out-compete anyone, anywhere," Dorgan said. "We want American negotiators to stand up for our farmers and ranchers and insist that free trade also be fair trade."

The caucus's first step in September was to determine what issues were the most important to American producers. The group chose to focus on increasing market access, eliminating export subsidies and non-tariff trade barriers, and to make the operation of state trading enterprises more transparent.

Craig said that by establishing such priorities, the caucus is now able to present a unified voice for the nation's farmers and ranchers. "American agriculture is at a disadvantage in the world marketplace, and it is time for our government to stand up and fight for farmers and ranchers across the country."

Last month caucus representatives met with Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman and gained a commitment from him, and ultimately the Clinton administration, that agricultural trade objectives will be the top priority for U.S. negotiators.

"I think we've gained the attention of the administration, and now they've listed agriculture as their No. 1 priority for the WTO meeting," said Simpson. "We need to make sure they are committed to acting on that priority and meeting the needs for the agriculture community.

According to the caucus, the average tariff on agricultural imports in WTO-member countries is 50 percent, compared to less than 10 percent in the United States. This discrepancy has led the bipartisan, bicameral group to call for expanded market access through tariff reduction or elimination and reciprocal market access.

The caucus also determined that an elimination of all export subsidies would greatly benefit the United States' role as a competitor in the world marketplace.

"The EU spends $7 billion a year on export subsidies while the United States spends less than 2 percent of that amount," said Pomeroy. "It's easy to see that our farmers are losing the export battle because foreign countries heavily subsidize agriculture."

In addition, the caucus is calling for state trading enterprises, such as the Canadian Wheat Board and the Australian Wheat Board Ltd., to comply with rules making them as transparent as the U.S. marketing system. The STEs should be exposed to greater competition and eliminate discriminatory pricing practices, the caucus said.

Finally, in an effort to combat unfair trade and support American farmers, the caucus resolved to restore and fortify enforcement tools against practices that disrupt fair trade, improve enforcement of WTO dispute panel decisions, accelerate the dispute process, and make it more transparent.

"We're pleased this group has come together to look out for our farmers and ranchers," said Audrae Erickson, an American Farm Bureau Federation governmental relations director. "Farm Bureau looks forward to working with caucus members, as well as other involved congressional committees, to ensure that these talks benefit our agricultural producers."

PUBLIC NOTICE
MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
STATE HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION,
FEDERAL HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION AND
THE U.S. ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS
HAVE RESCHEDULED A LOCATION/DESIGN PUBLIC HEARING
For the US 219 OAKLAND
TRANSPORTATION IMPROVEMENT PROJECT
Tuesday, December 7, 1999 at 6:30 p.m.
Displays will be available at 5:30 p.m.
AT SOUTHERN GARRETT HIGH SCHOOL
345 EAST OAK STREET
OAKLAND, MARYLAND 21550
(The meeting was previously scheduled for November 8,1999)

The purpose of the project is to improve traffic operations and safety within the Town of Oakland. The project proposes Alternate 1, the No-Build Alternate, Alternate 2, the Transportation System Management (TSM) Alternate, and Alternate 3, a relocated alternate which incorporates different alignments (Option A, Option A-1, Option C, and Option C-1).

The purpose of the Location/Design Public Hearing is to afford all interested persons the opportunity to present their views regarding the proposed location and general design features of the project, including the social, economic and environmental effects for both the build alternates and the No-Build Alternate.

Beginning at 5:30 p.m. mapping depicting the project alternates will be on display. Representatives of the State Highway Administration, Federal Highway Administration, and Army Corps of Engineers will be available to record your comments and discuss points of interest with you.

A formal presentation beginning at 6:30 p.m. and lasting approximately 20 minutes will include a description of the project alternates, an environmental summary, information on right-of-way acquisition, relocation assistance policies and procedures, and Title VI of the Equal Opportunity Program. The presentation will be followed by receipt of public testimony, which will be recorded. Private testimony will also be received and recorded.

The State Highway Administration, in consultation with the Maryland Historical Trust and other consulting parties, has identified five historic resources, including structures in the study area that are listed on or considered eligible for the "National Register of Historic Places." These resources are identified in the environmental document prepared for the project. In accordance with Section 106 procedures of the National Historic Preservation Act, this Public Hearing provides the opportunity for public input regarding historic resources. The Maryland Historical Trust has determined that the project will have no adverse effect on historic resources.

Individuals and representatives of organizations that wish to present testimony at the Hearing or who want to be placed on the project mailing list may submit a request to Mr. Paul F. Maloney, P.E., Project Manager, Maryland State Highway Administration, Project Planning Division, C-301, 707 North Calvert Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21202 or by calling toll free at 1-800-548-5026. If you received a copy of this notice in the mail, you are currently enrolled on the project mailing list. Those persons enrolled will be kept informed of project development and the opportunity for public involvement as the study progresses.

Requests to speak should be received no later than December 6, 1999 in order to ensure proper scheduling at the hearing. Attendees at the hearing who wish to present testimony and have not previously made a request to do so will follow those on the previously established list. If there are a large number of speakers, a time limit for each speaker may be necessary. Brochures and forms for written comments will be available at the hearing.

Written statements and other exhibitions in lieu of or in addition to oral presentation at the Hearing may be submitted to Mr. Paul F. Maloney at the above address until January 7, 2000 in order to be included in the Public Hearing Transcript.

Beginning on November 22, 1999, the Environmental Assessment will be available for inspection and copying at the following locations:

The State Highway Administration, through consultation with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, has identified Waters of the United States, including jurisdictional wetlands, which are regulated by Section 404 of the Clean Water Act. This public hearing provides the opportunity to present views, opinions, and information that will be considered by the Corps in evaluating a Department of the Army permit. All comments received will become part of the formal project record. Copies of any written statements expressing concern for aquatic resources may be submitted to Mr. Paul Wettlaufer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, CENAB-OP-RP, PO Box 1715, Baltimore, MD 21203-1715 until January 7, 2000.

The Environmental Assessment serves as an application for a Department of the Army permit pursuant to Section 404 of the Clean Water Act (33 U.S.C. 1344). Coordination with Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) also ensures that the document satisfies the alternates analysis requirements of the State's wetland permit review. Application for the State permit will be made subsequent to the alternate selection process.

The decision whether to issue the Section 404 authorization will be based on an evaluation of the probable impacts including direct, indirect, and cumulative impacts of the proposed project on the public interest. This decision will reflect the national concern for the protection and utilization of important resources. The benefits, which reasonably may be expected to accrue from the proposed project, must be balanced against its reasonably foreseeable detriments. All factors which may be relevant to the proposed project will be considered including the cumulative effects; among those are conservation, economics, aesthetics, general environmental concerns, wetlands, cultural values, fish and wildlife values, flood hazards, floodplain values, land use, navigation, shoreline erosion and accretion, recreation, water supply and conservation, water quality, energy needs, safety, food and fiber production and, in general, the needs and welfare of the people.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is soliciting comments from the public; Federal, State, and local agencies and officials; Native American Tribes; and other interested parties in order to consider and evaluate the impacts of this proposed activity. Any comments received will be considered by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to determine whether to issue, modify, condition, or deny a permit for this proposal. To make this decision, public comments regarding the assessment of impacts to endangered species, historic properties, water quality, general environmental effects, and the other public interest factors listed above are taken into account.

The applicant will be required to obtain a water quality certification in accordance with Section 401 of the Clean Water Act from the Maryland Department of the Environment. Water quality certification is requested from Maryland Department of the Environment by way of this public notice. Any written comments concerning the work described above which relate to water quality certification should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Wetlands and Waterways Program, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, MD 21224. The 401 certifying agency has a statutory limit of one year to make its decision.

The evaluation of the impact of the work described above on the public interest will include application of the guidelines promulgated by the Administrator, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, under authority of Section 404 of the Clean Water Act.

A preliminary review of this application indicates that the proposed work will have no effect on listed species or their critical habitat pursuant to Section 7 of the Endangered Species Act as amended. As the evaluation of this application continues, additional information may become available which could modify this preliminary determination.

HEARING IMPAIRED/NON-ENGLISH SPEAKING PERSONS:

If anyone who is hearing impaired desires to attend this Hearing, please notify Mr. Paul F. Maloney at the above address, in writing or teletype to 1-800-735-2258 (Statewide toll free). Non-English speaking persons who wish to attend should notify the same address or call 410-545-8516. All requests for an oral, sign language or Non-English language interpreter must be received by December 1, 1999. To the extent that this is feasible and possible, an interpreter will be provided.

SNOW EMERGENCY

If the Garrett County "Snow Emergency Plan" is in effect on the day of the Hearing, or if the County Public Schools have been closed and evening activities canceled, this Hearing will be canceled and rescheduled for Wednesday, January 12, 2000.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE that the Town of Oakland, on the 1st day of November, 1999, introduced an Annexation Resolution, in accordance with the provisions of Article 23A, Section 19 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, for the annexation of the area known as the High Street Area Annexation, and providing that the area to be annexed shall be zoned as "Suburban Residential" (SR) category as defined by the Oakland Zoning Ordinance. The full resolution as introduced is as follows:

BEFORE THE MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND

RESOLUTION NO.: R99-16

(ANNEXATION NO.: A99-02 - HIGH STREET AREA ANNEXATION)

WHEREAS, pursuant to Section 19(b) of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland, the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland have initiated this Resolution to enlarge the corporate boundaries of the Town by annexation of land adjoining and contiguous to the existing corporate boundaries, and being the area known as the High Street Area Annexation, as is depicted in detail on a Plat dated September 23, 1999, as revised October 21, 1999, prepared by Morgan C. France, surveyor; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor and Town Council have caused to be made a verification of the fact that the said annexation has been consented to by not less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the persons who reside in the area to be annexed, and who are registered as voters in County elections, and from the owners of not less than twenty-five percent (25%) of the assessed valuation of the real property located in the area to be annexed, as evidenced by the signatures of said persons on writings establishing their consent.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THAT ALL THE LAND LYING WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF THE HEREINAFTER DESCRIBED PARCEL OR PARCELS SHALL BE ANNEXED TO AND BECOME PART OF THE TOWN OF OAKLAND.

BEGINNING at a six-inch round concrete monument with a bronze cap marked "3802" and "HS-1" found in the fourth line of the description of "AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE EXTENSION OF THE TOWN LIMITS OF THE TOWN OF OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND," passed June 9, 1952, by the Mayor and Town Council, and in a northerly margin of Dennett Road; thence with said northerly margin, South 63 degrees 52 minutes East, 218.87 feet to a six-inch round concrete monument with a bronze cap stamped "TOWN OF OAKLAND, MD LS 126, TOWN CORNER," hereinafter called a bronze cap, marked "HS-2," set in said margin of Dennett Road, and in the easterly line of the property owned now or formerly by Clayton O. MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County
Application for State Discharge Permit 99-DP-0760:

Maryland Environmental Service, 2011 Commerce Park Drive, Annapolis, Maryland 21401, submitted an application to renew a permit to discharge an average of 20,000 gallons per day of treated domestic wastewater from the Deep Creek Lake State Park Wastewater Treatment Plant, located at 165 Brant Road, Swanton, Maryland to groundwater via spray irrigation.

A tentative determination had been made to reissue the permit with the following effluent limitations: BOD5, 70 mg/l maximum monthly average; total suspended solids, 90 mg/l maximum monthly average; pH maintained between 6.5 and 8.5; fecal coliform less than 200 MPN/100ml; and flow of 20,000 gpd. The weekly hydraulic loading rate shall be limited to 1"/wk (yearly average) and the Permittee shall monitor groundwater quality at two monitoring wells.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by November 29, 1999. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, Maryland 21224, Attn.: Dr. Ching-Tzone Tien, and must include the name, address and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by November 29, 1999 will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Dr. Tien at the above address, on or before December 9, 1999. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Dr. Tien at 410-631-3662 or by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Dr. Tien at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Dr. Tien at the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.30 per page.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE IMPROVED DWELLING 468 CHANEY ROAD LONACONING, MD 21539

UNDER and by virtue of the authority contained in a Deed of Trust dated January 15, 1998 and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland in Liber 731 at Folio 0838, granted by Kelby C. Kamp and Mary Ann Kamp to the trustee or truatees named therein, JEFFREY B. FISHER, MARTIN S. GOLDBERG, and CRAIG INGRAM having been substituted as trustees in the place and stead of the trustee or trustees originally named by Deed of Appointment of Substitute Trustees duly executed and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, with all of the powers granted to the trustee or trustees originally named therein, including a power of sale upon default, and default having occurred in the terms and conditions thereof, the said Substitute Trustees will sell at public auction at the Courthouse entrance of the

CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY AT
The Rotunda at the Courthouse
AT OAKLAND, MARYLAND ON TUESDAY, November 30, 1999 AT 2:15 PM,

all that property described in said Deed of Trust, as follows:

ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL of land situate, lying and being in Election District No. 15 of Garrett County, Maryland, being a portion of that parcel of land of record intended to be recorded immediately prior hereto, and being more particularly described as follows:

BEGINNING at a No. 5 rebar with plastic cap marked, Property Marker RS 47 at the point of beginning of the 21.30 acre tract of Gale A. Kamp, et ux., of record in Liber No. 451, Folio 332, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland; thence with part of the first line, and with land now of Anna L. Weimer, north 57 degrees, 22 minutes west 249.97 feet to an iron pin with cap; thence through land, Gale A. Kamp, et ux., north 46 degrees, 19 minutes east 249.12 feet to an iron pin with cap; thence south 57 degrees, 22 minutes, east 249.97 feet to an iron pin with cap in the tenth line of the aforesaid deed; thence with said line, south 46 degrees, 19 minutes west 249.12 feet to a No. 5 rebar with cap at the place of beginning, and containing 1.389 acres. The improvements thereon being known and designated as 468 Chaney Road.

SAID LAND AND PREMISES being in the Fifteenth Election District of Garrett County, Maryland and being improved by a dwelling bearing the street address of 468 Chaney Road, Lonaconing, MD 21539. Subject to all covenants, restrictions and easements of record, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: A cash or cash equivalent deposit of $10,300.00 will be required at the time of sale, the balance to be payable in cash within ten (10) business days after ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, with interest on said balance from the date of sale to date of settlement at the rate of 9.99% per annum. Failure of the purchaser to settle will result in resale of the property at the risk and cost of the purchaser, or forfeiture of deposit at the election of the Substitute Trustees, who specifically preserve all legal and equitable remedies available to them. The Substitute Trustees reserve the right to waive the deposit requirements if the noteholder is the purchaser. Sale is "AS-IS" and Substitute Trustees make no warranty of any kind whatsoever regarding the physical condition, physical description, or title to the property. Taxes, rents, annually payable public charges and assessments, including the front foot benefit charges of the appropriate governing agency, if any, and condominium fees and/or homeowner's association dues, if applicable, will be adjusted to the day of sale and thereafter assumed by the Purchaser. All costs of conveyancing, including transfer taxes and recordation taxes will be paid by the Purchaser. The purchaser's sole remedy in the event the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey marketable title is the return of the deposit. Upon return of the deposit, the sale shall be null and void.

Deer Park Inn To Be Featured In ARC Tour

This year's Home for the Holidays house tours, sponsored by the American Red Cross, will feature the Deer Park Inn, a 110-year-old cottage located just off Rt. 219 on Deer Park Hotel Road. The tours will take place on Dec. 3 and 4, and, in addition to the inn, will include the Simon Pearce Glass Plant and the homes of George and Dawn Scheffel, Norman and Janice Hanline, Carl and Ann Rebele, and Louis DiCarlo.

The historic Pennington Cottage, which houses the Deer Park Inn, was constructed in 1889 by Josiah Pennington. A prominent Baltimore architect, he designed the 17-room "cottage" as a summer home for his family, and located it on the grounds of the famous Deer Park Hotel. The inn is furnished with Victorian antiques, many of which are original to the cottage. Other displayed pieces came from the old hotel and other area estates.

Candlelight dining at the Deer Park Inn is styled and prepared by the owner and chef, Pascal Fontaine, formerly the executive chef at the Westin Hotel and the Ana Hotel, both in Washington, D.C. Overnight accommodations are also available in the restored Victorian home, which is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

THE DEER PARK INN

The inn has 13-foot ceilings and a striking staircase. Two floors will be open to tour guests unless the bedrooms are rented.

This will be the eighth annual Home for the Holidays house tours event sponsored by the American Red Cross, and is one of the local chapter's largest fund-raisers. Tickets for the tours, which are $5 in advance or $7 at the door, are available at Englander's, Gregg's, and Proudfoot's pharmacies, Flowers by Webers along Weber Road, Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry, and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

Raffles will be held at each tour stop. Guests will be asked to refrain from photographing the sites.

Assault, Property Destruction Case Not Prosecuted

A case involving an Oakland man accused of malicious destruction of property and second degree assault was not prosecuted in Garrett County Circuit Court last week, by order of the state's attorney.

Albert C. Paugh, 38, had been charged with these offenses following an alleged domestic dispute that occurred on April 16.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

Horse-drawn hayrides through Deep Creek Lake State Park will depart the Discovery Center on Saturday, Nov. 13, at 10 a.m., noon, and 2 p.m. The cost is $5 for adults, $2.50 for children 4-12, and children under 3 ride for free.

The hayrides are provided by Broken Bar Stables in partnership with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Nature Tourism program. For reservations or more information concerning this or other programs at the park and Discovery Center, persons may call 301-387-7314.

COVE

The Cove Kids 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 9. The club elected new officers for the year 2000. Officers are as follows: president, Keith Bender; vice president, Tony Bender, treasurer, Beth Long, secretary, Michelle Bender; reporter, Leah Biser; and photographer, Rachel Schmidt. These officers will be taking their places as of January. The Cove Kids will be holding their Christmas banquet on Tuesday, Dec. 14, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Northern Garrett High Marching Band traveled to Westminster on Saturday, Nov. 6, for a competition. The band received first place in the Tournament of Bands Chapter 13 Championships in Group 1. The band will be traveling to Scranton, Pa., this coming weekend to compete in the Atlantic Coast Championships.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hinger attended the 27th anniversary banquet for the Northern Rescue Squad on Saturday evening at the Bittinger fire hall. Mr. Ringer represented the Accident Fire Department as its fire chief.

Mr. and Mrs. Markel Maust were weekend guests of their daughter, Miss Louise Maust, Columbus, Ohio. Also joining them were Julie Maust, Collierville, Tenn. The group attended a Thanksgiving dinner at State Park Malabar Farm, Columbus, on Saturday. Approximately 25 others joined the group to help prepare the meal. The entire meal was cooked over open fire.

Derrick Bender returned to his respective classes at Rosedale Bible Institute, Irwin, Ohio, on Sunday after spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bender.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanft and Mrs. Fred Higson, Cumberland, went to Garrett Memorial Hospital, after Walter fell on Saturday at his home. Stitches in his head were among the treatments for his injuries. Walter is now recuperating at his home. Mrs. Hignan remained a Saturday overnight guest of her parents, Monday visitors of the Hanfts were Mr. and Mrs. William Fike, Madison, Pa. Other visitors during the week at the Hanft home were Carroll Hanft and daughters, Addison, Pa., Elmer Hanft, and Mrs. James Margroff.

Sunday visitors of Marcia Simmers were Peggy Santamaria, daughter Anne, a granddaughter Elyse, of California.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Funk and children accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Funk, Cumberland, attended the Charlestown horse races on Sunday afternoon.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bender and family were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brenneman and son and Brian Fender, Grantsville. Saturday visitors of the Benders were Jennifer and Joshua Bittinger, Accident.

Alfreda Friend was a Saturday evening guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Fint, Aurora, W.Va. Other visitors of the Fints were Mrs. Scott Bittinger and daughter Stephanie, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., Mr. and Mrs. Brian Anderson and children, Arthurdale, W.Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Jason Fint. The group helped Jason to celebrate his birthday that day. A Sunday evening supper guest of Mrs. Friend was Elmer Hanft.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson attended the Chapter 13 Band Championships in Westminster on Saturday. The Robinsons then spent the night with their son Josh, a student at Towson University, and returned to their home Sunday.

Mrs. Darlene Schmidt and daughter Rachel, and Jeanette Bland attended the hymn sing and puppet show on Friday evening at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, Oakland. The puppet show was performed under the direction of Mrs. Schmidt. Others helping with the show were Sandy, Becky, and Donna Schmidt, Rachel Schmidt, Mary Bittinger, and Catherine and Matt Miller. A Saturday and Sunday visitor of the Schmidts was Karin Tyson, Springfield, Va. Other Sunday visitors of the Schmidts were Anita House and daughter, Tessa Marie Gardner. Mrs. Schmidt and Mrs. Bonnie Haenftling were Monday visitors of Pamela Schmidt and Kara Alt, Morgantown.

Weekend guests of Brian Gardner and Anita House and children were Mr. and Mrs. Silas Gardner, Woodbridge, Va. Saturday guests at the Gardner home were Mrs. Darlene Schmidt and daughter Rachel, and Karin Tyson, Springfield, Va.

Friday evening visitors of Mrs. Garnet Ringer were Linda Ashby and Debbie Ahern and son Nicholas. Other visitors of Mrs. Ringer during the week were Mr. and Mrs. Don Ringer and Dorothy Bernard.

Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Joslin and son Andrew, and Mrs. Helen Harman were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harman and daughters Danielle and Devon. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Staley and daughters, Shepherdstown, W.Va., were Saturday visitors of the Joslins and Mrs. Harman. The Staleys also traveled with the Joslins to watch a West Virginia University ball game on Saturday.

Miss Hannah Schmuck returned to classes at the Rosedale Bible Institute, Irwin, Ohio, after spending a week here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daymond Schmuck.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Margroff attended the Fairs and Shows Association conference from Friday to Sunday at the Ramada Inn, Hagerstown.

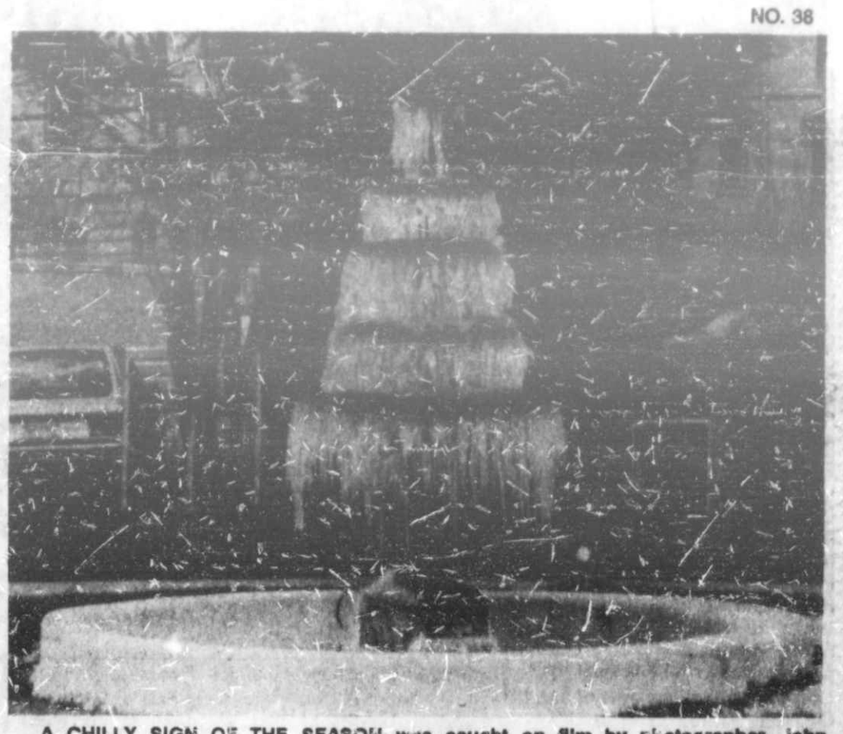
STATE CHAMPIONS - The cross country program at Southern High School, the single most accomplished of any high school sports programs in the county, captured another Maryland 1A state championship, as the SHS girls' team raced to that title Saturday at Hereford High School. It was the second state title earned by Southern girls' teams, coached by Louis Newcomb, while the Southern boys' teams have won five championships under Coach Carl Booth. Leading the Runnin' Rams to victory was freshman Melissa Durst, who finished third overall and was one of four Rams named to the All-State team. Seven members of each qualifying team are permitted to run in the state meet, with the top five finishing places used to calculate the team score. Pictured above are the seven who represented Southern. From left are: Melissa Durst, Angie Sincell, Amber Stewart, Faryn Shaffer, Beth Sauder, Erin Hoalcraft, and Liz McDonald. See sports pages for more coverage.

Oakland Youth Dies Following Hunting Mishap

A 17-year-old Oakland youth died Saturday morning, apparently as a result of his own mishandling of a hunting rifle. The accident occurred in a wooded area off the 5200 block of Hutton Road west of Oakland.



Dereck Adam DeWitt, a resident of the 500 block of Garrett Road, was pronounced dead at the scene following the 9:50 a.m. incident, according to John Surrick, spokesman for Natural Resources Police, which was continuing to investigate the incident as of yesterday.

A senior at Southern High School, DeWitt was reportedly in the company of two other boys, ages 16 and 13, at the time of the incident, which occurred during Maryland's annual Youth Deer Hunt Day. The firearm was described as a 30-30 rifle.

In addition to NRP, the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office responded to the scene. The State Medical Examiner's Office conducted the autopsy.

Born Aug. 22, 1982, in Oakland, DeWitt was a son of Michael J. and Naomi (Weeks) DeWitt.

A CHILLY SIGN OF THE SEASON was caught on film by photographer John McEwen, who noticed that Oakland's new fountain was arrested by the frigid temperatures this week. The sight was short-lived, as town employees had to break up the ice to avoid losing the motor inside. The fountain wasn't damaged during its frozen time, but residents will probably not have the chance to see it in this condition again, as it will be properly sheltered until next spring.

Old-Fashioned Holiday Proposed In Friendsville

The mayor and town council of Friendsville will sponsor an old-fashioned holiday celebration that will include the town's annual "Christmas Tree and Decoration Light-Up Night" on Friday, Dec. 3, starting at 6:30 p.m.

All groups, organizations and individuals are welcome to participate in this festive event. Fund-raising tables may be set up in town to sell items such as crafts, hot chocolate or other hot beverages, baked goods, candies, sandwiches, funnel cakes, candied apples, and french fries.

Music will be performed by the Northern High School band, the Friendsville Elementary School chorus, and others from 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. in front of Town Hall. The section of Chestnut Street near Town Hall will be blocked off for vendors to set up tables.

Santa Claus will arrive at

Fresh Air Christmas To Include Holiday Music, Food, Book-Signing

The sights, songs, sales, and tastes of the Christmas season will be evident throughout downtown Oakland on Friday, Dec. 3, from 4 to 8 p.m., as the annual Fresh Air Christmas event takes place. Music, food, and a book-signing event are among the activities of the evening.

The music will be provided by the Southern Garrett Marching Band and the Southern High School Chorus, both under the direction of Richard Clever. Also featured will be the Southern Hand Bell Choir, under the direction of Marjorie Clever.

Local merchants will be offering door prizes and seasonal specials, as well as hot chocolate, apple cider, and holiday foods. The model train display of Walter Atwill, located in a storefront window on the corner of Second and Green streets, will also be featured.

Santa Claus is slated to make a visit as well, and will be seated at the "pocket park" along Second Street, prepared to talk over wish lists with any children interested in putting in requests.

A book-signing event, featuring local artist Mark Stutzman, will take place at the Book Mark'et and Antique Mezzanine, beginning at 6 p.m. The signing is in part a reception to thank the young models featured on the covers of a new series of paperbacks for children. Stutzman utilizes the help of local people to pose for photographs, which he then uses to create the characters on the book covers.

The current series of books features the likenesses of Ryan Hershman as "Horrid Henry," Taylor Crabtree as the "Nose Picker From Outer Space," Kelly Taylor as "Lab Coat Girl," Wayne Moyer as her assistant, and Evan Lance as "Funny Boy." The books are published by Hyperion Paperbacks For Children, a division of Disney Publishing. Stutzman will autograph the covers of the books that will be offered for sale.

A double Christmas tree lighting will take place right after dark with the Oakland Christmas tree in the pocket park lighted simultaneously with the 110-foot Nor-

ROTARY CHRISTMAS PROJECT UNDER WAY - The Oakland Rotary Christmas Project provides several avenues for persons who would like to participate in making this holiday season special for local children in need. Rotarian Ken Perrin, Oakland's postmaster, is shown above with the Rotary tree that stands in the lobby of the Oakland Post Office. Located throughout the county at sites that will be listed in next week's issue of The Republican, the Rotary trees are decorated with cards that list a child's name and requested gift. Interested persons are asked to take a card, buy the gift, and return it to the tree by Wednesday, Dec. 15. Other assistance is needed from people willing to help with the preparation of gifts and food baskets at the National Guard Armory in Oakland on Friday, Dec. 17, or in "playing Santa" by distributing gifts and food baskets to homes around the county the following day. Persons may call Kathy Zimmermen at 301-334-2820 or Doug Riley at 301-334-9796 for information. Tax-deductible contributions to the Rotary Christmas Project may be mailed to the Oakland Rotary Club, P.O. Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550.

Helicopter Takes MVA Victims To Ruby Memorial

Motor vehicle accidents in Garrett County on November 11 and 13 resulted in serious injuries that required helicopter transport to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va.

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, responded to a single-vehicle accident on Saturday, Nov. 13, at 8:42 p.m. on Bethlehem Road, west of Eagle Rock Road. Tfc. Glenn Seaman, assisted by reconstructionist Tfc. Robert Sharp, investigated the scene and reported that a 1994 Ford Explorer, operated by Thomas J. Meyers, 27, Oakland, was westbound on Bethlehem Road when he allegedly swerved to avoid a deer. The vehicle then traveled off the left side of the road, skidded sideways, and subsequently overturned, the report said.

Police charged Meyers with negligent driving and for driving while intoxicated. Meyers and a passenger in the vehicle, Jerry R. Parrish, 55, Mtn. Lake Park, were taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment. Meyers was treated and released and Parrish was flown to Ruby Memorial Hospital. As of this morning, the hospital spokesman reported Parrish to be in serious condition.

A two-vehicle accident on Underwood Road on Thursday, Nov. 11, at 5:50 p.m. was investigated by

Blaze Damages Friendsville Area Dwelling

Investigation continues by the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office into the cause of a fire that damaged a Friendsville area house Friday evening.

Some 40 volunteer fire fighters from Friendsville, Accident, and Addison VFDs responded to the home of Donna Fisher, located along Teets Road north of Friendsville, at 8:29 p.m. Ms. Fisher was not at home at the time, and the fire was reported by a neighbor.

The blaze was brought under control in about 15 minutes, but a portion of the two-story wood-frame structure collapsed into the basement. Investigators estimated the damages to be $75,000. There were no injuries reported.

Also responding to the scene were the county air cascade vehicle, housed at the Deep Creek VFC, the Northern Rescue Squad, and the Maryland State Police. The last fire unit cleared the scene at 10:50 p.m.

Ms. Fisher is reportedly residing with family members.

Little Sandy's Site Of Felony Theft, Burglary

Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack, responded to a reported incident of burglary/felony theft on Monday, Nov. 15, at Little Sandy's Restaurant, located at the intersection of Route 219 and Sand Flat Road.

Tfc. Clapper reported that his investigation revealed that the suspect, Andrew R. Gardea, 18, Friendsville, allegedly broke into the restaurant and stole the cash register, the cash inside the register, and 14 packs of cigarettes.

Within a few hours, police contacted the suspect at the home of friends. Gardea was found to possess the stolen items. He was arrested and charged. Police said Gardea gave a full confession and advised that he committed the burglary and theft to use the money to bail his brother out of jail.

Three Separate Vehicle Collisions Result In Injuries

Between November 12 and 15, Oakland Police responded to three motor vehicle accidents which resulted in injuries requiring hospital treatment.

Three passengers were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad after a three-car accident occurred Monday, Nov. 15, in the eastbound lane of traffic on Oak Street near the Get 'N' Go, Oakland.

According to the report filed by John Sines, Oakland chief of police, the 9:26 a.m. collision began when Arlie Hinebaugh, 73, Deer Park, struck the rear end of a Ford Explorer driven by Freda Lee, 65, Swanton, with his Jeep Cherokee. The vehicle driven by Lee was then allegedly pushed into the back of a Dodge Caravan driven by Jon Thayer, 53, Swanton.

Freda Lee and two passengers in Lee's vehicle, John L. Lee, 69, and Wanda Green, 51, were sent to the hospital, where they were treated and released.

Hinebaugh was charged with following a vehicle too closely. The Oakland VFD also responded to the scene.

Another collision occurred Saturday, Nov. 13, at 12:08 p.m. at the intersection of First and Center streets.

According to the police report, a Chevrolet pick-up truck driven by David Scott, 52, Oakland, was traveling westbound on Center Street when it was struck in the passenger door by a vehicle driven by a juvenile. The juvenile was reportedly

Commissioners Meet With Hafer, Edwards To Discuss Legislation

Code home rule, a property tax exemption, grand jury process changes, and Deep Creek Lake management issues are among the legislative topics presented by the Garrett County commissioners Tuesday to Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer. The meeting was a preamble to the 2000 session of the Maryland General Assembly, which will commence in January.

This was the first of public legislative meetings to be held with Hafer and Edwards. The two lawmakers will host their annual public legislative meeting on Saturday, Dec. 11, at 10 a.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium.

Code Home Rule

The commissioners asked Edwards and Hafer to introduce legislation that will allow Garrett County to adopt the "code home rule" form of county government.

"We want to be very clear about this," said Chairman Ernest Gregg. "This is not the same as charter home rule, which was voted down by the county a few years ago. Code home rule will allow us to make some decisions locally that right now have to go through legislation."

Gregg gave the example of a previous board of commissioners who wished to change the public weekly meeting from Mondays to Tuesdays.

"We couldn't do it ourselves. That simple change had to go through legislation and we weren't able to make the change officially until the following summer," Gregg said.

Currently, Allegany County operates with code home rule, as do several Eastern Shore counties. Hafer said the code home rule counties abide by specific guidelines that delineate which issues are local and which are not. Edwards said in a later interview that he generally supports the code home rule idea, again citing the example Gregg mentioned.

"Passing legislation can be costly, and people up here have to travel all the way to Annapolis to testify. There's a down side to every form of government, but I think code home rule for Garrett County makes sense," Edwards said.

The legislation to be introduced by the delegation will simply give the commissioners the authority to bring the issue to referendum. The actual change from the present form of government to code home rule must be voted on by the citizenry.

"We want to make it clear, too, that this will not cost the county like the charter home rule vote," Commissioner Wendell Beitzel noted. "If the legis-

County Web Site Includes Agenda Of Commissioners

The weekly public meeting agenda of the Garrett County commissioners, as well as the approved minutes from prior meetings, is being posted weekly on the county Internet web site. The web site address is www.co.garrett.md.us.

The commissioners are utilizing Internet services to provide residents with documentation of official action taken, as well as to inform and allow the public to provide comment on issues to be addressed during the public session, according to Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator. The commissioners hold a regular public meeting each Tuesday.

The county's web site includes a complete directory of county government offices and services. For more information about the county's site, persons may contact Pagenhardt at 301-334-8970.

A VALIANT EFFORT by the Northern High School Huskies came up just short in Saturday's narrow 21-13 loss to visiting Elkton in the opening round of Maryland's Class 1A football playoffs. The difference was closer than the one-touchdown margin would indicate as the previously unbeaten Huskies, coming off the school's first perfect regular season in 25 years, dominated the battle in most major statistical areas. NHS runner Mark Wolf (#32) is shown above cutting upfield, about to go head-to-head with a Golden Elk defender in hot pursuit. Wolf's teammates in the photo, from the left, are quarterback Adam Brenneman (#12), running backs Rob Dozier (#23) and Marcus Rugg (#7), and guard Toby Gilpin (#79). "Being part of the 1999 Northern Huskies is something each player can remember for the rest of his life," commented Northern head coach Phil Carr. Photo by John McEwen

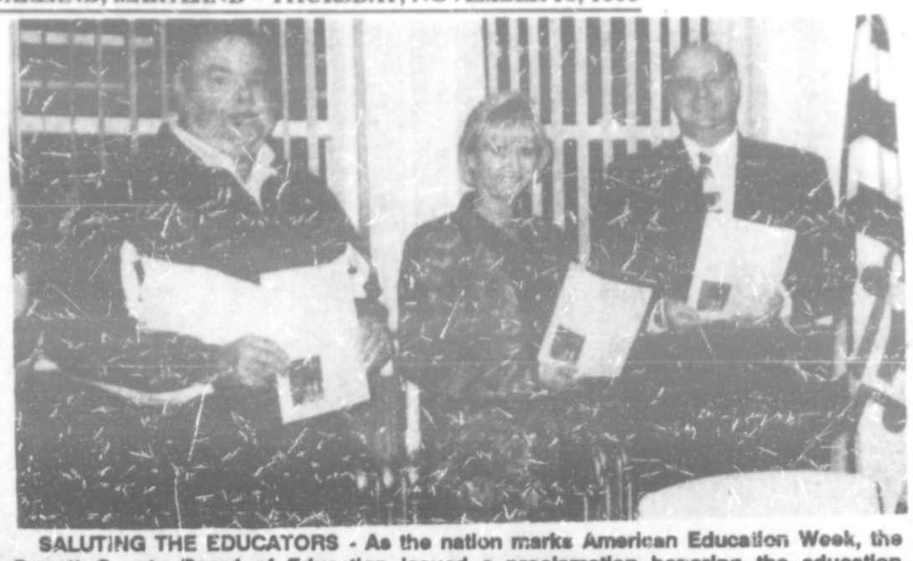
GOBA To Meet Quarterly, To Expand Marketing



The Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) regular monthly meeting was held Tuesday evening, and members made some notable decisions, according to Glenn Tolbert, Oakland Main Street manager. The group members have decided to put increased emphasis on broadening their marketing efforts, Tolbert reported, by utilizing the Internet. They also voted to change the meeting schedule.

Members voted to drop the format of monthly meetings in favor of quarterly membership gatherings, at which featured guests will speak on timely topics of interest to the retail community. This week's guest was David Lee, the general manager of GCNET, who presented arguments to the membership to develop a strong Internet presence. Lee noted that the recent Autumn Glory Festival web page received more than 4,000 hits, 60 of which were from Europe.

"The Internet should not be viewed as a threat to retailers, but rather as an opportunity," Lee said. He advised the retailers to quickly develop web sites aimed at Garrett County residents so that they will be more competitive in an economy that will soon include a Super Wal-Mart, to be built at the northern end of Oakland.

The next general GOBA membership meeting is scheduled for Feb. 15. A speaker with expertise in competing with mega-retailers and doing business on the Internet is to be featured.

The restructured meeting schedule and more careful planning of the agenda is designed to increase member attendance at GOBA sessions. The day-to-day efforts of the organization will be handled, in part, by the committees formed under the Oakland Main Street Program.

SALUTING THE EDUCATORS - As the nation marks American Education Week, the Garrett County Board of Education issued a proclamation honoring the education employees who "strive continually to serve our children and our communities with dedication, professionalism, and compassion." Copies of the proclamation, which states "There is no greater legacy than the sound education of our children," were signed by board members, and will hang in the entry area of each county school. In the photo above, from left, are Joe Heatherman of the Garrett County Federation of Teachers, Mary Ann Fink, vice president of the Garrett County Education Association, and Jim Raley, president of the board of education, displaying the signed proclamations.

Police Launch Operation ABC For Holiday

In an attempt to reduce injuries to children resulting from automobile accidents, the nationwide effort known as Operation ABC (Americans Buckle up Children) began in 1997.

Spurred by the national increase in child restraint use and significant drop in child fatalities in the two years since the mobilizations began, the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack, will participate in the next 50-state crackdown on drivers with unbuckled children.

"Starting on November 22 and continuing through the Thanksgiving weekend, our troopers will be looking for and ticketing 'deadbeat' drivers," said Lt. W.J. Lucas, McHenry barrack commander. "These are adults who, regardless of the widespread attention to child passenger safety, are still putting children at deadly risk by failing to properly buckle them in the back seat," he explained.

Transportation officials credited the mobilization projects with helping to move the nation toward its goal of decreasing child fatalities by 15 percent by the year 2000, a police department spokesman said. Since the crackdowns began two years ago, restraint use by children ages 1-4 has increased from 60 to 87 percent, and child fatalities have dropped by 12.3 percent, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

"Despite the dramatic increase in child restraint use and subsequent drop in child fatalities, we still have work to do," said Janet Dewey, executive director of the Air Bag and Seat Belt Safety Campaign. "Deadbeat drivers who fail to take responsibility for protecting their child passengers are still placing millions of children at deadly risk every day," she stated.

Traffic crashes remain the leading cause of death for children of all races ages 5-14. Nearly six out of 10 children who die in crashes are unbuckled. Of those, nearly half would be alive today if an adult had made sure they were buckled up. In Maryland, 25 were killed in crashes and 14 were unrestrained in 1998, the spokesman noted.

"Today we are calling on our entire community to adopt zero tolerance for unbuckled children," said Lt. Lucas. "No one should look the other way when they see a child at risk. Everyone must make sure their relatives, neighbors, and friends know that letting a child ride unbuckled — no matter how short the ride — is always life threatening and never worth the risk," he emphasized.

Maryland child passenger law requires that children under age 4 or weighing 40 pounds or less be properly secured in a child safety seat. Children under age 16 must be secured in a safety seat or seat belt. In addition, the Maryland seat belt law requires that the driver and outboard front seat passenger be restrained by a seat belt regardless of age.

The agency will also be stepping up enforcement of adult seat belt laws, because, according the MSP spokesman, statistically most adults who don't buckle up themselves don't buckle up children. He said that researchers have found that buckled drivers are three times more likely to restrain their child passengers than drivers who don't buckle up.

"Motorists who don't wear seat belts are statistically more likely to be seriously injured or killed in a traffic crash. During this Thanksgiving holiday they will also be more likely to get a ticket," Lt. Lucas concluded.

In partnership with law enforcement and state highway safety offices, the Operation ABC Mobilization is sponsored by the Air Bag and Seat Belt Safety Campaign and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, and is a part of Buckle up America, an ongoing national initiative to increase belt use in an effort to save lives.

Rev. Carlson Marks 50 Years Since Ordination

The congregations that compose the Accident Evangelical Lutheran Parish recently held a joint homecoming service to honor Rev. William E. Carlson Jr., Pastor Emeritus, on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of his ordination.

Rev. Roland E. Nairn III was presiding minister at the service for members of St. John's Church in the Cove, Grace Church, Friendsville, and St. Paul's, Accident. Preacher for the celebration service was Bishop Ralph Dunkin of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod ELCA, and Vicar Doug Knupp served as assistant minister.

Rev. Carlson, one of two sons of W. Edwin Carlson and Esther N. Carlson, was born on April 2, 1918, in Jamestown, N.Y. He was baptized May 5 of the same year in Immanuel Lutheran Church in Jamestown, where he was confirmed April 10, 1932.

A 1935 graduate of Lakewood High School, Lakewood, Ohio, Rev. Carlson attended Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, 1936-1937. He then held several jobs in Cleveland, where he was employed until 1942. That same year, he received his B.A. degree in economics from Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

Following his graduation, Rev. Carlson was married to Eleanor Louise Albers in Trinity Lutheran Church in Lakewood. The couple have three children, Christine L. Johnson, Richard W. Carlson, and Barbara Chilcote; four grandchildren, William E. Johnson, Stacy Renee Carlson, Stephen Chilcote Jr., and Edward Chilcote; and two great-grandchildren, Jillian and Gwyneth Darby Chilcote.

In December of 1942 Rev. Carlson entered the United States Army and served until 1946. He also continued to pursue his studies at the University of Dijon, Dijon, France, and at Gettysburg College. He received his B.D. degree from the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, in 1949, the same year in which he began his ministry in the Accident parish, and was ordained by the Synod of West Virginia.

As a result of an eye infection received in the service, Rev. Carlson lost the central vision in both eyes by 1954 and was declared legally blind and 100 percent disabled by the VA in 1988.

As pastor, serving the churches of the Accident Lutheran Parish for 35 years, Rev. Carlson ministered to three or four generations, performing 415 marriages, 345 baptisms, and 260 confirmations. The Accident Parish bestowed the honorary title of Pastor Emeritus in 1989 on his 40th anniversary of ordination.

Rev. Carlson has held many positions in the old West Virginia Synod and the Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Synod, including serving in the Lutheran Campus Ministry of both synods, on the executive board of both synods, and for 10 years on the board of directors of Gettsyburg Seminary.

Community activities in which Rev. Carlson was involved during the past 50 years include serving as chairman of the Accident Municipal Planning Commission for 30 years; being a founding member and president of the Accident Community Health Board and the Accident Community Housing Corporation, and founding member and chairman of the finance committee for restoration of the Drane House.

He chaired Accident's World War II commemorative committee and Accident's Fourth of July Homecoming steering committee. Rev. Carlson served as chaplain to Accident's Crime Watch and the American Legion Post 208, where he is a life member.

In addition, Rev. Carlson is a life member of the Disabled American Veterans and of the Blinded Veterans Association. He was actively involved in the PTA, Boy Scout Troop 208, the advisory committee for establishing Garrett Community College, and the Mtn. Top Ministerial Association. He also serves as chairman of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society.

In 1974, the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland Inc. presented Rev. Carlson with a Certificate for Outstanding Service in recognition of a dedicated effort leading to the betterment of the western Maryland community.

He received the Deep Creek District Award for distinguished service to the Boy Scouts of America in 1979 and was the first recipient of the Accident Community Volunteer of the Year Award in 1991.

Pastor Carlson was chosen as Garrett County's selection in Maryland's "Most Beautiful Person" contest in 1992, sponsored by Gov. Wm. Donald Schaefer to recognize and encourage volunteerism.

He received a National Guard Certificate of Appreciation for initiating the effort to have the town of Accident recognized as a World War II community, and involving Co. C, 121st Engineering Bn. as Accident's Military Counterpart.

lation passes, we will place the referendum on the ballot of the General Election next year. It won't be a special election that costs $20 or 30,000."

With code home rule, the county would still have three commissioners and one county administrator, the officials said. The only change will be the county's authority to make some local decisions without having to pursue state legislation.

Grand Jury

In response to public input over the years, the commissioners are pursuing a change in the way the Garrett County Grand Jury operates. The jury, which consists of local persons summoned to serve, meets in September and March. The members tour county facilities and meet with the commissioners. They then compile a report that contains their observations and recommendations. The jury also can indict persons on criminal charges.

The commissioners wish to alter the operation of the jury by discontinuing the touring process. Gregg said the group's recommendations are not binding in any way, and county officials can either follow the recommendations or ignore them.

"It just seems like a waste of time and money to conduct these tours when there is nothing binding in the report," the chairman said. The commissioners noted that the public has over the years voiced complaints about the process, which takes the jury members away from their jobs for several days.

Hafer said the grand jury system is an integral part of the state's government and that it may not be possible to change that. But Gregg reiterated that the only change sought by the commissioners is the discontinuation of the biannual tours. The jury would still be available for certain county issues, and could still return indictments when necessary.

Edwards said it would be helpful to investigate how other counties operate their grand juries in order to draft the legislation, and the commissioners agreed.

Deep Creek Lake

As the negotiations continue on the sale of Deep Creek Lake, the commissioners have voiced their concern that the county could be overlooked in the final decision-making process. In light of that, they asked Edwards and Hafer to introduce legislation that would, by law, give the county authority over the management of the lake. Specifically, the commissioners wish to have the power to appoint a local advisory board that will have consenting authority. This board would partner with the Department of Natural Resources.

"In order to make sure that this resource we have can be managed and used to the best interest of Garrett Countians, we need to have an understanding that the county will have meaningful local control," Beitzel said.

Details of the status of the sale have not been made public, although Edwards said that the mone-

Town Hall at 7:00 p.m. After his visit and treat for the children, an old-fashioned hay ride will carry carolers throughout the town. Children under 12 who wish to participate in the hay ride must be accompanied by an adult.

"Let's remember that this is a time of sharing. Nothing would make our local elderly, sick, and homebound residents happier than to have a child or grown-up remember them this holiday season with a small gift, baked goods, fruit, or a short visit. Of course, caroling is always a spirit raiser," said Friendsville mayor Spencer R. Schlosnagle.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by one brother, Michael A. DeWitt, Oakland; one half-sister, Kristy Lynn Meadows, Oakland; paternal grandparents, Maxwell and Gloria DeWitt, Oakland; and maternal grandparents, James and Lula Weeks, Oakland.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, where a service was conducted Tuesday, Nov. 16, with the Rev. Wally Weeks officiating. Interment was in the Pleasant Valley Cemetery.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to the Southern Rescue Squad or the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

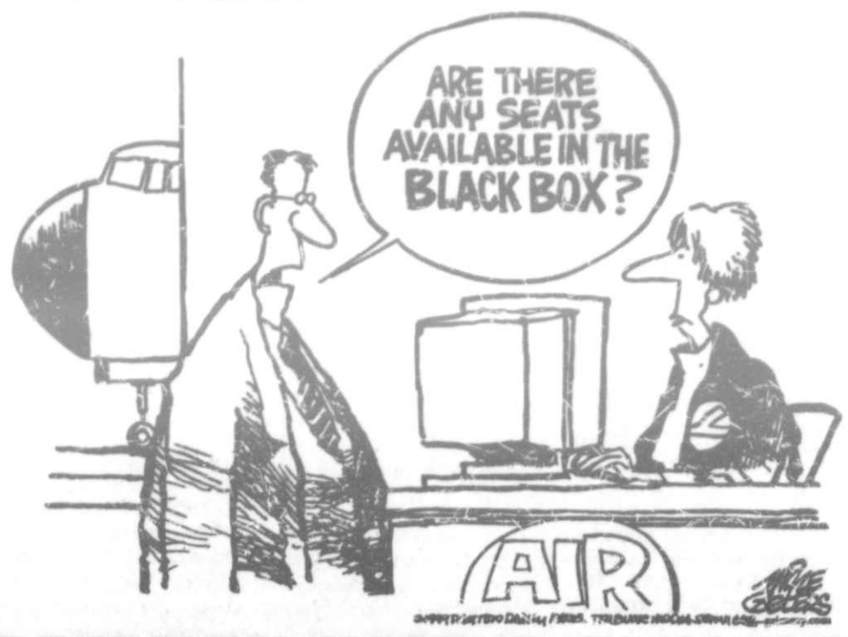
Four Out of Five...

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners met with Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer this week to request the filing of several pieces of legislation in the 2000 General Assembly, about which we would like to offer some first-impression comments.

One of the more significant requests is for legislation to permit a referendum to try to change our form of local government to code home rule. Unlike charter home rule, which would basically do away with county commissioners and replace them with a county administrator and an advisory board (the proposal for this failed by referendum a number of years ago), code home rule does not do away with the commissioner form of government. It simply provides more autonomy from the state in the decision-making process. For example, under the current system, if the county commissioners wish to change their meeting date from Tuesday to Monday, it takes state legislation to do so, which is ridiculous. Our first impression is that we support this request.

Another request we like is to do away with our present grand jury system, which we recommended a number of months ago (after this writer spent two days as a member of that particular body). Yes, we need a grand jury to summon on an as-needed basis. But we do not need for one to meet twice each year to listen to agency heads, tour county buildings, and make recommendations to which no one is required to respond. It is a waste of money and a huge waste of valuable time.



We think we like the idea of establishing a local advisory board that will have consent authority on future decisions concerning Deep Creek Lake, which is another of the commissioners' request. However, we would not like to see such a board involved in the day-to-day, micro-management of the lake. It could be a nightmare for such a board, and thus it should be empowered to have consent authority only on the big issues.

We also support the request to permit deferral or abatement of property taxes on agricultural properties, which would be an incentive for the continued operation of family farms. The nation's farmlands are disappearing, which could ultimately have catastrophic consequences. Agriculture is still among the top "industries" in the county, and we should do whatever we can to assist our local farmers.

Finally, one request that we consider ludicrous, a waste of money (anywhere from $500 to $3,000), and nothing but political grandstanding by the commissioners is to make it law that the Ruth Enlow Library board of directors cannot ever, ever change the name of the library. When this was suggested by the library board members earlier this year, the reaction would make one think that they were seeking the authority to execute people in the streets. The commissioners, who did receive a number of calls, jumped into the act, and the library board ultimately backed down. The issue is over. The board has no plans to change the name, and any future board will undoubtedly get the same response from concerned citizens if it makes a similar suggestion. There is no need for such a law.

And these same commissioners, who exerted such arm-wrong tactics against the volunteer library directors and basically vilified them, quickly step aside when it comes to talking about salaries and benefits for the library employees, which are well below those of other comparable county employees. "They are not county employees," is the response. "This is your problem, library directors. (Just don't ever again consider changing the name.)" Interesting.

Anyway, gentlemen, we appreciate your proactive efforts to make some needed improvements, and your utilization of our state representatives. Four out of five "ain't bad."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Whoever was responsible for poisoning our beagle dogs in McHenry, between Hoyes Rd. and 219, we hope God has mercy on your soul, because you surely don't have a heart for a human being. It really makes you stop and think of what sick people you really have living around you.

To the Editor:

My name is Amber Hansen and I am a sixth grader at Palombi Middle School in Lake Villa, Illinois. My mass communications class is writing to editors from newspapers across the country in hopes of getting published, and this is why I am writing to you.

Deforestation is a big problem in the world. Millions of trees get cut down every day. There could be cures for diseases out in the rainforest, but people are still cutting the rainforests down. There could even be a cure for cancer in the rainforest.

Sincerely,
Amber Hansen

To the Editor:

I'd like to extend my compliments to three outstanding creative writers whose work regularly graces the pages of The Republican: Mary McEwen, Jeffrey Wilson, and David Foster. In last week's edition, each of these writers shared thoughts on the sacred mystery of life.

Mr. Wilson suggested the possibility "that all of God's creatures participate in each other's lives." Ms. McEwen celebrated "moments of being thrust up into the air like an autumn leaf and looking down on what's really there." Mr. Foster described Tibetan prayer cloths symbolizing "prayers destined for the spirit world, borne upon winds that constantly rake the plateau." All three wrote well of the inevitability of change, of the pain of loss, of beauty and truth in everyday life.

Writing such as this has inspired the Garrett County Arts Council to invite submissions of poetry and creative prose for publication consideration in our annual literary magazine. The submission deadline for our 2000 edition is Monday, Nov. 22. Submission guidelines appear in this issue of The Republican.

Sincerely,
Steve Schlosnagle

To the Editor:

The greatest fallacy in the thinking of the small handful of vocal citizens who want countywide zoning in Garrett County is believing that zoning is a synonym for land "protection." A perfect example of what zoning is really all about is found in an article published in the Baltimore Sun November 7, 1999.

The article is titled "Kent County board backs asphalt plant." It goes on to say that, while neighbors fear that an asphalt plant would harm the environment, the zoning law was amended to permit it, and the reason was that the contractor gave each commissioner $100 for his political campaign. A very cheap price for the payoff of a zoning change.

Zoning "protects" nothing. It is a power ploy so that a handful of people on a board control the land. The landowner, who bought the land and pays taxes on it, has one more "board" to contend with when the landowner wants to do something with his land.

Garrett County has enough regulations on the land. Areas of growth are already zoned. There are wetland regulations, subdivision regulations, health department regulations for septic and water systems, regulations for roads and ditching, building regulations, permit regulations for tax purposes, and on and on. It is safe to say that those who want more regulations have little land to regulate, but would like the power of the large landowner!

If there is a large landowner who wants zoning, it would be wise to look at Allegany County's regulations that have caused the price of surveying to go from a reasonable several hundred dollars into the thousands because land division of any kind is a subdivision and subject to subdivision regulations unless it is a contiguous lot where no building will occur.

I would suggest Garrett County leave well enough alone and if the pressure is coming from the state, since Garrett County is the last holdout in the state for countywide zoning, this pressure is usually caused by some state agency holding out some money "if" the county complies with what the state wants. A very simple way to handle that is to "just say no." "No," we don't want your money, and "no," you're not going to control our land!

To the Editor:

I read your editorial of October 21 with great interest. God has greatly blessed us with advanced knowledge and accomplishments. I remember the early days of the radio. Today everyone is a number in a computer with all of your personal records accessible to the government. This advanced technology can be a blessing or a curse. With the regime that is in Washington, D.C., the indication is that it is not for good. Prosperity is dimming people's judgment. Let us not overlook the fact that, along with the prosperity we now enjoy, God is being left out. This world is becoming a dangerous place to live. Crime, drugs, immorality, traitorous government leadership, and political wars. The United Nations would like to disarm the citizens of the world and make the USA a state in the one-world government and exercise the powers of the UN above our constitution. Our president is leading us in that direction as fast as he can. Please note that where there is sin there will be suffering.

We live in a post-Christian society that has abandoned Biblical standards. People no longer consider immorality wrong. If people have positive attitudes in their lives, any immorality they may commit does not negatively impact their image. There have been 881,590 U.S. military casualties in all wars from 1775 to 1973, 198 years. From 1973 to 1997 there have been approximately 37,000,000 abortions. In 24 years there have been approximately 42 times as many innocent, helpless babies murdered as all U.S. military casualties in all American wars in 198 years. Shame on a so-called Christian nation.

God does not look lightly on these things. Maybe the good old days in light of ethics were better than we think. Please see Readers Corner, a paid ad in this week's Republican.

I remember when people made their way and helped other people without liberal government and governmental interference. Sunday morning church attendance, where salvation by merits of Jesus was preached, was the norm. Sunday afternoon was set aside for dinner and fellowship with families and friends. Our family rarely missed a Sunday being at our friends' homes or having a friend come to dinner. These are things that made the old days good, and still would if practiced. If our nation would control our knowledge with wisdom and keep the faith of our forefathers, this nation would always be the greatest. God has pronounced great blessings for Christian nations, as well as devastating curses. Please read Deuteronomy Ch. 13. I want that kind of blessing.

Respectfully,
Homer Mellott

To the Editor:

While I was driving home from work late the other night, Rt. 219 was quiet. It felt as if I were the only person on the road. I drove peacefully past fields that were harvested, and fields yet full of corn. I drove past houses with no lights on, and houses with one or two lights on. My mind was in a peaceful state, and I allowed it to wonder.

I began to wonder about the families in the those homes. Was there love, support, and growth in that nice home with the paved driveway, and well-kept yard? I drove past small trailers worn through time, and farm houses down a gravel road away from the main road. Was there peace at home tonight? I wondered how many of the homes I drove past lacked the love and support needed for a healthy family. How many homes tonight were like a living hell because of abuse in the home? Physical abuse of hitting, and punching her, or was she shoved across the room? How many women were held down, or had their hair pulled tonight? In how many homes tonight were there young children in the next room listening to the verbal abuse? How many children tonight saw daddy hurt their mommy? I wondered how many memories of abuse were created in these young children's minds tonight?

How could he do this? He was supposed to love them. I'm sure he tells them he does, but they made him mad, they made him do it. If she would have had dinner ready on time. If she would have been off of the phone when he tried to call and check up on her. Maybe if she could be a better wife, or just try harder to please him.

I think about the cowards tonight who blame the abuse on her, or use another excuse such as a "bad day." I think about how each person chooses whether or not to use physical or verbal abuse to solve other problems.

Then I thought about the victims in my hometown. They could be the family next door. The lady in the organization I volunteer with. They could be the preacher's family, the policeman's family, the teacher, the social worker, the welfare family, the rich family. They could be my sister, or my mother. The victim could be me.

My thoughts then changed to how would I get help for myself. I remembered reading several articles about the Dove Center last month. I then wondered what if the walls at the Dove Center could talk. Would they tell us about the lives that were saved by its love and protection? Would the walls cry for all the people yet being abused?

I then remembered back to last year when the Dove Center itself suffered from financial difficulties. I am concerned for the families in Garrett County. I intend on making prevention of domestic violence my business. I encourage every one of your readers to rally again this year to help the Dove Center. I called the Dove Center at 334-9000 and asked for a mailing address so I can mail the center a check. I encourage you as well to support this organization. The mailing address is 12978 Garrett Highway, Suite 201, Oakland, MD 21550.

To the Editor:

Over 125 animals were spayed, neutered, or medically cared for with the proceeds from the "Christmas in July" fund-raiser for the Garrett County Humane Society, Inc., coordinated by Gayle and Dick Miller.

By now the money is all gone, as is most of the grant money from the county commissioners and county administrator. (This is used only for spay/neuter).

We have constant calls asking for help. We are now in the position where we again need help from businesses, organizations, and county residents. We are grateful to all those who have supported us in the past, and we pray they will continue to do so.

Donations go so fast, and this year is one of the hardest. People who have had animals for years no longer want them, when an animal gets old some people do not want to care for them, people who do not own homes are evicted and cannot take their animal(s) with them, and many who do not spay their females end up with many puppies and kittens. We have garage sales, 50-50 raffles, banks in business places, and we are grateful to all who support us, but we need so much more.

We not only spay/neuter and provide medical care, but we lend dog and cat shelters, fencing, food, and bedding for caring owners who get in a financial bind.

How can we refuse to help innocent animals?

All of our members have taken in numerous animals from abusive situations, and our foster homes are full. We also provide medical care for animals in foster homes.

Our biggest expense recently was the $450-plus for the St. Bernard Missy rescued by Dr. James Fearer (Humane Society member and field veterinarian for the Dept. of Agriculture), Officer Charles Nolan with the Garrett County Sheriff's Dept., and myself. This animal was at least 100 pounds underweight and needed much medical care. She is now doing fine and with a loving family.

Another large expense was $296 for a very sick animal that lived only four days.

One cannot imagine the horrors that some animals in Garrett County endure. We have dogs in this county tied by the neck that never get loose. Can you imagine the torture they endure? When asked if these animals are ever walked or let loose, the answer is always yes, and when we watch and ask neighbors we know we have been lied to.

We cannot do all that is necessary to care for these animals on our own. We need help badly.

Thank you who help for caring and helping the innocent animals in Garrett County. No monies donated are used for salaries or our personal pets. Any veterinarian can verify this. Any donations given to big organizations are used for salaries, etc.

I was told the president of one big so-called organization lives in a million-dollar residence. When I called for help, I was informed they could not help legally or financially. (What happens to this money?) In Garrett County, you know!

Remember it is also mandatory to have rabies

A NEW SONG

Jan Karon has given us the fifth in a series of seven novels about Father Timothy Kavanagh, A New Song. Prior to this novel, I would have said the novels were about Fr. Kavanagh and the town of Mitford. In this latest work, Jan Karon has her Episcopal priest leave Mitford in the mountains for a barrier island.

Fr. Kavanagh has retired, after all. His bishop has found a means to extricate him from the daily affairs of his parish and, at the same time, to keep him from going crazy. Among other achievements, Jan Karon has captured the American church of the '90s, complete with interim ministries, the Internet, and the blurring of denominational lines.

There are few tasks more difficult for the novelist than to create a character who can stand up under public scrutiny of several novels. Such a character tends to become either static or superhuman.

Ms. Karon has captured human beings on her pages in a way that sets them free. Fr. Kavanagh did not marry until late in life (and the beginning of the second novel, if I remember correctly). He and his bride age gracefully through late middle age, though like all other Americans they are victims of trifling vanity.

A New Song is, in one sense, a novel about coming to terms with what happens after late middle age and what one can still become in that period of life we call "retirement." The persistent message which Ms. Karon weaves into her novel is that it is never too late to begin.

A New Song is, like its four predecessors, a Christian novel. Among the many volumes published in that genre during the past decades Jan Karon is almost unique in that she somehow manages to escape preachiness.

That absence is all the more remarkable since her hero is a preacher, and at the end of this novel he delivers a sermon. The reason that this series of novels and even the sermon of the preacher are not preachy is that they express the Christian message at its best: simple, direct, and true.

That such novels can find their way onto the New York Times bestseller list in the secular city that America has become is nothing short of astounding.

All in all, the Mitford novels have become progressively and more explicitly theological. My guess is that such a development mirrors the reading and growth of the author. I found myself wondering, whether after the completion of her last book in this series, we can expect a volume or two of devotional theology from Ms. Karon's pen.

If Ms. Karon adds such work to the corpus of her fictional work, she will take a place with Dorothy L. Sayers as a writer of both popular fiction and serious devotional theology. It is a development to be wished for.

A New Song is a delight and a refreshment. Whether a reader's personal taste runs to William Faulkner or Danielle Steele, Jan Karon offers a view of America in its early post-modern period which deserves our attention.

For those who have read none of her other books, I suggest beginning at the beginning with At Home in Mitford, though each of her novels stands alone. The pleasure of reading them is increased by reading them in order.

I confess that I continue to be surprised at how much I like these books. To begin with, Episcopalianism is my least favorite form of Christianity. Further, Fr. Tim Kavanagh is, in many ways, the wimp that typifies clergy identity no matter what the denomination.

His attractiveness as a character arises from the ways that his wimpiness is transcended. Perhaps in the end, the reason that Fr. Tim wins our hearts is that the message transforms the messenger. He is what every minister and every Christian should be: a window through which the light of Christ shines.

Two Injured In Monday Mishap On Hutton Rd.

Two people were treated for injuries following a Monday evening accident along Hutton Road that involved three vehicles, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

The mishap occurred when a Toyota Corolla operated by Alice Jane Bell, 62, Crellin, was attempting to make a left-hand turn off Hutton Road. Sheriff's deputies said that Bell failed to yield right of way and pulled into the path of a Suzuki Samurai operated by Kenneth Grant Hardesty, 24, Oakland. Hardesty's vehicle struck Bell's car, and the glancing blow carried the Samurai across the centerline and into the path of a Ford Escort operated by Joseph Alvin Paugh, 20, Aurora, W.Va., which was behind Bell's Toyota.

Hardesty and a passenger in Paugh's Ford, Junior Lee Guthrie, 41, Hutton, were both transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where both where treated and released. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

The sheriff's office has charged Bell with failure to yield right of way when making a left turn.

New Arrivals

Twins, a son and a daughter, were born on November 9 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to Matthew S. and Amy Wagner Friend, Mtn. Lake Park.

Adorable Adoptables

SHOWING THEIR BEST SIDES, these current guests of the Garrett County Animal Shelter are among those looking for new homes. The 14-month-old female yellow Lab shown above is short on hair and long on love, and the 7-year-old brown-gold Cocker Spaniel shown below is a male who is described as a "real people lover." The animal shelter, located along Oakland Sang Run Road, is open weekdays and may be contacted by dialing 301-334-3553.

fined for failure to stop at a stop sign. He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad, where her was treated and released.

A two-vehicle accident on Friday, Nov. 12, resulted in four injured persons, according to the police report filed by Pfc. S. Fratz.

At 1:40 p.m., a Chevrolet Nova driven by Stanley Tasker, 56, Mtn. Lake Park, was allegedly rear-ended by the vehicle of Ryan Sines, 22, Friendsville. According to Pfc. Fratz's report, Tasker was just starting to accelerate in the southbound lane of Third Street after being stopped for a red light. Sines reportedly failed to reduce his speed and hit the back of Tasker's vehicle. Sines was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

Three passengers in Tasker's vehicle, Terri Tasker, 12, Sharon Bosley, 44, and Antonio Peilot, 55, were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad. John Friend, 22, a passenger in Sines's vehicle, was also taken to the hospital. The patients were then treated and released.

The Maryland State Police assisted at the scene.

Commissioners

tary portion of the process "has been agreed to." As for the suggested legislation, both Hafer and Edwards seemed hesitant to support the idea. Both appeared confident that the county's interests have been and continue to be considered in the negotiations, and that the formation of a local advisory board would be logical. However, to seek legislation on the control issue before all portions of the sale are finalized could be difficult and perhaps detrimental to the sale process, they cautioned.

At the time of the final agreement, the commissioners will be required to sign off on the document, as the local government must approve any sale of land to the state that exceeds 100 acres.

"We really want to avoid getting to the signing stage and being presented with something we simply can't sign," Gregg said.

Edwards advised the men to wait until Dec. 10, when they and the current lake advisory group are scheduled to meet with Sarah Taylor-Rogers, the DNR secretary.

"I think we can come to an understanding on this issue, possibly without legislation," Edwards said.

Ag Land Tax Deferral

The authority to defer or abate real property taxes for agriculture landowners is being sought by the commissioners. The plan, compiled and recommended by the Garrett County Planning Commission, would benefit those farmers already participating in the Maryland Agriculture Land Preservation Program. The program is intended to stimulate more participation in the state's program, thereby helping to preserve the county's farm land and farming heritage.

The commissioners seek to establish a tax deferral program for district properties and a tax credit program on easement properties. To qualify for these local benefits, the landowner must qualify and participate in the state's program. The proposed local program would be set up as follows:

If a property is approved as an agricultural preservation district under the state's program, the property owners would be eligible to apply for a tax deferral equalling 100% of any county real estate tax on agriculturally assessed land. The owner can remain in the program as long as the farm remains an active farming operation. The definition of "active farming operation" is still being considered by the officials, as numerous operations involving livestock and/or crop production could be classified as "farming operations."

If for any reason the farmer terminates the preservation district on his land, the tax deferral would expire and the owner would be responsible to reimburse the county for all tax deferrals already granted, plus 6% interest.

If a property is approved for the purchase of development rights and the owner has sold easements to the state program, he/she would be eligible to apply for a 10-year tax credit equaling 100% of any county real estate tax on agriculturally assessed land. The owner may renew his tax credit for additional 10-year increments as long as the farm is active. If the landowner purchases his development rights back from the state, the credit would expire and the owner would be responsible to reimburse the county for all tax credits already granted.

Beitzel said this program will preserve large tracts of land through the voluntary participation of the citizens.

"Unlike zoning, this wouldn't force anyone to do anything with their land, but it would allow them to benefit from preserving it," he said.

Library Name

The commissioners also asked Hafer and Edwards to introduce legislation that would mandate that the name of the county's library system never be changed. This proposal follows a controversy that occurred this summer when the library board voted to change the name from the Ruth Enlow Library to the Garrett County Public Library. A significant negative reaction to the change came from the public sector, and the board voted to return the Ruth Enlow title to the system.

"We want to put this into law to prevent what happened this year from ever happening again," Gregg said.

Tax Exemption

The commissioners asked the legislators to pursue a real property tax exemption for the Garrett Information Enterprise Center. This was suggested by Dr. Stephen Herman, president of GCC, where the center is located. The county attorney, Gorman Getty, concurred with the proposal, according to the commissioners.

This tax abatement has to be requested each year.

MARY F. LOAR

Mary Frances (Meek) Loar, 75, Eckhart, died Thursday, Nov. 11, 1999, at the Frostburg home of her sisters, where she had been residing.

Born May 23, 1924, in Frostburg, she was a daughter of the late Arthur Stewart and Amy (Brain) Meek.

She attended Hill Street School and Old Beall High School and, in 1942, she was a member of the first full-year senior class to graduate from the "new" Beall High School. She earned a bachelor of science degree from Frostburg State Teachers' College and did post-graduate work through the University of Maryland.

She was a substitute teacher in several schools while attending college because of a shortage of teachers during World War II. She later did subsitute teaching in Allegany County.

She retired after 17 years of teaching school. Her first year was at the Jennings School in Garrett County, where she taught first through third grade. She taught her remaining 16 years in Cumberland.

She was an active member of the Frostburg United Methodist Church for more than 50 years, and was active in many civic organizations.

Survivors include her husband of 45 years, James R. Loar, Eckhart; one stepdaughter, Susan Loar Richie, Eckhart; two step-grandchildren; and two sisters, Martha Meek and Amy Meek, both of Frostburg.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Frostburg, where a service was conducted Sunday, Nov. 14, with the Rev. Darryl Gill officiating. Interment was in Frostburg Memorial Park.

ANYWHERE BUT HERE

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:54 - Released 11/12/99

We last saw Jerusalem-born Natalie Portman as Queen Amidala in this summer's Star Wars: The Phantom Menace. While she did an adequate job as the haughty teenage monarch, her acting talent was not allowed to fully manifest itself (my theory is that her face was so caked with makeup she couldn't move). But any doubts about 18-year-old Portman's ability evaporate in Anywhere But Here, a mother-daughter drama that pairs her with proven talent Susan Sarandon. Sarandon is good; Portman is astounding. These two women, in concert with the sensitive direction of Wayne Wang (Chinese Box) and Alvin Sargent's screenplay based on the novel by Mona Simpson, take a film which could easily be another soppy, manipulative effort like Stepmom and craft a truly moving and bittersweet story about the unseen bond between a middle-aged, divorced woman and her seemingly hateful teenage daughter.

Tired of a life that is going nowhere in the small town of Bay City, Wisconsin, Adele August (Sarandon) decides to pull up stakes, leave her husband, and move to the bright lights of Beverly Hills. Despite the fact that 14-year-old Ann (Portman) does not want to leave her cousin (Shawn Hatosy), her stepfather (Ray Baker), or anyone else in Bay City, she is forced to go along, mainly because Adele's dreams of fame and fortune rest primarily on the assumption that Ann will become a child star. Of course, Ann has no desire or intention to act, but in Adele's mind this is nothing but a minor obstacle to the plan.

Truthfully, the plot of this film is not extremely intricate. Adele and Ann suffer numerous setbacks, tempered by the occasional success; they have trouble paying the bills and fitting in among the rich and famous. Ann is forced to endure her mother's embarrassing lifestyle, and she openly wishes and plans to "escape." The story is told in part through voiceovers by Portman, explaining in detail the depth and breadth of her hatred for her insufferable control-freak mother. But we see that Adele really loves her daughter, and even though their tastes do not always mesh perfectly, there are times when the mutual love and respect show through. Like I said, not a terribly complex story line.

But the plot is really not the issue here; it is secondary to the complex range of emotions played out as we travel through the ever-changing relationship of mother and daughter. There is a lot of crying in this film, something that usually turns me off, but the feelings are so real that it isn't pushy or melodramatic. Director Wang is able to mine the considerable talent of his two leads and produce a story of astounding depth. On occasion there is a scene which seems intended only to produce waterworks, but mostly it is a subtle, sensitive treatise on the good and bad aspects of familial love, and on the pain and necessity of finally saying goodbye.

Natalie Portman is my new hero. It'll be interesing to see her in Star Wars: Episode II (2002), and find out if George Lucas can get her to put forth this calibre of performance, even through all that goop. ★★★★½

THE MESSENGER: THE STORY OF JOAN OF ARC

Rated R - Running Time: 3:00 - Released 11/12/99

Joan of Arc is probably the most venerated figure in French history. One would expect that a film of her life, an entirely French production, with a French writer/director and an all-French crew, would be pretty much the authoritative voice on the subject. And indeed, from what I have seen in the trailers, I expected Luc Besson's The Messenger: The Story Of Joan Of Arc to be one of the major Oscar contenders this year. But while things like cinematography and costume design (by Thierry Arbogast and Catherine Leterrier, respectively) will probably get the nod, and some actors may possibly garner nominations for their work, I can't imagine the film academy seriously considering this as a possible best picture or best director or best screenplay nominee. Everything about this film is inconsistent, from the language to the tone to the special effects. I can't figure out how Besson wants us to feel about his national heroine, but the screenplay by him and Andrew Birkin doesn't paint her in a very sympathetic light.

This three-hour historical marathon is not the first collaboration between Ukranian model-turned-actress Milla Jovovich and writer/director Besson. However, while The Fifth Element (1997) took place 250 years in the future, The Messenger goes twice as far in the opposite direction. In 1420, at the tender age of eight, Joan has already proven herself to be a terribly devout little girl, spending all her free time in the church and confessing several times a day, whether she has anything to confess or not. At 16, after a life of visions and voices, she seeks an audience with Charles VII, the dauphin of what's left of war-torn France (Malkovich). Impressed with her enthusiasm (not to mention her ability to pick him out of a crowd without ever having met him), Charles allows Joan what she wants: command of the entire French army. Before long, even though she is merely a teenage girl, Joan has led the outnumbered army to victory over the English at Orleans, a critical turning point in the 100 Years' War.

Joan rides high on the wave of fame that comes from her uncanny leadership abilities, and garners the undying love and respect of the army and people of France. But after Charles is crowned king, he no longer needs or desires her services. He cuts off her supplies and finances, and without an adequate army, she suffers a devastating loss attempting to reclaim Paris. She is taken prisoner, raped, and accused of heresy for her steadfast belief that she is an instrument of God. Though she is still loved by her people, Joan cannot deny her voices, and on May 30, 1431, only 19 years old, she is burned at the stake. Five hundred years later, in 1920, she is canonized as a saint by the Catholic Church.

This is undoubtedly one of the most amazing stories in written history, and this is why I am so amazed that Besson could not muster a better way of telling it. Visually, and in terms of scope and historical significance, his film deserves to be seen, but there are gross errors in continuity and writing style. The script is peppered with anachronistic phrases like "she's nuts" and "calm down." One character has a scar on his face, but it appears to be of a different size, color, and location every time he is on screen. In the many bloody battle scenes, the severing of limbs and heads look like something out of Monty Python And The Holy Grail.

Perhaps the most disappointing aspect of the film is Jovovich's interpretation of the famous Maid of Orleans. She comes on strong in the first two-thirds of the film, showing Joan's unwavering faith in God and herself, but near the end devolves into a confused, simpering high school girl. This is not really the actress's fault, though. A character is introduced late in the film, portrayed by none other than Dustin Hoffman (he's never appeared so out of place), that is supposed to represent Joan's conscience. To the complete discredit of her famous story, he actually seems to make light of her life and her predicament, and the script and Besson's directing choices seem to want us to join in the laughter. In the final analysis, the film seems to be saying that Joan was merely a deluded girl who was mistaken about her destiny, that she was not sent by God, and that burning at the stake was probably the best thing for her. Huh? ★★★★

Peter Pan Will Be Presented By W.Va. Theatre

West Virginia Public Theatre, Morgantown, will present the Broadway musical Peter Pan on the main stage of the West Virginia University Creative Arts Center, with performances slated for December 15-23. Playing the respective roles of Peter Pan and Captain Hook will be Broadway stars Kelly Fleck and Bob Aronson.

Also included in the cast as one of Hook's pirates will be Matthew Sincell, a junior theatre major at WVU and son of Don and Suzie Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park.

A special effects feature, that of "flying" on stage by the characters Peter Pan, Wendy, Michael, and John, will be provided by ZFX Flying Illusions of California, the same company which "flies" former Olympic gymnast Cathy Rigby in the title role for the national touring company of the musical.

Tickets for the performances, slated for 7 p.m. each evening except for a 2 p.m. matinee on Sunday, Dec. 19, are now available by telephoning toll-free 1-877-999-WVPT.

Tfc. S. MacLane and reconstructionist Tfc. S. Anderson. The report filed stated that a 1993 Dodge Caravan, driven by Frances E. Resh, 60, Accident, and a skidloader, case model 1840, operated by Carlton E. Bowser Jr., 64, Oakland, were traveling southbound on Underwood Road at the time of the accident.

Police said that the Resh vehicle, approaching from behind the Bowser vehicle, struck the skidloader.

Bowser and two passengers in the Resh vehicle, Elmer H. Dillsworth, 83, Oakland, and Josephine I. Resh, 54, Accident, were taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment. Josephine Resh was subsequently flown to Ruby Memorial Hospital. She was reported this morning to be in stable condition.

Huskies' Title Run Halted By 21-13 Playoff Loss To Elkton

by David Foster

"Winning isn't everything," an oft-misquoted statement of Vince Lombardi began. What has been forgotten is the accurate conclusion of the famous maxim: "... but the effort to win is."

The Northern High School Huskies embodied the legendary coach's philosophy during a 21-13 loss to visiting Elkton in the opening round of the Maryland state playoffs Saturday afternoon. The Huskies dominated the contest everywhere but on the scoreboard, and, although defeated, the student-athletes still have much to be proud of, NHS head coach Phil Carr said afterwards.

"I told the kids to keep their heads high, because they played hard and never gave up," recalled Carr. "We have lots of things to be proud of — This is the third Northern team to be region champions, the second ever to be undefeated, and the 10 wins is the most in school history. The kids should feel good when they look back on this season, because they were part of something every ballplayer dreams of, but so very few have the chance to experience."

Northern gave nothing away to the lower-seeded but much bigger team, and when it was over the margin separating the two squads was a single touchdown. That difference, both coaches later agreed, hinged in large part on the game's very first play. The Golden Elks hit paydirt on the opening kickoff, as a well-formed wedge helped spring kick returner John Triplett for an 85-yard touchdown return. After Joey Copenhaver's successful point-after kick, the Huskies found themselves down by a 7-0 margin after just 13 seconds had ticked off the clock.

"The kickoff return was major for us," Elkton coach Bill Russell was later quoted as saying. "When you return a kickoff for a touchdown it can demoralize a team."

Carr concurred, remarking that "the kickoff seemed to set a tone, and we were left playing catch-up all day."

Northern's offense sputtered on its first possession, and the Huskies were forced to punt the ball away. The two teams exchanged the ball a couple of times until Elkton started a 75-yard scoring drive with 2:18 remaining in the first quarter, sparked by a John Russell pass across the middle that was snagged by Mike Lyon, who, in full stride, plucked the bullet out of the air with one hand. The tight end rumbled down the field for a 41-yard gain to put the ball on the Northern 34-yard line. "That was a heck of a catch," Carr said. "That really hurt, because we had them stopped at that point."

Elkton moved the ball 23 yards over the next five plays to the Huskies' 11-yard line. With six seconds left in the quarter, Triplett scored on an 11-yard run followed by another successful PAT kick by Copenhaver that made the score 14-0.

"Being on the road, it was huge for us to go up 14-0 in the early going," coach Russell noted.

Northern's offense appeared to bog down in its own territory early in the second quarter, when a big gamble redeemed the special teams unit and put the Huskies right back into thick of things. Lined up in punt formation on fourth-and-one from their own 39-yard line, center Dan Rounds made a short snap to upback Marcus Rugg on a perfectly-executed fake punt, and Rugg took off up the middle for a 32-yard gain to put the ball on the Golden Elks' 29.

"We've practiced the fake punt play with Marcus all year long," said Carr. "That was the first time we actually used it in a game, and it worked like a charm."

Five plays later NHS quarterback Adam Brenneman scored on a three-yard keeper off the Huskies' bread-and-butter option offense. Justin Robison's PAT kick sailed through the uprights to cut the deficit in half, 14-7, with 7:53 to go in the second half.

The half's final two minutes featured three interceptions as each offense tried to put points on the board in a hurry before the break. Defensive backs Ryan and Adam Brenneman each recorded pick-offs in the flurry, as did an Elkton defensive lineman who gathered in a tipped pass attempt by Adam Brenneman. The horn sounded before either squad was able to score, however.

"We felt good at the half," Carr commented. "We had been moving the ball well, and were grinding it out. It just seemed that there was one play in every drive that kind of hurt us, except on the scoring drives."

Northern repaired to its locker room to make its halftime adjustments, a strong suite of its coaching staff and players, who provided valuable insights for the strategy session. The chalk talk paid off, as the Huskies came out and went back to the wishbone option formula that had carried them through their perfect 10-0 season.

After taking the stanza's opening kickoff, Big Blue marched down the field on a perfectly executed nine-play drive that ate 4:17 off the clock. Mark Wolf accounted for over half of the 78 yards covered in the drive, as the gritty fullback, playing with his broken left wrist in a cast for the fourth straight week, garnered 29 yards on a sweep early in the drive and carried the ball 14 yards on a subsequent run. Wolf eventually capped the drive with a 6-yard scoring run to bring the Huskies to within one point of the Golden Elks.

THE HUSKIES' OPTION OFFENSE was somewhat contained by Elkton Saturday, but, although racking up more rushing yards and first downs and tallying a time of possession advantage of nearly two-to-one, NHS managed to score just two touchdowns. Through the 10-0 season, however, head coach Phil Carr and the NHS coaching staff's devastating scheme struck fear into opposing defenses by averaging 36 points and over 300 yards rushing per contest. The intricate offense was executed to the point of perfection throughout the year by senior quarterback Adam Brenneman (#12), shown above carrying the ball down the line on Saturday, reading the Elkton defense all the while. Fine blocking by all hands, including one of the smallest but best offensive lines in the state, supplied the power for the Huskies' offense, and is exemplified by blocking back Ryan Brenneman (#45, left) and tight end Nathan Resh (#81), whose man is going only one place — nowhere. Photos by John McEwen

SIZE WAS NO ADVANTAGE for this Elkton ballcarrier, stopped dead in his tracks by Husky cornerback Brandon Stein (#88), who gives away nearly 100 pounds to his prey. Cutting the runner off at the knees, the NHS defender is shown putting the same skills to work on the gridiron that took him to a state wrestling title last year. Stein's quick reflexes helped him lead the 1999 Huskies in fumble recoveries, including one in Elkton territory late in Saturday's contest.

CRUNCH TIME - Northern's "grave digger" defensive unit gave up just a pair of touchdowns to Elkton (the Golden Elks' initial score came on the opening kickoff), marking only the third time in 11 outings the unit allowed more than a touchdown. Small but quick, and above all intelligent, defensive coach Frank Ewing's unit was seldom caught off guard over the course of the year and adjusted quickly to neutralize any threat. Elkton's running game came into Saturday's contest posing such a threat, but the Huskies held the Golden Elks to just 163 yards on the ground, well below their average. Shown above about to bag his Elk is defensive back Keith Artice (#25), while, from the left, a Husky pack of Toby Gilpin (#79), Rob Dozier (#23), and Ryan Savage (#78) join in the hunt.

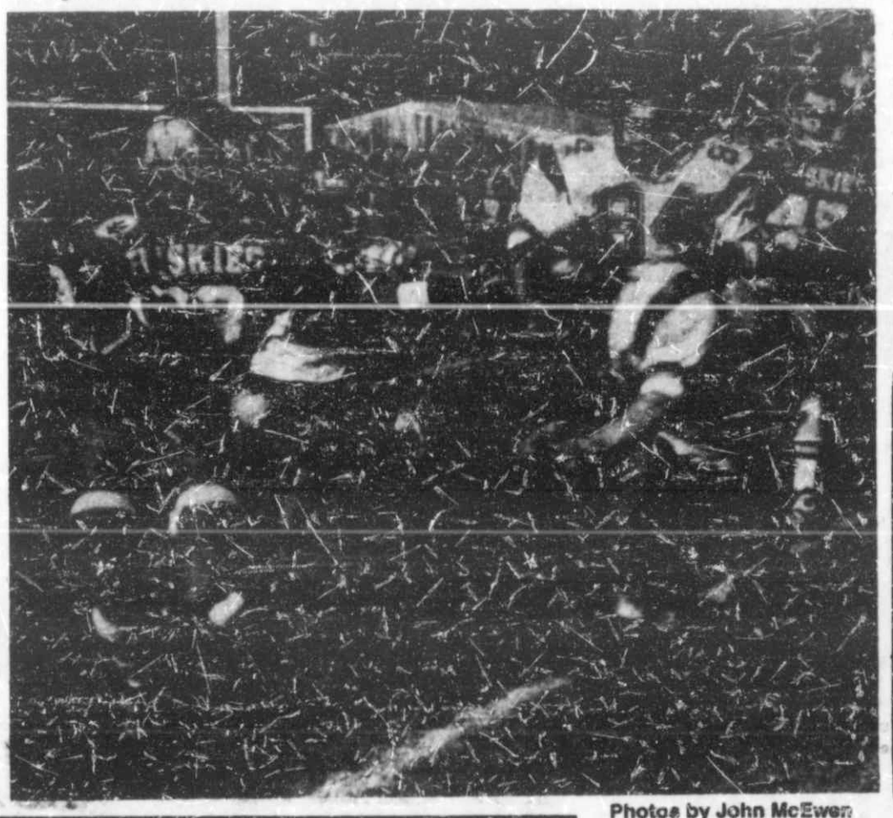
aggressiveness again by going for the two-point conversion and the lead, rather than settling for a tie on a PAT kick; however, the option keeper play was stopped short of the goal line as Brenneman was tossed back, and the score remained 14-13.

"They hadn't stopped us on the option yet, and it was still early, with nearly 20 minutes to go in the game," Carr said. "We had just driven down the field and felt we had them by the throat. We've gone for two point conversions all year, with good success, and if we get the two points and take the lead we would have seized all the momentum right there."



Elkton had a second half strategy change of its own up its sleeve after taking the subsequent kickoff, one that at first seemingly caught the Huskies' defense off guard. "We had been trying to throw the ball in the second quarter," Elkton's Russell noted, "but when Northern missed out on their two-point conversion we went back to our original game plan, which was running Triplett off end."

The Golden Elks' plan paid off as their offense mounted a 66-yard, 16-play touchdown drive that ran the clock down to just 27 seconds to go in the quarter. Triplett carried the ball 10 times for 55 yards during the 7 minute drive, which was capped by Russell's one-yard quarterback sneak and Copenhaver's successful PAT kick, making the score 21-13.

Northern opened the fourth quarter looking at an eight-point deficit and an Elkton squad that was sensing an upset. The Golden Elks' defense stiffened to stymie Big Blue's offensive scheme, especially when the Huskies tried to pick up yardage through the air.

A NARROW ESCAPE? - You make the call, as Northern halfback Ryan Brenneman (#45) is shown barreling past a Golden Elk pursuer toward the daylight of an open field. One of a number of fine double-duty players who turned in outstanding performances over the season on both offense and defense, Brenneman averaged 7.1 yards per carry during the regular season, and picked off a pass for the NHS defensive secondary during Saturday's contest. Another superb two-way player is show below, as halfback Rob Dozier (#23) executes the perfect stiff-arm on an Elkton defender to spring himself into the clear. Dozier, also a fine defensive end, is being followed from the background by Ryan Brenneman (#45), who played halfback and defensive back throughout the season.

The Huskies' special teams unit came up with a second big play when, with less than five minutes to go, punt rusher Brandon Stein came up with a quick-thinking fumble recovery after an Elkton punt snap bounced off the helmet of Russell, playing in the upback position. Stein pounced on the ball at the Golden Elk 33; however, two plays later a Ryan Brenneman pass attempt off the halfback option was picked off by Triplett at the 21-yard line.

Elkton drove the ball downfield on the Huskies, getting to inside the 10-yard line with 1:33 remaining. A clutch fumble recovery by defensive tackle Ryan Savage gave Northern a last gasp, but the Huskies were hampered by having used their final timeout on the defensive series.

A pass attempt across the middle, just behind Rob Dozier, bounced off the halfback's hands as he stretched back to try to snag it. The ball fell to the ground in a heartbreaking incompletion, made even more so by the fact that Dozier, a fleet-footed ball-carrier, had gotten completely behind the secondary and had nothing but open field between him and the end zone.

The Elkton defense held fast after that narrowest of escapes, and, knowing NHS had to continue going to the air, hammered Husky Adam Brenneman to the ground repeatedly either just before or just after the valiant quarterback got his pass attempts away. The Golden Elks soon took the ball over on downs, and Russell kneeled after taking a snap to let the clock, and the Huskies' season, expire.

Several Huskies had outstanding performances during the contest, which, as all year long, saw the team as a whole work together and execute. Fullback Wolf carried the ball 23 times for 119 yards, and became the only Husky out of a field of four strong runners to go over the 1,000-yard mark for the season. Quarterback Adam man both had an interception, and tackle Savage and cornerback Stein each recorded fumble recoveries.

FOODLAND WINS AGAIN - Successfully defending its Mt. Top Oldtimers' Softball League title this season was the team sponsored by Browning's Foodland, pictured above. Naico finished second, while Crellin and Shadyside placed third and fourth, respectively. Foodland defeated Shadyside in the opening round, 16-9, topped Concept Associations, 12-7, in the quarterfinals, and edged Crellin, 16-13, in the winners' bracket of the semifinals. Foodland then met Naico, winner of the losers' bracket. Foodland scored six runs in the first inning and went on to record a 12-1 victory to maintain ownership of the league championship. Foodland players pictured above are, from left, kneeling: Butch Mason, Danny Bosley, Larry Roth, Jeff "Smiley" Friend, and Junior Uphold. Standing, same order, are: Tom Bosley, Steve Folckman, Joe McRobie, Randy DiSimone, Cliff Warnick, Mickey Chapman, Sherwin Tasgarden, and Terry Chapman.

Statistically, NHS had out-performed Elkton. Northern held a 17-12 advantage in first downs and 90 yards on the ground. The difference in time of possession was a whopping 29:06 tally for the Huskies as compared to 18:54 for the Golden Elks, and the opposition's defenders were physically exhausted at the end of the battle.

"Elkton's coaches and some of their players complimented our team after the game," said Carr. "They told us that our guys may have been small, but we hit them hardest they'd been hit all year."

"It was a major win for us," Elkton's Coach Russell said. "We lost our three games by a total of 10 points, but we struggled all year to get into the playoffs. To come in and beat the top seed makes it a very big win for us, and could give us the momentum we need to keep going."

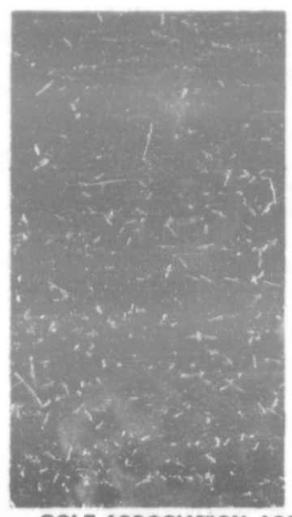
"It was a real tough loss for our kids," Northern's Carr stated. "The locker room scene after the game was real emotional, especially for our seniors. Everyone knew that everyone, from the coaches through to the entire roster of players, had put everything they had into our team all year long. It was real hard to let go of a year like that, but it kind of shows that all good things can come to an end.

"Looking back on what we accomplished through the undefeated regular season makes things a little easier to take. We brought some pride and spirit back to Northern that may have been lacking lately — It was really great to see all the kids at the games doing crazy stuff on the sidelines.

"We also helped unite the community in a way that hasn't happened in a long time. Everyone, not just parents of players, got behind us and rooted us on. We're still getting lots of congratulatory letters and phone calls from former players and other alumni, and that really makes you feel good that you've given people who may have moved away something to follow back home."

Carr saluted several organizations and individuals for the part they played in the Huskies' program throughout the season, including: the financial support of the Northern Athletic Boosters and numerous local businesses; the Grantsville Lions Club members who staffed the concession booth; Ed and Donna Carr for organizing the concession sales; Harrison Foy, who assisted with concessions at junior varsity as well as varsity games; the "Curt and Gowdy" public address announcing team of John Braskey and George Edwards; the "chain gang" on the sidelines; and the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

"We'd especially like to salute the Husky cheerleaders and the Northern band," Carr noted. "We really missed the band on Saturday, even though we were happy they were in a competition.



"I'm hoping some of our players will receive some major recognition at the first Mountain Athletic Conference awards dinner on Sunday, Dec. 12, at Bishop Walsh," Carr said. "We'll also be receiving the first conference championship trophy at that time. That should remind all of our kids that they all played a part in a super year. It took all of them to do what we did.

"The guys' final break in the post-game locker room, after the closing prayer, was 'Huskies Forever!'" recalled Carr, his voice betraying his emotions. "That's appropriate, because being part of the 1999 Northern Huskies is something they can remember with pride for the rest of their lives."

Sports Awards Event For Fall Slated At SHS

A fall sports awards ceremony will be held at Southern High School to honor student athletes who participated in fall sports. The event will be held this Sunday, Nov. 21, in the school cafeteria beginning at 7 p.m. There is no admission charge.

The date for the ceremony was announced incorrectly last week by the Southern Garrett Athletic Association. An advertisement which appeared in this newspaper erroneously stated that the event would be held November 26.

The doors will open at 6.15 p.m. Sunday. Student athletes will be recognized for their participation in soccer, football, volleyball, cross country, golf, and cheerleading.

Similar ceremonies will be held by the SGAA following the winter and spring seasons.

Southern Girls Capture Second CC Championship

Led by freshman Melissa Durst, the Southern High School girls' cross country team captured the Maryland State 1A cross country title Saturday afternoon at Hereford High School. Durst, who has been described by some coaches as having the most potential of any female runner in the school's rich cross country history, completed the rigorous 3.1-mile course in 21 minutes, 22.20 seconds, which was good for an individual third place.

The Rams placed three other runners on the 1A Maryland All-State team (top 15 finishers), as seniors Erin Hoalcraft, Beth Sauder, and Angie Sincell all placed among the top 15 finishers. Hoalcraft was seventh with a time of 21:48.50, Sauder was eighth in 21:53.61, and Sincell placed 14th in 22:35.97.

It was the third time that Hoalcraft and Sincell captured All-State honors, the second time for Sauder, and the first for Durst.

Southern finished with a team total of 40 points, while Glenelg placed second with 54 and Westmar was third with 77. Williamsport finished fourth with 90 points, followed by Smithsburg with 110, Brunswick with 172, Washington with 194, Havre de Grace with 215, Oakland Mills with 251, and Snow Hill with 275.

The other three members of the Southern team, coached by Louis Newcomb, also placed among the top 40 runners, with Faryn Shaffer finishing 22nd in 23:28.98, Amber Stewart 32nd with a time of 24:45.89, and Elizabeth McDonald 37th in 25:18.15.

"We knew Glenelg would be our toughest competition," Coach Newcomb said. "But we were fairly confident that their third and fourth runners were not as strong as ours."

This was the second state title for the Southern girls, the first being recorded three years ago when the seniors on this year's team were freshmen.

"We just had a great run overall," Newcomb added, "and Melissa was tremendous. She has the prospect of being our all-time best runner to date. Her times as a freshman have exceeded those of Amy Snyder, Lauren Newcomb, Nikki Brown, and Jenny Reams, and they were outstanding runners."

Nory Sams of Allegany was the individual state champion, even though the Campers as a team finished with an incomplete score. Her time was 20:48.78. Placing a rather distant second was Carrie Selmer of Glenelg, who recorded a time of 21:08.98.

"I just locked on to Nory and kept running," Durst said. "I decided that whenever I heard footsteps behind me, I would just speed up."

The fourth and fifth place runners were sisters from Boonsboro, Angie and Anita Rhoderick, who finished within one second of each other (21:36.06 and 21:36.34). Jordann Waldorf of Smithsburg placed sixth in 21:44.84, less than four seconds ahead of Southern's Hoalcraft.

The young Southern boys' team, coached by Carl Booth, which has five state titles to its credit over the past seven years, did not qualify for the state meet this year. Oakland Mills won the boys' title, followed by Glenelg, Westmar, and Beall.

In looking ahead to next season, Newcomb will have a strong nucleus of returning runners, led by Durst. "Right now it looks like I need to find just one more body for our top five," he said, "and we will be in very good shape."

Senior Citizens To Get Break On Ram Game Tickets

The Southern High School Athletic Department will institute a new ticket policy for senior citizens, according to Tom Woods, SHS athletic director. The policy will allow anyone age 55 or older to obtain a pass for all athletic events. The pass will entitle the holder to 50% off the regular ticket price.

The policy will go into effect with the 1999-2000 winter season. Seniors may obtain the passes at the first event they attend by showing proof of age. They must present the pass at the door for each subsequent event in order to get the 50% discount.

Alzheimer's Slowed by Medicines; Prevention Would Be Preferred

Alzheimer's disease involves degeneration of the body's neurological system and often results in personality changes, memory loss (both long-and short-term), and physical limitations of a person's ability to function without help from others. Approximately 4 million elderly persons in the U.S. are affected. Only a few medicines have proven beneficial in helping to relieve Alzheimer's symptoms. None cures the disease. In some persons use of these medicines slowed progression of the disease by one or more years. Currently, several other medicines are being tested.

Lakers Win Four More To Keep Record Perfect

The Garrett Community College men's basketball team is off to an excellent start in the 1999-2000 campaign, as the Lakers won their own annual GCC Preview Tournament this past weekend and then recorded a pair of on-the-road victories to up their perfect record to 5-0.

Garrett rolled over Penn State-Beaver, 91-68, on Friday to earn a spot in the title game of the Preview Tournament, in which they coasted to an 86-68 win over Rockingham Junior College. The Lakers then whipped host Butler County CC on Monday, 89-73, and flattened CCAC-South, 92-68, last night in West Mifflin, Pa.

Carlos Jones and Dexter Levi hit 21 and 20 points, respectively, to pace the Lakers to their victory over Beaver. The Lakers led most of the contest, and were on top 46-35 at halftime.

Also reaching double figures for the Lakers was Antowain Newton, who came off the bench to record 11 points. Former Northern High standout Dustin Long netted nine points and led the team in rebounds with eight. Levi also blocked five shots, and Scott Kochenderfer dished out a game-high eight assists.

Tony Cervo scored 17 points to lead Beaver, John Stone finished with 11 plus nine rebounds, and Kevin Pergola netted 10 points. Jovan White had five assists to go with his nine points.

"I was really proud of our bench," stated GCC coach Dennis Gibson. "They filled in very well. Dustin Long and Michael Ward played more than I expected, and they did a great job inside."

The Lakers had a similar performance Saturday night in the title game against Rockingham, and Carlos Jones was again the scoring leader, as he pumped in 19 points to lead five Lakers in double figures.

Garrett trailed by four points, 13-11, about four minutes into the game, but tied the score at 13-13 with 13:58 remaining in the first half and never trailed. The Lakers led 41-27 at halftime.

Corin Turner was right behind in scoring with 17 points for GCC, Charles Somerville netted 12, and Michael Ward and Dexter Levi each finished with 10. Levi also pulled down a team-high nine rebounds, and Somerville blocked four shots.

"This was one of the best team defensive efforts I have seen by a Laker team since 1994," stated Coach Gibson.

Rockingham, which earned a spot in the title game by defeating Potomac State College in Friday's other first-round game, was led in scoring by Lamont Watlington, who poured in 25 points.

Potomac State won the consolation game by crushing Penn State-Beaver, 104-65.

Lakers Levi and Jones were named the All-Tournament team, along with Desi Crisp of Rockingham, Eli Stanley of Potomac State, and Tony Cervo of Beaver.

Jones was the big gun for the Lakers again Monday night, when he scored 22 points, grabbed seven rebounds, and dished out five assists against a strong Butler County Community College team in Butler, Pa. Also reaching double figures for Garrett were Charles Somerville with 15 and Levi with 10.

The Lakers were on top at intermission by a 10 points, 38-28, but a three-point attack by Butler, which featured seven long-range shots, cut Garrett's lead to a couple points midway through the second half. But GCC's guards came through with a strong effort of possession and the Lakers were able to pull away for good.

Dan Smith led Butler in scoring with 20 points, while Nate Lambert recorded 15 points, 10 rebounds, and four assists. Zach O'Lare also reached double figures with 10 points.

"It's a tough place to play, but we kept our composure very well, especially considering that this was our first road game," Gibson said. "Our guard play made the difference."

Once again it was Jones who led five Lakers in double figures last night against CCAC-South, as he netted 17 points, while Levi finished with 16, Charles Somerville hit 14, Long scored 12, and Antowain Newton recorded 11.

Garrett seized control of the contest early and gradually pulled away, holding a 42-26 advantage at halftime.

Jones' 17-point total included four three-point buckets, and he also had five assists and three blocks. Michael Ward grabbed seven rebounds, Corin Turner dished out five assists, and Scott Kochenderfer provided three steals.

The top scorer of the contest was South's Mike Brown, who netted 30 points. Jim Bursey finished with 10 points, while teammate Julius Johnson recorded nine points, seven rebounds, and seven blocks.

"Once again it was nice to get another win on the road," Coach Gibson said. "They were aggressive, but they couldn't handle our inside game.

"We'll get a real test this weekend in the McDonald's

Young GCC Women's Basketball Team Banks On New Recruits

The Garrett Community College women's basketball program is in a rebuilding mode for the 1999-2000 season. The Lakers return only two sophomores, who are joined by eight freshman after what head coach Ann Wellham termed "an excellent recruiting summer that brought in loads of promise and talent."

The squad's experience comes from sophomore co-captains Amanda Larnerd and Tasha Blackmon, Wellham said. Larnerd (5-7, guard) received the Lakers Most Improved Player award last year, and is a native of Great Mills. She was named Female Athlete of the Year at Leonardtown High School, among many other honors she received during her high school career. Larnerd is also a member of the GCC women's softball team.

Blackmon (5-8, forward) averaged 10.1 points and 6.72 rebounds per game for the Lakers last year. The Cora, W.Va., native was named first team all-conference and earned honorable mention all-state in West Virginia during her playing days at Logan High School.

The large freshman class of players includes the team's one area resident, Gretchen Baker (5-7, guard), a graduate of Preston High School. Baker averaged 13 points, 5 rebounds, and 2 assists per game for the Knights. She is the daughter of Doug and Leona Dixon of Aurora, W.Va.

The other Laker freshmen are: Tiffany Morris (5-7, guard), of Alum Creek, W.Va., who graduated from Duval High School where she averaged 6 points and 9 rebounds per game; Shawntice McLaughlin (5-3, guard), of Washington, D.C., a graduate of Theodore Roosevelt High, where she averaged 7 points, 5 rebounds, and 10 assists per game; Tameka Graves (6-1, center), of Deale, where she averaged 14 points and 15 rebounds per contest for Southern High in St. Mary's County; Cambridge natives Donielle Gaines (5-7, guard) and Sha'Ray Washington (6-1, center), both of whom were co-captains at Cambridge–South Dorchester High, where Gaines averaged 18 points, 3.3 rebounds, and 2 assists, and Washington averaged 11.2 points, 13 rebounds, and 5 assists per game; and Hyattsville natives Erica Henderson (6-0, forward) and JoEllen Kitt (5-7, guard), both of Northwestern High,

Please Read This Prayer

Heavenly Father, we come before you today to ask Your forgiveness and to seek Your direction and guidance.
We know Your Word says, "Woe on those who call evil good," but that's exactly what we have done.
We have lost our spiritual equilibrium and reversed our values.
We confess that:
We have worshiped other gods and called it multi-culturalism.
We have endorsed perversion and called it an alternative lifestyle.
We have exploited the poor and called it lottery.
We have neglected the needy and called it self preservation.
We have rewarded laziness and called it welfare.
We have killed our unborn children and called it choice.
We have shot abortionists and called it justifiable.
We have neglected to discipline our children and called it building self-esteem.
We have abused power and called it political savvy.
We have coveted our neighbor's possessions and called it ambition.
We have polluted the air with profanity and pornography and called freedom of expression.
We have ridiculed the time-honored values of our forefathers and called it enlightenment.
Search us, O God, and know our hearts today; cleanse us from every sin and set us free.
Guide and bless these men and women who have been sent to direct us to the center of Your will.
I ask it in the name of Your Son, the living Savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

This prayer speaks volumes! When Joe Wright was asked to open the new session of the Kansas Senate, everyone was expecting the usual politically correct generalities, but what they heard instead was a stirring prayer, passionately calling our country to repentance and righteousness. The response was immediate. A number of legislators walked out during the prayer in protest. In six short weeks, the Central Christian Church had logged more than 5,000 phone calls with only 47 of those calls responding negatively. The church is now receiving international requests for copies of the prayer from India, Africa, and Korea. Commentator Paul Harvey aired the prayer on "The Rest of The Story" on the radio and received a larger response to this program than any other he has ever aired!!

where Henderson produced 7 points, 4 rebounds, and 3 assists per game, while Kitt averaged 9.8 points, 3.5 rebounds, and 2 assists per outing.

"With a number of unseasoned collegiate players, we're facing a very competitive schedule this winter," commented Wellham, who has recorded a 30-21 record in three years at the Lakers' helm. "Increasing the strength of our schedule will ultimately result in the Lakers being a stronger contender in the region." Those results will be tested on GCC's home floor in March, when the Lakers host the Region XX Women's Basketball Tournament.

In addition to the new players, Wellham will have a new assistant coach on the bench with her this season. John Utterback, Aurora, comes to the Lakers from Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W.Va., where he was the men's basketball team student assistant. "John's enthusiasm and knowledge of the game will be a great asset for us," Wellham said.

GCC opens its season this weekend with a Saturday battle against Anne Arundel Community College, set for 7 p.m. in McHenry. The only other contest prior to the Thanksgiving holiday is a Monday road trip to take on Frederick Community College.

Maryland's Deer Firearms Season To Open Nov. 27

Maryland's 1999-2000 Deer Firearms Season will open on Saturday, Nov. 27, for Maryland's estimated 78,000 firearm deer hunters. Firearm bag limits are structured to encourage the harvest of antlerless deer within portions of Maryland with high deer populations, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

"Maryland's new deer management structure increased the total antlerless deer harvest by almost one fourth within sections of Maryland with elevated deer numbers," said Michael Slattery, director of the Wildlife and Heritage Division of the DNR. "Maryland's deer hunters are playing a crucial role in deer management by increasing the number of antlerless deer harvested," he said.

In the 1998-99 season, Maryland firearm deer hunters harvested 41,073 deer. This was a record year, with 19,256 antlered deer and 21,781 antlerless deer taken. The 10 leading 1998 firearm deer harvest counties were: Frederick (3,703), Washington (3,157), Allegany (2,997), Garrett (2,826), Dorchester (2,528), Worcester (2,193), Kent (1,963), Charles (1,954), Carroll (1,797), and Queen Anne's (1,797).

Maryland deer hunters have four separate bag limits for the four deer management regions. The number of deer that a firearm hunter can take in one region will not affect the hunter's bag limit in other regions during the two-week firearm deer season (Nov. 27 through Dec. 11). Maryland's deer harvest regulations are designed to stabilize deer population numbers throughout the state by encouraging hunters to harvest antlerless deer in certain areas, the DNR explained.

Region A includes Allegany, Garrett, and Washington (Zone 2) counties. Region B encompasses Carroll, Frederick (Zone 1), and Washington (Zone 1) counties. Region C covers Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Frederick (Zone 2), Howard, Montgomery, and Prince George's counties. Region D takes in Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Harford, Kent, Queen Anne's, Somerset, St. Mary's, Talbot, Wicomico, and Worcester counties.

In Region A firearm deer hunters may take one antlered deer. A second white-tailed deer may be taken using either a Bonus Deer Stamp or a Bonus Antlerless Deer Stamp. Hunters who purchase a Bonus Deer Stamp ($5 for residents, $25 for nonresidents) may take a second antlered deer. Hunters who were selected for a Bonus Antlerless Deer Stamp may take an antlerless deer on Dec. 10 or Dec. 11. The combined total firearm season bag limit for Region A is two deer.

The combined total firearm season bag limit for Region B is two deer. No more than one of these deer may be antlered. A split season allows the first deer to be antlered or antlerless if taken between Nov. 27 and Dec. 4; only antlered deer may be taken between Dec. 6 and Dec. 11. After purchasing a Bonus Deer Stamp, a firearm deer hunter may take a second deer between Nov. 27 and Dec. 4, the second deer may be antlered or antlerless if the first deer taken was antlerless; the second deer must be antlerless if the first deer taken was antlered. Hunters, whose first deer was antlered, may not take a second deer from Dec. 6 through Dec. 11.

For Region C and D, the independent bag limits permit firearm deer hunters to take one antlerless or antlered white-tailed deer between Nov. 27 and Dec. 11. Three additional white-tailed deer may be taken through the use of Bonus Deer Stamps. No more than two antlered deer may be taken with a firearm in Region C or D. Two antlerless white-tailed deer must be taken with a firearm before a second antlered deer is pursued. The combined total firearm season bag limits in each region is four deer.

Firearm hunters are reminded that only one deer may be taken per day in the following counties: Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington. In all other counties, there is no restriction that applies to the number of deer that may be taken per day with the season bag limits.

Sika deer may be hunted in Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico, and Worcester counties. Firearm deer hunters may take one antlered or antlerless sika deer within this area. A second sika deer may be taken by purchasing a Bonus Deer Stamp. This second sika deer must be antlerless if the first sika deer taken was antlered. The second sika deer may be either sex if the first sika deer taken was antlerless. The combined total sika deer bag limit for firearm season is two deer. No more than one of these deer may be antlered.

Deer hunters are reminded by the DNR to focus on safety.

"Always wear a safety belt or harness when using a tree stand," Slattery said. "Permanent tree stands should be inspected and repaired as necessary. Always use a hoist rope to get your unloaded firearm up and down trees. Identify your target and know the terrain beyond. Carry firearms cased and unloaded to and from shooting areas."

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

As the fall evenings turn cooler and it gets dark earlier, one of the pleasures of the season is to grab a good piece of reading and settle in for some quiet time. I would like to recommend a piece of reading that was given to me recently, provided a couple of nice evenings, and is good enough to be reread and enjoyed, maybe even more the second time around.

The book is called Wolf Tracks on Potter County and is a product of one of the finest writers around, Dave Wolf, who now lives in Port Treverton, Pa. This is more than a book about hunting and fishing. Rather it is a collection of essays about the author's life and experiences in Potter County, a place not unlike what Garrett County used to be (and still is away from the resort development around Deep Creek).

YOUTH DAY HUNTERS HAVE A GOOD DAY AFIELD

Maryland's fifth annual Youth Deer Hunt Day was held on Saturday, Nov. 13. Only licensed young hunters under age 16 were permitted to hunt deer with firearms throughout Maryland. Each young hunter had to be accompanied in the field by a person at least 21 years of age who possesses a valid Maryland hunting license, or is exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements. The accompanying adult could not possess a firearm, bow, or any other hunting device while assisting the young deer hunter.

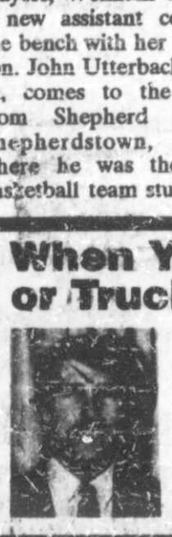
Local youth with successful outings included Davey Sweitzer, who bagged a nice 8-point buck off Route 560, and Brittany Boyce, who got a "big" 8-pointer in the Sanders Lane area; Keith Beckman, who got his buck near Accident; Sarah Beckman, who got a spike buck near Accident; and Brandon Whitacre, who tagged a doe near Eagle Rock.

FISHING REPORT

The prolonged mild weather has been a boon to the fishing crowd that prefers to chase trout in our area rivers. The web site maintained by the DNR reported that the North Branch of the Potomac water level remains to be in the very fishable 125-cubic-foot-per-second range. And as the water continues to cool, fishing should continue to improve. In these conditions terrestrials do well. Ants, crickets, and beetles in assorted colors are effective, along with stonefly nymphs and green inchworms. The trophy fish that are in the deep pools are apt to take crayfish, muddlers, clouser minnows, and other streamers fished deep.

On the Savage River, anglers have reported that fishing just below the surface has produced excellent results on good weather days. Again, minnow imitations such as muddlers, sculpins, wooly buggers, or even beadhead nymphs seem to be the ticket. Also, you can fish very small midges on the surface on the remaining warm weather days.

The Youghiogheny water level remains low and clear, but the action is excellent. On the surface, terrestrials will work, but size 18 B.W. Olive sparkle comparaduns and 16 slate gray caddis may be a better choice. As the water cools, surface action will decrease while the subsurface action will increase. Surface action will revert to small midges. For subsurface, crayfish, muddlers, sculpin, and assorted buggers will all work.



The Casselman River water level is very low. Look for the fish in the deeper pools. Beadheads, crystal buggers, and white wooly buggers have been working. Streamers, such as the Mickey Finn, are the ticket if motion is needed. The recently stocked trout are beginning to take normal presentations such as caddis or midges. Warm days are resulting in some top-water action. As the water temperature cools the fish will favor the inflows, springheads, and the sewage discharge below the old Casselman Bridge.

Lake fishing has slowed down some, with perch, pickerel, and some walleye being caught at Deep Creek. Fishermen who have been able to get their boats onto the Yough Reservoir (tough because of the low water) have been getting some nice bass and walleye. Anglers have been able to get access to the lake from the launch area at the dam.

Worship Service For Thanksgiving Holiday Slated

The annual community Thanksgiving Day worship service for residents of the Newburg area of Preston County will be held Thursday, Nov. 25, at 10 a.m. at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Newburg.

The guest preacher for the service will be the Reverend Marcy Taylor, associate pastor of the United Methodist Temple in Beckley. Rev. Taylor is the daughter of Ruth Taylor, Newburg, and the late Richard Taylor.

A graduate of West Virginia University, Rev. Taylor was employed for five years as a nurse at Monongalia General Hospital prior to her enrollment in the Methesco Seminary in Delaware, Ohio. Upon her graduation from seminary last May, she received her call to serve the congregation in Beckley.

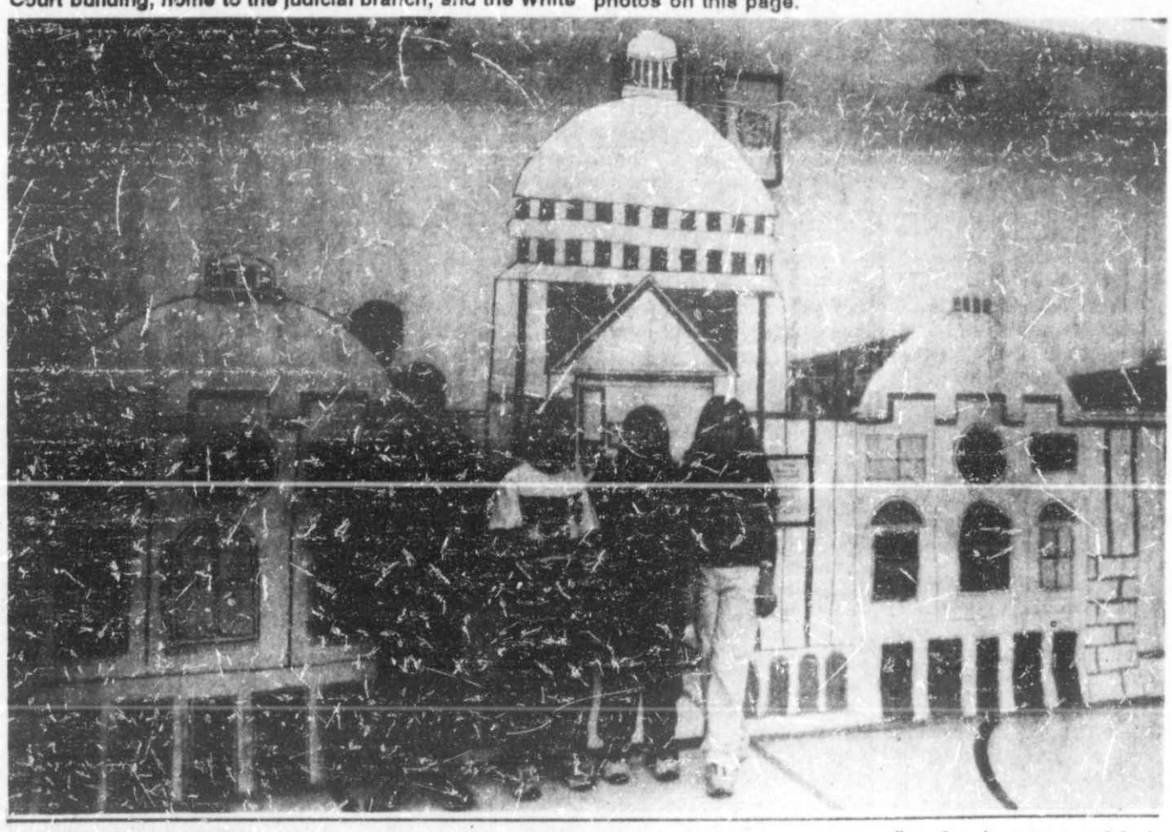
Lowell Leitzel, lay supply preacher at Holy Trinity, will serve as liturgist for the service. The members of the Holy Trinity congregation invite all residents of Newburg and the surrounding area to attend this service.

Preston Co. Genealogist Compiles Book

Aurora resident Donna Keener recently completed a book about tombstone information that she compiled during the summer from 24 Preston County cemeteries.

Published by McClain Printing in Parsons, and titled "Written Stone--Tombstone Readings of Preston County, West Virginia," the book contains genealogy information from cemeteries located in the southern end of Preston County, including Aurora, Eglon, Etam, Evansville, Fellowsville, Horse Shoe Run, Macomber, and York's Run. Twenty of the cemeteries noted in the book, according to the author, are new and were not published in previous information about Preston County cemeteries.

"The four cemeteries that were resurveyed contain a great deal of updated information," Keener said. "Individuals doing family research on Preston County families might find this information helpful."



More information about Keener's book will be made available in the coming weeks. Persons interested in obtaining more information may write to her at Rt. 1, Box 349-D, Aurora, WV 26705, or phone her at 304-735-5707.

THE ART OF POLITICS - The annual Aurora School art show took place last week, as the entire student body produced an exhibition of numerous works under the guidance of art teacher Val Carlsen. The school's cafetorium, pictured above, was transformed into a mini-version of the National Mall, complete with facades of the homes of the three branches of the United States government. The Capitol building, home to the legislative branch, the Supreme Court building, home to the judicial branch, and the White House, home to the executive branch, were produced in conjunction with the school's social studies curriculum to give the artists a new appreciation of our nation's democratic heritage. Several fifth grade students are shown below at the steps to the Capitol building; from the left are Jason Strawser, Hillary McConnell, Robin Martin, and Caitlin Roth. Behind each facade was a mini-gallery that held more artworks, some of which are shown in additional photos on this page.

ART TEACHER Val Carlsen, shown above with Jason Strawser, one of her fifth-grade students, founded the Aurora School art show several years ago. The annual exhibition combines academic material that students are learning in other disciplines, such as social studies and science, with the creative exercise of rendering their own interpretations in art form.

Thank You

The family of Okien Paul Umbel, Sr. (Jerry), would like to express our sincere thanks for all the generous gifts of food, flowers, and expressions of sympathy during our time of sorrow.

The Umbel Family

In loving memory of my husband, John L. Fitzwater Jr., who died November 18, 1985

Be still my heart —
Listen to the rushing wind,
Hear sounds of yesteryear;
Tenderly hold tightly
All that was and should be;
Rekindle love once new
From shadows of time.

Be still my heart —
Loosen bonds of searching
For ever elusive serenity
To calm my soul,
As memories of another era
Creep slowly — quivering in.

KEMPHFER BIRTH

Cameron LeRoy Kemphfer was born Oct. 28, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland. His parents are Tim and Tina Kemphfer of Aurora and he has an older brother, Timmy.

Maternal grandmother is Dinah Hebb of Crellin and maternal grandfather is Leonard Shaffer of Virginia Beach, Va. Paternal grandmother is Ruby Kemphfer of Aurora. Herman and Mary Kempher and Charles and Carolyn Wiles, all Aurora, are the great-grandparents.

EGLON HOMEMAKERS

The Eglon Homemakers met at the Eglon Memorial Building on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 9. They made plans for serving the Mt. Lions Club on Dec. 2 and also provided for four lights on the Preston County Hospice tree in memory of former members, Marguerite Shaffer, Lela Roth, Lillian Knotts, and Mildred Wilt, and one in honor of Ruth Teets.

Devotions were presented by Linda Lewis, who also presided at the meeting. Using the theme "Stand in the Wind" because of the very breezy day, the meditation was based on Psalm 127 and concluded with prayer.

A lesson on "Joy" was omitted and an article from Lancaster Farming concerning 100-year-old Mary Forney of Lititz, Pa., was read by Jean Winters. Linda Lewis read some "Thoughts on Life by Maxine" as levity, and the meeting concluded with singing and refreshments which were prepared by Mary Rembold and Avenell Parsons. In addition to the above, Rebecca Teets also attended.

MOUNTAINEER ACHIEVEMENT

The annual achievement program for the Eglon Mountaineers 4-H members and parents was held at the Maple Spring Church on Wednesday evening, Nov. 10. The executive committee prepared and presented devotions which contained several poems and concluded with "The Lord's Prayer."

The officers — Melinda Teets, president; Dana Feather, vice president; Sara Lewis, secretary; Maria Harsh, treasurer; and Leslie Strawser, reporter — were then installed by Linda Lewis.

Receiving awards for perfect attendance were Ashley and Matthew Bachtel, Sara Lewis, Sarah Snyder, and Leslie Strawser, and for faithful attendance were Dana Feather, Maria Harsh, Chris and Josh Mullenax, Craig and Shawn Rembold, Bridgette Strawser, and Lindsey Teets. Members leaving the club are Matthew Bachtel, Grant Harsh, Shawn Rembold, and Tom Teets and were recognized for their past endeavors.

Named outstanding older member was Maria Harsh, with Bridgette Strawser the outstanding younger member. Named the "H's Four" were Heart, Ashley Bachtel; Hands, Matthew Bachtel and Sarah Snyder; Health, Lindsey Teets; and Head, Shawn Rembold. Recognized for outstanding talks or demonstrations were two demonstrations, one by Shawn Rembold on turkey calls and the other, "How to Milk a Goat," by Bridgette Strawser.

Dana Feather was recognized for being the first to complete a project, and Leslie Strawser for being the first to complete talks and demonstrations. Josh Mullenax was rewarded for his participation in State 4-H Days, which netted him a gold ribbon award.

Judging coaches Bruce Rembold, Renee Mullenax, and Grant Harsh for Wildlife and Forestry, Linda Snyder for Horticulture, Wade Harsh for Land Judging, and Kevin Corbin and Bruce Teets for Livestock were recognized for their service to the club. Teams were Craig Rembold, Chris Mullenax, and Dana Feather in National Wildlife Judging competition; Forestry, Josh Mullenax; Horticulture, Bridgette Strawser; Sara Lewis and Josh Mullenax, junior team; and Ashley Bachtel, senior team. Land Judging team was Matthew Bachtel, and Craig and Shawn Rembold. In Livestock Judging, Dana Feather, Maria Harsh, Grant Harsh, and Melinda Teets competed.

The assistant leaders in the club, Linda Snyder, Renee Mullenax, Sue Corbin, Rebecca Snyder, and Arlene and Willie Lantz, were recognized for their contribution.

Bridgette Strawser led in a "Name Game." Plans for county achievement and training were made and the club decided to make a donation to Food for Preston. Door prizes and snacks

Y2K Update

Heard about the year 2000 computer problem, referred to as Y2K? It involves how computers, computer software, and integral computer-control hardware handle the numbers of dates. Many computers and programs use only the last two digits to represent the year, so when Jan. 1, 2000, rolls around, many computer systems will assume it is Jan. 1, 1900.

No need to worry about your money at The Terra Alta Bank. Our systems have been fully tested and re-tested for operation on January 1, 2000, and into the future.

Ougabus Society Inducts Stemple

As part of a celebration of his life-long dedication to his church and community, Paul Stemple was received as an honorary member in the Aurora Chapter of the Ougabus Society.

Charter Ougabus member Dr. Michael Teets officiated at Stemple's induction service on October 17. Son Philip Stemple, also a charter member of the society, attended the ceremony. The honorary membership status permits Stemple to wear the society cap and to display the framed certificate of recognition from the organization.

A reception followed the induction and included a cake, baked and decorated by Dean Sisler. Stemple thanked everyone who contributed to making the day memorable for him.

INDUCTING A SPECIAL MEMBER - The Ougabus Society recently honored a new member. Present for the ceremony were Philip Stemple, new member Paul Stemple, and Dr. Michael Teets.

Josh and Chris Mullenax both received county awards for achievement; and Dana Feather received a county award in beef production, Josh Mullenax for sheep, and Chris Mullenax for swine. Becky Snyder received her first-year leader pin.

The Eglon Mountaineer Club was recognized for 83% perfect attendance as small club and also for 96% project completion as small club. All judging teams and coaches were also recognized.

Treasurer Dana Feather and secretary Sarah Snyder each submitted blue ribbon record books.

Attending the Sunday events were Kari Harsh, Bridgette and Leslie Strawser, Ashley Bachtel, Sara Lewis, Melinda Teets, Craig Rembold, Dana Feather, Maria Harsh and adults Linda Snyder, Roger and Renee Mullenax, Linda Lewis, Kevin Corbin, and Bruce and Mary Rembold.

WATER CELEBRATION DAY

Instituted this year is a new Water Celebration Day which held its day of recognition on Saturday, Nov. 13, at Stonewall Jackson Lake near Weston. Organizations representing work in some 23 watersheds were present and included Resource, Conservation, and Development (RC&D); WV Division of Environmental Protection; Division of Natural Resources; Rivers Coalition; Division of Forestry; WV Soil and Water Conservation Agency; and others.

Monongahela Soil Conservation District (MSCD) was represented by Hancell and Mildred Teets of Aurora.

President Dave Bassage of Friends of Cheat received two first place plaques and certificates, and two second, one third, and two fourth place awards for stream improvement work completed. They also received a certificate from MCSD and have received numerous grants and donations.

Down Stream Alliance of Morgantown was named overall winning watershed association for its documented improvement in water quality within their watershed.

Monongahela Soil Conservation District made donations recently to Aurora School for the playground fund ($650); $1,000 to Newburg for the dam and a recreation center; and to Fellowsville VFD ($500) for installation of seven dry hydrants.

OBITUARY

Cleo Virginia Vandevender, 81, of Aurora, died Wednesday, Nov. 10, at the home of her son.

She was born Jan. 4, other relatives this past Thursday to Sunday.

Local residents joined a Phoenix Travel tour to Allenberry Playhouse at Boiling Springs, Pa., on Saturday, Nov. 13. A noon performance of Miracle on Angel Street, a Christmas musical, followed a dinner there.

John Crowe, pastor of the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, has submitted his resignation to the church, effective immediately. In order to care for his parents, the family will remain in the community and are presently in the parsonage.

Everett Fike has come from Aurora, Colo., to spend the winter in Eglon. He is living in the home vacated when his father entered the Dennett Road Nursing Home.

Mrs. Edna M. Frantz-Boyce, 78, of Terra Alta, died Nov. 4 at the home of her daughter, Elaine Sypolt, in Masontown. Mrs. Frantz was the daughter-in-law of the late Mrs. Emra T. (Pearl) Fike, who lived at Eglon and is grandmother of Donna Kemphfer of Brookside.

An accident last week on the Underwood Road seriously injured both Elmer Dillsworth and his daughter as she was returning him home from a Cumberland hospital. She was flown to Ruby Memorial, and he was taken to Garrett Memorial but has since been sent to another facility.

The family of Melvin R. Frantz will join him this week at Langley AFB as he leaves there for one year of duty in Korea at Osan AFB. His wife will return to stay with her parentds near Gorman.

PERSONAL MENTION

Janet Judy returned last Monday to her Horse Shoe Run, home where she is now recuperating from bypass surgery.

Freddy and Mary Radford and their children moved this weekend to Roanoke, W.Va., to enable Mr. Radford to be nearer his place of employment.

Eloise Friend Callis, 69, of Min. Lake Park, died Nov. 11 at her home. She was a niece of Mrs. Jessie Bachtel of Horse Shoe Run.

Gay Roth of Thomas was a patient last week in a Morgantown hospital and has returned to his home.

Gary, Julie, and Grayson Baker of Virginia Beach, Va., visited with his father, Stephen Baker of Terra Alta Pike, and her parents, Tom, Linda, and Sara Lewis at Eglon, plus numerous 1918, in Eglon, a daughter of the late Edward and Cora Lipscomb.

She was a member of the Aurora United Methodist Church, and attended the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora, for the past several years. She retired from Hopemont State Hospital, where she had been a nurse's aide.

She is survived by one son and daughter-in-law, Terry and Phyliss Vandevender, Aurora; four brothers, Warren and Sam Lipscomb, both of St. George, Cliff Lipscomb, of Tacoma, Wash., and Wayne Lipscomb, of Morgantown; two grandchildren, Laura Frazee and Brian Vandevender; and six great-grandchildren, John, Megan, Josh, Jenna, Chad, and Sydnee.

She was also preceded in death by her husband, Troy Jackson Vandevender; one brother, Harold Lipscomb; and four sisters, Virgie Lipscomb, Marge Tucker, Freda (Vick) Chipps, and Ruth Beamer.

Friends were received at the Arthur H. Wright Funeral Home, Terra Alta. A service was conducted Saturday, Nov. 13, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora, with the Rev. William Connelly officiating. Interment was at the Aurora Cemetery.

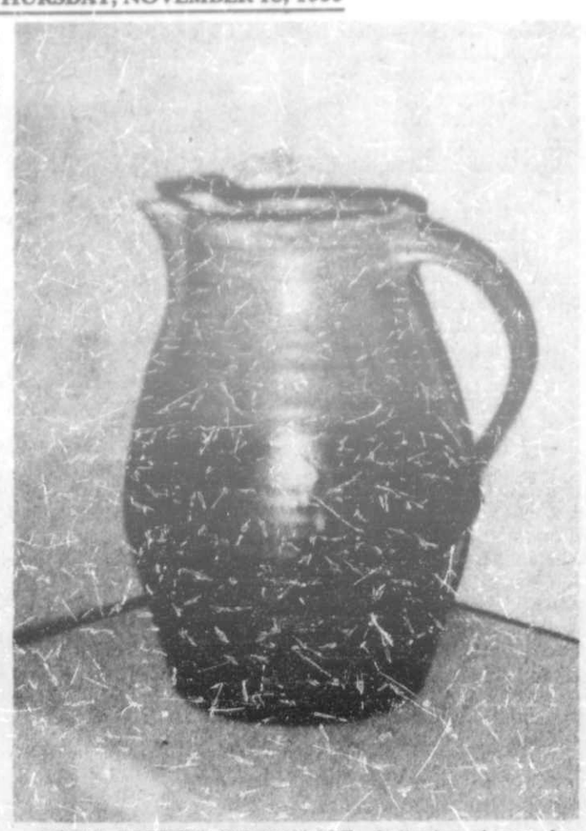
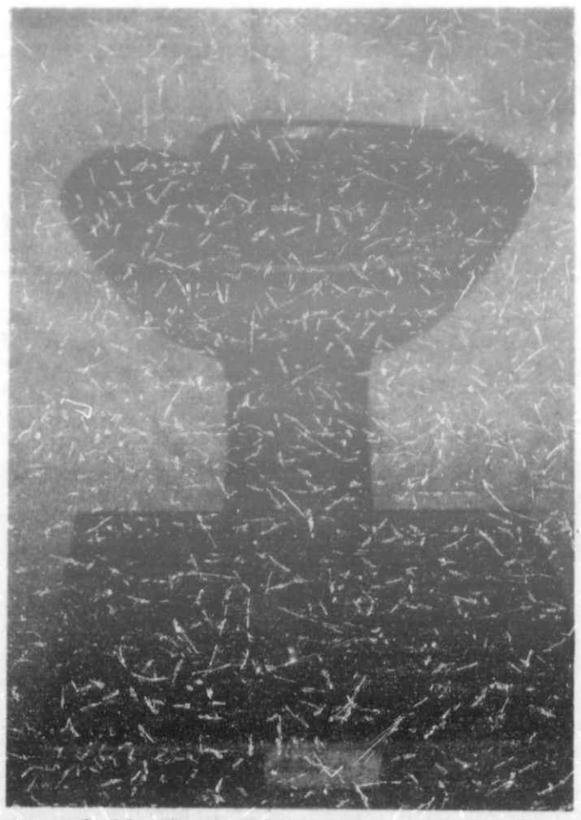
Garrett Potters Have Exhibit At GCC Gallery

An exhibition of ceramic pottery by five local potters is currently on display in the Art Gallery of Garrett Community College. A reception for the five artists — Elee Bookout, Lynn Lais, Pam Snyder, and Ron and Lorie Skidmore — is scheduled for this Saturday, Nov. 20, from 7 to 9 p.m. The public is invited.

The five potters are all residents of Garrett County, and this exhibit is the first time for them to show together as a group. The display includes both functional and decorative ceramic forms created through varying processes such as high-fire reduction stoneware, woodfired stoneware, raku, and oxidation-fired stoneware and earthenware. Many of the pieces are for sale, but the exhibit intends to also display unique creations from the artists' collections.

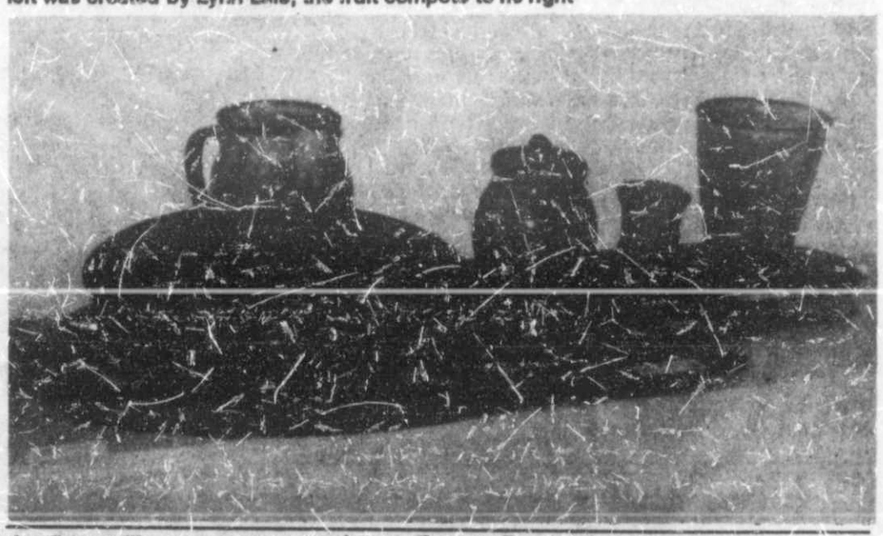


Elee Bookout has been a professional potter for nearly 15 years. She enjoys working with porcelain and stoneware, and exploring various new directions in glazing and firing techniques. She has an extensive career as artist and teacher with her work at the University of Maryland, the Prince George's County Board of Education, the Corcoran Gallery in Washington, D.C., and the Torpedo Factory Art Center in Alexandria, Va. She currently resides near Accident and operates a home business called Bear Creek Pottery.



Lynn Lais, a resident of the Grantsville area, is currently a self-employed potter at the Spruce Forest Artisan Village. He has been producing pottery for Penn Alps since 1982. Previous to moving to Garrett County, Lais was employed as a potter in Belgium and Switzerland, was a potter-in-residence at Hesson College in Kansas, and studied ceramics at Goshen College in Indiana and at Wichita State University in Kansas. His work is committed to functional pottery, and he has recently participated in the "Functional Ceramic Invitational" exhibition in Wooster, Ohio. He won Honorable Mention in the "Strictly Pottery National Juried Exhibition" in Ephonia, Pa.

Pam Snyder, a resident of Mtn. Lake Park, holds a bachelor's degree in art from West Virginia University. She is a former potter-in-residence at Penn Alps in Grantsville, and is currently exploring various expressions in ceramics. She is also an accomplished floral designer and owns and operates Jan Florist in Oakland.



Ron and Lorie Skidmore operate a home business named Laurel Ridge Pottery in McHenry. They specialize in functional earthenware pottery and lately have been experimenting with woodfiring and raku. Lorie has been doing pottery for nearly five years. She is a recent graduate of GCC with an A.A. degree in fine arts, and is currently the manager of the Four All Season Gift Shoppe at Drydock Plaza. Ron is gallery director and professor of art at Garrett Community College. He holds a B.S. degree in art education from FSU and a master of fine arts degree from WVU with a specialization in printmaking. His work in ceramics developed primarily through the association with other potters, and he has been teaching ceramics at GCC for over 10 years.

The exhibit is sponsored in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

LOCAL POTTERS DISPLAY ART - A display of ceramics produced by local artists is currently on exhibit at the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College. Each of the five participating artists are represented here by a selection from their works. The pitcher above to left was created by Lynn Lais; the fruit compote to its right was crafted by Elee Bookout; and the assortment shown below contains works by Ron and Lorie Skidmore. The artists will be on hand to discuss their works with the public during a reception at the GCC gallery set for Saturday, Nov. 20, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Holiday Bazaar To Benefit Local Senior Citizens

The Area Agency on Aging will hold a holiday bazaar at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, on Thursday, Dec. 2, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Many activities have been scheduled for the bazaar. Persons attending may buy raffle tickets for a 50/50 drawing. Crafts made by local seniors will be available for purchase along with various baked goods.

A turkey dinner "with all the trimmings" will be served during the bazaar from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The cost for each dinner is $5.50, and carry-outs are available.

The dinner and bazaar are open to persons of all ages, and tickets for the turkey dinner can be purchased at county nutrition sites in Oakland, Accident, Grantsville, Friendsville, Gorman, Swanton, and Kitzmiller. All proceeds will benefit area seniors who are being served by the Area Agency on Aging's Home-Delivered Meals Program.

Women Meet At St. Paul's Church

The 43rd annual meeting of the Grantsville and North East Garrett Charges of the United Methodist Women was held Friday at St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

Marsha Swauger welcomed everyone and Pastor Brenda Shreve from the Grantsville Charge read the scripture, taken from Psalms, the 138th chapter. Pastor Shreve also shared a reading and a poem on what persons should be thankful for.

Corniza Gray and Allen Hetz presented a program of gospel music. The roll call revealed that in attendance were three from State Line, seven from Jennings, three from Emmanuel, two from Mt. Zion, and eight from St. Paul's.

Marsha Swauger presented each UMW president, guest, and the pastor with a gift.

50th Anniversary Festivities Planned For Legeer Couple

Robert and Maxine (Buckel) Legeer will celebrate 50 years of marriage on December 3. The couple wed in 1949 in Bittinger with the Rev. Curt H. Runze officiating.

Mr. Legeer is retired from the Department of Motor Vehicles, Washington, D.C., and is now employed as a Garrett County school bus driver. He is an active member of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department and Allegany/Garrett County Firemen's Association.

Mrs. Legeer is a homemaker and avid quilter.

The couple has four children, Robert P. Legeer, Sharon Lowery, Terry Caparella, and Phyllis Lowe, plus seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

An open house to celebrate their anniversary will be held November 27 at the Bittinger fire hall. Although some invitations have been sent, all friends and relatives are invited to attend. It is requested that gifts be omitted.

Evans-Perando Vows Exchanged

Susan N. Evans and Dale E. Perando were united in marriage on October 15, 1999, in Aspen, Colo. The ceremony was held along the Roaring Forks River in Aspen and performed by retired judge Robert Gruder, a native of Colorado. They spent several days in Aspen and then traveled throughout the state.

Susan is the daughter of Mary and Charles P. Evans Jr. of Oakland and is employed as engineering technician at Morgan C. France, L.S., P.E., Oakland.

Dale is the son of Madeline and Harold Stark of Mountain Lake Park and is recently retired from 28 years of service with the Maryland Environmental Service as assistant regional supervisor of Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties.

The couple now reside in the Deer Park area.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Six couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to David Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court. Two couples requested that their names not be published.

Freeman Albert Runner III, 30, and Rhonda Lynn Keily, 35, both of Kingwood, W.Va.

Anthony James Spencer, 20, Windham, Ohio, and Crystal Jean McKinley, 15, Weston, W.Va.

John Dennison, 75, and Margaret Ellen Ashby, 72, both of Westernport.

Paul Jon Ulyas, 29, and Mindy Lynn Karloski, 26, both of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tara Crossland To Marry Dr. Stephen Folickman

Suesann L. Crossland, Oakland, announces the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Tara Christine Crossland, to Dr. Stephen R. Folickman, both of Oakland. The couple have planned a December 4 wedding at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, to be officiated by Rev. Michael Robinson.

Miss Crossland is a native of Garrett County and a 1994 graduate of Southern High School. Dr. Folickman is a podiatrist and owner of Seth's Self Storage near Deep Creek Lake.

They are both licensed Maryland and West Virginia realtors with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. They reside in Oakland with Shannon Folickman, a freshman at Southern High School, and Florian Hugentobler, a foreign exchange student from Switzerland, who is a junior at Southern.

Healing At Home
Home Care Nurses Bringing Skill And Comfort To Promote Recovery

by Peggy Santamaria

Home — This word signifies, perhaps more than any other, a sense of comfort and well-being. People who are regaining strength following surgery or dealing with a severe chronic illness may benefit greatly from being at home while healing. At home the person is surrounded by what is familiar to all the senses — the sounds of the neighborhood, the warmth of the hand-stitched quilt on the bed, the smell of coffee brewing in the morning, the family photos on the dresser.

Garrett County residents facing convalescence from ill-health are fortunate to have highly qualified home care teams to offer the skilled nursing services necessary to promote recovery. Supervised by Sharon Buckel and Marsha McKenzie, Garrett County Health Department home care teams fan out across the county to meet the health needs of the community.

Two of the many being cared for in their homes by the nurses on the home health team spoke recently about the importance of this service and their gratitude for the professionalism and the kindness extended to them when it was needed most.

Mary Murphy

Following recent multiple surgeries, Oakland resident Mary Magdalene Murphy at age 75 was weak when she returned home following her hospital stay. Unable to be up and about, she required physical therapy as well as post-surgical care and monitoring of vital signs.

While she has been regaining her stamina and health, Mrs. Murphy has been able to be in her home of 19 years, surrounded by her personal belongings. Her cat lazily napped on top of the silent television set. A collection of stuffed animals, toys, and dolls decked the walls of her cozy bedroom and ceramic knick knacks gleamed from cabinet shelves. "I love my home," she said, glancing about.

GROWING STRONGER each day, Mrs. Murphy relies on the skilled and gentle hands of her Home Care nurse, Virginia Foglepole. In addition to the professional treatment that Virginia provides, she brings a friendly concern which is appreciated by those she cares for.

Mrs. Murphy said she was most comfortable being in her own home and knowing that she would receive the medical attention that she would need in order to recover. "I don't know what I'd do without these people," she said, as home care nurse Shirley Foglepole finished checking her heartrate.

Even though the home care nurses are not working in a hospital setting, they perform all tests and screenings as if they were, according to the physician's treatment plan. The nurses may come several times a week or less, depending on need, until she is sufficiently strong to be discharged from care.

Eleanor Richter

Though Eleanor Richter has a large family in the area, the care she needed when she returned home following surgery exceeded what relatives could offer. The 84-year-old great-great grandmother was frail and weak and required skilled nursing and physical therapy. But she was home.

Seated in an armchair in her livingroom, Mrs. Richter had a view of the photographs of her six children and their children and grandchildren smiling from picture frames on a table top. Sandy, a devoted 15-year-old cocker spaniel, curled up near Mrs. Richter just to keep an eye on things.

What does Mrs. Richter have to say about the home health team caring for her? "I think they have been wonderful. They have been on the ball all the time," she stated with an emphatic nod of her head.

Mrs. Richter described the work that the physical therapist has done with her as she has strengthened her legs and her feet. "When I had surgery once before, I had trouble with my arms. They froze up and I couldn't move them. The physical therapist showed me then how to get the movement back. I did it myself this time and they didn't freeze up," she said.

Health education is part of home care service. The nurses teach clients and family members or caregivers how to reduce health risks and how to enhance the healing process of the patient. "It is important that the clients learn about the treatment and how it is affecting the body. It is our goal to have them understand what is going to happen," said team coordinator McKenzie, who has been a home care nurse for 15 years.

Peggy Chappell, a nurse on the home care team, timed Mrs. Richter's pulse while Sandy, the cocker-spaniel, gazed steadily at her from across the room. After chatting about several medical issues and progress being made, Mrs. Richter shared some cooking tips with Peggy. "I learn a lot from the people I visit," she noted.

In Body And In Spirit

Through the home care program, a person is able to cling to the security and comfort of home at a time of physical discomfort, frailty, and perhaps fear. The home care nursing staff bring to the patient the peace of mind that comes with confidence in the skills of the caregiver. Both Mrs. Richter and Mrs. Murphy praised the competence and compassion of the nursing teams that cared for them. Mrs. Murphy summed it up simply when she said, "These people who come here, well, they are just great!"

For more information on the home care program, persons may call the health department at 301-334-8113 or 301-895-3112.

BODY AND SPIRIT RESPOND to the competent, professional care of the Garrett County Health Department Home Care nurse. Eleanor Richter, recovering at home from her hospital stay, welcomes the friendly visits of Peggy Chappell, who provides the level of medical treatment required along with a strong dose of warm support. In the photo above, Peggy checks Mrs. Richter's pulse as part of her regular procedures.

Dr. Bissell Now Providing Care In Grantsville

Dr. Robin Bissell has established a family practice in the Grantsville medical center. As a primary care physician, she provides service to patients of all ages in an ambulatory setting. "I particularly enjoy taking care of children and of the elderly," Dr. Bissell said.

She has a express interest in developing treatment plans for patients with diabetes, she explained. "We work with a special diet to help patients manage their carbohydrate intake," she stated. One of Dr. Bissell's goals in providing treatment is to empower the patient through education to prevent illness through healthy lifestyles.

Moving to Garrett County from the College Park area has been a very positive experience, Dr. Bissell noted. "It is just so beautiful here. We bought 24 acres near the state park and really enjoy it. Our two children are adapting to the changes and making new friends," she said.

A Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians, Dr. Bissell brings to her new practice a depth of education and a wide scope of experience in patient care. She has held a Maryland state license to practice medicine and surgery since 1986. Prior to coming to Garrett County, she served as site supervising physician at Dimensions Affiliated Physicians in College Park, where she was responsible for providing care and over-seeing all aspects of office operations.

Dr. Bissell has also had a private practice and worked in urgent care centers in Annapolis, and in Middletown and Hartford, Conn. She also served as primary care physician for a population of refugees through the Washington, D.C., Department of Health and Human Services.

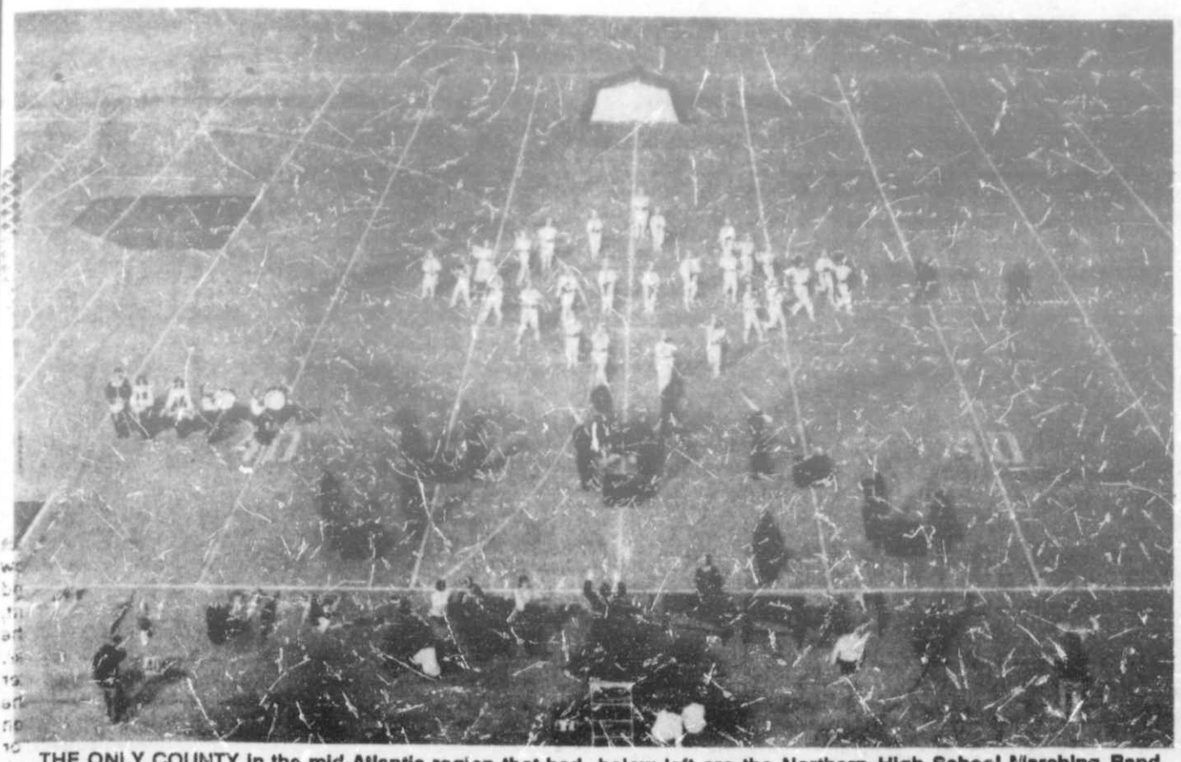
Having earned a bachelor of science degree in psychology at the University of Colorado, Dr. Bissell went on to earn a bachelor of science degree in nursing, followed by her doctor of medicine degree also at the University of Colorado. She served her internship in internal medicine at SUNY Upstate Medical Center, Syracuse, N.Y., and was a family medicine resident at Middlesex Family Practice Residency in Middlesex, Conn.

Dr. Bissell served on the Governor's Task Force for the Prevention of Teen Pregnancy in Prince George's County and is a member of several medical societies, including the American Academy of General Practitioners, the Maryland Academy of Family Physicians, and the Medical Chirurgical Society of Maryland.

TRUCKERS SUPPORT DOVE CENTER - The first Western Maryland Truck Show (WMTS), held in Grantsville the last weekend in August, brought big rigs from around the region to "strut their stuff" and compete for trophies. The three-day family event, featuring games, music, and food, in addition to the shiny trucks, raised $3,000 for the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault resource center. The formal presentation of a "check" was made recently in the new Dove Center outreach office in Grantsville. The funds have been allocated for a fax machine for the new site and facility upgrades at the shelter. In the photo above, from left, are Carson Yoder, coordinator of WMTS, Sherry Pope, treasurer of WMTS, Dove Center counselor Kristiann Germain, Dove Center executive director Linda Spasail, Jim McFarland, WMTS coordinator, and Brenda LeMay, Dove Center counselor. Proudly holding the "check" are Travis and Sydney McFarland, who helped their dad work on the project.

Child Safety Seat Check Slated By State Police

The Maryland State Police, McHenry Barrack, will be participating in Operation ABC Mobilization: America Buckles up Children.



A child safety seat check is scheduled to be held between the hours of 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at the Maryland State Police Barrack, McHenry. All concerned parents are encouraged to bring their vehicles and safety seats to the barrack. Troopers from the McHenry and Cumberland barracks, in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department, will be checking seats for proper installation. This is a free service for the community to increase safety and reduce the risk of accident-related injuries to children.

THE ONLY COUNTY in the mid-Atlantic region that had 100% of its high school bands in the Atlantic Coast Championships, held last weekend in Scranton, Pa., was Garrett County, as both Northern and Southern high school bands were among the top 26 in the multiple-state region that qualified for the event. Pictured above and below left are the Northern High School Marching Band, which captured 10th place in the championships with a score of 90.15 and earned a silver medal. Above and below right is the Southern Garrett Marching Band, which earned a score of 86.35 to place 16th and earn a bronze medal. The event was held at Lackawanna Stadium before a crowd of thousands of fans. Pittston High School won the competition with a score of 96.55. "I was pleased with our performance, but it did not reach the level of our Chapter 13 championships show," stated Richard Clever, Southern band director. "I am very proud of this band, though. They improved with each show and really put their hearts into their performances. I think they will be remembered as one of the best bands at Southern, and that says a lot. The seniors have had a great four years. In looking ahead to next year we are going to need a lot of help replacing our 14 graduating seniors." Photos courtesy of Shari Harris.

4-H Club News

RED HOUSE
by Marcella Moreland
reporter

New enrollment packs being passed out by Marcella was only one of the things our club had to do in November. After B.J. Upole led pledges, the Cloverbuds were dismissed to their meeting area and the 23 members and 14 adults and visitors present discussed the Christmas dinner, to be held on December 1, 6 p.m., at the meeting. Each family is to bring a drink, covered dish, and dessert. The ham and turkey will be supplied by the Cussinses and Joneses. Paper products will be brought by the Brennemans. The club awards ceremony and officer ceremony will be held after the dinner.

B.J., Marcella, a friend, and parent mowed the graveyard for October and cleaned it off for the winter. Marcella attended the County Council meeting at the Extension office and reported on all the news.

The club voted to make a card/money tree for Jock Jones, grandfather of Catlin Jones and Cassy Cussins, instead of a sunshine basket. We will put it together at the dinner and have it delivered by the family.

Demonstrations were given by Cassy about homemade play dough, Daniel Skipper on his camera and picture taking, and Frank Andersen on meat birds.

Officers for the year 2000 were elected: president, Steve Knepp; vice president, Frank Andersen; secretary, Stacey Holler; treasurer, Levi Green; reporter, Stephanie Brenneman; photographer, Michelle Holler; and scrapbook, Eli Green. We voted as a club to work together on our fund-raising ideas.

Before Ben Knepp adjourned the meeting, we were reminded to bring back the enrollment, completed, by the January meeting, and the Cloverbuds showed us the Thanksgiving and Christmas snow globes they had made.

Accident Sets Schedule For Holiday Events

The traditional events of the celebration of Christmas in Flowery Vale have been scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Dec. 10-11.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church will host the opening of the festivities with a musical program, the lighting of the town tree, and a live nativity scene on Friday beginning at 7 p.m. At the conclusion of the ceremony, there will be caroling through the town followed by refreshments and a visit from Santa at Flowery Vale.

A craft and bake sale is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday at Flowery Vale, where a luncheon will be offered from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Also on Saturday from 5 to 7 p.m., various homes, churches, and the Drane House, decorated for the holidays, will open around Accident to extend hospitality to visitors.

Saturday evening beginning at 7:30 p.m. at Flowery Vale, the Festival of Music will be performed by the Accident Concert Band and the Community in Harmony Chorus.

Hanline Home Among Those In Holiday Tour

The 1999 American Red Cross Home for the Holidays house tours will be held on the first weekend of December, and will include the home of Norman and Janice Hanline, located along John Drive in Oakland. The Hanlines join the families of George and Dawn Scheffel, Carl and Ann Rebele, and Louis DiCarlo in opening their homes for the annual fund-raiser. Tours of two businesses will be in the line-up as well: Simon Pearce Glass and the Deer Park Inn.

THE HOME OF NORMAN AND JANICE HANLINE

The Hanlines' Tudor style home, constructed of brick, native stone, and stucco, was custom built in 1991 for the former owners, Rex and Janet Archer. The Archers occupied the house until July 1998, when they moved out of the area. The Hanlines, long-time proprietors of the Town Motel in Oakland, acquired the home in January of this year.

The great room features a 15-foot high native stone fireplace with a 7-foot oak mantel. The cathedral ceiling is accented with numerous recessed lights and a ceiling fan. A built-in stereo cabinet provides music throughout the home.

The great room extends into a dining room with large glass doors that open onto a brick patio. A brick walkway through a perennial garden connects to another brick patio, where visitors may view the sunset. The kitchen decor includes oak cabinetry and ceramic tile cabinet tops.

A bay window with a seat enhances the breakfast nook, which extends into a family room with a pellet stove and sliding doors that open onto a large deck. A sun porch serves as a back entryway from the deck and garage. Also on the first floor is a small bedroom with a bath, a laundry room with a large closet, and the foyer, which is entered through a leaded glass door with side panels. Upon entering, guests will notice a crystal chandelier suspended from the 15-foot high ceiling.

The second floor has three bedrooms and three full baths, one with a Jacuzzi tub. One bedroom has a loft area that can only be reached by ladder. The second floor family room provides ample space for big-screen television viewing, and is complete with a mini-kitchen with a sink, microwave, and a refrigerator. A staircase there leads to a sun room.

After moving into their new home, the Hanlines refinished the oak hardwood floors and installed gas-burning logs and the pellet stove. They also installed a gas cook stove and other kitchen appliance additions.

This will be the eighth annual Home for the Holidays house tours event sponsored by the American Red Cross, and is one of the local chapter's largest fund-raisers. Tickets for the tours, which are $5 in advance or $7 at the door, are available at Englander's, Gregg's, and Proudfoot's pharmacies, Flowers by Webers along Weber Road, Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry, and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

Raffles will be held at each tour stop. Guests will be asked to refrain from photographing the sites.

ON-LINE SCAVENGER HUNT CONDUCTED BY STUDENTS -- Fifth grade students from Yough Glades Elementary School took part in Oakland's 150th birthday celebration in October by conducting an on-line scavenger hunt that involved historical facts of the town. Fourth and fifth grade pupils from Dennett Road, Broad Ford, and Swan Meadow elementary schools participated in the hunt, as did one home-schooler. Adults also took the challenge, answering questions about Oakland and figuring out a "partial picture" test. See story. The students who helped build and conduct the hunt are pictured above. In the front row, left to right, are Sara Beckman, Elizabeth Ray, Dean Hoffman, Katey Gregy, Greg Hartner, and Andrew Pritts. Second row, same order: Shane Rounds, T.J. Sisler, Chris Hechmer, Travis Keller, Patrick Sisler, Stephen Schrock, Ashley Sharpless, Justin Ratliff, Matthew Burns, and Michael Crosby. Third row: Erick Cussins, Seth Friend, Natalie Rohrbaugh, Ashley Rhodes, Lacy Paugh, Nicole Harvey, Heidi Liller, Brianna Everidge, Dustin Shreve, and Cody Broadwater. Shown on the playground equipment, same order, are Tonya Burns, Robby Stark, Matt Cruise, Seth Fike, and Sean Ashby. On the top are Amanda Ashby, Lara Madigan, Amber Plank, Chelsea Locke, and Jennifer Von Hagel.

Yough Students Conduct On-Line Scavenger Hunt

As part of the recent celebration of Oakland's 150th anniversary, fifth grade students at Yough Glades Elementary School conducted an on-line Oakland History Scavenger Hunt for 10 days in October. The web site included trivia questions about the historic town, as well as a partial photo contest.

Fourth and fifth graders from Dennett Road, Broad Ford, and Swan Meadow elementary schools participated in the hunt. One home-schooler, Elizabeth Callis, also took part in the contest. The winning class was Diane Dean Anderson's from Dennett Road, who answered all but one of the trivia questions. The photo contest was won by Debbie Hinebaugh's students at Broad Ford, who were able to identify all of the partial photographs.

The idea for the on-line activity was that of the Sesquicentennial Planning Committee, upon the suggestion of Mayor Asa McCain. The mayor had wished to include as many youth activities as possible throughout the weeklong celebration, and Linda Martin, a Yough Glades teacher who also served on the planning committee, offered to organize and help launch the site.

Assisting Martin at Yough Glades was teacher Jill Gracie. Swan Meadow teachers who helped were Linda Fleming (and her students) and Pat Bonafield. At Dennett Road, assistance came from teachers Norma Rickman, Suzanne Sincell, Irene Sigel, and Diane Anderson. At Broad Ford, helpers were teachers Debbie Hinebaugh and Lorie Burdock. Photographer John McEwen took the partial photos, e-mailed them to GRIC, and David Lee helped to arrange them on the site.

"The community support for this project was impressive," said Martin. "In our school and schools throughout this county, the focus is on building character and working toward being productive citizens. The people who lent their time and talents to make the project special for our students are to be commended. We want our students to realize that people working together for the good of others is a prime example of being productive citizens."

Gospel Sing Set Tomorrow In Pleasant Valley

The Pleasant Valley Gospel Sing is set for tomorrow, Nov. 19, from 7 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. In its fifth year, the monthly event is designed to provide a setting for local musicians and singers to perform both individually and in group jam sessions.

Admittance is free, and participants may join the proceedings at any time during the evening. Refreshments will be available, and a professional quality sound system featuring a mini-disc unit and a tape player are provided as well.

The Pleasant Valley Community Center is located along Joni Miller Road just south of Rigidply Rafters. A sign posted along Route 219 South indicates the turn-off from Rt. 219 South onto Paul Friend Road. For more information persons may call Frank or Helen West of Jesus Cares Ministries at 301-334-9456.

FSU To Host Feminist Leader Eleanor Smeal

Eleanor Smeal, president and co-founder of the Feminist Majority Foundation and past president of NOW, will speak at Frostburg State University on "Forging Feminism and Fighting the Backlash" Thursday, Dec. 2, at 2 p.m. in Lane Center Room 201. This event is free and open to the public.

Smeal is a renowned leader in the feminist and civil rights movements. She was also the longest-standing president of the National Organization for Women and a key leader in the campaign to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment. She is trained as a political scientist and was the first to identify the "gender gap" — the difference in the way women and men vote. She is the author of How and Why Women Will Elect the Next President (Harper and Row, 1984).

For more information, persons may contact John O'Rorke in the FSU Department of Political Science, 301-687-4277.

Hobby House Press Owners Endow GCCF Ruddell Family Scholarship

Future students in two of Garrett Community College's most prominent offerings, the Adventure Sports and the Business (soon to be christened Business and Information Technology) programs, will have the opportunity to compete for scholarship funds through the Ruddell Family Scholarship. The annual award was established recently through a $20,000 contribution from the owners and operators of Grantsville-based Hobby House Press, a family-owned business founded 57 years ago by Paul A. Ruddell I and his late wife, J. Pauline Ruddell.

Gary R. Ruddell, president and publisher at Hobby House Press, which specializes in collectible-oriented books, along with Luanne Ruddell, his wife and the company's sales and marketing manager, announced the contribution last week in a ceremony at the college. The scholarship is dedicated to his parents, who founded the publishing company together in 1942 out of their apartment near Washington, D.C.

An additional $1,500 was donated by Susan (Ruddell) Grant and her husband, William Grant Jr., Monross, Va., to make the award possible for the first academic year of the scholarship, which will thenceforth be awarded in perpetuity by the GCCF. Paul Ruddell's sister, Marion Butler, 97, of Raynore, Mo., also contributed to the scholarship.

"I believe that knowledge builds the vitality and strength of a community," stated Gary Ruddell, who also works to promote economic development in the county through his service as co-chair of the technology committee of the Western Maryland Economic Development Task Force.

"The Ruddell Family Scholarship will provide educational opportunities to individuals in the Tri-State Area," Ruddell said of the annual award, which will be designated for a resident of Garrett or Allegany Countys, Preston or Tucker Countys, W.Va., or Somerset County, Pa.

The scholarship is restricted to individuals who enroll in the business or adventure sports academic programs. One $750 scholarship for business majors and one $750 scholarship for adventure sports majors will be awarded for the 2000-2001 academic year at the college.

"This will be the first scholarship the Adventure Sports program will have to offer our students," AVS program director Mike Logsdon noted. "We've grown rapidly to now serve between 70 and 90 students here at GCC, half of whom are Garrett County residents. The Ruddell Family Scholarship will enable us to help students from this region gain entry into the expanding AVS industry in its early stages."

Terry Norris of the college's business program concurred. "We're also a growing program that will benefit greatly from this scholarship. We currently have 90 business majors, 50 of whom are studying information technology and other computer-related fields. We hope to turn out leaders in the industry, some of whom may be lucky enough to work for Hobby House Press someday."

RUDDELL FAMILY ENDOWS GCCF SCHOLARSHIP - Gary Ruddell, president and publisher of Hobby House Press, and his wife Luanne, the company's sales and marketing manager, presented a $20,000 contribution to the Garrett Community College Foundation to endow the Ruddell Family Scholarship recently. The annual scholarship will honor Paul A. Ruddell I and his late wife, J. Pauline Ruddell, founders of Hobby House Press and parents of Gary Ruddell and his four siblings. "We want to extend our deepest appreciation to Gary and Luanne Ruddell and their entire family," said Dr. Stephen J. Herman, GCC's president. "Their generosity is exemplary. This scholarship is a wonderful testimony to the lives of Paul and Pauline Ruddell." Pictured above in front of the GCCF Tree of Learning following the ceremony are, from the left, Herman, and three generations of the Ruddell family -- Gary, Paul, Luanne, and Paul Ruddell II, son of Gary and Luanne Ruddell. The Grantsville-based firm has expanded to employ 34 associates since moving to the Northern Garrett Industrial Park in 1994.

"The Garrett Community College Foundation gratefully acknowledges this extremely generous contribution, " added Ann M. Smith, GCCF president. "We are honored to receive the Ruddell Family Scholarship."

The endowed portion of this donation will be matched, dollar for dollar, by the state of Maryland under the re-establishment (as of this past July 1) of the Private Donation Incentive program. The state match brings the value of the Ruddell Family Scholarship endowment to $40,000.

With the Ruddell Family Scholarship, individuals may pursue transfer programs — two-year programs of study which prepare students for transfer to four-year colleges or universities; career advancement programs — two-year programs of study which prepare students for employment; and certificate programs — one-year programs of study which prepare students for immediate employment in a specific field. The recipients must enroll as a full-time students at GCC, have a high school cumulative average of at least C, and maintain a college semester average of at least C.

"Gary and Luanne Ruddell have joined a special group of benefactors of Garrett Community College," commented Bretta Reinhard, GCCF advancement officer. "Hobby House Press is a company with an international reputation. We are delighted to have an association with an organization of this stature."

Spruce Forest To Host Holiday Festival Visitors

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, located along the Old National Road between Penn Alps Restaurant and the historic 1813 Casselman Bridge, Grantsville, will hold its 14th annual Christmas in the Village on Friday and Saturday, December 3-4.

Visitors may enjoy the complimentary refreshments and a variety of activities, such as children's cookie art in the oldest log cabin schoolhouse in western Maryland, holiday music, candlelight, and decorated authentic log cabins which house artisans at work.

There will also be fireside storytelling, door prizes, People's Choice voting, and holiday decorations, handmade by second graders at Friendsville Elementary School. A live nativity scene will be presented by the Oak Grove Mennonite Church Youth Group each evening at 6:30 p.m., and a Christmas cantata will be performed by the Grantsville Community Chorus on Friday evening at 7:30 in the heated 1903 Village Church.

"Folks may visit us on Friday from 4 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from noon to 9 p.m," said village administrator Trish Morgan. "Many of our festival-goers enjoy coming at dusk and then staying throughout the evening when our village is lit up by hundreds and hundreds of candlelight," she concluded.

Admission is $1 per person for those over age 12, and these donations will be used to help offset the nonprofit Spruce Forest's event expenses. For directions to the artisan village, or for more information about Christmas in the Village and other townwide activities on December 3-4, persons may contact Morgan at 301-895-3332 or tmorgan@spruceforest.org. This event is sponsored in part by the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils.

Scouts Collect 2,149 Pounds Of Food In Drive

Local Cub Scout packs and troops were busy last week collecting food for their annual "Scouting for Food" project. Each year scouts across the country participate in the largest annual organized food drive in the world, which nets over 2 million pounds of food nationwide.

Southern Garrett County Scouts designated the food that they collected for the House of Hope's Deer Park food pantry. Together the Scouts collected 2,149 pounds of food, making it one of the most successful Scouting for Food drives in recent memory.

Art Lake, a volunteer for the House of Hope, said, "This was really needed. Our shelves were pretty empty, but now they are full."

Cub Scout Pack 70 brought in the most food, with 1,695 pounds, while Troop 22, Pack 31, and Troop 1 brought in 299, 98, and 56 pounds, respectively.

Ryan Gosnell of Troop 22 collected 168 pounds to lead all Scouts in the area. Cub Scout collectors were led by Derek Taylor of Pack 70, with 118 pounds. Mike McConnell and Seth Hinebaugh, also of Pack 70, collected 104 and 95 pounds, respectively.

Fike Graduates With Top Honors In Social Work

Danelle Fike, a 1996 graduate of Northern High School, graduated summa cum laude (with top honors) recently with a bachelor of science degree in social work from Frostburg State University. Fike concluded her educational experience after completing a summer internship at the Comprehensive Inpatient Rehabilitation Unit located within the Western Maryland Health System, Memorial Campus, under the direction of system director Mrs. T.J. Himmler, MSW.

During the seven semesters it took Fike to complete her degree, she maintained a 3.925 grade point average. In addition to being a member of Phi Eta Sigma and a 1996 Horatio Alger National Scholar, she also worked part time while attending Frostburg at Schoolhouse Earth, Hoyes. Prior to graduation, Fike was accepted into the advanced standing Masters of Social Work program at West Virginia University.

She is the daughter of Gene and Sherry Fike, Friendsville.

All is quiet. Concentration is thick in the room. "You had better make a move. Right or wrong...hurry up or you'll lose your turn. Let's go!"

"Its Your Move"

Life is like a game. Each of us is responsible for our own moves, whether in response to another's or whether we make the first move. Whatever the situation, we must take action based on what we know of the rules and what we have learned from experience. No one can make that move for us. We must do it ourselves or we miss our turn.

The great playwright Thornton Wilder summed it up..."Keep making the movements of life," he said. "That is the only way to learn and grow. Have the courage to believe in yourself and to make a move on what you believe. If you are right, that's good. If you are mistaken, that's good too, for learning is the name of the game."

Worship God each week. When you play the game by His rules, you can't lose. It's your move.

DIABETES CONTROL
FOOD-EXERCISE-MEDICINES

The key to good diabetes control is balance. Good diabetes control is keeping blood-glucose levels (the amount of glucose or sugar in your blood) as near to normal as possible. In other words you want to prevent your blood sugar level from going too high (hyperglycemia) or too low (hypoglycemia).

The diabetic gets good control by balancing the diet (what and how much is eaten), exercise (how much activity), and insulin or oral medications. Each plays a role in either raising or lowering your sugar levels.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ANNOUSE

JOSHUA OR JESUS?

November 21, 1999

Background Scripture:
Joshua 6.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 47.

As a boy, I was fascinated by the Crusades. Like most people, I gloried in the chivalry of knights on a quest to wrest the Holy Land from the heathens. Later, when I studied the history of the English Civil War I was captured by the exploits of Oliver Cromwell in winning the British Isles for the Protestant faith.

It was only considerably later when I was in college that I learned that the Crusades were one of the most shameful episodes in Christendom. I also realized that Oliver Cromwell, for all of his piety and passion for reform, was a ruthless tyrant who slaughtered thousands because of his hatred and fear of Roman Catholicism. It also became apparent that both the Crusaders and Cromwell's Round heads looked, not to Jesus and the four gospels for their guidance, but the bloodbaths of the Old Testament. These warriors—Israelites, Crusaders, Round heads and others—had a religious passion, but it was not a passion that is compatible with the good news of Jesus Christ.

'UTTERLY DESTROY'

So, what do we do with a story like the one we find in Joshua 6, where God is depicted as calling for the decimation of all the people of Jericho? I don't think we can equivocate about the text: "And the city and all that is within it shall be devoted to the Lord for destruction." "Then they utterly destroyed all in the city, both men and women, young and old, oxen, sheep and asses, with the edge of the sword" (6:17, 21). "And they burned the city with fire, and all within it" (6:24). Can you put Jesus Christ in this picture? I cannot.

How can we understand this conflict between Old Testament extermination and New Testament "turn the other cheek" love. Some people might answer that God used to operate in this manner—killing men, women, children, young and old—but that Jesus changed all that. That may work for you, but it doesn't for me. Others might counter by saying that the purpose was God's but the tactics were Joshua's. In other words, Joshua's methods colored the chronicling of this event. Perhaps. A third solution would be that God was not involved in any of this, but that the Israelites put him in the story to sanction what they did. Still others would maintain that, not only did God operate this way in Old Testament times, but that he still operates that way today. That makes me cringe.

This view of God makes it easy for us to justify the depredations of the Crusades, the inhuman crimes of the Inquisition, the decimation of America's native Americans, the Holocaust of World War II and the Ethnic Cleansing in Yugoslavia today. I cannot put Jesus in any of those pictures either. Can you?

DIVINELY ORDAINED?

I do not wish to quarrel with this text or those who chose it for a Sunday school lesson, but I cannot consc

Y2K Questions and Answers
Garrett County Y2K Community Conversation

Will the Y2K problem create major national disruptions in critical services?

There is no indication at this time that the Y2K problem will cause national disruptions in basic infrastructures such as electric power, telecommunications, banking, and transportation.

What should I do now to prepare for the year 2000?

Stay informed. Always be prepared for temporary disruptions in services, no matter what the cause.

Could Y2K failures in billing systems wipe out my payment records?

It is unlikely that your records will be erased. But, just in case, it is always a good idea to keep copies of billing and payment records.

Should I keep cash on hand at home?

You may want to keep a small amount of cash for personal needs and in the event ATM machines do not work. You always should keep records of your current bank statements.

There is talk that the Y2K problems will cause massive power outages. Is this true?

The possibility of minor power outages can never be completely ruled out, just as in bad weather. However, massive power outages are not expected as a result of Y2K, but could happen because of severe snowstorms. You should always be prepared, no matter what the reason.

What have manufacturers done to make certain all the microchips used in home appliances, wristwatches, photographic equipment, etc., will work?

Consumer product manufacturers have been making changes to avoid the problem. If you are concerned about an older appliance in your home, call the toll-free number for the manufacturer and/or access web sites to answer Y2K questions.

Is the food supply likely to suffer serious interruptions in distribution? How much food should a family keep on hand?

USDA feels it is unlikely there will be serious interruptions in the U.S. food supply. Should consumers create excessive demands in a short period of time, this could cause distribution problems since most stores do not keep a large inventory of merchandise on hand. Consumers should plan and shop in advance of the end of the month. A three- to five-day supply of water and non-perishable goods, and a tank of gas in your car is a good rule of thumb to prepare for any interruption in normal routine. Allow one gallon of water per person per day. Select foods that are nutrient rich and require no refrigeration, preparation, or cooking and little or no water. Food items kept in reserve should be used/replaced every six months.

What about the items in the freezer and refrigerator?

Freezers kept full will stay frozen up to four days. (Use ice cubes or milk cartons filled with frozen water to fill the empty space of the freezer.) Refrain from opening refrigerators and freezers during a power outage. Cover them with blankets or unused sleeping bags. Personal ice chests can be used to avoid repeated opening of the refrigerator. Have plenty of flashlights and extra batteries on hand. Don't use candles for emergency lighting.

What about my prescriptions — Should I have them refilled?

Anticipate when your prescriptions will need to be refilled and avoid the very end of December or the first few days of January. This way you will miss all the anxiety associated with the unknowns of Y2K.

What records should I keep at home?

The records that you should normally have on hand should be kept in waterproof, portable containers. These are: wills, insurance policies, passports, social security cards, bank account numbers, credit card account numbers, inventory of valuable household goods, and family records or copies (birth, marriages, immunization).

A family emergency kit is always a good idea!

- Basic items are: water, food, first aid supplies, clothing, bedding, tools, and emergency supplies. Battery operated radio, clock, lighting.
- Store water in clean plastic containers. One gallon per person per day.
- Store ready-to-eat foods, canned meats, fruits, and vegetables. Make certain you have a hand-operated (non-electric) mechanical can opener available.
- Assemble a first aid kit. Include sterile bandages, safety pins, cleansing agents, nonprescription drugs, scissors, tweezers, needle, antiseptic, thermometer, etc.
- Sanitation items should be held in reserve. Toilet paper, feminine supplies, disinfectant, plastic garbage bags.
- Items for special needs of family members should be included: baby items, health needs related to diabetes, high blood pressure, contact lenses, eyeglasses.
- "Comfort foods," cookies, hard candies, sweetened cereals, etc.
- Children's books and games will help the young set pass time if the weather is bad or you are not able to stay in your home. Remember that children, as adults, need to be busy and feel great if they can help someone; provide opportunities to do that.

McIntire Named Vice President Of Major Corp.

Robert A. McIntire, a former resident of Oakland, has joined RTKL Associates Inc., an international architecture, planning, and engineering firm headquartered in Baltimore, as vice president and general counsel. Prior to joining RTKL, McIntire was a partner and principal with Daneker, McIntire, Davis, Schumm, Prince & Goldstein, P.C., a Baltimore-based law firm.

In making the announcement, David C. Hudson, AIA, RTKL president, commented, "Bob's extensive experience and expertise in contract and corporate law, particularly in the international arena and the complexities of acquisitions, is certain to prove invaluable as RTKL pursues its plans to open additional offices worldwide and acquire other firms. We are most pleased to have him as a member of our team as we seek to expand our global reach."

McIntire has 20 years' experience representing international architectural and engineering firms, including negotiation and drafting of A/E service agreements with government entities, foreign governments, nonprofit entities, private developers, and commercial owners. He is also highly experienced in bank regulation and commercial and real estate lending transactions. Further, he has represented closely held businesses as general counsel in the areas of formation, dissolution, merger, and organizational changes. Additionally, he has extensive management experience dealing with employment, litigation, budgeting, and cost control issues for a 350-employee law firm with offices in three states.

A founding partner in Daneker, McIntire, Davis, Schumm, Prince & Goldstein since 1995, McIntire was previously a partner with Semmes, Bowen & Semmes in Baltimore, serving as comptroller, administrative partner, and as a member of the executive committee during his 20-year tenure with the firm.

McIntire received his juris doctorate degree from the University of Pennsylvania Law School, and a bachelor of science degree with a double major in economics and political science from the University of Maryland. He is a Vietnam veteran, having served in Vietnam as a military policeman with the 25th Infantry Division.

In addition to his involvement in professional organizations, he presently serves as chair of the staff-parish relations committee for Grace United Methodist Church in Baltimore.

RTKL, one of the world's largest multi-disciplined design firms, is headquartered in Baltimore and maintains additional offices in Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C., London, Tokyo, Hong Kong, and Madrid. The firm's portfolio of work, which spans the U.S. and extends to 60 nations, includes planning and urban design, mixed-use developments, retail and entertainment centers, corporate facilities, hotels, resorts, government buildings, and healthcare facilities.

Doctor's discovery may end obesity

HILTON HEAD, S.C. -- A doctor believes that a natural formula containing the extract of a small Asian fruit can help cause significant weight loss.

Anthony A. Conte, M.D. reported in an American Medical Journal that the formula, now called Bio-Rex 3000™, caused patients to lose more than twice as much weight as those in a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition says that you don't have to reduce the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.

Dr. Conte says that animal studies suggest the mechanism behind the weight reduction is due to interruption of the "Krebs Cycle", an important step in the body's fat storage process. He says it may work the same way in humans. According to Dr. Conte, "The best part of this unique discovery is that it is not a drug, but a dietary food supplement. The Asian fruit, called garcinia, is similar to citrus fruit found in the United States with one big exception-- it may help some people fight obesity! While Dr. Conte's study may be preliminary, the exclusive North American distributor, Phillips Gulf Corp., is calling the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement "Nature's Ideal Diet Aid."

According to a spokesperson for the company, Bio-Rex 3000 is now available through pharmacies and nutrition stores or call 1-800-729-8446 or at www.phillipsgulf.com.

Bio-Rex 3000 is available at:

New Book By Al Feldstein Now Available

Amateur regional historian Al Feldstein, Cumberland, has announced the release of his latest work, Historic Coal Mining and Railroads of Allegany County. The book features 131 historic photographs and accompanying narratives depicting the area's rich coal mining and railroad heritage.

According to Feldstein, the narratives are "packed" with facts, dates, and other information tracing the development of the local mining and railroad industry. The publication also contains 22 mining-related graveside biographies from the author's previously published and out-of-print work titled Gone But Not Forgotten.

Although the focus of "Coal Mining and Railroads" is on Allegany County, Feldstein states that the obvious need existed to include Garrett County as well, to portray a more complete story of Maryland's coal mining history. In this regard, Garrett County is also featured in the book, with the inclusion of Kitzmiller, Shallmar, Mettiki, the West Virginia Central and Pittsburgh Railroad, Seventeen-Mile Grade, Gorman, Vindex, and Kempton.

The book is now available at the Book Mark'et in Oakland.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

The need is great this year. In Garrett County, Maryland, needy children will go cold this winter without your help.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is neighbors helping neighbors. The Republican is asking readers to donate to the fund, and the proceeds are being used to buy new winter clothing for needy area children. There are no administrative fees; all the money donated is used to buy warm winter clothing.

How are needy children being identified?

A collaborative effort to identify needy children is under way between the Department of Social Services, Healthy Families, the Dove Center, and other organizations. We want to help families who are trying to make ends meet, but who are simply in need of a boost this year.

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

The staff at The Republican has recruited volunteers to serve as "shoppers" who accompany selected children and their parents on shopping trips. The kids are able to select their own coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, boots, or any other needed winter items. Any person or civic group interested in helping out is welcome to contact Mary McEwen at the newspaper, 301-334-3963.

How can I help?

Either sign up as a volunteer, or complete the coupon below and send it with a donation to the address on the coupon. (All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.) All donations are tax deductible. Please make your donations before December 12, 1999. Those collected after December 12 will be saved for next year's campaign.

In Focus

Thanksgiving is a holiday usually spent at home, so why not spend time learning how to spruce up your abode? Join home improvement guru Christopher Lowell in a seven-hour marathon of The Christopher Lowell Show Thursday, Nov. 25, on Discovery Channel.

Lowell, sometimes referred to as "Mr. Martha Stewart," will be at his new TV home, Universal Studios, inspiring creativity through humor as he suggests remodeling options with cozy corners and grand entrances.

Trivia

Christopher Walken worked as a lion tamer at the age of 15. He also was George Lucas' second choice for Han Solo in Star Wars.

Trivia

The creators of Friends designed the role of Ross Geller with David Schwimmer in mind. He was cast without an audition.

Holiday Card Sale To Benefit Meal Program

To raise money to support the home-delivered meals program, Community Action Area Agency on Aging (AAA) will offer holiday greeting cards. The cards, produced by the American Greeting Card Company, will be available in packs of five for a $10 donation. "These five cards will help to feed one person for a week of home-delivered meals," explained Ronnie Padmos of the AAA.

The cards do not have any identifying information on them regarding the AAA home-delivered meals program. "What we did was print a small, inexpensive insert for each card — it looks like a certificate — which explains that the card represents a donation to the home-delivered meal program," Padmos said.

Cards will be available at the AAA office at 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, and at all senior centers in the county. For more information, persons may call 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403.

The home delivered meals program, sponsored by the AAA, provides hot, balanced meals to frail, homebound senior citizens in Garrett County.

Local Author To Sign Books At Frostburg Store

Rev. John Grant, Oakland, recently completed a book titled Coxey's 38-Day March, which details the march of Jacob Coxey in his search for economic justice in the late 1800s. Grant will be on hand Friday, Nov. 26, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Main Street Books in Frostburg to sign copies of his book for customers.

Grant, who is a local historian, has written a number of newspaper and magazine articles, and serves as editor of The Glades Star, the quarterly publication of the Garrett County Historical Society. While doing research for a Star article, he came across a reference to Coxey's Army, a group of unemployed men who were marching from Ohio to Washington, D.C. The group passed through Garrett County during a snowstorm in April 1894. Written from a journalist's point of view, and to make it as authentic as possible, Grant researched 21 different newspapers and did a biographical study on most of the 40 reporters who accompanied Coxey and his army on their epic march.

Coxey's 38-Day March is a monograph published by the Council of The Alleghenies.

Main Street Books is located at 10 E. Main Street in downtown Frostburg. Also slated to be signing books Friday afternoon is Al Feldstein, who recently published Historic Coal Mining and Railroads of Allegany County, Maryland. (See separate story.)

Swanton Center Selling Candy

The annual Christmas candy sale conducted by the Swanton Community Center is now under way, and persons can submit orders until December 3. Pickup date for the candy is December 10 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the center.

Available are all flavors of hard tack for $3 per pound and peanut brittle for $3.25 per pound. Orders can be submitted by telephoning 301-387-4374.

Scott Elliott Inducted Into Honor Society

Scott A. Elliott, 19, son of Terry and Kathy Elliott, Kitzmiller, was recently inducted into Phi Eta Sigma national honor society at Salisbury State University.

A 1998 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, Elliott is a sophomore majoring in elementary education at SSU. He is a student leader who received a student leadership award for his work. Elliott is also a member of the Student Organization for Activity Planning Movie Committee, and a member of the University Dining Services Food Committee. He is also a dean's list student.

Phi Eta Sigma encourages and rewards high scholastic achievements among freshman. Students are invited to join if their cumulative GPA at the end of the fall or spring semester of their first year is 3.5 or higher.

At Salisbury State some 6,000 students in 30 undergraduate and eight graduate programs pursue liberal arts and professional degrees. The university is located on the Eastern Shore 30 miles from the Atlantic Ocean and 20 miles from the Chesapeake Bay. This year Princeton Review rated SSU one of the best universities in the nation.

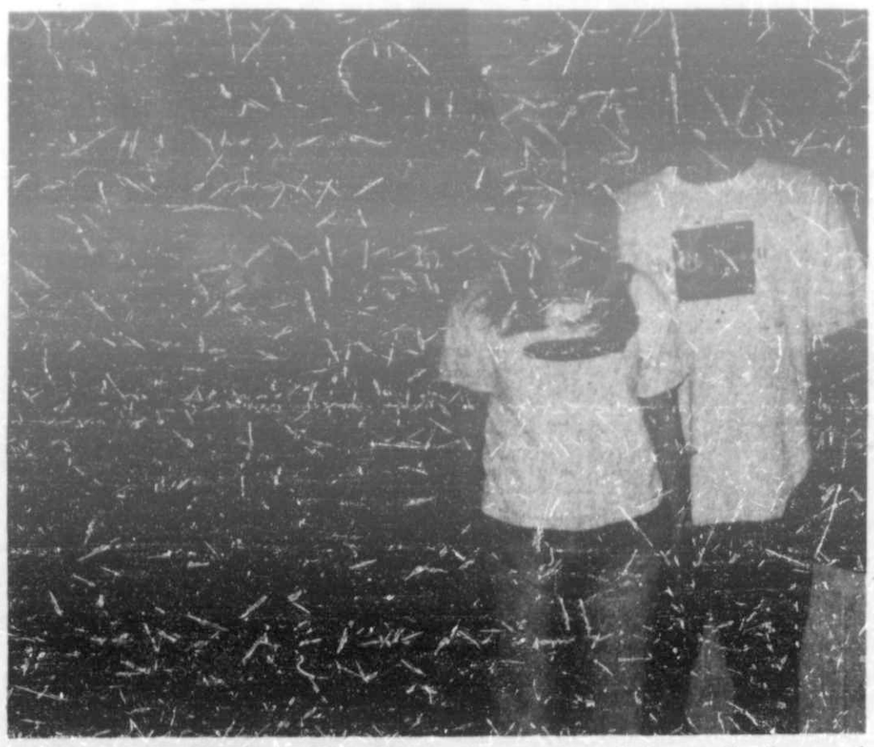
State Primary Election Just 15 Weeks Away

While the national election is still nearly one year away, Maryland voters will be required to make some of their presidential and congressional choices much sooner than that, as Maryland's primary election will be held on March 7, 2000.

On the ballot for the primary election will be candidates for the following: president and vice president of the United States, U.S. Senate, U.S. House of Representatives, Democrat and Republican national convention delegates, and two Garrett County Board of Education seats.



Residents wishing to change their party affiliation in time to vote in the 2000 Maryland primary election have only until 9 p.m. on December 13 to do so. Persons wishing to file for one of the above positions, with the exception of Democrat convention delegate, have until 9 p.m. on December 27 to do so. Those filing for Democrat convention delegate must do so by 5 p.m. January 10. Persons may withdraw their candidacy from the ballot before January 6.

The last day to register to vote in the primary will be February 11, and the last day to apply for an absentee ballot will be February 29.

Persons with questions about the primary election or the above dates and times may telephone the Garrett County Board of Elections at 301-334-1962, or stop in the office, located in the courthouse.

Southern High School Students Of The Month Named

The Southern High School Student of the Month winners for the month of October are Keith Steyer, science; Stephanie Cowgill, marketing; Brittany Naylor, math; Jordan Swerbinsky, English; Amanda Gregory, vocational; and Bonnie Riley, social studies.

Keith Steyer, a junior and the son of Stan and Sarah Steyer, has participated in soccer, basketball, and track throughout high school, and was chosen as MVP of the JV basketball team last year. He has also received a Who's Who Among American High School Students award, is on the distinguished honor roll, and has received other Student of the Month awards. Other activities that Keith participates in are helping to coach the young basketball players in the Dribblers Club and helping out with the Service Club Basketball League. He plans to go to a four-year college or university and concentrate on math and science.

Stephanie Cowgill is also a junior and is the daughter of Steve and Debra Cowgill. She has received two Who's Who Among American High School Students awards, as well as a Success in School award. She has been on the distinguished and regular honor roll. Stephanie is undecided as to what career and college she wants to pursue in the future.

Brittany Naylor, a freshman and the daughter of Paul and Adele Naylor, is a member of the girls' varsity soccer team and the JV girls' basketball team. She has received a Success in School award, as well as the Outstanding Band Member Honor award. Brittany has also participated as a main character in the play Fiddler on the Roof, and is a member of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. In the future, Brittany plans to go to a four-year college and major in the sciences.

Jordan Swerbinsky, a junior, is the son of Joe and Deb Swerbinsky. He participated in high school soccer his freshman year, and high school golf his sophomore and junior years. He has been on the honor roll and has received a Who's Who Among American High School Students award and a Minds in Motion award. He is a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church. After high school, he would like to attend either Penn State University or the University of Maryland. He plans to major in computer engineering and minor in chemistry.

Amanda Gregory, a senior, is the daughter of Jeff and Janet Gregory. Amanda has won an FFA Leadership award, as well as a scholarship award. She plans to attend West Virginia University after graduating and major in agricultural business.

Bonnie Riley is also a senior, and is the daughter of Ronald and June Riley. She is a member of the girls' soccer team, serving as captain for two years, and has also participated in concert and stage band for four years. She has received a Minds in Motion award, a Coaches' Award for soccer, a National History and Government award, and a Who's Who Among American High School Students recognition. Bonnie participates in activities at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. She plans to attend a four-year college, where she will major in French and biology, and minor in history.

Police Arrest Two In Separate Assault Incidents

Oakland Police reported two incidents of assault, on November 4 and 5, that led to the arrest and incarceration of two local residents.

The investigating officer, Pfc. S. Fratz, charged Orlando Victor Fike, 37, Oakland, with second degree assault on Thursday, Nov. 4, following a 6:45 p.m. incident.

Fratz said Fike had grabbed the victim by the neck, pushed her down, and held his knee against her chest. The victim reportedly screamed, hoping a neighbor might hear and call police. Once she was able to get away from her alleged assailant, she reported the incident to officer Fratz.

Assisted by Dfc. McLaughlin of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Fratz located Fike at his residence and placed him under arrest. He was later released on his own recognizance.

Oakland Police charged Casey Vaughn Patton, 22, Oakland, with second degree assault and disorderly conduct as a result of an incident which occurred Friday, Nov. 5, 5:10 p.m.

According to the report filed by the investigating officer, Pfc. S. Fratz, Patton assaulted a juvenile after accusing the juvenile of associating with his girlfriend.

The juvenile reported that Patton had attempted to hit him while they were together at a residence on Water Street. The juvenile allegedly left the house and was followed by Patton, who shouted profanities, shoved him, and punched him in the arm.

The juvenile reportedly got away from Patton, went to a friend's house, and called the police. The juvenile and his mother pressed charges against Patton, from which an arrest warrant was issued. Pfc. Fratz said he located Patton a short time later and placed him under arrest. He was incarcerated but later released on his own recognizance.

Meet Garrett County's NEW TEACHERS

Accident Elementary School

TRACIE MILLER

New to the staff of Accident Elementary School is special education teacher Tracie Miller. A graduate of Frostburg State University, she has been a long-term substitute at Grantsville and Dennett Road elementary schools. Shortly after the start of the school year, Tracie and her husband Doug became parents of their first child, a son named Cordale.

SALLY FRAZEE

Friendsville Elementary School

Sally Frazee is a long-term substitute for the second grade at Friendsville Elementary School. She graduated from Alderson-Broaddus College, taught in West Virginia for one year, and then spent a decade as the full-time mother of two children, Evan, age 9, and Rachel, age 5. Frazee said she loves collecting children's books, reading, camping, and gardening.

SHERRY SPENCER

Sherry Spencer, the Pre-K teacher this year at Friendsville Elementary School, is still working on earning her master's degree. Following her graduation from Frostburg State University, she was employed for two years as a Head Start teacher at the Jennings II Center.

Prior to her current position at Friendsville, Spencer was a substitute teacher for Garrett County. She currently resides in Oakland with her husband Jeffery.

Q. I have a glass butter churn embossed with the words "1 qt." and "Dazey Churn & Mfg. Co., St. Louis, U.S.A.": It is 11 1/2 inches tall. It has a round screwtop with cast-iron gears mounted on top. A metal and wood handle turns the gears that turn the paddles inside the churn. When was my churn made?

A. Glass butter churns were first made around the turn of the century, when glass jars were first made by machine. Your churn probably was made in the 1930s. The Dazey Churn & Manufacturing Co., later named Dazey Corp., became a subsidiary of Landers, Frary and Clark in 1945. Dazey's products have included churns, fruit juicers, ice crushers, knife sharpeners and can openers.

TIP: Always make sure the repairs to jewelry are made with matching solder, gold on gold, platinum on platinum. Lead solder will lower the value of any piece of jewelry.

Q. My mother's family has passed down a large locket with four small photos mounted inside. The photos are of four people from the same family – the parents and two children. The locket is said to date back to before the Civil War. Was this a common kind of jewelry at the time?

A. You have a piece of what is called "Daguerrean jewelry." In 1839, Louis-Jacque-Mande Daguerre invented an early type of photograph called a Daguerreotype, which reproduced images on a silvered copper plate. Miniature photos were used in bracelets, brooches, buttons, earrings, rings, pendants and pins. They preserved the image of loved ones and were often made for special occasions such as birthdays or anniversaries. Although they were popular at the time, few have survived because the images are so fragile.

Home Tips

KEEPING IT FRESH – One of my favorite food-storage containers is the white one that frosting mix comes in. You know the type – some have white lids, some red, etc. I wash the container, take the label off and pop the top back on.

Since all of our children are grown, my husband and I can't eat a large can of vegetables, and it's just not economical to buy the small can. So, I pour it into the frosting container, put a pat of butter in it, put in the microwave and heat. When we're finished, I cut the label off the can, fold to fit around the container and secure it with a rubber band (or tape). You can then store it in the refrigerator until ready for use, and you know exactly what you have. Jill C., Redmond, Wash.

Health & Nutrition
by Judith Sheldon

MENINGITIS VACCINE: A recent outbreak of bacterial meningitis among residents in a college dormitory has prompted the Federal Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices to urge universities and health professionals to alert college freshmen to a new vaccine which has proved effective against most meningitis strains. Bacterial meningitis is considered potentially fatal and can lead to limb amputations and other complications. Certain populations, such as college dorms where many people live in close surroundings, enable the infection to spread quickly. For that reason, health authorities have advised college officials to provide information "to those who plan to live in dormitories or residence halls about meningococcal (bacterial) disease and the benefits of vaccination to those students and their parents."

Meningitis is an infection of the membranes covering the brain and spinal cord. Symptoms are often described as "flu-like," and include headache, high fever, stiff neck, nausea, vomiting, and drowsiness. Even if the flu is suspected, the symptoms should be checked out. Delaying treatment can prove deadly within hours. As Dr. Jim Turner of the American College Health Association told Reuters: "An otherwise healthy 18-year-old can walk into your clinic with symptoms of the flu and within three hours be in a coma."

PARKINSON'S DISEASE: It's ironic that if actor Michael J. Fox hadn't gone public with the fact that he has Parkinson's disease, funding for research on this condition would not only not be raised, but might have been cut. Fortunately, Fox chose to speak up. Unfortunately, who knows how much time had already been lost in researching the cause and potential cure because of a lack of sufficient funding to study an expanding area of research, including stem cell applications.

DIET CAUTION: If you need to lose weight, be careful about the high protein, low carbohydrate diet in the news these days. You may probably lose a few pounds quickly, but you could be setting yourself up for serious complications, including regaining the weight, and developing a high risk factor for certain cancers and cardiovascular problems.

Frostburg State Winter Concert Set For Sunday

Frostburg State University's Department of Music will present its annual winter concert this Sunday, Nov. 21, at 3 p.m. in Pealer Recital Hall in the Performing Arts Center. The program will feature Collegium Musicum, the University Chorale, the Emmanuel Episcopal Church Chancel Choir under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg, and the concert band directed by Noel T. Kunkle.

The University Chorale, with the Emmanuel Episcopal Chancel Choir, will perform Giacomo Puccini's "Messa di Gloria," featuring Kimberly Andrews on piano; baritone soloist David McKinley, a senior from Hagerstown; and tenors James Bowser, a senior, and Aaron Torgerson, a junior, both from Leonardtown.

"Messa di Gloria" was composed in 1880 as Puccini's graduation project at the Instituto Musicale Pacini in Lucca, Italy. Its first performance won great acclaim for the young composer, but it had to wait until 1951 for its second performance.

Collegium Musicum will also perform "Si Ch'io Vorrei Morire" by Claudio Monteverdi, "Dainty, Fine, Sweet Nymph" by Thomas Morley, "Tsen Brider" arranged by Joshua Jacobson, "A Child's Journey" by Michael Horvitt, and the King Singers' arrangement of "You Are The New Day," arranged by Peter Knight.

The concert band will conclude the afternoon with an evocation of the holiday spirit in Gustav Holst's "In the Bleak Mid-Winter" arranged for symphonic band by Robert W. Smith, Percy Grainger's "The Sussex Mummer's Christmas Carol" arranged by Larry Clark, and "The Coventry Carol" and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" arranged by Calvin Custer.

Tickets are $5 for general public, FSU faculty, and staff; $2 for students; and free for children younger than 15. For information and reservations, telephone the Department of Music at 301-687-4109. Tickets will also be on sale at the box office on the day of the performance.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office by calling 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

Holiday Bazaar To Benefit Local Senior Citizens

The Area Agency on Aging will be holding a holiday bazaar at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, on Thursday, Dec. 2, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Many activities have been scheduled for the bazaar. Persons attending may buy raffle tickets for a 50/50 drawing. Crafts, made by local seniors, will be available for purchase along with various baked goods. A turkey dinner "with all the trimmings" will be served during the bazaar from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The cost for each dinner is $5.50, and carry-outs are available.

The dinner and bazaar event is open to all ages, and tickets for the turkey dinner can be purchased at all county nutrition sites in Oakland, Accident, Grantsville, Friendsville, Gorman, Swanton, and Kitzmiller. All proceeds will benefit area seniors who are being served by the Area Agency on Aging's Home-Delivered Meals Program.

Grantsville To Host Bloodmobile

An American Red Cross bloodmobile visit is scheduled at the Grantsville fire hall for Monday, Nov. 29, from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Local residents and patients are among those served by American Red Cross Blood Services. To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Individuals are permitted to give blood every 56 days.

Frostburg State Winter Concert Set For Sunday

Frostburg State University's Department of Music will present its annual winter concert this Sunday, Nov. 21, at 3 p.m. in Pealer Recital Hall in the Performing Arts Center. The program will feature Collegium Musicum, the University Chorale, the Emmanuel Episcopal Church Chancel Choir under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg, and the concert band directed by Noel T. Kunkle.

The University Chorale, with the Emmanuel Episcopal Chancel Choir, will perform Giacomo Puccini's "Messa di Gloria," featuring Kimberly Andrews on piano; baritone soloist David McKinley, a senior from Hagerstown; and tenors James Bowser, a senior, and Aaron Torgerson, a junior, both from Leonardtown.

"Messa di Gloria" was composed in 1880 as Puccini's graduation project at the Instituto Musicale Pacini in Lucca, Italy. Its first performance won great acclaim for the young composer, but it had to wait until 1951 for its second performance.

Collegium Musicum will also perform "Si Ch'io Vorrei Morire" by Claudio Monteverdi, "Dainty, Fine, Sweet Nymph" by Thomas Morley, "Tsen Brider" arranged by Joshua Jacobson, "A Child's Journey" by Michael Horvitt, and the King Singers' arrangement of "You Are The New Day," arranged by Peter Knight.

The concert band will conclude the afternoon with an evocation of the holiday spirit in Gustav Holst's "In the Bleak Mid-Winter" arranged for symphonic band by Robert W. Smith, Percy Grainger's "The Sussex Mummer's Christmas Carol" arranged by Larry Clark, and "The Coventry Carol" and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" arranged by Calvin Custer.

Tickets are $5 for general public, FSU faculty, and staff; $2 for students; and free for children younger than 15. For information and reservations, telephone the Department of Music at 301-687-4109. Tickets will also be on sale at the box office on the day of the performance.

Garrett CC's Y2K Readiness Addressed At Board Meeting

The board of trustees of Garrett Community College met in public session recently to discuss several matters, led by board chairman Doug Sites and college president Dr. Steve Herman. Topics covered included a Y2K status report, overviews of the Lakers baseball program and the Financial Aid office, academic and financial reports, and an update on construction/renovation projects on the campus. The board met again several days later to discuss the institution's FY 1999 financial report with auditor Jim Murray.

Y2K READINESS

Don Storck, GCC's director of Information Technology, updated the board on the work of the college's Y2K Management Team. In introducing Storck, Herman noted the gravity of the issue by telling the board that the state of West Virginia has already indicated that it is not going to be Y2K compliant, and he added that he suspects a number of areas around the world are not adequately prepared.

Storck told the board that he feels Y2K presents a real problem for computer systems at the college as well as around the world. Noting that Herman had established the Y2K Management Team a year ago, Storck explained how Y2K issues addressed by the team had been divided into two categories -- Group I items, which were assigned to the team's Information Systems Task Force, which he chaired, while Group II items were divided among appropriate Management Team members.

The items addressed by Storck and the Information Systems Task Force required comprehensive testing of computers in the college's labs and in faculty and administrative offices. The list of items for testing also included approximately 150 peripherals, 21 servers, 8 networks, 20 work stations for MIS, a video network, four video studios, two satellite downlink systems, a cable network, various computer software, photocopiers, fax machines, telephone systems, and the GCNET computer hardware and network.

"After checking all our hardware and software," Storck told the trustees, "we ascertained that all but a third of what we had tested was Y2K compliant. We began upgrading all the non-compliant systems in July, a process that included either upgrading or replacing a number of desktop computers." That process is 95 percent complete, he said, and will be finished before the end of the year.

To make necessary adjustments to software, the team installed patches supplied by software vendors or purchased newer versions of software that were Y2K compliant. First priority, Storck said, was given to areas where date sensitivity was a real issue, such as the Business and Financial Aid offices, which are now 100 percent compliant, as well as all faculty computers.

Remaining areas currently stand at over 85 percent compliance, with preparations still to be made on both hardware and software. Storck said that the task force anticipates to have that work completed in time for the date change; even so, all databases will be backed up as a precautionary measure before the Christmas break begins.

Additional protection for the network will be provided by four recently acquired, inexpensive but high quality hubs to augment the existing network. Two of the hubs have been installed, while the other two are being held in reserve in the event a major problem arises.

Storck noted that numerous vendors have certified their equipment Y2K compliant, although it is his feeling no one can be 100 percent sure of what will take place. The college has gone about as far as it can to assure that it will have no problems, in his opinion, and by the first of December he is confident that the institution will be over 99 percent compliant.

In response to several questions from board members, Storck indicated that GCC has, to date, spent $50,000 on Y2K preparations with additional upgrades coming that will cost another $20,000. He added that the college is already testing its Hewlett Packard systems by using dates of 2000 and 2001, but remarked that even successful tests are no foolproof guarantee that potential Y2K problems will be avoided.

Herman thanked Storck and his staff for undertaking the Y2K compliance project, adding that it was "a huge undertaking" and "an organizational challenge and nightmare. Each member of the Y2K Management Team handled its tasks admirably," Herman continued, "and we believe GCC is in extremely good condition although we have to rely on the services of other providers who are making promises" as to the preparedness of their equipment.

"Their reliability is an unknown, however, and we need to be able to document that we did our best to prepare for Y2K," Herman added as he thanked Susan Stem of the President's Office for her diligent efforts in organizing and documenting all facets of the Y2K project.

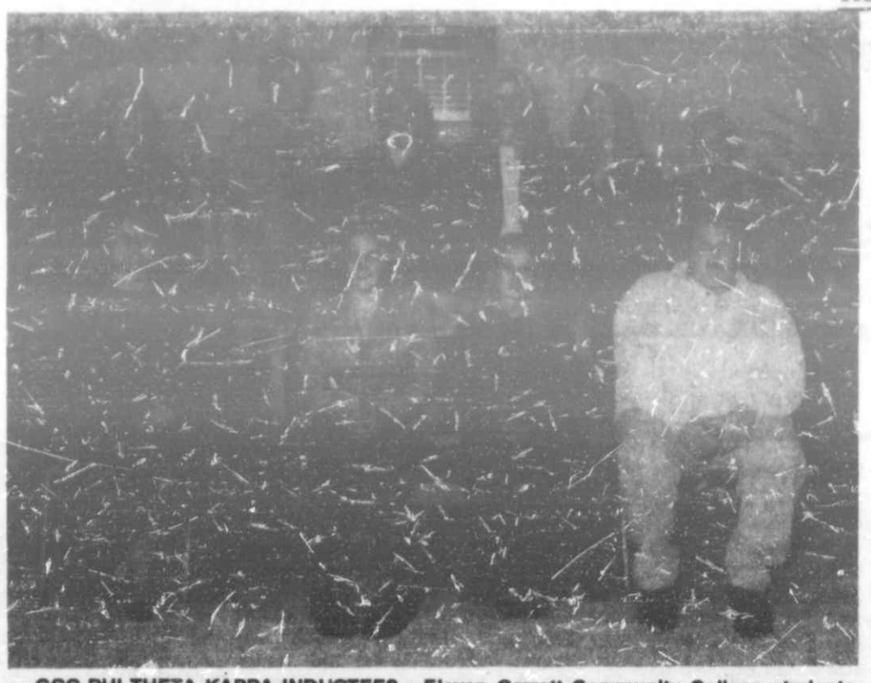
Dean Lillian Mitchell of the Academic Affairs Office has included a disclaimer in the new GCC course schedule, which explains that the college cannot guarantee the delivery of their education on schedule, Herman noted.

BASEBALL PROGRAM

GCC baseball coach Ed Wildesen made a presentation on the value of the college's new out-of-state athletic scholarship program. Herman agreed, noting that athletic scholarship recipients from out-of-state still pay a significantly higher tuition than Garrett County students; therefore, both feel that those student athletes are helping to support higher education for residents of Garrett County.

Wildesen stated that not one Garrett County student has been left out as a result of the out-of-state scholarships. In addition, the college was able to be more selective in its recruiting efforts for the baseball program, and consequently Wildesen believes that GCC has the highest quality group of student-athlete baseball players ever. The fall roster has garnered more attention from professional scouts and four-year institutions that in the past.

GCC, Wildesen said, is in an extremely tough competitive region for athletic recruiting, and the scholarship is helping the college strengthen its baseball partnerships in northern Virginia and western Pennsylvania. "The scholarship and our higher profile makes it possible for us to bring new people to the county who otherwise wouldn't visit here, for new players from out-of-state bring their families with them. This helps boost the local tourism, recreation, and hospitality industries," the coach said, noting that 28 of the 44 students who came to GCC because of the baseball program are from other states.



"We're on our way to taking the GCC baseball program to another level," Wildesen said. He added that when baseball field improvements are completed, he has hopes that the college will be able to host the American Legion state baseball tournament, thereby drawing more publicity for the institution.

Herman thanked Wildesen, who also works in the Admissions Office, for his service to the college on and off the field. "Garrett County athletes have an opportunity to compete in sports at a higher level than before because of your efforts," said Herman, who also stated his preference that the out-of-state athletic scholarship continue to be offered.

FINANCIAL AID

Pat Bennett, GCC's new director of the Financial Aid Office, spoke on some of the changes that have occurred since her arrival at the beginning of the fall semester. Formerly the assistant director of the Financial Aid Office at Alderson-Broaddus College (W.Va.), Bennett said that the GCC office had had some shortcomings that she and her staff, Chris Walters and Erin DiBacco, have been successfully remedying. Bennett expressed particular gratitude for the efforts of Walters and DiBacco both before and after she assumed her position (as did chairman Sites), and said both were more than

GCC PHI THETA KAPPA INDUCTEES - Eleven Garrett Community College students participated in a Phi Theta Kappa National Honor Society induction ceremony at the college recently, which was followed by a reception in the art gallery. Dr. Steve Herman, GCC's president, welcomed the students and their families and awarded the certificates of membership. Dean of Academic Affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell congratulated the students and administered the pledge. Beth Luers, professor of social sciences and advisor to the GCC chapter of the honorary society, presided over the signing of the honor society's roster. Shown above in the front row, from the left, are Luers, Laurel Wolf, Kerry Ashby, and Matthew Whitacre. In the back row are Hazel Black, Nathaniel Watkins, Donna Keener, Michelle Molz, Brandy Rush, and Zelma Neary. Not available for the photo were additional Phi Theta Kappa members Rebecca Biser and Parker Jacobs. Membership in the distinguished organization is open to students who have completed 30 credit hours at the college while maintaining a cumulative GPA of at least 3.5.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

The need is great this year. In Garrett County, Maryland, needy children will go cold this winter without your help.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is neighbors helping neighbors. The Republican is asking readers to donate to the fund, and the proceeds are being used to buy new winter clothing for needy area children. There are no administrative fees; all the money donated is used to buy warm winter clothing.

How are needy children being identified?

A collaborative effort to identify needy children is under way between the Department of Social Services, Healthy Families, the Dove Center, and other organizations. We want to help families who are trying to make ends meet, but who are simply in need of a boost this year.

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

The staff at The Republican has recruited volunteers to serve as "shoppers" who accompany selected children and their parents on shopping trips. The kids are able to select their own coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, boots, or any other needed winter items. Any person or civic group interested in helping out is welcome to contact Mary McEwen at the newspaper, 301-334-3963.

How can I help?

Either sign up as a volunteer, or complete the coupon below and send it with a donation to the address on the coupon. (All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.) All donations are tax deductible. Please make your donations before December 12, 1999. Those collected after December 12 will be saved for next year's campaign.

John P. Roth Named Garrett District Cooperator For 1998

For his outstanding and continued efforts in managing, protecting and conserving Maryland's valuable agricultural soil and water resources, John P. Roth was named Garrett District Cooperator for 1998. He was presented a citation issued by the Maryland secretary of agriculture, Henry A. Virts, at the annual Garrett Soil Conservation District meeting and banquet on Oct. 27.

Garrett County extension agent Jim Simms welcomed those attending and introduced a number of special guests, including Garrett Soil Conservation District board of supervisors chairman George Bishoff and his wife Joyce; vice chairman and assistant treasurer Dave Thomas and wife Nancy; treasurer Brooks Hamilton and friend Sue; member Delvin Mast and wife Sharon; member Carl Bender and wife Martha; Delegate George Edwards; Maryland Department of Agriculture assistant secretary, Office of Resource Conservation, Royden Powell and wife Jo Ann; Dan Bard, MDA area coordinator for western Maryland; Buddy Bowling, Maryland Ag Commission; from the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, Maryland state conservationist Dave Doss and wife Sue; the coordinator for the Western Maryland Resource Conservation and Development Program of NRCS, Tim Hann; Garrett County Farm Queen Susan Mayfield; and Garrett and Allegany Dairy Princess Chrissy Steyer.

Assistant Secretary Powell spoke to the group on the Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 (nutrient management law), and the Outstanding Cooperator Award was presented.

Each year the Garrett District selects a landowner who has demonstrated an outstanding voluntary effort in practicing proper land use and sound conservation principles. This helps to publicize the accomplishments that are being made and also helps to motivate other landowners and users to take that first step in contacting the soil conservation district for help.

This year, John P. Roth was selected as setting a good example of proper land use and sound conservation principles on his 88-acre farm, known as the "Lazy R," located along Rt. 219 approximately 3 miles south of Red House.

Roth is the third generation to work the farm. His grandfather bought the farm in 1892. It was officially designated a "Century Farm" in 1994, and Roth took over the reins, along with his mother, at age 16 when his father died in 1955.

In 1995, Roth suffered a serious heart attack and had to quit the daily vigorous task of running a dairy farm. At that time, he started raising dairy heifers, but since then, has converted to wintering over 120 feeder steers.

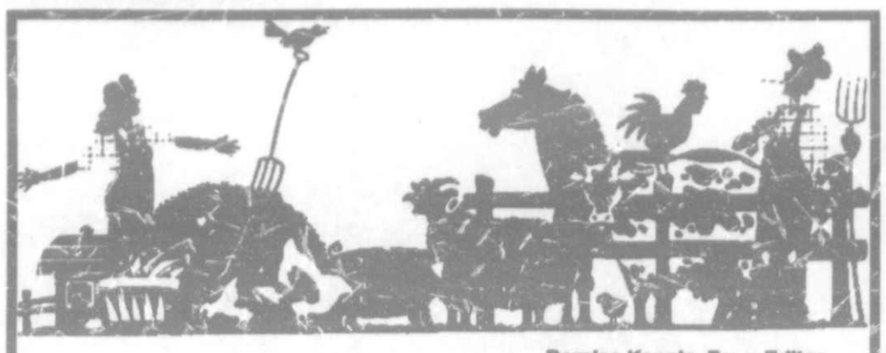
Roth has 65 acres of cropland that he uses to grow feed for his steers, and all but five acres is laid out in contour strips that were installed in 1968. He follows a cropping rotation of two years of corn for silage and/or grains, one year of oats that is round baled and wrapped for oat silage, then four years of grass/alfalfa which is either put in the silo or round baled and wrapped.

He has voluntarily participated in the Maryland Nutrient Management Program since 1993. During this time, he has improved the profitability of his cropping system. He understands the importance of soil and manure testing. Although he has no manure storage, he utilized his manure to the fullest potential. His manure spreader is calibrated to determine how much manure is being applied per acre. When he has to spread manure during the winter months, he applies it to grass hay fields, which will result in less runoff than on barren corn ground. Manure credits are made in his nutrient management plan and the presidedress nitrogen test (PSNT) is utilized on corn fields. This test is preformed when the corn is between 6 and 12 inches in height. Nitrogen sidedress recommendations can then be made (if needed) to assure him that his yield goal will be met. He said he has previously over-fertilized his grass hay fields and under-fertilized alfalfa. Correcting his problem with the nutrient management program has had the dramatic effect of improving alfalfa yields and reducing fertilizer cost on hay.

Several years ago, PSNT test plots were established on one of Roth's corn fields. Important data was collected to demonstrate the importance of PSNT and its reliability.

Roth has utilized Best Management Practices on his farm for many years. Some of these practices include not only nutrient management, but contour strip cropping, crop rotation, no-till planting, and spring developments.

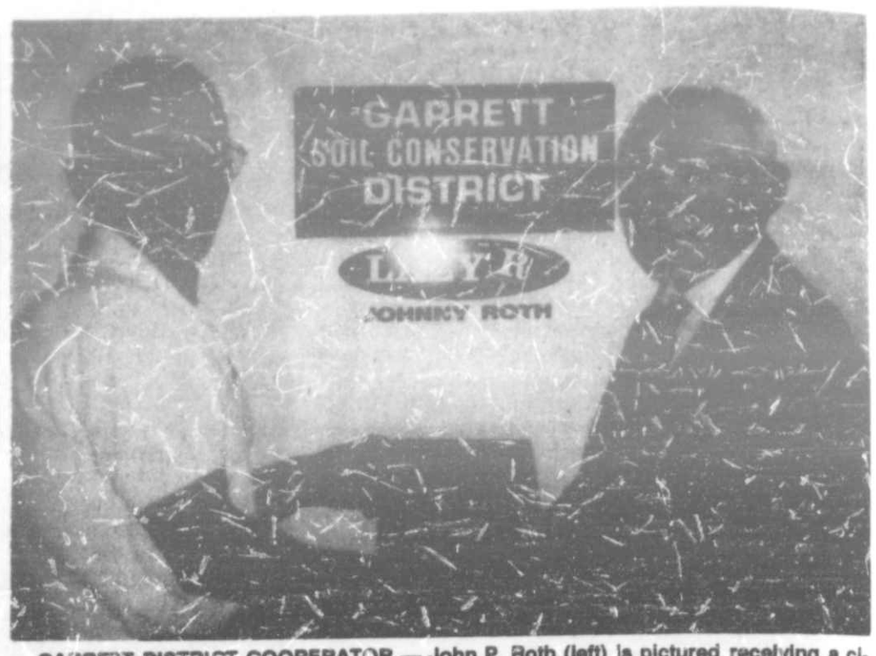
According to Conservation District personnel, Roth has always been receptive to new ideas and displays a willingness to learn new techniques that will improve his farming operation. They say it is becoming increasingly difficult to maintain voluntary conservation programs under pressures of expanding regulations, and landowners like Roth help to demonstrate the success and accomplishments of practicing sound conservation principles.



GSCD director Shaun Sanders said everyone's farming operation is different, and what works for one individual may not work for all. But landowners can do their part by having a conservation plan prepared for their property. This, he said, doesn't necessarily mean having to install expensive structures or making a major change in the farming operation. It could be as simple as a few minor adjustments in crop rotation or just simply documenting with a plan what is already being done, he said. "Wise use of our natural resources just makes common sense and dollars," he said, and concluded by inviting landowners to call his office and check it out.

The Garrett Soil Conservation District is a political subdivision of the state of Maryland, neither a state agency nor a county agency, but an independent unit of government that is directed by a board of local landowners.

The Garrett District was organized in September of 1943. Like most soil conservation districts in the state, Garrett has the same boundaries as the county and the same name.



There are two fundamental principles which underlie the purpose and function of conservation districts. One is the idea that local people should be involved in developing and implementing conservation programs. The other is the belief that a voluntary incentive-driven approach is the most effective means of addressing natural resource concerns.

The Garrett Soil Conservation District believes that it's better for the environment, better for the private landowner, and much less costly to society for local people to do things they want to do. That is why the district gets involved in information/education activities, scholarships, demonstrations, field days, and tours.

Harvesting Of Crops Continues To Lag Behind

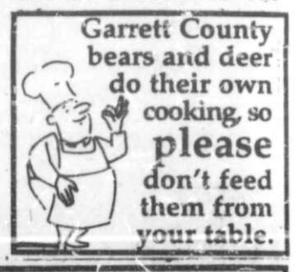
Soybeans, sorghum, and hay harvesting are all behind their previous year averages, according to the Maryland Ag Statistics Service. Corn harvesting was virtually complete except for wet spots in fields. Planting of barley, wheat, and rye also trails last year. Continued wet conditions still persist in soybean and wheat fields, keeping farmers from finishing off harvesting and seeding, respectively. Topsoil and subsoil moisture conditions continue to be mostly adequate. Hay supplies are slightly better than last week as harvesting of hay, haylage, and forage helped alleviate some hay shortages.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended on Nov. 14, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows.

Small grains seeded: barley 96, 94, 100, 99; wheat 84, 71, 93, 87; rye 90, 88, 93, and 90.

Crops harvested: soybeans 73, 61, 84, 74; sorghum 89, 83, 94, 77; alfalfa, 5th cutting 73, 71, 79, 73; other hay, 4th cutting 93, 91, 96, and 92.

Crop conditions listing the commodity and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, in that order, are: wheat 0, 1, 11, 78,. 10; barley 0, 0, 15, 80, 5; rye 0, 0, 10, 84, 6; and pasture 1, 3, 22, 64, and 10.



Annual Fall Ag Survey To Begin Nov. 29

In an effort to compile an early indication of what next year's farm production will be, the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service (MASS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture will begin the Fall Agricultural Survey this month. MASS representatives will contact farmers from November 29 through December 14 to ask about plans for the 2000 crop season.

"There is always speculation about each new crop season and producers are the best source for the facts," said Maryland state statistician Ray Garibay. "This survey is particularly vital because it will provide the first clear indication of the potential production of winter wheat in 2000."

The information collected will be used to make reliable estimates of next year's crop acreage and cattle inventories. Answers to questions about the 2000 crop season, which are compiled for the state and also included in national projections, will help reduce uncertainty in the agricultural marketplace. The data are widely used by producers to reach production, marketing and investment decisions, as well as by industry analysts, extension agents and farm organizations.

Dairy Farmers Shocked!

Dairy producers are still shocked by the drop in the BFP from a record September BFP of $16.26 to $11.49 for October, a drop of $4.77. The November BFP may be as low as $10.30 to $10.50. In fact, we could see the BFP below $11.00 through the first quarter of year 2000. What is going on? The answer is a lot of milk. October milk production for the 20 reporting states was 4.3% greater than a year ago. This puts U.S. milk production for the first 10 months of the year 3.3% greater than last year. This is the strongest milk production increase since 1985. This increase is primarily driven by the southwestern and western states.

Check Your Farm's Financial Health

Test your farm's financial health by answering the following questions. Choose the answer that best represents your operation and enter that number in the blank provided.

1. Over the past 5 years, I have generated a _____.
   (1) profit most of the years
   (2) profit some of the years and a loss others
   (3) loss most of the years
   (4) don't know
2. The returns on my labor and management are _____.
   (1) greater than I could get if I took a job off the farm
   (2) about the same as I could get if I took a job off the farm
   (3) less than I could get if I took a job off the farm
   (4) don't know
3. My investment in the farm business is earning _____.
   (1) a greater return than what I could get if invested elsewhere
   (2) a similar return as what I could get if invested elsewhere
   (3) less than I could get if invested elsewhere
   (4) don't know
4. I have prepared _____ cash flow statement for my business.
   (1) a detailed
   (2) a quick or rough
   (3) no
5. My liquidity reserve _____.
   (1) is sufficient to cover periods of cash shortfalls
   (2) is sometimes close to being depleted
   (3) is dried up
   (4) don't know
6. My level of operating debt has _____ the size of my operation in the past three years.
   (1) decreased in relation to
   (2) kept up with
   (3) increased more rapidly than
   (4) don't know
7. My net worth is ____ than it was 5 years ago.
   (1) more
   (2) about the same
   (3) less
   (4) don't know
8. My total debt is ____ of my total assets.
   (1) less than half
   (2) about half
   (3) more than half
   (4) don't know
9. I keep _____ accounting records, enterprise budgets and financial statements for my farming operation.
   (1) complete
   (2) partial
   (3) no
10. I have _____.
   (1) assessed my financial condition as being good, and I am continually trying to improve my financial well-being
   (2) assessed my financial condition as being stable but have made few plans for improving my situation
   (3) assessed my financial condition as being poor but have considered ways for pulling myself out of the slump
   (4) not assessed my financial condition but have determined to continue to farm the way I do now, regardless of the outcome

Add your numerical choices and compare your total score with the following:

10–14 points...
Your farm financial situation is strong and as a farm manager you have things well in control.

15–19 points...
Your responses indicate there are some problem areas that need improvement.

20–24 points...
You need to tackle the weak areas and work on them immediately. Developing your managerial skills through farm business management education resources may help.

25–29 points...
You have identified many problem areas. Work to strengthen your managerial skills. Get help from a farm management consultant or specialist to speed up your improvement timetable.

30–38 points...
Count the number of times you responded "don't know." Familiarize yourself with these areas of your farm operation, then work on improving them with the help of a farm management consultant or specialist.

Maryland Dairy Industry Plans Annual Meeting

An innovative new dairy quality program designed to unite all aspects of dairy herd health will be introduced here next month at the Maryland Dairy Industry Association's (MDIA) 1999 annual meeting in Hagerstown. Noted veterinarian and herd health specialist Dr. John Huntley will unveil the program to several hundred producers and dairy industry representatives on Thursday, Dec. 2, at the Four Points Hotel. Huntley is state veterinarian in New York, and a coordinator of the program in the Northeast.

Called the Northeast Dairy Quality Program, the concept uses the resources of veterinary schools, state departments of agriculture, and other state university units to stress top dairy production efficiency and maximum profits for the producer. It is expected to be an important part of Maryland's $1 billion dairy industry in the future.

The theme of MDIA's 1999 annual meeting is "The Ultimate Dairy Management Plan," and includes a presentation on building profitable dairy operations by dairy consultant Brad Hilty; a discussion on optimum seed, soil foundation, and crops by Kurt Ruppel of Pioneer Hi-Bred International; and a plan for proper dairy herd nutrition by Canadian nutritionist Ian Shives.

"No career dairy producer will want to miss this program," said MDIA president Myron Wilhide, a Detour (Carroll County) producer. "It also includes more than a dozen commercial exhibits of latest products and technology for the dairy industry."

A continental breakfast will be served, beginning at 8 a.m. The program officially begins at 10 a.m. on December 2, and includes coffee and milk breaks, a full luncheon, and an array of door prizes. Registration forms are available from MDIA headquarters at: 202-293-0476, and advance registration can be made by fax (202-331-4212), E-mail (agriwash@aol.com), or telephone.

mate as possible about the first crop season of the new millennium," Maryland agricultural secretary Henry A. Virts said. "We will be especially interested to learn what impact Governor Glendening's $3 million drought assistance program has had on grain acreage to be harvested next spring."

"We safeguard the confidentiality of all survey responses," Garibay said. "Information from individual operations is combined with other responses to provide the needed data."

Local Resident Participates In AQHA Program

Thelma M. O'Brien of Swanton recently earned an award for logging 1,000 hours in the American Quarter Horse Association Horseback Riding Program. The program provides AQHA members recognition for time spent riding or driving American quarter horses.

A unique aspect of the program is its simplicity. Current AQHA members complete a program application and pay a one-time $25 enrollment fee. Each enrollee receives an official AQHA log sheet to record his or her hours driving or riding an American quarter horse. Participants need not own their horse, but all official hours must be accrued with a registered American quarter horse.

The first award, a program recognition patch, is given after only 50 hours have been logged and verified. Patches and nine subsequent awards are presented at 100- to 5,000-hour levels and range from merchandise gift certificates from Drysdale's Western Store to a Montana Silversmith trophy belt buckle at the highest level.

Other awards provided by AQHA corporate sponsors include a $25 gift certificate good toward any item from Drysdale's Western Store, and at 750 hours a headstall valued at $22 from Cowboy Tack. At both 1,000 hours and 3,000 hours, award recipients receive recognition in The Quarter Horse Journal, AQHA's monthly magazine. Jim Bret Campbell, AQHA manager of the Horseback Riding Program, said, "AQHA is so proud to offer this program rewarding people who enjoy riding and driving American quarter horses. Enrollees are doing such diverse activities that it's obvious this program literally fits everyone who likes spending time with horses."

AQHA actively encourages horseback riding as a recreational activity that can be enjoyed alone or shared with family and friends.

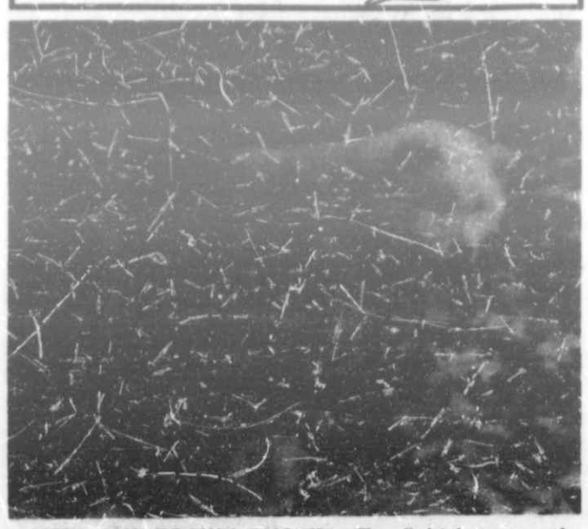
Geographic Info Systems Focus Of GCC Offerings



Widespread use of the new technology of GIS (Geographic Information Systems) for planning and management purposes has led to the growth of a new academic discipline which is the subject of several new courses at Garrett Community College, according to Jim Allen, GCC's director of technology.

Noting that tomorrow, Nov. 19, has been designated as GIS Day, Allen recently reported to the Garrett County commissioners that GCC will be offering an Introduction to GIS course in the spring semester. Next fall the course will become a requirement for students in the Natural Resources Wildlife and Technology program and for those in the land management option of the Agriculture Management program.

A recent article by the National Geographic Society explained the technology of GIS as taking information from databases and spreadsheets and placing it on a map to show patterns of activity that can be used to locate businesses, plan parks and roads, find underground minerals and oil, grow larger, healthier crops, or find a variety of other applications. "GIS integrates data from many sources," Allen said, "and helps us to interpret it and better understand our world."

This fall semester, Allen is teaching a GPS (Global Positioning Systems) mapping course in partnership with Allegany College of Maryland. The spring semester Introduction to GIS course (ENT 180) is scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. Persons interested in further information about the GIS or GPS courses may call Allen at 301-387-3006.

Holiday Events Solicited For GCNet Web Site

GCNet is seeking local holiday events to include in the Mountain Top Christmas 1999 web site, which will be made available on Wednesday, Dec. 1. The Mountain Top Christmas 1999 site will focus on local events such as Fresh Air Christmas, and the Old-Fashioned Christmas celebration in Grantsville. Similar events within GCNet's subscriber base can be submitted as well.

The Mountain Top Christmas 1999 site will include a Just4Kids section where kids can play games and E-mail Santa their Christmas list, a Food and Drink section with holiday recipes, a photo gallery of pictures of festivities, and a section of Merry Christmas phrases in over 50 languages. There will also be Christmas carols and holiday downloads for visitors to explore. GCNet is also taking submissions of members' Christmas parties in the form of photographs.

Jonathan Ruff will design the site with assistance from local students interested in learning about web page building. Ruff, 19, has been designing sites for the last five years and was the creator of the Autumn Glory site that attracted visitors from as far away as Germany and Japan. GCNet hopes to recreate that success with the Christmas site.

Any area holding a Christmas event can submit a schedule of events to kmnorris@mail2.gcnet.net, or mail them to Mountain Top Christmas, c/o GCNet, P.O. Box 990, McHenry, MD 21541.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

Horse-drawn hayrides through Deep Creek Lake State Park will depart the Discovery Center on Saturday, Nov. 20, at 10 a.m., noon, and 2 p.m. The cost is $5 for adults, $2.50 for children 4-12, and children under 3 ride for free.

The hayrides are provided by Broken Bar Stables in partnership with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Nature Tourism program. For reservations or more information concerning this or other programs at the park and Discovery Center, persons may call 301-387-7314.

Scott Elliott Inducted Into Honor Society

Scott A. Elliott, 19, son of Terry and Kathy Elliott, Kitzmiller, was recently inducted into Phi Eta Sigma national honor society at Salisbury State University.

A 1998 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, Elliott is a sophomore majoring in elementary education at SSU. He is a student leader who received a student leadership award for his work. Elliott is also a member of the Student Organization for Activity Planning Movie Committee, and a member of the University Dining Services Food Committee. He is also a dean's list student.

Phi Eta Sigma encourages and rewards high scholastic achievements among freshman. Students are invited to join if their cumulative GPA at the end of the fall or spring semester of their first year is 3.5 or higher.

At Salisbury State some 6,000 students in 30 undergraduate and eight graduate programs pursue liberal arts and professional degrees. The university is located on the Eastern Shore 30 miles from the Atlantic Ocean and 20 miles from the Chesapeake Bay. This year Princeton Review rated SSU one of the best universities in the nation.

capable of assuming greater responsibilities with additional training.

Bennett said she plans to develop an aggressive outreach program to educate local students and their families on the many opportunities that exist for financial aid for higher education. She intends to go directly to students in the county's high schools, and be on hand to represent GCC at various community and regional events.

Herman and Sites both thanked Bennett and her staff for their efforts, and board member Bob Stuck noted that he had received many favorable comments about Bennett from attendees of the recent Mt. Top College Expo. That event, attended by Sites, Mitchell, Wildesen, and Darlene Reed, among others, provided "marvelous exposure for the college," according to Sites. "The opportunities we provide for local students are wonderful. Everyone should attend the Expo along with their kids."

CRIME SOLVERS HONORS HERSHBERGER - Robert M. Hershberger, left, was presented an award of appreciation by Donna L. Durst, president of Garrett County Crime Solvers, in recognition of his 12 years of involvement with the crimefighting group. A long-time county resident, Hershberger retired as an investigator from the Maryland State Police after 26 years of service. He resides in Grantsville with his wife Rhonda and their daughter Rachel. Garrett County Crime Solvers is a non-profit organization that works with local law enforcement personnel to identify perpetrators of crimes in the area. All members of the community are invited to attend Crime Solvers meetings, which take place every third Wednesday of the month at 6:30 p.m. at the MSP Barracks in McHenry.

ACADEMIC REPORT

Mitchell's academic report featured the final fall enrollment report. The college has a total of 692 students enrolled, she said, as compared to 666 last fall, an increase of 4 percent. This enrollment generated a 245.48 FTE figure, a 2 percent increase over last year's 239.67 FTE.

"Most community colleges are either declining or just holding steady in their enrollments," Mitchell told the board. She and Herman both said that the aggressive publicity campaign of Joan Crawford was instrumental in GCC's success in attracting new students, along with the efforts of other faculty and staff.

FINANCIAL REPORT

Mike Kilgas, dean of financial affairs, said that the report of budget, expenditures, and encumbrances for the month ending September 30 indicates that GCC expended 24.8 percent of its budget as of that date, as compared to an even spending figure of 25 percent.

Operation of the college's plant is ahead of even spending because of up-front purchases for the pole building and full-year encumbrances. Institutional support and academic support are also both slightly above even spending figures.

GCC is in a strong cash position, Kilgus said as he outlined the operating cash forecast. The college invested a total of $400,000 in September, evenly divided between a 30-day and a 45-day certificate. Kilgus said he anticipated $400,000 again in the near future, and that the college should have no need to carry out any cash flow borrowing in coming months.

Kilgus's presentation concluded with his report that GCC's line of credit was renewed last February and will be automatically renewed next February. He and the board discussed the idea of soliciting proposals from several banks to see if a more favorable line of credit can be procured for the college.

CONSTRUCTION AND RENOVATIONS

Herman told the board that the Glendening Advanced Technology Center, which was dedicated by the governor at the end of last month, had only a few small projects remaining which should be completed shortly. After the completion of the Glendening ATC, efforts will focus on the completion of the Advanced Information Technology Center, Herman added.

The college is in the final stages of completing its bid package for the future Garrett Information Enterprise Center, and Herman expressed continued hope that ground could be broken for the building before the year is out.

The gymnasium renovations are slated to take place during the Christmas break, and will include a new gym floor.

The ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) renovations are ongoing, and include the installation of electric doors at several sites on campus.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

Jim Murray, CPA with Rodeheaver and Associates, distributed the Financial Report for FY 1999 to board members in a follow-up meeting. Murray noted that although the college has taken reasonable measures regarding Y2K compliance, the financial report must be regarded as qualified because of Y2K compliance regulatory requirements. Because the auditing firm could not determine the success of GCC's Y2K preparations until after Jan. 1, Murray said that he was required to note the possibility of Y2K disruptions.

Aside from that, Murray said in all other matters the Financial Report was unqualified and no material weaknesses were cited in the report, which was unanimously approved by the quorum of board members present.

Susan Stem of the President's Office at GCC assisted in the preparation of this article.

FIRST UNITED SUPPORTS SCHOOL - Friendsville Elementary School was the recipient of a donation from First United Bank & Trust recently, with the funds earmarked for the purchase of new playground equipment. The monies were part of the proceeds that the bank earned on a special sale of certificates of deposit. Accepting the check from Sharon Franz, Friendsville customer service officer for First United, was Doug Gaither, principal of the school.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

As far as I know, Bittinger gets more exciting guests and varieties of birds than anywhere else in the county.

On Sunday afternoon I was delighted to receive a drop-in visit from Kevin and Rhiannon Dodge after they visited the Peat Bog lake to see some ducks. They reported to me that they saw a flock of hooded Merganser ducks. But even more exciting, they saw a tundra swan and a great blue heron. My cousin drove me over to the bog after the Dodges left, but they had already "hit the road." The nippy north wind that we were having must have warned them that this was not far enough south. But I hope they decide to come back in the spring on their way back northward.

The Bird Club predicts that we will have lots of birds here this winter, so everyone be prepared with lots of bird food, especially thistle seed, because we can expect more finches, grosbeaks, and other birds of their nature. I am looking forward to trying a new bird food that I invented. This fall when I was making juice and fruit butter, I saved the grape remains that were left after putting them through the food mill. I spread them on a cookie sheet and then dried them in the oven. So hopefully the birds will enjoy this new invention.

I don't have too much local news of the many visitors in Bittinger. I do know a few who were here from Frederick for the Soul Barn Band practice Sunday afternoon. My brother, Barry Glotfelty, and Ann Hershberger McLister were also visiting families.

George Farmer and Lynn Smith from Baltimore also visited with Rodney and Marci Glotfelty and family several days this past week.

Ferne Beachy and Sally Poholsky visited with Mike and Judy Simpson in Oakland last Monday.

The Poholskys and Ferne Beachy visited with Andy and Mary Salak in Kittaning, Pa., on Friday.

Pippin, the latest production by the EYM in Oakland, was attended by Ferne Beachy and Sally Poholsky on Sunday.

Cindy and Sam Stanton and Pam Cutler spent Saturday in Atlantic City.

Dr. Ralph and Sara Buckel Jr., Chestertown, visited Ralph and Ethel Bukel over the weekend. Ralph did some bird hunting on Saturday.

Garrett County Peat Products held its annual meeting and dinner at Silver Tree Inn on Wednesday evening. Attending were Dale Glotfelty, Ken Buckel, Jack Turney, Ruth DiPaolo, Lillian Reckner, Charee Reckner and daughter, Melvin and Mary Brown, Rodney and Marci Glotfelty, Joan and Lloyd Sussman, Kevin and Carol Bass, Ralph and Ethel Buckel, and Jack and Joan Beitzel.

Attending the Mountain-Top Soccer awards program at GCC on Saturday afternoon were the Poholsky family, the Housley family, the Bass family, the Garlitz family, George Beitzel, and the Sussman family. The kids had a great season with their championship in the under-15 age group with Claire, Brent, Matthew and Eric. The under-12 group with Scotty, Caitlin, and Zach were reserve champions. Since the under-10 division did not have a championship playoff, Mere was a on a snit because she did not get a new trophy. But I think she will get one Monday evening at the team pizza party.

A final note about those birds who vacated the Glade late Sunday afternoon: They must have known what they were doing, as this Sunday evening has really turned out cold.

Irvin and Paula Long, Gaithersburg, were weekend visitors of Margaret Hershberger Wagner.

Thanksgiving To Be Celebrated By Assembly Of God

Maranatha Assembly of God will hold its annual Thanksgiving celebration on Sunday, Nov. 21. Services will begin with Sunday school at 9:30 a.m. and morning worship at 10:30 a.m., featuring the Royal Sounds. There will be dinner on the grounds immediately following the morning service.

The Royal Sounds will return to conclude the day's services with gospel singing at 2 p.m. There will be no evening service.

Pastor Joseph Snodgrass and the congregation cordially invite all to attend this special day of celebration and thanksgiving. The church is located along Springs Road/Route 669 in Grantsville, approximately 1/2 mile from Yoder's Meat Locker.

Christian Drama Set For Saturday

An original Christian drama titled Heaven or Hell: Your Choice will be presented at Kitzmiller Elementary School this Saturday, Nov. 20, at 7 p.m. The play was written by Swanton resident Carol Sweitzer, and the actors are drawn from several local congregations.

Admission is free, and a free will offering will be taken during the evening.
